PURPOSE OF SUFFOLK LAW SCHOOL

Suffolk Law School was founded to serve ambitious young men who are obliged to work for a living while studying law. For thirty years the School has been the militant champion of higher education for those who have the courage and endurance to educate themselves after working hours. Now and ever Suffolk Law School proposes to keep open the door of legal education for every worthy aspirant who possesses the requisite general education to undertake the study of law.

Founding and Development of the School

Suffolk Law School was founded in September, 1906, by its present Dean, Gleason L. Archer, then a young lawyer newly admitted to the Massachusetts bar.

The Founder, a wage-earner by necessity at thirteen in the lumbering regions of Eastern Maine, won his own education by incredible hardship. He brought to the founding of the institution a profound understanding of the problems of those who hunger for education and must win it by their own efforts if at all.

Dean Archer's administration of the School has been marked from the beginning by considerable initiative, originality, and practical good sense. He has demonstrated rare talent in the choice of teachers and counselors from the legal profession and in selecting able administrative officers.

He has achieved teamwork to a high degree in faculty and administration, and has encouraged the utmost personal development of his associates by entrusting to each full responsibility for his task and by giving him complete freedom to perform in his own way the duties assigned. The faculty and officers of administration are unhampered by academic red tape or constraint upon originality and initiative in the pursuit of the main objects of the institution. Each is confident in the security of his tenure so long as his performance measures up to the needs of the institution. Six members of the Faculty have been teaching continuously for over fifteen years, one of them for twenty-one years, and another for twenty-eight years. The Dean himself has been teaching from the beginning.

Dean Archer early enlisted as trustees the aid and counsel of some of the greatest lawyers of the Commonwealth, distinguished both for legal attainments and experience in high office, among them the late General Charles W. Bartlett, the Hon. James H. Vahey, and Hon. Wilmot R. Evans, and their active survivors, former Attorneys-

General Thomas J. Boynton and James M. Swift, and former Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell. One of the latest recruits to this distinguished group is Joseph E. Warner, who became a Trustee while serving as Attorney-General of the Commonwealth and while continuing as an active member of the Faculty on which he has served for many years.

Physical Growth of the Institution

Suffolk Law School from its lowly beginning with but nine students in the living room of a modest apartment in Roxbury has grown to be one of the leading law schools of the country in service, efficiency, and numbers. Its growth has repeatedly required moving to larger quarters, and its library and other facilities correspondingly improved.

The present school home on Derne Street opposite the rear wing of the State House is an impressive four-story building occupying the south end of the entire city block between Temple Street and Ridgeway Lane and extending back one hundred and fifty feet, affording spacious lecture halls, auditorium, and library accommodations. The building already has an aggregate seating capacity for eighteen hundred students. It is so constructed, moreover, as to permit expansion upward for several stories to provide additional lecture halls as need may arise for the Law School or other departments of the institution. Both Suffolk College of Liberal Arts and Suffolk College of Journalism use lecture halls in the building. The administration building of the collegiate departments is at 59 Hancock Street, diagonally across Derne Street from the Law School.

The Library

The Law School library facilities are excellent and are constantly being improved. The main library occupies the entire Derne Street front of the second floor, nearly 3,000 square feet, well lighted and ventilated. It contains at present upwards of 7,500 volumes, with approximately 500 annual additions.

These books include: U. S. Supreme Court Reports; Lawyer's Edition of U. S. Reports; American Law Reports; Massachusetts Reports; the National Reporter System complete with Digests; L.R.A.; L.R.A. (New Series); U. S. Circuit Court of Appeal Reports; Federal Reporter; American Bankruptcy Reports; Early New York Reports; Ruling Case Law; Corpus Juris Cyc; American and English Encyclopaedia of Law; Massachusetts Digest; American Digest; Lawyer's Edition Annotated Digest; U. S. Digest; United States Compiled Statutes, etc. Books in greatest demand are provided in several duplicate sets. Standard case and textbooks and works for general reading are also provided.

The library is open daily from 9 A.M. to 10 P.M. (Saturdays, 9 A.M. to 6 P.M.). Two librarians are in constant attendance.

Cosmopolitan Character of the Student Body

Students of Suffolk Law School come from far and near. Their ages range from seventeen to sixty. Bankers, brokers, and business men, federal, state and municipal officials are numbered in every class. Leaders of the working classes throughout Greater Boston, and from outside the State, find here the opportunity of mental training and sound development of character.

