

Suffolk University

Digital Collections @ Suffolk

---

Suffolk Journal

Suffolk University Student Newspapers

---

1939

Suffolk Journal, Vol. 3, No. 2, 1/20/1939

Suffolk Journal

Follow this and additional works at: <https://dc.suffolk.edu/journal>

---

Recommended Citation

Suffolk Journal, "Suffolk Journal, Vol. 3, No. 2, 1/20/1939" (1939). Suffolk Journal. 20.
<https://dc.suffolk.edu/journal/20>

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the Suffolk University Student Newspapers at Digital Collections @ Suffolk. It has been accepted for inclusion in Suffolk Journal by an authorized administrator of Digital Collections @ Suffolk. For more information, please contact dct@suffolk.edu.

"The heights by great men reached and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight;

But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward in the night."

—Longfellow

VOL. 1 NO. 2

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS

JANUARY 20, 1939

THE SUFFOLK JOURNAL

SENIOR HEADS LAW SCHOOL COUNCIL

Suffolk Players Seek Additional Talent for 1939 Super-Production

Shakespeare's "Macbeth"
Will Be Directed by
Prof. Warner

Hon. Joseph E. Warner, former State's Attorney General, today announced that he plans to reveal a sensational tragedy that would have in the history of a successful European nation.

The tragedy involves the murder of a Scottish king, the usurpation of his throne, a reign of terror, and finally the death of the usurper. It is Shakespeare's "The Tragedy of Macbeth," which Professor Warner will direct for the Suffolk Players.

"Yes, we can do it," he replied to a query about the advisability of a college group playing Shakespeare. "We have held try-outs for the casting of the characters in the play, and I am satisfied that there is a great deal of talent in the group."

He said there was some difficulty in getting men for parts, explaining that for various reasons they have been unable to meet for the try-outs. He agreed there would probably be a greater turn-out after exams were over, and expressed confidence that the Players would put on a good production.

(Continued on Page 5)

Il Circolo Italiano

Sets Fast Pace

The Italian Club, or as its members know it, "Il Circolo Italiano," under the direction of Mr. Frank L. Pizzuto, instructor of Italian at Suffolk University College of Liberal Arts, has thus far engaged in a spectacular career.

It was founded during the early part of the school season, for the purpose of combining social activities with the more serious problems of the study of the Italian language, its literature and culture. Club meetings also afford the students the opportunity to utilize their knowledge of the language in conversation.

At a recent meeting of "Il Circolo," Mr. Pizzuto delivered a lecture on Rome illustrated with slides. Music and singing helped round out the program. The attendance at this meeting was not limited to merely the regular members of the Club. Many visiting students and their friends were present.

Rocco Girelli, L. '39, is president. Teresa Belmont, C. I. A. '39, is secretary, and Frances Kinnier, C. I. A. '41, is treasurer.

The regular meetings of the Club

University Concert Will Be Given By Oliver Daniel

FORMER HARVARD MUSICIAN ACCLAIMED BY CRITICS

Oliver Daniel, brilliant young pianist and former faculty member of the New England Conservatory of Music, will give a concert of classic and romantic pieces, Feb. 10, for the benefit of the Suffolk University Improvement and Endowment Campaign, in the university auditorium on Temple Street.

The concert will be free to all students who have paid their university fees.

Daniel has won nation-wide recognition. He is a member of the Harvard Musical Association. He has given concerts in Boston, New York City, Chicago, Milwaukee, and Newport, also special concerts at Harvard University; M.I.T.; Mount Junior College, Thompson, Conn.; and St. Xavier College, DePue, Wis. He is now teaching at the Katherine Gibbs School in Providence; the Fireside School, Plainfield, Conn.; and at the Rectory School in Portland, Conn.

(Continued on Page 5)

Suffolk Man Wins Post At Manila

James E. Grimes, a graduate of Suffolk Law School, and a member of the legal staff of the Veterans' Administration, Manila, P. I., is the recipient of a new appointment to service for the Federal Government.

After serving for only eighteen months in his present capacity on the Veterans' Administration staff, Grimes was appointed to the office of Insular Attorney for the Department in the Far East.

This information was contained in a personal communication from Grimes, to President Archer, on the occasion of the appointment.

are held twice each month, on the evenings of the second and fourth Tuesdays.

"Il Circolo Italiano" extends a friendly welcome to all interested students of Suffolk University to attend its meetings.

YOUR STUDENT COUNCIL

COUNCILLORS LAW SCHOOL

FRESHMEN

10:30 A.M. division—Victor T. Goldberg, of Roxbury.

5:30 P.M. division—Frederick Shapiro, of Saugus.

7:30 P.M. division—Joseph E. Tenanti, of Waltham.

SOPHOMORES

10:30 A.M. division—Clarence P. Ford, of East Boston.

5:30 P.M. division—Frederick J. Galvin, of Boston.

7:30 P.M. division—Patrick J. O'Sullivan, of Brighton.

JUNIORS

10:30 A.M. division—J. Leo Foster, of Billerica.

5:30 P.M. division—David E. Smart, of Quincy.

7:30 P.M. division—Malton A. Tobin, of North Weymouth.

SENIORS

10:30 A.M. division—Edward Jacobson, of Dorchester.

5:30 P.M. division—Samuel E. Hyland, of Salem, President.

7:30 P.M. division—Leo E. McGrath, of South Boston.

COLLEGE COUNCILLORS

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

CLASS OF '42—Elmer C. Brigham, of Cambridge.

CLASS OF '43—William H. Edleman, of Allston.

COLLEGE OF JOURNALISM

CLASS OF '42—Walter Holte Nickerson, of Nantucket, Secretary.

CLASS OF '43—Frederick B. Gouville, of Everett.

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

CLASS OF '43—Joseph Johnson, of Millis.

ADVANCED GROUP—Walter E. Shaghtonsky, of Woburn.

MORNING DIVISION COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

CLASS OF '43—Maurice A. Therrien, Manchester, N. H.

COLLEGE OF JOURNALISM CLASS OF '43—Henry L. Corbett, of Wilmamston.

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS CLASS OF '43—Charles O. Baker, of Taunton.

Samuel F. Hyland Is Chosen President of Newly

Established Body

Art Department Receives Gift

To Mr. Felix Vorenberg, and the Gilchrist Company of which he is President, goes the honor of making the first gift of instructional equipment for the Department of Art of the College of Liberal Arts of Suffolk University.

On November 16th at three o'clock, Miss Nell Shelton, representing the Gilchrist Company, presented eight beautiful prints of paintings by Vincent Van Gough for use in connection with the course in Art Appreciation offered by our College of Liberal Arts.

Dean Donald W. Miller of the College of Liberal Arts received the gift which Miss Shelton inscribed, "To Suffolk University, College of Liberal Arts from the Gilchrist Company of Boston." The objective of the Gilchrist Company in making this gift was to stimulate interest on the part of the public in Art, particularly as it pertains to home decoration.

Our College of Liberal Arts as well as other colleges in New England were recipients of the Van Gough prints.

