1979

Suffolk University

Follow this and additional works at: https://dc.suffolk.edu/ad-news

Recommended Citation
https://dc.suffolk.edu/ad-news/86

This Newsletter is brought to you for free and open access by the Suffolk University Publications at Digital Collections @ Suffolk. It has been accepted for inclusion in Advancement and Alumni Newsletters by an authorized administrator of Digital Collections @ Suffolk. For more information, please contact dct@suffolk.edu.
In Search of Tradition
Annual Law School Alumni Dinner drew a near capacity crowd at the Park Plaza Hotel, Boston.

General Alumni Association
Board of Directors
*Lawrence E. Blacke, AB '71, JD '76
U.A.C. Representative
Thomas A. Cady, AB '72
Robert E. Coughlin, AB '73, EdM '74
Vice President
*Patrick H. Dwyer, BSBA '62, EdM '74
President
Anthony A. Farma, BS '77
U.A.C. Representative
Mary R. Ferris, AB '73
Clerk
*Barbara B. Freedman, AB '74
John G. Hommel, BSBA '72, JD '76
*Paul J. Keane, BSBA '51
John J. Norton, BS '55
Frank A. Sablone, BSBA '70, EdM '71
U.A.C. Representative
Joseph A. Saponaro, AB '52
George N. Torrey, BSBA '56, MAEd '57
*Richard D. Tranfaglia, AB '73
*Vincent J. Vannah, BSBA '70

Law School
Alumni Association
Board of Directors
*Nicholas Barbadoro, JD '38
U.A.C. Representative
*Marianne B. Bowler, JD '76
Vice President
Joseph D. Clancy, JD '51
Charles N. Collatos, JD '64
MaryAnn Driscoll, JD '74
*Arnold E. Johnson, JD '56
Joseph W. Kane, JD '70
President
Joseph P. McDonough, JD '40
Clerk
*Arthur T. Murphy, JD '38
U.A.C. Representative
Russell G. Murphy, JD '73
James J. Nixon, JD '55
David J. Saliba, AA '49, JD '52
*Paul R. Tierney, JD '64
Diane C. Tillotson, JD '78
U.A.C. Representative
Joseph F. Vinciguerra, JD '39

MBA/MPA Alumni Association
Board of Directors
*Michael L. Backer, Exec. MBA '77
Clerk
Douglas R. Baird, BSBA '71, MBA '75
Clara A. Booney, BS '74, MPA '77
*Robert F. Edson, BSBA '67, MBA '72
U.A.C. Representative
Charles J. Hamilton, MPA '75
President
Frank M. Kempisty, MBA '78
*Patricia Kindregan, MPA '77
Russell B. Millholland, BSBA '70, MBA '71
Peter O'Neill, AB '73, MPA '75, EdM '78
Vincent Polito, BSBA '59, MBA '64
Robert F. Ryan, BSBA '68, MBA '77
Henry P. St. Cyr, Exec. MBA '77
Celia E. Strickler, Exec. MBA '78
Robert P. Zickell, Jr., MBA '73
Vice President
John A. Zorka, MBA '74
U.A.C. Representative

*Term expires 1980 Term expires 1981 Term expires 1982
Letters To The Editor

To All The Alumni Bulletin Staff:

Just received the Fall 1979 copy of the Bulletin and am very pleased by your new magazine format. The articles, as usual, are well done and informative. The Class Notes section is always nice to read as a means of hearing about what's happening with fellow graduates of Suffolk.

Sincerely,
John P. Finneran
AB '73, EdM '75

Dear Editor,

The new set-up is great. But ... let's hear more about students and what they're doing.

Good Luck
James N. Riccardi

Dear Alumni Bulletin:

I read the reprint of your article on Al Cella in the Medford Mercury and decided I should let you know where I'm living now. It was a great article about a great man. Keep up the good work.

Anonymous By Request
In Search of Tradition

By William Amidon

Bill Amidon, Assistant Director of Development, is the production director of the Heritage Project of the University. The following is his account of the origins and sidelights of the course of events that has led to the project as it unfolds today.

In September of 1977, Dick Jones, the University Archivist, dropped by my office and showed me a copy of a 1919 brochure written as a fundraising piece by Gleason Archer called "An Important Message". I was intrigued with the Victorian language and carneo portraits, and decided to use it as a mail piece for the Annual Law Fund. Others liked it for its quaintness and appeal. The skill of Dan Morrissey made reproduction of it on yellow stock and faded cover possible. On an impulse, "Suffolk University Historical Series #1" was imprinted on the cover and it was mailed with a letter from President Fulham.

