FOUR MAGIC LETTERS

We've been reading some of the letters that college graduates are writing to young men who are about to enter college. The response has been overwhelming. The letters are filled with advice, encouragement, and words of wisdom. We hope that these letters will be helpful to the young men who are about to embark on their college journey.

Unfortunately, we are unable to print all of the letters that we received. Some of the letters were too long, and we had to select only a few of the best. The letters that we have chosen are a good representation of the wisdom and advice that we received.

We hope that these letters will be helpful to the young men who are about to enter college. We encourage all of the college graduates to write letters to young men who are about to enter college. We hope that these letters will be a source of inspiration and guidance for the young men who are about to enter college.

THAT INDOOR DOG

There is a story of a high school senior who bought a dog that he was not sure he wanted. He said that the dog was a gift from his parents. He took the dog to school and named it after the school's mascot. He brought the dog to class and made sure that it was well taken care of. He even brought the dog to class every day. He was proud of his dog and showed it off to his classmates.

The story of the indoor dog is a good example of how people can be influenced by the actions of others. People are often influenced by the actions of others, especially when they are young. The story of the indoor dog is a good example of how people can be influenced by the actions of others.

LEGAL SPEAKING

By Jack M. Adapt

We've all heard the expression "legally speaking," but what does it really mean? In this column, we'll explore the nuances of legal language and how it's used in everyday situations.

First, let's consider the phrase "legally speaking." This phrase is often used to indicate that the speaker is engaging in legal jargon or technical terminology. It's a way of acknowledging the complexity of legal language and the need to use it accurately.

For example, if someone says, "Legally speaking, the contract is invalid," they are referring to the legal concept of contract invalidity, which means that the contract is not legally binding and cannot be enforced.

However, legal language can be notoriously difficult to understand. Terms like "specific performance," "liquidated damages," and "breach of contract" are all common in legal documents, but they can be confusing to the layperson.

In this column, we'll break down some of these legal terms and provide examples of how they are used in real-world situations. We'll also discuss how legal language evolved over time and how it continues to change.

So, whether you're a legal professional or simply interested in understanding the language of law, this column is for you. Let's dive in and explore the world of legal speaking!

HEALTH DEPARTMENT
ALL PREPARED FOR NEW YEARS WORK
By KEN MACLEAN
An air of quiet and little work separated from another office ever by steel cabinets houses one of the most important functions in S.U. - the office and treatment room of the Dept. of Student Health.
Dr. J. M. Louise, Assistant to the Dean of Students, is on duty to aid all students. Dr. Louise estimates that the department will handle 1,000 cases numbering 1,000 various illnesses next year. Such a record is one of recognition and marks credit should be given to Dr. Rose Rosen, Director of the Student Health Department. A Bostonian resident, he carried his Associate of Arts from the University, and is now studying for his LLB in the Law School.
Everything from broken cartil, ears and boils to brain contusions were suffered by S.U. athletes last year and handled by the S.H.S. with new facilities and equipment such as the infra red clinic, x-rays, and muscle and massaging equipment are included.
In reference to equipment such as the use of Bowen treatment in place of percussion massage, it should be noted that if it requires more time, it is worth it.
Dr. Louise estimates that 1,000 cases are seen in their own office, at any hour of the day, and the number of students, he says, is increasing.

Eight Changes
In Rules Of 1949 Football

The Suffolk student, who has to meet his football obligations watching other college recruits play may be interested to learn of football's "new look" for the 1949 season.

There are eight basic changes in football rules this season: North Carolina State has changed the ing of the line of scrimmage.

This year there will be an automatic time out after six yards of running. A punt will force the ball carrier to face the front of the line of scrimmage.
Under the new rules the ball will be put on the 20 yard line after a punt is attempted.

The ball carrier will be penalized for running over the back of the center. The back of the center must be within the limits of the line of scrimmage when his ball is fumbled.

A punt returner may run the punt out of his own end zone until stopped by a tackler after the punt has been kicked more than 20 yards. A punt returner may run a punt out of bounds for a touchdown if he is hit by a tackler who is off the line of scrimmage. A punt returner may catch a kickoff on the 20 yard line and return it for a touchdown if the ball carrier makes a face.