In connection with the receipt of this gift it would be well to bear in mind the fact that courses in Art and Music Appreciation are now considered by most leading Liberal Arts Colleges to be essential to a well-rounded curriculum.

At present the course in Art is listed in the catalogue of our College of Liberal Arts as an elective to be offered when a sufficient number of students desire to elect it, and when additional gifts of equipment for instructional purposes have been received.

HOWALT OPENS PRACTICE

F. Harvey Howalt, graduate of Suffolk U. Law School, '38, has established himself in the law practice with headquarters on Federal Street, Boston, the heart of the financial district.

Attorney Howalt has achieved a signal success through being appointed a member of the Membership Committee of the Bar Association of the City of Boston.

Swinging into line with a new program of student government, Suffolk closes another chapter in its long fight for student unity.

With the ratification of the constitution looming on the horizon, and the election of officers complete, Suffolk University has formed its first student council.

The Council's first official president is Samuel F. Hyland, L. '39, of Salem. Its first vice-president is Edward Jacobson, L. '39, of Dorchester. The secretary is Hollis Nickerson, J. '42, of Nantucket. There are 21 members of the Council; twelve are law students and nine are college students.

The Council will have an Honor Court to try students charged with violations of university principles.

It will also have power to make and enforce social regulations, and it will be a department for student criticism.

A branch of the Council is the Faculty Appraisal Board, consisting of the president of the university, the executive secretary, a member of the law faculty, and a member of each college faculty. To this board will be taken any grievance that cannot be amicably settled by the Council.

The formation of the Council marks the end of a long fight to organize the students in all departments of the university. Faculty members and students alike have long recognized the need for a body that would give students a greater share in University life.

President Archer has expressed great satisfaction over the move.

Last year the movement started. The first Council was the Student Council of the Class of L. '41, and its purpose seems to have been mainly the promotion of social activity. It was this group that sponsored the Sophomore Frolic which was such a success last year.

This year the organization is for the students of the university as a whole. The Council of the class of L. '41, which was the nucleus of the present body, is dissolved, the present Suffolk University Student Council with new and extensive functions supplanting it.

Formation of the present Council began Nov. 2, when officially elected student councillors from the college, class officers from the Law School, and members of the Student Council of the Class of L. '41, met with President Archer in the Trustees' Room and laid the groundwork for a constitution and set dates for further elections.

(Continued on Page 5)

Latin He graduated from Salem High School in 1962 on seven.

(Continued on Page 5)

Rural Sections Need More Physicians

Departure of Country Practitioner Is A National Problem, Says Suffolk Dean

Tennis Informal

Well Attended

JOURNALIST HEADS COMMITTEE

More than 500 persons attended the informal dinner of the Suffolk University Tennis team held Tuesday at the Recreation Hall of the University.

President and Mrs. Gleason L. Archer, Don Donald W. Miller, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur V. Getchell, Professor Leo J. and Julie Gottlieb, Halloran, Dr. and Mrs. W. Harold Claffin, and Professor and Mrs. Kenneth B. Williams were on the list of chaperons.

Henry Getchell, C.E., of Walthamston, was general chairman, assisted by W.H. Harkins, Law '11, of Winchester, director of athletics, Paul Rich, Law '11, Newton, captain of the tennis team, James Dunphy, Law '11, Beverly, Joseph Wesley Archer, C.E., of Station, Maine, James J. Dougherty, Law '11, Belknap Falls, Vermont, James Brown, Law '11, Beverly, Joseph Velle, Law '20, Norton, John H. Hurley, Jr., Law '20, Cambridgeport, John Gillingham, Law '20, Milford, Joseph Connolly, Law '11, Levittown, Robert Foley, C.E. '13, Wrentham, Rhode Island, Maurice Therrien, C.E. '16, Manchester, New Hampshire, John Goldstein, Law '11, Fall River, and John H. Dunphy, Law '11, Boston. Also present, Law '40, Somerville, Francis X. Morse, Law '40, Charleston, and Richard Churchill, Law '20, West Medford.

STATISTICA

The enrollment in our college departments this year reached a new high. This figure has been reduced by withdrawals, of course, since the opening of college. Our maximum enrollment in C.B.A. is 14, in C.E. 31, and in C.L.A. 128. About 25% of our students are day students.

A study of the proportion of women students in our college departments shows that about 24% of our students are women. There are no women in C.B.A., ten women (62%) in C.E., and thirty-one women (25%) in C.L.A.

As would be expected, most of our students have legal residences in Massachusetts. Only 37% of them, however, come from Boston itself. The rest come from cities and towns around Boston, but six have legal residences in other states—two in Maine, three in New Hampshire, and one from Wrentham, Rhode Island. Thus we have students commuting from three states.

A study of the birthplaces of our 171 students shows much more variation than a study of their legal residences. Only about 11% of our students were born in Boston itself, and about 20% were born outside the State. Eleven of our students were born outside the United States—four in Canada, two in Ireland, two in Italy, one in Puerto Rico, and one in Scotland, and one in the British West Indies. In listing their birthplaces some of our students give the actual house or hospital in which they came into the world, presuming that rural sections of the United States need more physicians. The writer saw this during his three years of educational work in the Southern mountains. There, too, they are hampered by the conditions in rural New England are alarmed by a situation with respect to medical service that is rapidly becoming scarce. Many residents of rural New England are forced to depend upon an overworked physician residing many miles from their communities. According to recent statistics, the average age of the rural New England physician is far in advance of the average for the non-rural physicians. The problem created by the scarcity of physicians in rural New England is, therefore, not likely to improve unless steps to remedy this deplorable situation are taken immediately. What are the underlying causes of the scarcity of rural physicians and what can be done to remedy it?

The desire to be near centers of medical research and great hospitals, now largely confined to the cities, is one of the attractions and advantages of urban life. It tends to hold the medical school graduate in the city. But there is a more compelling reason for the settling of present-day physicians in large urban centers. The modern curriculum of the newer medical education. A man cannot devote eight or nine years of his life and spend a vast sum of money in qualifying for the practice of medicine and then be expected to go into a country district where earnings are low. The country doctor was doomed to extinction from the humble, medical schools of New England were wiped out about twenty-five years ago in the drive for higher medical standards. Today in large areas of New England poor people are virtually without medical aid. Their plight is worse than ever before and will become still more acute when the sale of the country practitioners passes to their reward. Four people simply cannot afford to employ the high-priced city physician. In some towns, where doctors could be had for $200 a visit at the outside, it now costs from five to ten times that amount.

Medical education is the most expensive of all types of professional education. Most medical schools favor the applicant who has received his bachelor's degree from a College of Liberal Arts and has taken the basic pre-medical courses in the fields of Biology, Chemistry, and Physics as a part of his degree program. In New England it typically costs a boarding student from $1,000 to $8,000 to cover necessary expenses at a college during the time required to secure the bachelor's degree. How many parents living in rural communities can meet this financial burden successfully and still be in a position to afford the expenses of the years that must be spent in medical school? The first step in solving the rural medical problem would seem to be in the region of the training of the country physician in the Liberal Arts College. Can this be done?