The reader response was strong. President Fulham commented on the audacity of using #1 as though I had a #2. About the same time, David L. Robbins, Associate Professor of History, wrote a rather detailed history of the area surrounding Suffolk University and its main street in commemoration of Temple Walk. It sat for months until we finally got together for lunch. My intention was to convince Robbins to do a rewrite for the Annual Law Fund. Others showed interest in the history of the University. The following is his account of the origins and sidelines of the course of events that has led to the project as it unfolds today.

The first and perhaps the most significant development is the involvement of an interesting group of people. In addition to the Heritage Committee, smaller groups have formed to write the histories of the various schools. Eric Welling, a history major at Bates and a resident on Beacon Hill, offered time this summer and spent hours on research in newspaper morgues and libraries. Several Suffolk work-study students have been involved in the tedious research needed, as well as in the organization of the traveling exhibit.

The reader response was strong. President Fulham commented on the audacity of using #1 as though I had a #2. About the same time, David L. Robbins, Associate Professor of History, wrote a rather detailed history of the area surrounding Suffolk University and its main street in commemoration of Temple Walk. It sat for months until we finally got together for lunch. My intention was to convince Robbins to do a rewrite for the Annual Law Fund.

As we talked about the general lack of interest in the history of the University and area and as we tied this to the 75th Anniversary in 1981, we began to envision a series of pamphlets leading to the 1981 jubilee celebration. A few weeks later we presented a much more well-developed proposal for the Heritage Series to President Fulham. He asked us how much we needed to start in 1979. The Board of Trustees approved the project. Dr. Robbins was asked to chair the Heritage Committee. Everyone approached to serve on the committee accepted the invitation, and 340 combined years of Suffolk experience began the task of reassembling the past.

Counting An Important Message as #1, there were seven assignments made in the next few months. "Setting the Scene" was published last spring. Written by Dr. Robbins, it has been widely praised. A biography of Gleason Archer is now at the printer and will be released soon. It will be followed by histories of the three schools, a social history of the University, and a collection of biographical anecdotes about Suffolk University personalities.

It is interesting to note that the project has grown in scope as it has developed. And although the project is still one year from completion, several interesting and significant themes have emerged and drawn together.

The Heritage Project has also brought together a young group of graphics professionals. They include Jim Rue of Concord, who developed the logo and publications package as well as the type and layout for the pamphlets. Holly Alderman, a designer from Cambridge, has developed the Heritage Exhibition as well as timeline. Steve Young, a designer of equipment of rock groups and shows, has designed and built the elaborate projection unit and three large cases for moving the exhibit. Technical advice on this unit as well as the audio expertise comes from Don Mikes, Director of the University Media Center. Much of the photography comes from Frank Siteman, who has spent hours balancing on the ledges of buildings surrounding the University waiting for the traffic to clear to get one picture. Their work has put a distinctively professional style on the project.

The Heritage Committee

David L. Robbins, Associate Professor of History, Chairman
William C. Amidon, Assistant Director of Development
Louis B. Connelly, Director of Public Relations
John Griffin, President, Virginia Investment Company, Boston, and member of the Board of Trustees
P. Richard Jones, Director of University Archives
Alfred I. Maleson, Professor of Law
Harold M. Stone, Professor of Accounting
Joseph H. Strain, Professor of Educational Administration and Speech, Associate Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
Arthur J. West II, Chairman and Professor of Biology
Edward G. Hartmann, Emeritus Professor of History, Senior Editor
Patricia I. Brown, Assistant Law Librarian, Assistant Editor
John C. Cavanaugh, Chairman and Professor of History, Assistant Editor
Ann D. Hughes, Assistant Professor of English, Assistant Editor
Melanie Zybala, Lecturer in History
Carol Robb, Lecturer in Humanities
People continue to show interest and become involved in the project. The response from a sample questionnaire to early graduates has been very strong, and valuable interviews are continuing with retired faculty, staff, and alumni. Many people have approached Dr. Robbins with materials. The most significant has been the correspondence and visits with members of the Archer family. Mrs. Polly Archer, widow of the founder, approached Dick Jones with an offer of some of her husband’s journals and unpublished manuscripts. She presented these valuable items to President Fulham in the President’s Conference Room this past fall.

Gleason L. Archer Jr., Professor of Old Testament and Semitic Languages at Trinity Divinity School in Deerfield, Illinois, also approached the school. Dr. Robbins flew to Chicago to meet him and was presented with the Founder’s ring – the first law school ring cast.

That same trip offered a second chance for Robbins to see Lou Farina, BA ’69, who, as a student, worked hard to keep the Archer spirit alive. Lou also presented the University with 30 volumes of Archer’s works. Because of Farina’s efforts in the late 60’s and the recent gifts from these people and several alumni, an Archer Memorial Archives has been established. A collection of Archer materials will be housed near the President’s office in the Archer building. The Archives will move to Ashburton Place in 1981.

