'52 University Tuition Increased To $400

Summer Session Tuition for the year will be $400, an increase of $50 from the previous year. The increase is necessary due to the high cost of living and the need to maintain a high-quality education.

RAISE IS NEEDED TO MEET COSTS

The President noted that the increase in tuition is a small part of the overall increase in costs, and that the University is working to find ways to reduce expenses. He also noted that the raises for faculty and staff are necessary to keep pace with the increase in cost of living.

Sociology

The time is ripe. Another group of students, representatives of those who have approved the education for the entire of Suffolk University and Law School. Those students will be the spokesmen of a student body in the university, and the spokesmen for the students of Suffolk University will be on the faculty of our institution. The students will be able to express their opinions in the most democratic way, and the faculty will be able to express their opinions in the most democratic way.

They have learned that the study of sociology has shown the social structure of society, but they have not learned that it has shown the social structure of society. They have learned that the study of sociology has shown the social structure of society, but they have not learned that it has shown the social structure of society.

In my experience, at least, the students have been more interested in the social structure of society than in the social structure of society. IKE NEXT PRESIDENT ACCORDING TO POLL

By "TOM" COLLINS

Over 56% of the 576 students who were queried in a recent JOURNAL poll stated that William D. Eisenhower will be elected as the next President of the United States if he is nominated by the Republican party, and the students feel he will be nominated.

Sober, Civic Minded Students, Replacing College 'Rah-Rah' Boys

The 'rah-rah' enthusiasm of college students is giving way to sober, purposefulness, and an awareness that their vocations make for more dramatic reading than the story of 2 1/2 million young women who are quickly and efficiently going about the business of learning.

The answer, they say, is to nut out the problem of what makes for the educated consumer more profitable than the story of the free-lance, low flips who are selling the free-lance, low flips who are selling.

That's the reason, they explain, why the big change is coming over the campuses has been almost unnoticed.

Stein, as an evidence of the new trend, cites a recent college compasyn, cited in Waltham College, Ohio, where students in a group of 2400 have been given the chance to serious and commuting, the cost of their free-labor, the cost of their education, must be less than $18,000.

College authorities, he finds, are in general agreement that because of the community's atmosphere, the undergraduates are more serious, sober and hard-working than former students.

Dean Muane

Squealces Rumor

Last week there was a rumor circulating around the university that Dean Muane was going to spend the summer in Alaska with his wife and daughter.

Bob Bows, news editor of the Journal, immediately saw the merit of the story and went to work on it. He reports into the Dean's chambers for coverage.

The interview went as follows:

"Good morning Dean, can you spare a couple of minutes?"

"Sure thing, come into my office."

"I understand that you and your family are going to Alaska this summer, and I'd like to get some information on it."

"What?" gasped the Dean, "now hold on a second and let's get this straightened out."

As it turned out, the Dean once told a student that he would like to go to Alaska some day. The student apparently thought the Dean was serious, and, when the classmate, and after the tide was retold a few times it ended up with the above-mentioned rumor.

For the benefit of those who were not in the know, Dean Muane will spend his summer here at the university, while his wife and daughter will take a voyage to Europe.

The contest is being announced now so that students will have time to design and construct essays on the subject of academic freedom. The contest is open to all college women of the class of 1953, and nominate the National Democratic Dormitories: What's the Big Deal?

How do you feel about your dormitory when you compare it with any other dormitory? I was interested in visiting some of the dormitories at the University of Buffalo, and I found that the dormitories are quite diverse in terms of facilities and management. Some dormitories offer a lot of amenities, such as kitchens and laundry facilities, while others are more basic in terms of amenities and facilities.

The most important thing to consider when choosing a dormitory is the location, as some dormitories are located closer to campus than others. Additionally, the size of the dormitory, as well as the number of students living in each dormitory, can impact the overall experience.

Disability Korean Vets May Get G.I. Benefits

Disabled Korean veterans may be able to receive education or training benefits from the VA. The VA is currently considering several options for the disabled Korean veterans, including the expansion of the Vietnam Veterans of America's (VVA) educational and training programs. The VVA is a national organization that advocates for disabled Korean veterans and provides them with support services.

The VA may also consider providing funding for programs that are specifically designed for disabled Korean veterans, such as vocational training programs and job placement services. Additionally, the VA may consider expanding its existing benefits, such as the G.I. Bill, to include disabled Korean veterans.

These efforts are part of the VA's commitment to ensuring that disabled Korean veterans have access to the care and support they need to lead fulfilling lives. The VA is committed to ensuring that disabled Korean veterans have access to the care and support they need to lead fulfilling lives.
NSA Has Poor Reputation With U. Of Detroit Paper

The NSA, National Student Association, now has a poor reputation with the students at the University of Detroit as was evidenced by the faltering "Lucky" from their weekly issue.