The College of Liberal Arts of Suffolk University offers a bachelor's degree program at an estimated cost of less than $1200. While taking this course it is possible for an ambitious boy or girl to earn all for the greater part of his expenses, provided the student is energetic. To help the boy or girl obtain employment a Director of Placement is available. Can Suffolk University, College of Liberal Arts offer the basic pre-medical courses? The answer is unhesitatingly in the affirmative, provided we can add an adequate Chemical Laboratory to our already excellent Biological and Physical Laboratories. In the two latter subjects we have ample facilities for laboratory instruction. We are fortunate in being able to draw upon the best research and teaching talent in New England. Our Improvement and Endowment Campaign is now engaged in an intensive drive to raise $10,000 to equip a new Chemistry Laboratory which will be the final unit of Suffolk University's scientific equipment to serve the needs of rural New England in the medical field.

Centralized

Publicity Bureau

Announced

In order to assure proper and efficient treatment of news items concerning the University and its students, the Executive Department has submitted an order to the student body, requiring all publicity releases to be handled by the proper authorities.

All items of interest to the press are to be handled entirely by the Public Relations Department of the University.

Students are urged to submit all copy intended for release to the outside press, through the Executive Department.

The Public Relations office announces that it will be happy to cooperate in every way possible.

NOTICE

In order to preserve for future reference a record of the extra-curricular activities of the student body of the University, an order has been issued from the President's Office, requiring all student organizations to inform the Executive Office of their plans for forthcoming functions.

Another purpose of the order is to avoid duplication of appointments for University officers.

All entertainments, meetings, parties, and dinners sponsored by Student Organizations will be noted on the Official University Calendar.

Students desiring to schedule social or other events within the University, or in public places under the University name, are required to present formal notice of their intentions to Miss Edith R. Doane, co-ordinator of student activities. It is required that such notice shall always be filed prior to the actual sponsoring of the anticipated functions.

The co-ordinator announces that it is her wish to assist in bettering the social aspects of the student life of our University through the furtherance of student activities.

A further statement from the co-ordinator is to the effect that her office is always open to students who wish to discuss student activities.

FORGOTTEN

Through the halting years
That swirl the floating
Stream of Time.

You stand
In wonder
On thought
Of Me.

And I hold you without fault.

What cures the butterfly
For the wounded worm?

For the peaceful life of water,
For storm-born foam?

Edward (T.E.) Jacobson, L.T.S.

"KIDS" FATALLY BURNED

(Exclusive to the Journal as reported by Samuel Milman)

The Freshman Lectures Hall, in the Annex of the University Building, was the scene of a fatal accident recently. The tragedy occurred during the progress of a lecture at the time of the meeting of the late afternoon division of Freshman Law Students.

The provoking professor's keen sense of smell caused the first alarm to be given. After verifying the message transmitted to him by glancing carefully about the room, the "prof" spat out smoke.

He notified the monitor.

The monitor arrived on the scene immediately. He thrust his bare hands into an overcoat pocket from which by this time great clouds of dense smoke were arising, and drew forth two charred bits which had formerly known life as a pair of kid gloves.

The cause of the fire is unknown.

WE TAKE INVENTORY

In order to determine the exact proportion of "What's-what, Who's-Who, and Whose-Whose-About-it" in our Student body, The Suffolk Journal is hereby serving notice upon all sundry, that the day of reckoning has arrived.

Within the confines of the next edition of the Journal, will be contained, a new, ultimate and we hope and fear a slightly revised account of what has been discovered about the "whats and wherefores" of our fellow students.

Within the next coming fortnight, the scores of us who are in student publication will endeavor to bring forth in bullet in which will be inscribed a certain number of personal questions which our editors will expect to be answered.

Thus, through the truly American style of detouring, (What is Who's-Who?)—instead of Bullets will be used—and we'll know all about you.

All of you, our dear, dear fellow students and studentesses, will be given the chance of your lifetimes to tell "all". You will each receive a single "personalized bulletin" and will thereupon vote, acquiesce—and we'll do the determining.

Of course, among the impersonal matters we will be interested in learning about, will be the number of sticks of chewing gum you consume daily, whether you like blondes or brunettes, or whether you expect twins by the pair or in double columns.

So watch out for the results of "What's-What, Who's-Who, and Whose-Whose-About-It" in the next issue of the Journal.

(Ed's Note: We may have to charge a cent extra per copy for the next Journal, since we may probably have to print it on asbestos.)

Student or Alumnus

The Journal

Needs

YOUR Support

The SUFFOLK JOURNAL

Official newspaper published by the students of Suffolk University.
Editorial Office at 59 Hanford Street, Boston, Massachusetts.
Subscription Price, 50 cents per year.
Advertising rates on request.

EDITORIAL STAFF

Editor-in-Chief
EDWARD "TED" JACOBSON, S. T. S.

New Editor

W. HOLLIS NICKERSON, S. T. S.

Feature Editors

MARSHALL I. HAHN, S. T. S.

Sports Editor

TIMOTHY JACHIMO, S. T. S.

ROBERT L. HARKINS, S. T. S.

Faculty Advisor

THOMAS G. RYLES

EDITORIALS

VALOR, PURITY, AND TRUTH

Suffolk University is not only an Institution of Higher Education, it is a Temple of Culture.

Above all, Suffolk University is dedicated to Americanism, not to the kind of Americanism that consists of individual doctrines and beliefs, but to the "proposition that all men are created equal," and that freedom of life and liberty of action are sacred God-given Rights that all people may enjoy.

We feel, therefore, that it is fitting and just that the editorial columns of the Suffolk Journal should convey its esteem and high regard for the courageous work of those editors of our great United States newspapers who have continued to express their free opinions and thoughts through the medium of the written word in the face of the organized and concerted opposition of bigoted race-hatred groups.

In a recent conference with the editor of one of the largest daily newspapers in New England your own editor was shown malicious letters sent to the editorial writer of that publication. The language in which these epistles of hate were inscribed was obscene and perverted, evidently the work of diseased minds. Your editor was shown written threats of physical violence. In reply to the question, "Who do you surrender to these threats?" we were told, "I'll keep writing what I believe, because I'm an American. If they stop me, there are other American journalists who will continue to speak the truth."

We salute the courageous writers who continually hold before us the VALOR, PURITY, AND TRUTH represented by the RED, WHITE, AND BLUE of our National Flag.

HALT LIBRARY VANDALISM!

No doubt our amazement and indignation were no greater than yours when we were informed of the work of vandals in our Library. We found it hard to believe that any Suffolk student would stoop so low as to violate books. We cannot imagine a logical motive for such action.

Perhaps the vandals dislike us, their fellow students.

If so, they couldn't have found a meaner or dirtier way to get "even." This is America. We do not allow anyone to avenge himself on books.

