A CHRISTMAS TRIP

The air was biting and doror as it briefly made its way through the doorway. It snatched here and there, much like that of an indiscernible drizzle, attempting to nullify every trace of heat or comfort. There goes the Christmas spirit, thought the editor-in-chief, as he watched the snowflakes dance around his face. He seemed to be in a group of students, waiting to board the bus to their destination.

"Here we are," the group's leader said, "heading off to our Christmas trip. It's a school tradition, you know." The editor-in-chief nodded in agreement, feeling a sense of nostalgia wash over him.

The bus was packed with students, all dressed in their holiday best. They chatted and laughed, sharing stories and jokes. The editor-in-chief found himself participating in the conversation, despite his initial reluctance.

The event proved to be a success, with the editor-in-chief realizing that sometimes, stepping out of one's comfort zone can lead to unexpected joys.
THE TAFT TOURNEY.

The TAFT Tourney, which was sponsored by the Administration Committee of the Student Senate, was held in the Memorial Gymnasium at 8 p.m. on Monday! The Misses Dorothy F. F. O. L. K. and J. O. A. N. I. P. A. O. were the judges. The contest was owned to a great extent by the Sigma Sigma Club, who prepared the decors and arranged the whole event. The coffee shop was also owned by the Sigma Sigma Club.

SEASON'S GREETINGS

Through the courtesy of the Journal staff, I am able to take a glimpse of the Christmas scene to the student body, faculty, and staff, and to all Buffalo men in the armed services.

I would like to express my sentiments in this message, but upon reflection I realize that originality has nothing whatever to do with Christmas. There is nothing original about the list of FATHER or the TEN COMMANDMENTS. I, instead of being serious-minded, am driven to think of the following phrase: "It is now the time to explain that the spirit of the season is to make others feel happy and that the joy that we feel is in giving to others of joy.

WALTER R. BURSE
President

As we pass by the shop windows decorated for Christmas, and through our lives through the pages of the Buffalo Sunday Bulletin, The Union, and the Buffalo Evening News, I am filled with a feeling of joy. The atmosphere is filled with the spirit of the season, and I am sure that it will carry us through the Christmas spirit. The decorations, rhymes, and the spirit of the complexities is particularly true.

I would like to suggest that we, the student body, do our part to carry on the spirit of the season. I would like to suggest that we all do what we can to make others feel happy and that the joy that we feel is in giving to others of joy.

We must all try to carry on with the spirit of the season and to participate fully in the activities of the season. In the true spirit of the Christmas season, I wish for all of us a joy filled holiday season and a New Year of improved circumstances.

We must all try to carry on with the spirit of the season and to participate fully in the activities of the season. In the true spirit of the Christmas season, I wish for all of us a joy filled holiday season and a New Year of improved circumstances.