The School is absolutely non-sectarian. Our only test of a student is his moral integrity and mental worth. Here meet on common ground the Catholic, the Protestant and the Jew. Race and creed are forgotten in the common tasks of the library and classrooms. A spirit of comradeship develops in all classes that makes for true Americanism.

Part-Time Law Students

The student engaged in industry while studying law is in daily contact with the very conditions of life upon which law is based. Principles enunciated in the classroom find instant response in the minds of those whose life experiences furnish illustrations of the law in operation. To the average full-time day student such principles are but academic theory.

The practical experience of the employed student surely counterbalances the additional leisure of the full-time student. In building up a law practice after graduation the part-time student has a distinct advantage. Law practice comes very largely from business men. An acquaintanceship with business men is the first requisite of a young lawyer's success. Day law school graduates, as a rule, have been in school all their lives. They know few persons except their schoolmates. When such men open a law office they meet the proverbial starving time. It is years before business men become aware of their existence.

The average part-time student, on the other hand, has been in daily contact with business men for years before beginning to practice law. If he has won the confidence of such acquaintances he starts off with a clientele of great potential value.

The Suffolk Law School System

Suffolk Law School has always adhered to the conviction that men whose time for study is limited by the necessity of working for a living cannot master the elements of the law by the case system without great and unnecessary hardship. That system was designed for students who have all their time for study. It requires them to glean the law from original sources without aid of textbooks and lectures.

Suffolk Law School early evolved a system which combines text, lecture, case and statute in such a way as to save the student a great amount of time and yet give him a wider understanding and more effective training for the profession than is possible under the case system within the limits of the time that the employed person can possibly devote to the study of law.

Instead of leaving the student to discover the law from study of original sources, as in the case system, we employ texts stating the law in simple language with adequate illustrations, together with thought-provoking interrogative lectures, illuminated by briefly-stated cases and by penetrating oral review of previous work, with copious illustrations and questions in case-situation form further to clarify the law.

Our system also requires the student himself to read and make written abstracts of cases as a means of training him to deduce the law from original sources. We keep the student constantly occupied in solving legal questions during classroom hours and also in other school periods devoted wholly to written tests and examinations.

The case system is mainly occupied with analyzing or memorizing another person's reasoning. The Suffolk program requires and compels original, constructive reasoning by the student. It combines the best in the case system with the best in the text and lecture systems together with original methods evolved by the Founder of the School.

Textbooks and notes, largely from the pen of Dean Archer, written expressly for use in Suffolk Law School, are vital to the Suffolk method of teaching. Unchanging fundamental principles of law, accurately and concisely set forth and abundantly illustrated therein by actual cases, offer the student a solid foundation of legal understanding.

The Suffolk system, moreover, possesses the unusual merit of obliging every student to work with unflagging zeal if he is to maintain a passing average. No chance exists for the laggard to make up his defects by cramming for examinations. Every day and every week counts toward his semester average. Our system, therefore, builds constructively through four years of intensive training a knowledge not only of the common law and its development through the ages but also what it is today after generations of legislative tinkering.

It is significant of the weakness of the case system that several of the great universities, for years militant advocates of the case system, have recently abandoned it as no longer adequate to modern needs or to a proper understanding of the rapidly changing laws of the present day.

Personal Attention to Student Problems

The Research Department of the School prepares all questions to be used in problems, tests or examinations. By the department all student-answers are graded. It directs the work of the student outside the classroom and by means of his written work gives him the personal attention essential to rapid development of understanding of law and discriminating analysis of cases, statutes and constitutions. It is constantly testing the quality of his work, correcting his misunderstandings, requiring of each regular student more than one hundred and fifty written opinions on problems in case-form each year. The department grades these opinions carefully and returns them to the student with appropriate marks and suggestions, together with official answers and citations for his instruction and future use. This grading of written opinions greatly aids the careless or weak reasoner or faulty writer. It affords the high-grade student recognition of merit which promotes assurance and poise.

The Department Director devotes his entire time, day and evening, to the work and is available for helpful conferences with the students at all hours.

The Dean of the School also, in addition to classroom and office contacts with the student body, devotes much time to personal conferences on student problems. Individual members of the Faculty likewise give freely of their time in order to assist Suffolk undergraduates to maximum efficiency.

ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

Until February, 1938, the requirements for entrance to Suffolk Law School are:

- (a) Proof of completion of four years of day high school or fifteen college entrance units.
- (b) Certificate of good moral character from teacher, pastor or other reputable source.