These books are our Common Property. By stealing or destroying them a multiple crime against each and all of us is committed. Apprehension of the "weak thieves" will mean immediate and dishonorable discharge from the University, and prosecution under the Criminal Statutes of the Commonwealth.

If the vandalism is not stopped, it will become necessary for a Library Card System to be inaugurated. It will become necessary for the book stacks to be locked. This will mean a great loss of study time to students. It will mean that we shall all have to suffer for wrongs of the one or two morose thieves in our midst.

Our advice to these Dead Heads is, GET OUT!

If we don't want any part of you thieves who parade as students of Culture, you are offensive to every one of your fellow Suffolk University students.

RECENT DECISIONS

A large number of our readers have from time to time voiced their appreciation of Professor Kenneth Williams' regular contribution to the JOURNAL under this caption.

We wish to express publicly our own gratitude to Professor Williams for his splendid co-operation and for his generosity in sharing the fruits of his own painstaking research.

THE STUDENT ETHERAL

By ELIZABETH ARCHER

*Never contented with work we have done,
Further horizons still beckon us on.*

*There in the distance, get never too far,
Lies the Peak of Perfection's bright star.*

*Some settle back with a sigh, since the way
Leading thereto is beset by delay.*

*Others refuse in themselves to believe,
Looking with envy on those who achieve.*

Neither to right nor to left let us seek Fleeting excuses for purpose too weak.

*Only the lazy attribute to Luck
Other's attainments, acquired by stern Pluck.*

*Here is the query, age, this is the test:
Am I contented with mere second-best?*

*Have you a talent, a goal that is near?
Noble it not by inertia or fear.*

Work for it, since for it, soon, you will see Daily improvement, the slight it may be.

*Miles between you and the high shining goal
Lessen each week, to encourage your soul.*

*Better to die than to be one of the throng,
Satisfied merely to struggle along.*

*Never contented with work we have done,
Further horizons still beckon us on.*

"SWINGIN' IN THE CORNER"

REVIEWING THE BANDS. Hail and stuff! With the cold winter months now upon us, there will be time to spare to catch a bit of swing. Most of the large bands are now established for the winter and may be heard time to time on the networks. And this gives us a big year for the record companies which means also for the swing fans. Some of the "oldies" are being revised, and many of us will be able to hear recordings that are among the greatest in the short history of swing.

Not a newcomer, but a band which has had a phenomenal rise in public estimation in the past few months, Artie Shaw and his orchestra are fast approaching the top rung. We are left guessing for speculation when we try to describe the incredibly good swing they play. Artie's orchestra is playing in grand, belonging to the school which does not sacrifice tone for quality but for phrasing. For an example of his technique, listen to his remarkable Blackbird record of "Nightmare." "Suff said!"

You may remember, in one of our last columns, prophesied a name-line of success for "Glen" (Glen)

Kruppa's new organized band. Time has told the story. Krupa has developed a successful band, one well liked by the listeners. Our only complaint, however, is that there is a certain spark missing from this outfit. The new play well, but the music is uninspired. Incidentally, one of the best bands we have ever heard Krupa play was the Blue

Light Fantasy, an entire lot with about fifty members of "out of the squad" belonging. Our fervent hope is that he will have this recorded on both sides of a 12 inch record.

Well, well, well! So

Tigues' Dances has gone "Dance land" on us. With the acquisition of transcriptions Charlie Spivak and

Yank Lawson from Bob Crosby's orchestra, they seem to have developed the "four-four" timbre in favor of a two-four "New Orleans"

beat. And at last his excellent pianist, Howard Smith has been given an opportunity to show his "suff."

Listen to Dances' Victor recording of "Lullaby and Polka." Simply scrumptious! Another band appearing on the horizon of jitterbug orchestra is the "happy" band fronted by Eddie Hawkins, he of the "riding" trumpet. His Blackbird recording of "Streetly Snow" certainly lived up to the first time we heard it.

We thought it was played by

"Duke" Ellington's band, it was that good!

PRESIDENT ARCHER'S COLUMN

DEMOCRACY LIVES

What an impressive object lesson to a dictator-ridden Europe was furnished by the United States in its nation-wide elections on November 5! The national government had spoken to the people, to the party for six years in power, to the millions on duty, to those directly or indirectly dependent upon the public payroll—telling them how to vote. The spokesman moreover was the President himself who admittedly is the greatest radio orator in America. His high humanitarian purpose has made him in the past, the greatest model of public opinion that this nation has ever seen and here in the custom now so popular in other nations the Head of our State told the people how they should vote. Yet the American people demonstrated in a way that reassured to lovers of the American form of government that democracy still lives in America.

Why the difference between our plebiscite and those mock plebiscites still being held in certain European nations?

To begin with we have had experience with democracy. No one man however popular or highly esteemed is regarded by the American voter as wise enough to do all the thinking for a sovereign people. Our ballots have something more upon them than a chance to mark a cross against a single word. Our voters are not coerced by military power, nor do they live in fear of secret police.

There are no bloody reprisals for expression of honest opinions on this side of the Atlantic. An editorial writer in a New York newspaper recently stated that fifteen million Russians had been slain in the past twenty years in order to preserve Russian "democracy" which is the Soviet word for dictatorship.

In the last issue of the JOURNAL I called attention to the menace of warped minds in the control of national affairs. The virtual slavery of a dictator soon deludes himself into a belief that he is ordained of God to do the thinking for an entire people. Recent tragic events in Europe—the virtual slavery of two great religious groups in central Europe—demonstrate anew that dictatorships are perilous indeed. The American form of government is still the brightest hope of humanity.

RESOLUTIONS FOR 1929

To do something for Suffolk, and for the common weal every day.

To be true in everything—ALWAYS.

—T. Jackson, S. T. S.

THE SWAP SHOP

The "Masterd" of the Journal is sincerely appreciative of the large number of exchanges received from the high schools of New England. It is in these institutions that we have our deepest interest, primarily because we feel that the future of New England journalism is in the hands of the young writers who work so hard in their school publications.

It is entirely without intent to flatter that we remark that for the most part the work we have analyzed is of a general caliber much higher than that to be ordinarily expected from writers of high school age and training.

We have on hand the latest issue of the Boston English High School RED OED. The neatly arranged, streamlined layout is fine. The great number of clear illustrations set off the literary material very well. ***

It's our opinion that the RED OED should stand up as an outstanding publication in high school circles, considering all the tradition behind it, and the great number of people who have a deep heart interest in it. We (the "editorial" staff, of course,) have a strong sentimental appreciation of the RED OED for there it was that "WE KISSING THE COEDS" first appeared.

The Concord High School VEH is one of the few "smooth paper" publications. The quality of the paper stock it is printed on makes a favorable impression on the reader, even prior to an analysis of the content. The layout stands a great deal of improvement, the suggestion that might well be considered, is the addition of more to the line of literary features. The title of your group department is very familiar. However, don't let the preceding remark dissuade the editors. We get a great "kick" out of seeing that title used. It sort of gives us the feeling of having "gone something to the world." ***

The NOBBER has the most beautiful cover we have ever before seen on a school paper. The illustration is outstanding, the paper stock is remarkable, and the color very perfect.

