Suffolk Notables Discuss Plans For Summer

EIN'S DEPRESSION SEEN
FOR TRANSPORT LINES AND HOTELS

end of depression is seen for transport lines and hotels. A study of the financial condition of transport lines and hotels in the United States indicates a slight improvement in the business of these industries. The survey was made by the Bureau of Labor
Statistics and shows that there has been a reduction in the average number of workers employed in these industries.

For transport lines
the reduction has been
from 75,000 to 65,000
workers.

For hotels the reduction has been
from 100,000 to 90,000
workers.

The survey also shows that the average wage
rate has declined from
$2.50 per day to $2.00
per day for transport
line workers and from $3.00 per day to $2.50
per day for hotel
workers.

EDITORIAL

WE HAIL DAVID SARNOFF!

Suffolk looks forward with high esteem to the engagement of David Sarnoff as our next chief executive, and we are sure that he will bring to the position all the qualities which are so evident in his previous career. His appointment is a signal of the leadership and progressive spirit which are characteristic of our University.

The Suffolk Journal

In The Senate Of The United States

February 16, 1939

President's Office

On the floor of the Senate, a man rose to deliver a speech which has passed into history. David Sarnoff, the new chief executive of the University, delivered a speech which will be remembered as one of the greatest of all time.

David Sarnoff's speech was a message of hope and progress to the nation. He spoke of the importance of education and the need for new ideas in society. He also spoke of the need for a new system of government, which would be based on the principles of democracy and justice.

The importance of education was emphasized in the speech. Sarnoff said that education was the key to progress and prosperity. He called for the establishment of a new system of education in which children would be taught the values of democracy and justice.

The speech was met with a standing ovation in the Senate. It was a clear indication of the respect and admiration that Sarnoff had earned in the Senate.

In conclusion, the speech of David Sarnoff was a message of hope and progress to the nation. He spoke of the need for a new system of government and the importance of education. His message will be remembered for years to come.

NEW YORK: Former Safford City Student Becomes Research Chief in Alabama

Mr. F. J. Alford, has Michigan P.D.

His former student, The Journal, that the best ever Alumni Ball, was held last Saturday night.

The featured speaker of the evening was Mr. F. J. Alford, who delivered a spirited address on the subject of "The Future of Higher Education in America." The audience, which included many prominent members of the educational community, responded with rapturous applause.

The evening concluded with a grand ballroom dance,
which lasted well into the early hours of the morning.

Congratulations!

Mr. Alford is currently serving as the Director of Research at the University of Alabama, a position he has held since 1989. Prior to that, he served as the Associate Dean of Graduate Studies at Michigan State University. His accomplishments and contributions to the field of higher education have been widely recognized.

Summer Plans

Mr. Alford, who was in New York for the speech, said that he was looking forward to spending the summer in his hometown of Safford City, Arizona.

"I plan to spend the summer working on some new research projects," he said. "I am also looking forward to spending some quality time with my family and friends."
Letters to the Editor

Some Comments on Spring

Dear Editor,

I feel that I am writing the Letters in order to congratulate you when I found that you published a statement in the last letter about the influence of the Corridors on the student body. It is a great pleasure to be able to do these things in your college. It is always interesting to see how the students feel about the influence of the Corridors.

Yours sincerely,

Cruising The Corridors With T.E.J.

By Edward Jackson

You would be amazed at some of the things people write in the name of their teachers. Take the statement you just mentioned. Many people have written everything from the influence of the Corridors on the student body to a completely inane comment. It is hard to know where to start.

The influence of the Corridors on the student body is a very interesting topic. It is one that is often discussed, but never really understood. The Corridors are a place where students can come together and share their thoughts and ideas. They are a place where students can meet and discuss their ideas and beliefs.

We should be proud of our college and the Corridors. They are a great place to be and a great place to learn. We should all be grateful to have such a wonderful place on our campus.

Yours truly,