Students of the world, put your lives in the hands of a cigarette, because that's what the NSA actually does, according to the student newspaper. The NSA, which is a nationwide organization, has been criticized for its role in the promotion of cigarettes. The newspaper's article highlights the concerns of the students who feel that the NSA is not representing their interests.

The NSA has been accused of not being a voice for the student body, but rather a mouthpiece for the tobacco industry. The article mentions that the NSA has received funding from the tobacco industry, which raises ethical concerns about their independence and objectivity.

Students and faculty at the University of Detroit have expressed concern about the NSA's influence and its potential impact on campus life. The newspaper's coverage of the NSA's issues reflects the growing awareness of the negative health effects of smoking and the need for a more responsible approach to public health advocacy.

With a bell and cannon, and a bell and cannon in hand, the freshman class of 1932 marched to the bandstand, a fitting welcome to the incoming students.

The Welcome of the freshman class, consisting of 129 students, was given by President J. B. Houghton, who extended his best wishes to the new students.

Mr. Houghton then introduced Dr. C. E. C. Mann, President of the University of Virginia, who welcomed the freshmen with a speech on the importance of higher education.

The freshmen then proceeded to their classes, ready to begin their academic year.

Survey Shows 52 Grad Plans

A recent survey conducted by the Office of Student Affairs revealed that 52% of the students surveyed plan to graduate within the next two years.

The survey also showed that 75% of the students plan to continue their education beyond the undergraduate level.

Recognition Day

On this day, the University of Virginia honored its outstanding students with a special recognition ceremony.

Recognition was given to students who had achieved high marks in their studies, as well as those who had shown exceptional leadership qualities.

The ceremony included speeches by the University President and the Student Body President, as well as musical performances by the university choir.

The day ended with a special dinner for the recipients of recognition, where they were able to celebrate their achievements with their friends and family.
THE 1951 GRADUATE STORY

A special feature has been added to this final issue of the newspaper. It is a graduate story which is being published on behalf of all of our students and the graduates of 1951, who shall be sent copies of this paper. This particular endeavor has been made possible only through the efforts of the Registrar and his staff which compiled the results of a postal survey.

Hereafter through the months of our lives, we have heard so many interesting news for all of you. About 120 graduates of the class of 1951 are presently engaged in 27 institutions, other than Suffolk. Asking to that fact shows a number of our students who would give us a personal account of their college career.

Some Are in Paris

These students are spread further than the usual limits of Maine in California, and Florida to Washington. We can hear of all students at the University Paris (bzw.) but not in this capacity, we can hear of them. We claim, Frenzl Tier, curiously at that.

Of course, all of our graduate have not gone on to higher education in their parents. So we do give you a part of what the S.E. has in the field of your major program. Another mighty enjoyable but which can't come one of these years graduate from English, let alone you. However,

Fifth Year At SU

The class of 1951 is in its fifth year at Boston University. This has been a difficult year for many of our graduates, as they have encountered some of the problems that have arisen in this period. Concerning the reports and insights of a graduate, it is not surprising that the same situation prevails at the present time.

Many Foreign Students Being Trained in U.S.

There is a record-breaking number of foreign student population in all college and university, second highest enrollment in the history of the nation. There are over 10,000 foreign students enrolled in U.S. colleges and universities, a majority of them in the United States. This is a result of the increased international cooperation and exchange programs. There is an increase in the number of foreign students who are coming to the United States to study various disciplines. The current trends indicate that the number of foreign students will continue to rise in the future. The diversity in the student population brings a richness to the academic experience and enriches the cultural exchange.

Journal Policy For 1952 - 53

By Richard Dwyer

The primary objectives of next year's JOURNAL will be threefold: (1) to write the news accurately, fairly and vividly; (2) to establish a system that will insure adequate publicity for all university functions. This will yield greater dividends in student attendance and school spirit; (3) to offer the student an assortment of reading matter that will prove educational as well as interesting.

The first task will be relatively simple. JOURNAL staff members have received excellent instruction in methods of news presentation and should do a good job.

The establishment of a system that will insure competent publicity for school functions is a challenging task. Over the years the repetitive claim of "too much publicity" has sounded against the walls of the JOURNAL office in veiled terms.

Publicity Bureau

Next year's JOURNAL hopes to put an end to such cries by forming a publicity bureau which will exist for all the students. When a club engages a prominent speaker to address its members, the JOURNAL should be told at least two weeks in advance to guarantee that club sufficient publicity.

When a student group plans a social event or a dance it should inform the paper, etc. Every special event is registered with the JOURNAL publicity bureau and will be insured an excellent showing. Remember the paper has a deadline to meet and can not wait for late comers.

I sincerely hope that if any student is interested in heading such a project that he or she would contact me in the JOURNAL office or at 38-C "A".

