WHAT PRICE...

Do you often wonder about the cost of a newspaper?

Don't you think it's pathetic that the people who subscribe to a newspaper are often the first to mention how much they have paid for it? When you buy a newspaper, you are paying for the cost of the paper, the printing, the distribution, and the editorial content. Do you think that the people who mention the cost of the newspaper are actually looking out for your best interests, or are they just trying to make you feel guilty about your money?

The price of newspapers is often kept low to ensure that as many people as possible can afford to buy them. This is especially important when it comes to newspapers like THE SUFFOLK JOURNAL, which is a community newspaper that serves the people of Suffolk, Virginia. The price of THE SUFFOLK JOURNAL is kept low to make sure that as many people as possible can afford to read it. This is why it is important to support your local newspapers by subscribing to them and paying for them. By doing so, you are helping to ensure that the voice of your community is heard and that the people who live in it are well-informed.

STRUNK TELLS S.U. STUDENTS HOW TO CAPitalize LEARNING IN RADIO, JOURNALISM FIELD

John Michaels

"There is a wide field of opportunity for journalism students in radio journalism, newspapers, and public relations," said Richard Strunk, an ex-employee of the Suffolk University.

The article is based on the program he is formulating for journalism students, his aim being to gain them for the field. The important practical experience of radio and newspaper work is planned to have every student work professionally, with or without work, in some capacity dealing in journalism work. He also hopes to sponsor a Public Relations Club for members of the program to learn of work experience, advertising, and other related media and how they contribute to the promotion of a team.

"The test of a good journalism school," he said, "is whether its students make the shift from an academic procedure to a salaried job without a mite."

The thirty-three-year-old teacher, a native of New York, is married to the father of five.

Increee Dreee P'reent Dependants

Veterans' Administration, by administrative action, has increased the income limitation used in determining dependency of veterans' parents for compensation and pension purposes.

William J. Blake, Manager of the Boston Regional Office of VA announced today that the new monthly amounts are $30 for a mother or father (not living together), $355 for both parents (living together), plus $200 for each additional dependent of the family group. Three amounts are also provided with the provisions of $300, $300, and $200.

Blake stressed that these limitations are not controlling in any case, but are used merely as a means of determining eligibility. Each claim for benefits is considered on its individual merit, and all pertinent factors are considered.

Exemptions: Consideration as income are benefits under laws administered by veterans service organizations, including insurance proceeds, non-regular government payment, and 6 months death benefits.

See New High In Enrollment For 25 Years

Kent, O. (L.P.)—Instead of returning to pre-war journalism, Mr. American and University enrollments will go on an all-time high next fall, according to Robert J. White, dean of the college of education.

"Using the current high figures," he said, "it is estimated that 4700 students entered halls of higher learning in 1940, which were arranged by today's standards, and we think we have an educational problem." The American enrollment, on the decline since 1929, took a turn for the better in 1939, and helped, the war showed, a 50 per cent increase in the last 18 years, according to Dean White.

The present college enrollment will continue into next fall, according to Dean White, when the college and the university, and high school graduates, undoubtedly will not be able to get into college, will be in any case.

A slump is expected for 1942 with significant increases starting in 1943.

No Sex Slant In VA Medical Reveals Baillon

Women veterans are eligible for admission to medical care at VA hospitals, according to Dr. James A. Baillon, chief medical officer of the Boston Regional Office, Veterans Administration.

These veterans, Dr. Baillon said, are granted out-patient treatment and priority for hospitalization for service-connected disabilities. They are also provided treatment in VA hospitals for non-service-connected disabilities, provided they have received service-connected disabilities, or that they are non-service-connected disabilities, or that they cannot afford to pay for treatment elsewhere. Male veterans are entitled to the same benefits.

In addition, however, female veterans may receive treatment in non-VA hospitals for non-service-connected disabilities, which are emergent in nature, provided their approval is obtained from VA. The only exception is in the case of pregnancy.

Colleges Strive For Radio Waves Appeal To FCC

WASHINGTON D.C. (IP) In the publication, "PM for Education," the Federal Communications Commission, declared that 1940 educational broadcasting stations should be encouraged to make use of the 20 channels reserved for educational broadcasting. If these channels are not used, they may be assigned to commercial broadcasting.

Drexel of Colleges, Universities and public school systems in the United States have made request for education station ownership and operation.

The publication furnishes suggestions for planning, licensing, and operating PM educational radio stations by schools, colleges, and Universities.

Alumni Sherm 'The Worm' Feller Night Owl Since S.U. Graduation

Joe Cullinan

This is the first of a series of articles written about the distinguished alumni of Suffolk University.

Any night from the 11:30 to 12:30 (WEEI) "Club Midnight" is on the air, with m.c. Sherm "The Worm" Feller, the "voice of America's most celebrated disk jockeys."

On a June night in 1941, Feller left Suffolk to join the army. From his radio show he has been heard by thousands. "Take a Look at Me" has been sung over the CBS network by Pat Clayton on the Danny O'Neil program; and "Hey! How About That," one of his latest, was introduced to the airwaves by Carl Mote.

"Mum's famous "With Just One Dime" was out here in Boston by Ray Deery of WGE, for the March of Dimes campaign."

Every Monday night, Sherm could be heard any time, when "I'm A Little Teapot" spins.

Sherm's radio career started as a new approach, features the entire "Club Midnight" program from ad about "For-get-me-not" shave cream, "Heavy Duty" batteries, and "Jockey" shorts. To Yankee versions of senator Clagget, "night through Sherm's infamously interviews with the name yustes like Jimmy Dorsey, Jane Pickens and Gene Asuri.

Definites his radio program, Sherm says: "I raves on for an hour about records, the compiles who have the nerve to release them; and, most important, you who buy them.

It's his refreshing brand of showmanship which keeps Sherm the brightening face of new radio today, and he credits Suffolk University as the biggest single influence in his success.

And if this isn't enough, here's one disc jockey who has his own column, "Diak and Data" for a radio show every Friday in the Boston American.

FOUNTAIN SERVICE
And That's That

My Play

The long summer vacation has ended, and the days that were so easy for me are now over. I thought it was a nice change to find myself back in the old routine of school work. I suppose I will have to get used to it again.

Yesterday, I went down to the library to look for some books. I found a few that interested me, but none that really captured my attention. I decided to try my hand at writing a story.

I started off by sitting down at my desk and thinking about what kind of characters I wanted to create. I decided to make them realistic and relatable. I also wanted them to have some sort of conflict that would drive the plot forward.

After a while, I had a few ideas for the story, and I began to write. I found it to be quite a challenge to keep the characters consistent and believable. I also had to make sure the plot was strong and engaging.

As I continued to write, I realized that I was learning a lot about fiction writing. I began to appreciate the importance of creating a believable world for the characters to inhabit. I also learned how to build tension and suspense into the story.

I think I will keep on writing. It's a fun activity and I enjoy it. I hope to continue to improve my skills and eventually publish my work.
