Yale Law Dean
Says Lawyers Can't Spell, Read

Charging that too many students are entering the law schools at the present time and "dissatisfied and ignorant of most legal principles," Dean Sturges, dean of the Yale Law School, recently declared that law schools do not effectively teach lawyers and that they are not effectively preparing young men to the practice of law.

Rules requiring students to pass the bar examination before they can enter the law schools are not effective in preventing the admission of students who do not have the necessary background.

The first is the "waspwade" of the law schools, which are the exclusive clubs that govern the law schools and do not have the necessary background.

Dean Sturges believes that college graduates are the only students who should be admitted to the law schools.

NO POLITICAL TRAINING NOW CHARGES N.Y.U.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 23--A group of Suffolk College faculty and students have joined in a protest to urge the new N.Y.U. administration to adopt non-partisan political training. The protest was prompted by the announced plan of the university's faculty to adopt a political training course in the fall of 1945, and the university has already invited applications for a full-time faculty position to conduct a political training course.

On the basis of this action, the Suffolk students have decided to protest the plan of the university's faculty to adopt a political training course. They have also decided to call for a full-time faculty position to conduct a political training course.

The Campus on the Fourth Floor

There's a story about how a non-campus college built a campus, and perhaps how that campus can be enlarged — though being fenced in by its understudy's spirit.

Ask a Suffolk man where his campus is and he'll be able to point out the Boston Common or the path by General Hooker's house. Ask a Journal copy, or a student dean, or a student president and he's very apt to lead you to room 42 where the SUFFOLK JOURNAL holds court. And none of these latter things would be far from the truth. They don't get us wrong. We're not bogging them down with the notion that we're the only ones with the old brands. It's not that we're not, it's that we're not, in our opinion, being ignored, perhaps, we're more responsive to the news, in fact, we feed it all about school activities, and, what's more, we have a little history. The club meetings, get to know the team members and cheer our losses, for him, the prospect of a first-rate student newspaper, the Prospect of a first-rate student newspaper, is the key to that. And when there's no room to make it.

Last year we tried out some pretty ordinary school events, those, survivals over, and a couple of them cut out of our own. We gave more space to people like the late Harry Clancy, Maine Stevens, Mike Lopatka and many others. We even gave to the huge number of younger students more room to make some of their own. We want to find more like them this year, and, if we can't find them will make them. We'll call it the JSU.

Burke Receives Appointment to Advisory Board

Burke will become President of the Boston University School of Education. He is the first Boston University faculty member to hold the position of president at a major university. DRAFTED STUDENTS
MAY GET DEFERMENTS
UNDER LATEST SETUP

The Material Headquarters for the earlier - now unavailable - student deferments. The latest setup of the draft board has made it possible for these students to apply for deferments without the necessity of being considered when three concurrent deferments are considered for a college, university or similar institution.

This means that the student who has been drafted at one time can apply for a deferment under the criteria of the latest setup and, if accepted, can serve with the army for a certime, deferment for a college university or similar institution.

This will allow the student who has been drafted to conside the possibility of attendning college or university.

Ex-Maine Gov. Hildreth Praises Suffolk in Commencement Address

"The hope of the state of this number of people who are not educated, including the poor, is in the city of college education," said the governor. "It is a duty of every person to be in college, to be in college, to be in college. That means education, not just college. That means education, not just college, not just college, not just college."

Hildreth, President of Boston University and former Governor of Massachusetts, also spoke about the importance of education in America. "Education is the key to America's future," he said. "It is the key to America's future, the key to America's future, the key to America's future."

Hildreth praised Suffolk University for its commitment to education and its role in the community. "Suffolk University has been a leader in education for many years," he said. "Suffolk University has been a leader in education, a leader in education, a leader in education."

SOCCER RUGGED SPORT LARGER SQUAD NEEDED

BY JAMES MACAULAY

In the Catholic, in recent years, it has been difficult to predict the outcome of any soccer match. When one looks back two years, it will be remembered that the school was considered to have the best team in the country. Yet, in the fall, the team was in a state of disorganization, with the result that it was almost impossible to foresee the future.

This year the situation promises to be even worse. With the record of the team the year before, it is too late to think of anything but a struggle. The only hope is to build a team that will be able to stand up against the best teams in the country.

The principal reason for the failure of the team was the lack of a sufficient number of players. The school is so small that it is impossible to have a squad of more than a dozen players. The only hope is to build a team that will be able to stand up against the best teams in the country.

THE VARSITY SPORTS COUNCIL is planning to sponsor a soccer tournament this fall. The tournament will be open to all schools in the country, and the winners will receive a cash prize of $1,000.

From the press release: "The tournament will be a great opportunity for our team to show its worth. We are confident that we will be able to win the tournament, and we are looking forward to the challenge."
Fewer Divorces Resulting From Marriage Courses

CULVER, ILL. (AP) — There are fewer divorce annuities among the young people of one college than among students in the same age group who did not take such courses. The young people regularly married who did not take such courses are more likely to be married to a man or woman who is also studying to become a professional person. This trend is due to the fact that a large percentage of these young people are going to college for professional training.

8000 NEW VOLUMES ADDED TO LIBRARY

At least three thousand volumes have been added to the library of the University of Illinois in the last year. This number represents the amount of time spent by university students on the library. The new volumes are of a very high quality and are useful to both the undergraduate and the graduate student.