The matter between the covers is also outstanding. Little is left to be desired. There are plenty of illustrations, and dramatic color appears throughout the literary material. The poetry department, however, is only "so-so."

The RED AND WHITE, published by the students of the Sanford High School, Sanford, Maine, is very impressive from the standpoint of a newspaper. It is printed on a standard font, and entirely fulfills its purpose. It is in every respect a newspaper. The articles are reported with a crisp conciseness that marks of professional style. ***

The SALEM A. S., Salem Academy, is a really able and wide-awake publication. "Origin of Our Christmas Customs" was a good theme, but there wasn't enough of it. ***

MYRTLE LUNCH

24 MYRTLE STREET

BOSTON

R. A. Weston, Prop.

CASH 8555

CONCERT—

(Continued from Page 1)

Oliver Daniel is a musician who possesses a rare ability to bring his audiences into intimate contact with the most inspired moments of the great masters. He was born in DePue, Wisconsin, and it was there that he received his early musical training. At the age of sixteen, during a European summer trip, he was advised by Mme. Elly Ney to study with Brendan Keanan, at that time residing in Boston. Hearing Keanan play and lecture from Liszt with the directness to become a serious musician. He then began his instruction subsequently returning to America to continue with Brendan Keanan who has been his only teacher since then.

Elly Ney has been enthusiastic in praising his playing of great classic and romantic masterpieces, as well as modern compositions. Theodore Chandler, eminent American critic, wrote on Elly Ney's concert: "The Mozart Concerto in B flat" "It had a naturalness, a flower like spontaneity and charm. Mr. Daniel gave us all moments of a kind of joy which has not been known before having been long before."

Many socially prominent men and women will come as Patrons of the concert. Attendance will be free at all Suffolk University students, who have taken their University Pay for the concert year.

Proceeds will be for the Suffolk University Improvement and Endowment Campaign and will be specifically used for equipment for the new chemical laboratories at the University. The tickets are now on sale, starting in the Fall of 1939 with the next school year.

Newburyport High School's RED OED is about the largest edition of its kind that we have thus far examined. It has an aggregate number of pages running up to about a hundred. It is cleverly laid out, and beautifully illustrated with photographs. Judging from the number of advertisements it contains, the RED OED must be exceptionally popular among the Newburyport populace. We're sorry that we can't compliment the Poetry Department.

The ARTIST of Carleton High School, Carleton, Maine, is a fine paper. Its news columns are well written, and impress the reader with the conscientiousness of the staff members. We can't help feeling that the make-up technique formerly used was more effective than the present "new style." It might be suggested that a little more in the news columns are given, a little technique—though, would not be amiss. ***

The layout of STATION E. J. H. S., Edward Little High School, Auburn, Maine, is its distinctive feature. We like the idea of the informative box notes on the T.H. H. H. space on pages one. The plans manifested in the editorial column are good, a little technique—though, would not be amiss. ***

There's one thing we like especially about the Dorchester High School's RED AND BLACK. It's consistently radiant with life. We concede that some of the literature could have stood a little more on construction editing, but as a whole, the reader feels the active pulse of the entire school through the pages of the RED AND BLACK. The "Dorchester Review" is exceptionally well done. ***

(P. S. We thank the Exchange Editors for the personal "slugs")

HELP WANTED

A law firm commanding Position of standing Requires a general clerk—A man who's admitted To practice, and fitted To handle diversified work.

Must know the proceedings Relating to pleadings. The ways of preparing a brief; Must argue with acumen For writs or injunction As well as for legal relief.

Must form corporations And hold consultations. Assuming a dignified mien. Should read each decision And legal provision Wherever the same may be seen.

Must analyze cases And get at their basis. Should never be idle or slow; Must manifest learning In all things concerning The matter referred to be below.

Attachments and trials. Specific details. Devisers, replies and complaints. Insubordinates, expenses And partial defenses. Ejectments, replies, distraints; Estoppel, restrictions. Constructive evictions. Agreements implied and express. Averments, parties. Estates and commissions. Incumbrances, fraud and dures.

Also are essentials. The best of credentials. Required—and handsome physique. Make prompt application. Will pay compensation Of seven dollars a week.

FRANKLIN WALDBEIM.

SUFFOLK PLAYERS—

(Continued from Page 1)

Professor Warner is of medium height, of dark complexion, and with determined features. He speaks forcefully. He is patient and tactful with those trying out for parts.

The former attorney general has done much directing with amateur theatrical groups, especially in his home town of Taunton. Of late he has directed many church productions.

"President Archer and I got to talking about the problems of the University one night," he said. "I asked if there was anything I could do to help, and was promptly not to work with the Suffolk Players."

The first meeting for try-outs was held the first week in December. Professor Warner was introduced to the group by Miss Dahne, co-ordinator of Student Activities.

Officers of the Suffolk Players are: president, Marjorie Pickett (CLA); vice-president, Nellie Anne Smith (CLA); secretary, Anne Cronin (CLA); William H. Edelman (CLA) is chairman of the stagecraft committee; and Marshall Hahn (CLA) is publicity director.

Hon. Joseph E. Warner is a trustee of the University and a professor of Constitutional Law.

Addison C. Gutchall & Son
LAW PRINTERS

24 INDIA STREET

The printer who must first be a printer

Suffolk Physics Prof

"Pins Ears on Whale"

Dr. Clark Wins Fame As Author

Doctor Harry Clark, professor of physics at Suffolk University, once had occasion to invent a story for his young daughter, Mandy, when Mandy was still a very little girl. Today, Doctor Clark's story about Mr. Mackeral and a free round-the-world-trip through the simple expedient of hitting into Mr. Whale's ear is being published in book form, complete with illustrations, by Houghton, Mifflin Company.

Doctor Clark asserts in his imaginary travails of the deep, that, "Whales must have ears had ears, or how else could our friend Mr. Mackeral have bitten the Whale's ear?"

The learned reference to the unusual physiognomy apparently the professor makes in his story must be believed, since the writer is not only a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and a Doctor of Philosophy, but he is also a Harvard associate in Geography. He is also a specialist in X-Ray phenomena, and the heat conductivity of rock.

The author of the forthcoming best-seller commenced his literary career with the production of thirty scientific papers. The publication of "The First Story of the Whale" finds an analogy in the history of literature with the case of Charles E. Dodgson, who achieved immortality with the authorship of the world famous tale "Alice in Wonderland." Dodgson was also a scientist in the field of mathematics.

About ten years ago, little Mandy, then aged four, decided at bed-time that she wanted to hear a new story. Daddy Doctor Clark ineffectually attempted to appease his daughter's literary hunger with a number of standard fairy tales. Mandy showed, with great emphasis that they "would never do." According to her, any story already written in a book was no longer a "new" story.

Daddy Clark thereupon commenced to rack his scientific brain. As fruit of his efforts, "The First Story of the Whale" was born.

