OREN RETURNS TO SUFFOLK AS NEW DEAN

Paul F. X. Oren, Suffolk's third dean, returned to the institute earlier this month to assume the duties of the new post of Dean. This follows the announcement of the establishment by the trustees of a new department of education, which will be headed by Dean Oren.

The department was set up as a result of the recommendation of a committee on education, which was appointed by the trustees last year. The committee's report, which was submitted to the trustees in May, recommended the establishment of a department of education, with a dean in charge.

Dean Oren's appointment as dean was made by the trustees of the institute, who are responsible for the management and conduct of the institution. The trustees are also responsible for the appointment of the dean and other officers of the institute.

PROSH CITED AT BEANIE DANCE

John N. Prosh, director of the New England College of Pharmacy, spoke at the recent Beanie Dance, which was held at the institute's Swank Club.

Dean Oren, who is also a member of the New England College of Pharmacy, was present at the dance and spoke briefly about the college and its programs.

College students prefer Luckies in national-wide survey!

A student vote survey based on actual student interviews—30,000 polling all throughout the country—revealed that college students prefer Luckies to any other cigarette brand. The survey was conducted by the College Poll, a company that specializes in student surveys.

The survey was conducted at major universities across the country, including Harvard, Yale, and Stanford. Students were asked to rate various brands of cigarettes, and Luckies emerged as the clear favorite. The results were then tabulated and compiled into a national-wide survey.

WHEN A FOLLOW NEEDS A FRIEND

A week ago, at Suffolk University chapel, the first major duel between the two major political parties of the country was held, and it was dubbed the "Democracy vs. Republican" debate. The crowd was massive, cheering andronic for the candidates, but with one exception, the candidates were silent. The exception was the Reverend Walter W. Wright, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, who stood up to address the crowd.

"We are here today to discuss the issues that face our nation, and it is up to each of us to ensure that our voices are heard. The candidates may not speak, but we must. Let us meet this challenge together.

DEBATE

The debate was a departure in that the candidates did not speak. Instead, the audience was divided into political factions, each representing one of the major parties. The debate was moderated by a panel of judges, who asked questions to the audience in an attempt to gauge their opinions.

The audience was divided into two main factions: the "Democrats" and the "Republicans." Each faction was represented by a speaker who argued the party's platform. The "Democrats" factions argued for a more progressive stance, while the "Republicans" factions advocated for a more conservative approach.

Suffolk Hoopsters Lack Height—Stahl

Suffolk University, a normally small basketball squad, looked for the Boston University team as a chance to get even. The result was a 67-62 victory for Boston University. The game was a close one, with the decisive moment coming early in the second half. Suffolk, behind the play of John Stahl, took a 54-51 lead with just over two minutes left. Boston rallied, however, and took the lead back. Suffolk then regained the lead and held it throughout the remainder of the game. The victory was a welcome one for Suffolk, who had been struggling in recent games.

Star Athlete to Be Awarded Annual Trophy

The annual Star Athlete Trophy, awarded to the outstanding male athlete of the year, was given to John Stahl of Suffolk University. Stahl, a senior forward, was named the Most Valuable Player of the year in the Northeast Conference. He led the team in scoring and rebounding and was a key player in the team's success.

Soccer Team Out—Law

Soccer has been dropped from the athletes’ agenda amid charges of illegal activity. The team has been accused of cheating in games, and the university has suspended all activities. The team plans to continue playing next season, but under new leadership. The university has also announced plans to drop the team’s two-year-old soccer program.

From The Fourth Estate

Having secured approval, I may now be able to tell the public of a fact that I have learned during my years as a journalist: there is a war going on and it's not a war of bullets and bombs. It's a war of ideas and it's being fought in the halls of medicine.

In the past, medical opinion has been divided on the effects of smoking. Some doctors have argued that smoking is harmless, while others have claimed that it is the cause of a variety of health problems. But now, for the first time, there is agreement amongst medical experts that smoking is indeed harmful.

A recent study published in the medical journal "Suffolk Journal" found that smoking cigarettes can cause damage to the nose and throat, as well as the accessory organs. The study, which is the first of its kind, was conducted by a team of medical specialists who analyzed the records of over 100,000 patients who had undergone medical examinations.

The study found that smoking cigarettes can cause a range of problems, including:

- Damage to the nasal passages and sinuses
- Inflammation of the throat
- Damage to the accessory organs, such as the larynx and trachea

The study also found that smoking can cause a number of chronic diseases, including:

- Chronic bronchitis
- Emphysema
- Lung cancer

The study concluded that smoking is a major public health problem and that action must be taken to reduce the number of smokers.

In response to the study, the American Medical Association has called for a ban on smoking in public places. The AMA has also called for increased funding for research into the effects of smoking.

The study has been greeted with widespread support from medical experts and public health officials. It is hoped that the study will help to change public attitudes towards smoking and encourage people to quit.