In conformity with the rule of the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth, all candidates for admission to Suffolk Law School after February, 1938, must present proof of at least two years of college work, or must complete the equivalent in Suffolk College of Liberal Arts or elsewhere before beginning the study of law in Suffolk Law School. Since our new College of Liberal Arts operates in the evening, students who are working for a living will find it possible to accomplish therein any desired amount of college work by evening study.

All students, however, who enter Suffolk before this two-year college rule goes into effect are excused from its requirement by the exception contained in the last clause of the rule, which reads:

"Every . . . applicant shall have completed one-half of the work accepted for a bachelor's degree in a college approved by the Board, or otherwise have received an education equivalent thereto in the opinion of the Board, and such education shall have been completed before the applicant began the study of law; provided, however, that this requirement shall not apply to applicants who begin the study of law . . . prior to September 1, 1938."

—The Supreme Court Rule of June, 1934.

REGISTRATION

Students of the incoming Freshman class should register before opening day by filing a formal application for admission together with a registration fee of $5. Such application blanks are obtainable from the Secretary.

A personal interview with the Dean when presenting the application is highly desirable, but registration by mail is possible if proper letters of recommendation accompany the application. Certificates of registration will be issued to all whose applications are accepted. The registration fee will be returned on all rejected applications but it is not returnable to any applicant after he has been accepted and his name officially entered in the school records. The necessary proof of general education should be supplied, if possible, at time of registration; in any event not later than two weeks after the opening of school.

Students of the upper classes will register in the classroom at the opening sessions by filling out class-attendance cards.

The office of the Secretary is open for registration daily from 9.00 A.M. to 5.00 P.M. The Dean is at his office on Mondays and Fridays, day and evening, to meet prospective students. From August 15th to opening date of school he is at the office every day except Saturdays.

TUITION

The tuition charge is $140 per year, payable in four instalments, on the following dates:

September 21, 1936; November 16, 1936; January 25, 1937; March 29, 1937. It is essential for students to respect these dates.

Admission to classes is by ticket bearing student's signature. A book of official tickets sufficient for the current tuition period is given to each student upon receipt of the quarter's tuition. His name is to be written upon each coupon.

Since the tuition is payable in instalments, no refund will be made if a student withdraws from classes before the end of a period for which he has paid. Students withdrawing from a course after it has begun because of a contemplated condition will be charged for entire quarter in subject dropped. If, however, he pays for a semester or entire year in advance, and withdraws for reasons of business or ill-health, a refund of all except the current quarter's tuition will be made.

Students required to repeat an entire year's work will pay the regular tuition fee. If required to repeat one subject, a proportionate rate will be charged.

The incidental fee is payable upon registration of new students and with the first quarter's tuition for regular students.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Until industrial prosperity is fully re-established, Suffolk Law School will continue its policy of permitting students who find it necessary to do so to pay their tuition in weekly payments. A small fee will be charged each quarter for this privilege. Attendance tickets will be accepted only during week corresponding with date on tickets.

BOOKS

The following is the tentative costs of books in the various classes for 1936-37:

Freshman Class*	First Semester: $13.20; Second Semester: $9.20
Sophomore Class	First Semester: $10.50; Second Semester: $1.50
Junior Class	First Semester: $7.25; Second Semester: $12.25
Senior Class	Entire year: $11.75

LENGTH OF COURSE

The school year consists of thirty-two weeks divided into two semesters of sixteen weeks each. Three days or evenings per week is the attendance requirement of regular students. Once a month all students are required to attend a fourth evening for written examinations. The entire course covers four academic years, or eight semesters.

HOURS OF SESSION

Morning Classes

The forenoon division meets at 10 A.M. and is dismissed at 12 o'clock. The work of the day department exactly parallels the work of the evening department, differing only in the hours of meeting.

Evening Classes

For the convenience of students who work in the city but live out of town, sessions of classes are maintained with lectures from 5.30 to 7.30 P.M. This is a privilege especially appreciated by men who complete their everyday duties at five o'clock and would otherwise have to wait a considerable length of time for lectures. The lectures closing at 7.30 P.M. enable such students to take an early train for home, and to review the work of the evening while it is still fresh in mind.

The later divisions meet at 7.35 P.M. and are dismissed at 9.30 P.M. To students living near Boston the later divisions are especially convenient because of allowing them opportunity to take dinner at home before starting for school. Lectures in each division are of two hours' duration.

ATTENDANCE REQUIREMENTS

Attendance at all classes is compulsory. Admission to class is by attendance tickets only. These tickets serve not only as a record of attendance but are used by the professors when calling upon students to recite.