Mandy wanted "more." The professor invented more, and by the time Mandy had outgrown the "story-telling age," the "new" narrative library had achieved a reputation. The first Whale story was soon the proud parent of "The Second Story of the Whale," and later came "Herbert The Worm," and "Tittus and Ware," and many, many more.

The outcome of the literary adventure was that professor Clark himself became "famous," on the idea of the story writing, and finally he actually inscribed pins in book form, and despite the fact that he had never studied art, the Doctor drew his own illustrations for the books.

Doctor Clark's outstanding trait is his great modesty. Even though he is a ranking scientist, teacher, and author, he insists in continuing to drive his nineteen-twenty-six-vintage automobile.

PASSAGE THROUGH THE GARDEN

If your world of great things, little daughter,
Passed away, and you found that laughter
Had the ring of doom with dry tears;
And something across this emptiness, these years
Ever see your form that seems to walk
Beside me, reasoning—could I talk
With the garden birds, flowers, and bees,
Not having courage, lassie, to answer these
Many questions of "whether have you gone",
When you told the world you'd not be long?
O, little daughter, all these cannot find
You standing near to them; they are so blind!

LAURENCE SIMCOCK.
Law 39.

University Concert

Program

OLIVER DANIEL—Piano

SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY AUDITORIUM

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, FEBRUARY 19TH, 1939 AT 2.15

Prelude
Scherzo
Gigue

Back

Retrospect
Hungarian Dance

Brass

Molto Moderato B flat
Andante Sostenuto C sharp minor
Allegro non troppo

Schubert

The Nightingale

Borckwitz

Two Bagatelles

Tcherepnie

Evocation Romantica

Nin

Invention

Waltz

Message a Ravel

Scherzo

Prokofiev

University Staff

Fetes Dr. Archer
and Miss Cambria"AS THE FLICKERING
SHADOWS SOFTLY
COME AND GO"

Dr. Glenison L. Archer, President of the University, in a striking birthday speech, acclaimed the college as a "safeguard of American democracy and a force for peace. He made these statements at a surprise party given him by the University Staff, in the Library research room, on his birthday, October 29.

President Archer expressed the belief that democracy depends on education. "Such institutions as Suffolk," he said, "they preserve democracy by making every education possible to a greater number of people, especially to those who work." He said this broadening of the field of education made for more understanding of each other's views, and rendered it less likely that U. S. citizens would follow war-mongers and demagogues.

"In fact," he continued, "if the night college had come, I feel sure the people would not be so willing to follow these modern pipers of Hamelin, who are leading the world to destruction."

While he cut the cake, he announced that on the previous night his New York publishers had given him a present of $1000. First royalties on his new book, History of Radio.

Frances Cambria, poetry laureate, astronomer, celebrated her birthday on the same day, and the party was in her honor as well. President Archer had been invited as Honor Guest, ostensibly to Miss Cambria's birthday celebration. He entered the room carrying an armful of long-stemmed American Beauty roses. These he presented to Miss Cambria.

When he entered the room, he was greeted by an outburst of the song "Happy Birthday." He was surprised and delighted. He presented the roses to Miss Cambria, and the staff gave to both families an expression of congratulations.

At the time of President Archer's entrance, the room was lit only by the soft light of the flickering candles on the birthday cake, which stood in the center of the table in the center of the room. About fifty members of the staff stood back in the shadows against the walls. Miss Cambria and President Archer manufactured a hot hour, each which darkened the room in one gust. The electric lights went out; the cake was cut; everybody ate.

Among the university officers present were President Harrah J. Archer, head of the legal research department, and Professor of the President of the University, Dean Donald W. Miller, of the College of Liberal Arts; Miss Gertrude A. Bryant, executive secretary and director of the university; Miss M. Esther Newsome, University Librarian; and Miss Edith Doane, director of the placement bureau, and director of student activities.

Glenison L. Archer, Jr., also joined the festivities honoring his father.

President Archer was given a walnut skin note folder in a present from the staff.

Law Sophs Frolic At Westminster
Over 100 At "Let Down" Party

The Crystal Room of the Hotel Westminster, in the heart of the Suffolk Square district of Boston, was the scene of the Law Party of the Sophomore Class of the Law School.

All the extra "super-embrace" and nervous energy stored up by the future practitioners of the law was climaxed the night after examinations at the party. Forgotten for the time being, was the pre-reading slogs, the straining over a three-and-a-half hour examination on the law of Negligence, Intentional Torts, Equity Practice and Pleading, and the Law of Real Property.

The evening was dedicated to fun and enjoyment, and the cardinal rule of the evening was, "Fun, Fun and More Fun."

The students were not alone in their celebration of the "exam" from that marked the passage of the second third of the semester. The professors who instructed them and administered the exam were also present, and celebrated with the students.

The effort even was made of the traditional sport of culture and learning that Suffolk University emphasizes in all the phases of its activities.

Professors Foreman, Duffy, and Tatchell, representing the sophomore faculty, were present as guests of honor. Entering into the spirit of the occasion, they spoke to the boys, not on the weighty matter of law, but on the lighter side of life.

Cruising the Corridors

"Sophs" have a very healthy sense of fun, and it is not surprising that they don't lack a sense of humor. We note that Justice Foreman has become very conservative with his adherence to Law School Seminars.

RELEASING It would be a pretty good idea if some of its best-kept secrets were made available to the public. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

It is also a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

MARTIN'S SEES A SINGULAR It is a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

BLUNDER OF THE BLIND It is a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

HAIR THAT HAS COME AND GONE AWAY It is a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

WILL NEVER RETURN ANOTHER DAY It is a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

GOSSIP-FASHION'S BLOOD It is a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

PROFESSOR WILLIAMS It is a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

THE NEWEST A. M. PROF WILLIAMS It is a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

THE NEWEST A. M. PROF WILLIAMS It is a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

THE NEWEST A. M. PROF WILLIAMS It is a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

THE NEWEST A. M. PROF WILLIAMS It is a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

THE NEWEST A. M. PROF WILLIAMS It is a good idea to make the corridors more comfortable. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered. What our press has to know in law schools can now be considered.

Connelly rapped doctored, as long as Suffolk University exists, democratic and liberal policy officers will run our government."

Outright hilarity prevailed as a female impersonator gave his impressions of a Suffolk student. "The Suffolk student was so effective that few in the audience realized that he was not a woman until he made the disclosure as the climax of his performance."

Charles P. McGoffe, a member of the sophomore class, presided in the capacity of master of ceremonies. His alias as announced in the introductory publicity was, "Mr. Glibby." Much suspense, as to who "Mr. Glibby" was, had been created throughout the class.

Chairman McGoffe was assisted in his material duties by Lawrence Lombard, also a member of the sophomore class.

At the conclusion of the remarks by the principal speakers, a tasty buffet luncheon was served. Community Singing, led by the "irrepressible" Master Glibby, followed, and continued until the conclusion of the affair.

The Glibby Committee was headed by James H. Cunningham, the class president, and Walter S. Pierce, the vice-president.