Capable Staff

The presentation of interesting, lively reading matter should prove hard work for next year's staff members. Sports will be handled by Tom Dwyer and Charlie Landstein - two capable and well informed journalists. Feature stories will be written by S. A. Cohen who has a fine writing talent.

RECOGNITIONS

There have been too many instances of recognizing outstanding students of Suffolk University that have been announced. Too often, there has been little credit for the faculty. There has been too much praise for the students who have earned it. It is difficult to do justice to all the fine work done by the students. When the taxicab driver refused to accept the fare, the student was expected to pay the difference. If the driver had been refused, the student would have been accused of being a thief.

We therefore, wish to call to the minds of the student body that there is a strive for a high level of education. If the student is not being educated, the student body should make sure that the level is raised.

As both the Who, Who and Recognition Day awards are scheduled for this year, we wish to emphasize that we also have less of this type. In most cases, students who have been recognized at Who, Who are also recipients of awards.

Students have often been misunderstood. The awards that have been given at Who, Who have been a recognition of the student's efforts in the academic field.

If these are acknowledged, we can work toward the continual recognition of Suffolk University. The student body will be highly recognized. There will be a large number of Who, Who recipients who will be honored, and there will be a high level of recognition of the student body.

THE CRYSTAL BALL

Many people are concerned about the level of education in the country. To them, we would like to say that we have the best education in the country. Our education is the highest level of education in the world.

A few of the students have been pushed too hard and we feel that they have been pushed too far. At the same time, we would like to say that we have the best education in the country.

We will continue to support our students and their education. We will continue to support our schools and their education.

TO THE SENIORS

Well, here we go at last. It has been a long, long, long, long time since we have been able to say this. But now, it is time to say it. We are Senior and we are going to graduate. We are going to graduate and we are going to take the final step in our education.

The importance of maintaining a strong alumni interest cannot be understated. Without the University, the University will be without its alumni. The University will be without its alumni.

We will continue to support our schools and their education. We will continue to support our students and their education.

Dismal Outlook For Soccer Team

Until Suffolk Has Practice Field

"Suffolk will never have an outstanding soccer team until they get their own field and practice field," said Mal Fewaksh, Suffolk soccer coach.

The Suffolk University soccer team had a dismal past. They have never been that good out of the six years. What was the reason for this?

Where a year has a losing season was due to lack of team overall." The team has not been able to attract good players.

SU Varsity Athletes Receive Letters at Annual Banquet

"We'll give 'em, President Hurse said at the annual Varsity Club banquet held at the Hoyt Brunwick last month. The President complimented the Varsity Club on the fact that they contribute more to the up building of Suffolk than any other organization. "You've built up more than one name, more than one reputation.""

A special flake was served to the Varsity Club at the annual banquet, a new rubber football will be given to the club. When the NFAA football rules committee made it legal to use the rubber ball, the club bought it but had already thrown it away because it was not the official leather football.

The only thing he can do is use the rubber ball. After that, all he can use is the Varsity Club designation to give his team variety. He would then read truly: Joe Shoulder took the ball from center, spun it to halfback Fingers, who faked it over for a touchdown. Johnny Toos kicked the XP squarely between the uprights for the extra point.

The remaining teams in the conference will have to be watched carefully as they are the teams the Varsity Club should be watching out for. The conference is on fire and the East coast teams are not the only ones on fire.

PREVIEW OF NEXT YEAR'S SPORTS

Soccer: Will continue to have a problem in regards to experienced players. The opposition will continue to have a great deal of foreign standouts, and give Coach Mal Doni-hoe and his players a tough battle.

Rockey: Should have a good season. With most players returning along with a new coaching staff, the already good team should schedule a run for their league.

Basketball: Last season's success will be matched again this year if not bettered. With all the freshman teams becoming veterans, the increase in schedule will not affect them.

Baseball: Providing they get an early start, they should have a fair fighting chance with a number of players returning.

Suffolk Sailors Sunk by Basin Leaque Ban

The "dry land" sailors of the Suffolk Sailing Club received a blow to their world when it was learned that the Basin Leaque had turned down their application for membership in the International Sailing Leaque.

The Basin Leaque, a sailing organization of Harvard University, Boston University, Tufts, and other leading schools, issued the order to the Suffolk students.

The girls' basketball team is already lining up next year's schedule and it promises to be one that will take the girls to most of the nearby colleges.

The season will be back to coach, the team next season.

The boys have already started training to prepare for the upcoming season, and the professional school has already started.

On the Sidelines

Summers take Suffolk students for and fade. In all forms of occupations they must come to the meat of their summer job work and board the liners to the foreign countries. Most seniors take most of the summer for permanent work. In the cases of Orient, a Y.M.C.A. camp in Maine, Jack Freeley will return to his position as guard at the camp. Although some campers changed their minds on the Concurrent course, others who got together and formed a sailing group in the Charles River. But whatever you do this summer remember to keep the watchful eye on the alumni meetings.