Ten recorded absences during a semester may result in loss of class standing.

Classroom doors are locked at the ringing of the gong, at 10 A.M., 5.30 P.M., and 7.35 P.M. No student will be permitted to enter late. Students coming to classes from out of town, whose train schedules make it necessary, will be given a special or permanent pass to enter the classroom after the ringing of the gong upon proof of train schedule filed with the secretary. Students will not be permitted to leave the lecture hall until the close of the lecture. Any person violating this rule is automatically suspended. No one is allowed to make business or social engagements that interfere with full attendance at a lecture.

Offenses against order, either during a lecture or an examination period, will be dealt with through the Dean's office. Whispering or other disturbance during a lecture or test is forbidden.

A student who is absent from classes longer than one week on account of illness must, on his return, file with the Secretary a statement from his physician. No one is relieved of classroom or written work on account of absence.

MONTHLY EXAMINATIONS

In addition to regular final examinations conducted at the close of the first and second semester, each student is required to present himself on a special evening once a month for a written test in each of the three subjects then pending. This applies to both day and evening divisions, all examinations being held in the evening, beginning at 6 P.M. and closing at 9.30 P.M.

CONDITIONS

A student who incurs conditions in two subjects during either the Freshman or the Sophomore year, and who has not maintained a general average of 75 per cent, will be required to repeat the entire work of the year before being promoted.

With the exception of members of the Junior Class, in cases where one condition is incurred, a student at the discretion of the Dean may be promoted to the next higher class, at the same time repeating the subject in which he is conditioned.

A condition must be removed within one year from the time of incurring it.

Repeating includes full attendance at lectures and the passing of all problems, tests and examinations in the conditioned subject.

A student who has any conditions at the completion of his Junior year may not, except with permission of the Dean and Faculty, be a candidate for the degree of LL.B. at the next Commencement.

The School authorities reserve the right to deny the privilege of continuance in the school to any student whose work is unsatisfactory at the end of one year.

A student who on account of low scholarship has been obliged to repeat two years of work with special permission may remain in the School and complete his law course, but may not be a candidate for the degree of LL.B., although eligible to take bar examinations.

Because students entering the Senior Class with conditions almost invariably fail to graduate with their class, it has become necessary to stress the following rule: Students in the Junior Class who are conditioned in any subject are required to clear up all conditions in the Summer School before entering the Senior year.

No student who on account of low scholastic average is required to repeat the Junior year will be eligible to take a make-up course in the Summer School.

Any student who neglects the opportunity to make up a Junior condition, or who fails to pass the make-up subject, will be required to repeat the condition or conditions the following year as major courses, but will not be allowed to take the complete Senior course.

The clearing of any Junior condition requires full attendance at lectures as well as the passing of monthly tests and final examinations.

Freshman and Sophomore make-up courses are given in the summer sessions when necessary. Students with only one major condition may be permitted to clear it in the Summer School.

SPECIAL COURSES

Any student who chooses to take less than the regular schedule of work, and thus requires more than four years to complete his law training, will be granted the degree upon successful completion of all required work, provided he did not incur any conditions during the years in which he carried less than the full quota of study.

WITHDRAWALS

A student who withdraws from the School in good standing may reenter subject to rules and regulations in effect at time of readmittance.

REQUIREMENTS FOR DEGREE OF LL.B.

Candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Laws from Suffolk Law School must have satisfied the following requirements:

Attendance for four academic years.

Satisfactory proof of at least four years of high school.

(Note: Students entering after February, 1938, must have completed at least one-half of the course in a recognized degree-granting college before entering upon the study of law.)

Proof of good moral character.

Must have attained age of at least twenty-one years.

A scholastic average of 70 per cent or over in every required subject.

SCHOLARSHIPS

The Walsh Scholarship

A scholarship of the value of half the annual tuition, known as the "David I. Walsh Scholarship," is awarded annually in June to the student who has maintained the highest general average in scholarship during the Freshman year.

The Boynton Scholarship

A scholarship of the value of half the annual tuition, known as the "Thomas J. Boynton Scholarship," is awarded annually in June to the student who has maintained the highest general average for the Sophomore year.