The ticket, refreshment, and publicity committees were headed by Frank Phillips, Carmen A. Pearce, and Richard Hupman.

concentration were focused on his lecture manuscripts, and all through the sky ride he worked on the polishing of his forthcoming book.

And sure enough, at five thirty at that P.M., there was Professor Williams, coming behind the professorial desk on the day before his class of Senior Law Students.

THIN-AMABOBI Johnny Bohan, a few off the handle a little but during a recent lecture. The prof had just remarked that there were only two foreign countries adjacent to the U. S. Canada and Mexico.

CHERRY BEARHATER and Bear Adult PLEASE COY! The prof had just remarked that there were only two foreign countries adjacent to the U. S. Canada and Mexico.

NEWS FROM BEHIND THE GLASS PARTITIONS Here's a real scoop! The office force of the University is feeling and supposing to be the most important of the holiday season.

CHERRY BEARHATER and Bear Adult PLEASE COY! The prof had just remarked that there were only two foreign countries adjacent to the U. S. Canada and Mexico.

NEWS FROM BEHIND THE GLASS PARTITIONS Here's a real scoop! The office force of the University is feeling and supposing to be the most important of the holiday season.

CHERRY BEARHATER and Bear Adult PLEASE COY! The prof had just remarked that there were only two foreign countries adjacent to the U. S. Canada and Mexico.

NEWS FROM BEHIND THE GLASS PARTITIONS Here's a real scoop! The office force of the University is feeling and supposing to be the most important of the holiday season.

COUNCIL.

(Continued from Page 1)

At this meeting President Archer said he expected the body to be a student body and that he and none of the other university officers would take part in its functions unless called upon as members of the Faculty Appeal Board.

Philip Sullivan, president of the class of '79, presided at this meeting.

Six men appeared at that time drew up the constitution which is now under discussion and which was probably to enter into effect in its final form at the February meeting.

The Constitutional Committee as appointed at the November meeting: President Sullivan, of West Roxbury, L. 709; William R. Edman, of Allston, CRA 145; Leo Foster, of Billerica, L. 40; Charles P. Manning, of Boston, L. 40; Francis X. Morris, of Charlestown, L. 40; W. Phillips Nickerson, of Nantucket, J. 42.

Final elections for this year's officers took place Jan. 4.

The first action of the Council in behalf of student interests was to pass a resolution to re-open the Recreation Room which had been previously closed by school authorities.

The council will meet once a month.

Annual elections for Student Council will be held early in the fall session.

MISTAKE!

Freeman: "Please take this book back. I don't even begin to cut it."

Watkins: "I'm sorry, but I can't take this back now. You've bent it."

concentration were focused on his lecture manuscripts, and all through the sky ride he worked on the polishing of his forthcoming book.

And sure enough, at five thirty at that P.M., there was Professor Williams, coming behind the professorial desk on the day before his class of Senior Law Students.

THIN-AMABOBI Johnny Bohan, a few off the handle a little but during a recent lecture. The prof had just remarked that there were only two foreign countries adjacent to the U. S. Canada and Mexico.

CHERRY BEARHATER and Bear Adult PLEASE COY! The prof had just remarked that there were only two foreign countries adjacent to the U. S. Canada and Mexico.

NEWS FROM BEHIND THE GLASS PARTITIONS Here's a real scoop! The office force of the University is feeling and supposing to be the most important of the holiday season.

CHERRY BEARHATER and Bear Adult PLEASE COY! The prof had just remarked that there were only two foreign countries adjacent to the U. S. Canada and Mexico.

NEWS FROM BEHIND THE GLASS PARTITIONS Here's a real scoop! The office force of the University is feeling and supposing to be the most important of the holiday season.

CHERRY BEARHATER and Bear Adult PLEASE COY! The prof had just remarked that there were only two foreign countries adjacent to the U. S. Canada and Mexico.

NEWS FROM BEHIND THE GLASS PARTITIONS Here's a real scoop! The office force of the University is feeling and supposing to be the most important of the holiday season.

CHERRY BEARHATER and Bear Adult PLEASE COY! The prof had just remarked that there were only two foreign countries adjacent to the U. S. Canada and Mexico.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

(This Department is just what its title indicates. Its sole purpose is to express as "THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE" what the JOURNAL, Editors as this column must be accompanied by the true name of the editor. Anonymous letters will not be printed. Pen names, however, will be acceptable for publication, if the writer's true identity be disclosed. You may press as critic, as your conclusion may require. If your letter looks as though it'll get your name in print, it will be "As" - THE EDITOR.

Wants Benefit of Laws

Dear Editor:

Why must we suffer "search and seizure" when leaving the library? Since we are all Honorable People, I feel as though it be being done without due process of law.

I insist on my constitutional rights!

Also, it is embarrassing. Last week, when I was compelled to open my brief case for inspection upon leaving the library, a brand new underthing was disclosed to the inquisitorial eye. I had been shipping one hour prior.

Thank Heavens there is no blushing tax!

If the library doesn't cease and desist, I'll have to hire one of those smart-looking Law School Seniors to take my case. (Not the brief case I've just described!)

Honest 'n' Truly,
Sub Astra.

Seeks Soft Seats

Dear Editor:

I heard so much about old "Recreation Hall, I looked for it. I finally found it.

It was locked. How do I get in?

I hear there are soft chairs in the "Roe" Hall. The Smoking Room chairs are harsh. The Lecture Hall chairs are hard.

My letter will be crying aloud for soft upholstery. Please do not deny to my plea. If you, I'll bring it in Equity.

Humble and Obedient,
FRESHMAN.

(Edly Note: What will you bring into Equity?)

Urges Fetusness

The Editor, Suffolk Journal.

Dear Sir:

As a former member of the Debate Club of Suffolk University, I would like to inquire what has become of your team which made such a successful start last season?

Has all the work of last year been in vain? What Suffolk University needs, as much as anything, is more student activity. No more suitable type of student activity could possibly be desired for our School, both for the purpose of promoting a necessary intercollegiate contact and also for the intellectual achievement which goes along with a debate.

The material for a good debate team is not lacking. What is the reason for the discontinuance of this student activity?

The debate team of last year is more than willing to assist in the reorganization of the Club.

James A. Sullivan,
Suffolk U. L.S., '28

Seeks Romance

Dear Ed:

The ramon's drifted through the Corridors that T.E.J., Cruiser of the aforementioned, has named Editor-in-Chief of the JOURNAL. All last year he advocated in his "edifying" the installation of a Date Bureau.

He'd better keep his promise and start one. Or else I'm going to cancel my subscription.

Hopefully,
Lonesome and Loveless.

Spartacus Speaks

Editor of The Journal.

Dear Sir:

It is my honest opinion that not that we have refuge receptacles in the corridors, we should be allowed to smoke while going to and from class.

Smoking is a necessity to most of us, and the Administration should recognize it. With our building now scientifically air-conditioned, I believe that there is little reason to prohibit corridor smoking.