The Frost Scholarship

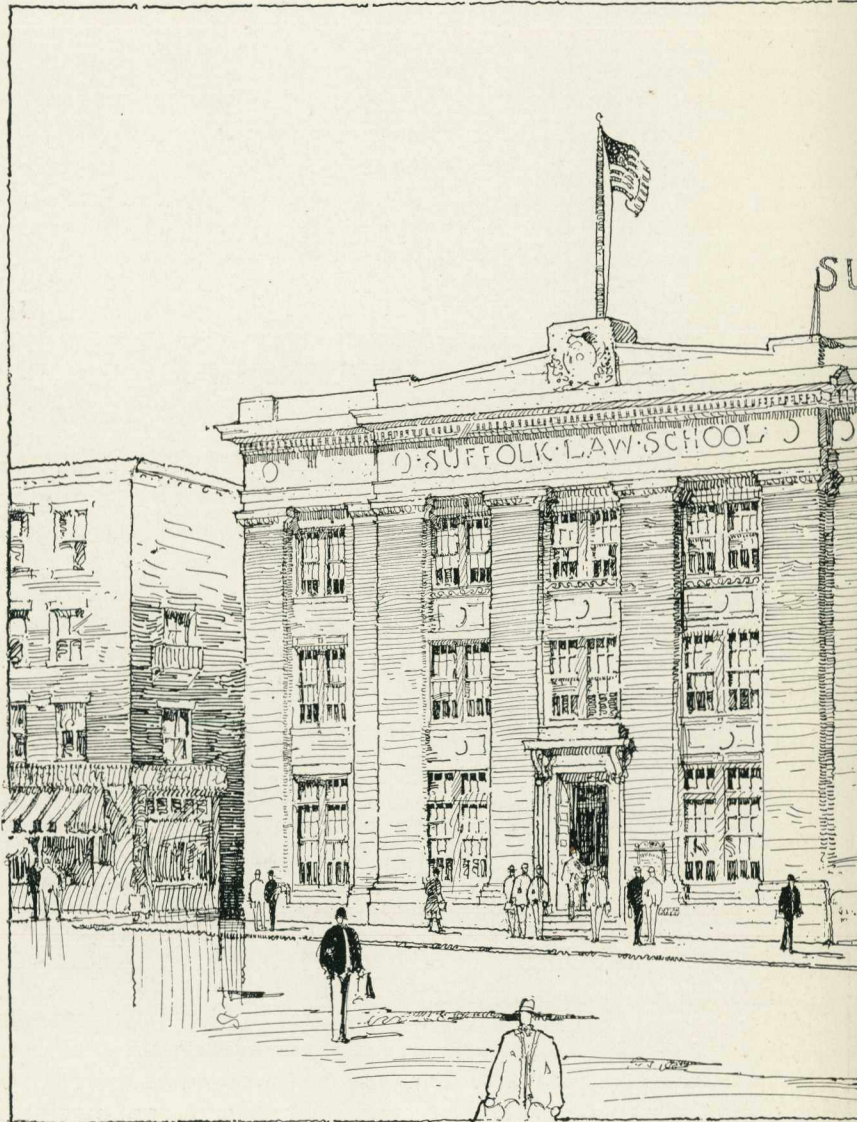

A scholarship of the value of half the annual tuition, known as the "George A. Frost Scholarship," is awarded annually in June to the student who has maintained the highest general average for the Junior year.

Archer Scholarships

The Archer Scholarships are three in number, each equal to one-half the recipient's tuition, and are awarded at the close of the year to those men who finish second in Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior classes.

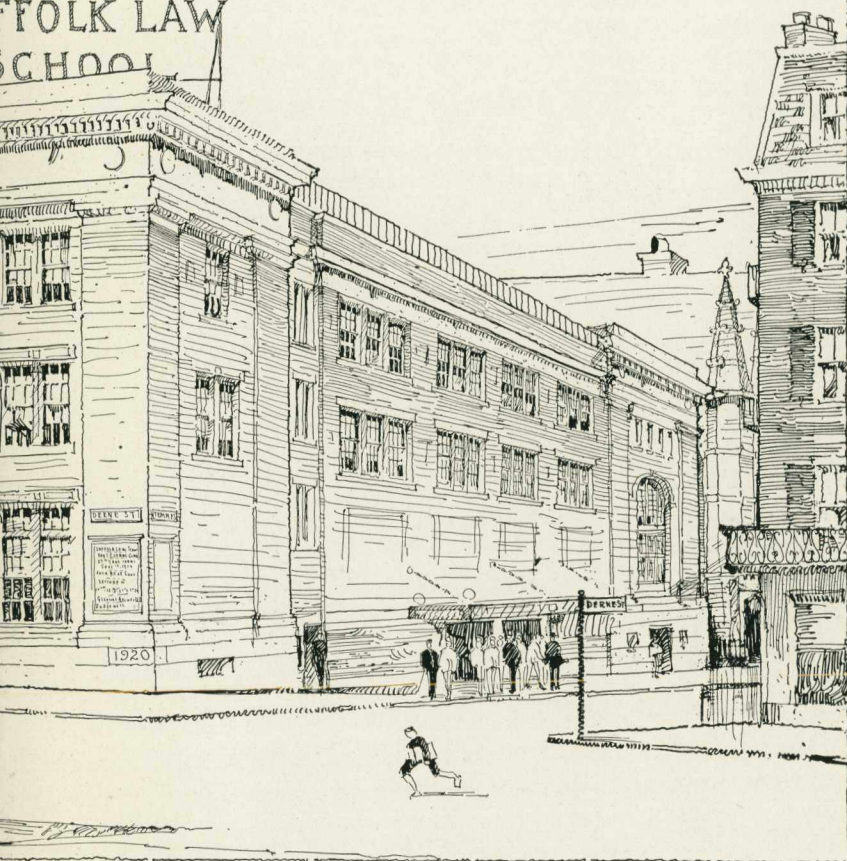

Steinberg Scholarship

This scholarship was established by Louis H. Steinberg of the Class of 1925 as a token of loyalty to Suffolk Law School and of sympathy for those who must support themselves while winning an education. It is awarded annually to the man who has attained the highest general average during the first two years, and is equal in value to half the tuition of the Junior Year.

Fairchild Scholarship

The Fairchild Scholarship was established in December, 1926, by Mrs. Julian D. Fairchild of Brooklyn, N. Y., in memory of her late husband. This scholarship is awarded annually by the Dean to that student whose school record, character, and general circumstances indicate the appropriateness of such award. Value, one-half the annual tuition.

Bradley Prizes

The income from a gift to Suffolk Law School from Mrs. Julian D. Fairchild of Brooklyn, N. Y., is devoted to prizes to be awarded annually in memory of Mrs. Fairchild's father, Charles L. Bradley of New Haven, Conn. They are three in number—$10 to students who win first honors in each of the following subjects: Contracts, Real Property and Constitutional Law.

SPECIAL SCHOLARSHIPS FOR COLLEGE GRADUATES

In recognition of the fact that students with college degrees have expended considerable sums for their education, and that they ordinarily present less difficult educational problems, the Trustees of Suffolk Law School have voted to award to college graduates special scholarships equal to 20 per cent of the annual tuition. The requirements of the award are the possession of an academic degree (A.B., B.S., or Ph.B.) and the maintaining of an average rank for the year of at least 80 per cent. These scholarships, like those noted above, will be payable in tuition during the school year following the award in June.

PLACEMENT BUREAU

Since September, 1935, an employment bureau for students of Suffolk Law School and Suffolk College of Liberal Arts has been maintained in the college building at 59 Hancock Street, Boston. Suffolk Law School students for years, prior to the depression, have found employment as claim adjusters or investigators for insurance companies, clerks in banks and brokerage and law offices and the like. Boston stores and restaurants have also offered them employment.

SUFFOLK LAW SCHOOL - BOSTON

The bureau keeps in constant touch with local establishments in which students may hope to find desirable part-time or regular employment. It maintains active files of our college and law school students who are seeking employment and thus endeavors to provide employment for those who are in need of this type of assistance. During the school year of 1935-36 the Suffolk Placement Bureau assisted one hundred and twenty-three to find employment either under the National Youth Administration or with business firms.

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF LAW

Master of Laws Course

The Graduate Department of Suffolk Law School was established in September, 1935, in pursuance of authority granted to the Trustees of the School in Chapter 15 of the Acts of 1935. Courses leading to the degree of Master of Laws are proving deservedly popular.

Students holding the degree of Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.) from a recognized law school, provided such candidate can satisfy the current educational requirements for admission to Suffolk Law School, are eligible to take the Master's Course. The graduate courses are intended to supplement general professional education in the closely related fields of law and government by an intensive study of special subjects outside the ordinary scope of a law school curriculum.

The mental stimulus of return to the classroom—renewed association with lawyers who are ambitious to rise to greater heights in the profession—new vistas of law and of cultural understanding—these are some of the advantages of the Master's Course at Suffolk Law School. Every subject is given by an expert and every subject is of great value to the ambitious lawyer.

A study of the administrative machinery and its relation to public health, public lighting, public recreation, education, fire, and police protection is afforded the student from a variety of angles involving the social and economic as well as the political aspects of the problem.