Sincerely,
Spartacus

J. E. PURDY CO., INC. PHOTOGRAPHERS AND LINNERS

Can you truthfully say that your last photograph is a good portrait of you — as you are today? If all an honest of your time & all we need for the modern portrait your family will like.

Call us for a lunch-time appointment
160 TREMONT STREET BOSTON

HOORAY FOR OUR SIDE!!

Henry L. Corbett—J '33

Finally the great day came. The day I put the pitkeys away, hitched the horse to the shay, shook the hayseed out of my hair—most of it, at least—and started for college.

The family, clearly showing the strains of preparation and departure, said their contrasting farewells at the station. Mother, and on at the verge of tears, held me close for a moment, much to the amusement of onlookers—before bidding me goodbye. Father, hiding his doubts and fears behind a cloak of criticism, shook my hand and warned me to be sure and get a receipt if some one tried to tell me the State House. One last wiping of eyes and I was off for Boston and Suffolk.

The first few miles were spent in wishing my collar was not so tight, and wondering if removing my shoes, the first I had worn since last June, would create a negative influence. Some natural instinct warned me that such a procedure would be a little out of the ordinary here. So I suffered in silence throughout the whole ride.

One of the boys in the car was going back to Holy Cross. From his discussion I got my first mental glimpse of coeds. Girls had never bothered me much, but after hearing his colorful tales I decided that I was going to like college life.

After a few hours of riding, we reached Boston. Caught in the mad dash for the door, I was rudely thrown out into the crowded streets of the city.

Utterly and hopelessly lost, I clutched the security of a taxi as a downy man clutches at a straw. Once in the cab I leaned back, heaved a sigh, and hung on for dear life. We sped around corners and through traffic. The driver obviously was a lot of cars dashing about, and every one seemed to be trying desperately to run into us. At last, we arrived at Suffolk and safety.

After setting my tuition requirements with Miss Bryant, I was turned over to Miss Deane. She, without being asked, had already made arrangements for a room for me.

My first few weeks at Suffolk were filled with new friends, new professors, and some distinctly new and featureless studies.

The weeks slipped past during which my roommates and I became expert at cooking, and eating off a two foot square table.

Then came the tests and that awful work of reckoning. It seemed that no matter how many one studied the teachers always knew the wrong questions to ask. Even if the tests did not bring satisfactory marks, they brought to light some very different people.

There was the lad in history who, as being asked to give the reasons for the downfall of the Roman Empire asked the Prof. if he would like a complete sentence. How do they do it?

Not to forget the lad who handed his history notes in for an English theme. The Prof. marked them and handed them back. We wonder what the result was.

We shall never forget the building genius in history who when the Prof. speaking about our test started, "Confirming the recent disaster" came through with, "Oh yes, I can't find the flood, Dr.?"

However, in spite of the test snafus, school has been for most of us freshmen a social triumph if not a scholastic one.

So with just a few days 'til Christmas vacation, it seemed natural to start thinking of what the

Editors Forecast Exams

Predict "Fog and Sleet"

The editors of the JOURNAL would like to have everybody pass mid-year exams this year. So the editors have worked out a little student mid-year aid.

They have collected all the mid-year exams given during the last ten years by the leading universities and colleges. Included were exams given at leading American institutions and also some given at leading institutions, such as: The University of Missouri, Kansas University, Omsk College, The University of Nantucket, Florida College, Shari University and many other well-known institutions.

From the exams gathered, the editors have formed one composite examination in each subject taught at Suffolk. These composite exams are sure to contain the question which will confront you on your mid-year exam. So by studying these composite exams you will be rather certain of passing your Mid years.

We have a limited supply of these composite exams on hand. It is very easy to get them. Simply tear the wrapper off any old thing (preferably foodstuffs) and send us the contents. You keep the wrapper. And by return mail you will receive, absolutely free, copies of composite exams in as many subjects as you need.

Below are specimens of some of these amazing exams.

SURVEY OF AMERICAN LITERATURE

1. Off hand, would you say American authors are better than Chinese laundry men? Please try to keep answers bland.
2. "I think the most interesting sight is to see [The Statue of Liberty sailing out of New York Harbor in a small tug boat." Who composed that delightful bit of description? How did he do it? Why did he do it? When? Where?
3. Would you say [Theodore Lowell was a poet or a baseball pitcher? Answer yes or no. Note to Law students: Please confine your answer to seven pages.
4. Describe Ralph Waldo Emerson's writing clearly in the best of English if possible.
5. The following statements are either false or true. So as to avoid confusion, please mark the false statements true and the true statements false.
  - A. Eskimos use igloos to stick their clothes together.
  - B. Mark Twain's real name was Mustapha Kemal.
  - C. "The Dredger" was the story of a ziggoli in Alaska.
  - D. Sinclair Lewis eats three bananas every other day.
  - E. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow started his literary career as a sign painter.
  - F. "The Chambered Nautilus" is the name of a night club on Broadway.

HISTORY OF CIVILIZATION

1. Describe the recline of Cleopatra.
2. "I said Aristotle to Plato: 'Have a sweet potato.'" On the basis of your reading in Plutarch "Moral of Universal History," Burton's "Discovery of Ancient Worlds," "Cosmopolis," "Life," "Bartolomeo's source book," "Winston's Home Campaign," "The Open Road for Boys," Tarn's "Hellenistic Culture," and "True Confession," would you justify, qualify, refute, or disagree with this statement?
3. Describe briefly the rise of civilization from 3000 B.C. to the present day. How do you account for this?
4. Trace Antigonus II, while the Artaban League makes war upon the people of Rhodes, and Cleomenes pushes far down into the Balkan Peninsula. Why?
5. Explain one of the following: Pericles, Nicias, Cleon, Alcibiades, Lysander, Artaxerxes, Thucydides, Batis, Nearchus, Herodotus, Banny Goodman, Eristhenes, Archimedes, Sally Rand, Pythagoras, Hadralath, Kumar, Saba, Polybios, Cleodius, Theodosius, and Paritrus.

—Marshall Hale, J '42

variation would mean to us.

To suppose it meant a chance to earn a few needed dollars, or others, and a very few we are afraid it meant a chance to plug for the Semester Exams. However, to us, the country lads, it meant a chance to spend several days with our families.

Those of you who have never lived in the country will never know what you have missed. The long days spent gliding over the snow on skis, the grand hotels spent around a fire while on a skit, ing party, and last, but not least, the chance to go on a real sleigh ride.

Then Christmas Eve, the friends, the punch, and the singing of Christmas carols.

Christmas Day, presents and parties will give memories that will linger forever.

So, as all over the country, boys prepared for this last Christmas vacation, the lads from the streets gave themselves a last and a girls inspection. We carefully combed the last remains of that cockle out of our hair, got into our new city clothes, and headed for God's Country, the family and old girls.

God, but ain't we some pumpkins!!

Subscribe to The Journal

THE UNIVERSITY
BOOKSTORE
Reminds You that
It Is Always At
Your Service

A Complete Line of Books and Supplies, Candy, and University
Jewelry Is Maintained For Your Convenience.