The second emerging theme is that of a project greatly expanded over original plans for just a series of publications.

The most significant addition is that of the Heritage Exhibition, which will be ready to open in February. It will fill 2000 square feet of space and involve 27 panels as well as a rear projected slide show. This exhibit will be shown at the school, City Hall, and several other locations in the Greater Boston area. It will also travel to several cities on the Eastern seaboard for special alumni receptions between 1980 and 1981.

Law Librarian Edward Bander – author and amateur historian – has surrendered innumerable lunch hours in pursuit of legal history around Beacon Hill. Although not formally part of the Heritage Project, since it is not Suffolk University History, Professor Bander’s pamphlet, The Path of the Law, is one exciting by-product of the enthusiasm generated by the Project.

Bill Amidon, Holly Alderman, and Bob Higgins - Steele discuss the mechanics of the Heritage exhibition.

The third and final theme of the project is archival growth. The University is experiencing a significant increase in its collection in terms of documents, artifacts, and memorabilia in various media such as the taped oral histories by retired faculty, staff, and older alumni. Additional materials are always welcome from alumni and friends. The cumulative information in the Archives, in addition to the research done for the series, will give scholars the opportunity to do more in-depth history of the institution.

What is next? Alumni will see the next six pamphlets followed by an edition of the whole series which will include added materials and illustrations. The Heritage Exhibition will be open in Boston and other locations through the Jubilee in 1981. The committee for the jubilee year is now organizing and several special programs, as well as a special edition of the Advocate, are planned.

Mrs. Polly Archer

The project has brought about a renewed interest in the philosophical roots of the institution, as well as interest in the history itself. But perhaps a more important product is the feeling of pride, spontaneous interest, and cooperation among the various scholars, students, alumni, and professionals who have become involved in a larger whole – the retelling of a very good story.
A Gem From The Past

Last summer's Alumni Bulletin carried a request for alumni to submit any photographs or material that might be used in connection with the University's Heritage Project.

In response, alumnus Carroll P. Sheehan, BSJ '49, in a letter to President Thomas A. Fulham, enclosed the accompanying photo, certainly a memorable part of Suffolk University's varied history. The photo shows Sheehan, class president of the 1949 undergraduate school, presenting a petition to then Congressman John F. Kennedy thanking the Congress and the people for the educational benefits of the G.I. Bill (Public Laws 16 and 346). In the center is the university's second president, Walter M. Burse.

Sheehan, now president of the Farragut Bank in South Boston and former commissioner of commerce for the State of Massachusetts, was at the time a U.S. Marine reservist on active duty following graduation.

The petition was signed by all World War II veterans in the graduating class of 1949—some 104 in all.

As class president, Sheehan was a Navy veteran of three years service having joined as a youth of 17. It was his idea to express publicly the thanks of the Suffolk veterans. The petition was presented to Kennedy because the future president represented the eighth Congressional District, which includes Suffolk University.

Sheehan recalled the occasion vividly to the Bulletin. "As a strong Republican, I never voted for Kennedy and he had never seen me before he came to the school to accept the petition to pass on to Congress," Sheehan related. "But less than two months later, I met him on the street and I said, 'Hi, Congressman' and asked him how that petition went over. He looked at me sort of blankly and finally said, 'Fine, fine' and we parted.

'...Then it must have dawned on him. I had walked about two blocks when I turned around and Congressman Kennedy was running to catch up to me. He quickly apologized for not remembering and went on to tell me how much Congress loved the petition and that it was entered into the Congressional Record and all of the Massachusetts delegation had signed it.'

For Sheehan, that moment will always be remembered, a nonpartisan gem of a not to be forgotten era.

And for our thanks to Mr. Sheehan for such an important contribution to Suffolk University memorabilia. □
Some Not So Trivial Discoveries

During the past year a secret door, crated portrait, and a condemnation certificate have all come to light at Suffolk University a la The Hardy Boys.

Richard Caprio, '81, Herbert Vannasse, '80, and David Kalivas, '80, were poking the wall in the Zieman Poetry Room of the College Library when a panel opened and copies of the 1935 and 1937 charters, as well as several valuable photographs, came to light. Earlier, Ted Hamann, the College Librarian, had come across a nearly perfect chronological file of publications through many years of the school's existence. He also gathered an eight inch pile of glossy photographs that had not made their way to the Archives.

"Roxbury". Inside was a condemnation report from the city Building Department and a photograph of the rear of the building. It does show humble beginnings.

During a visit to the basement of the Ridgeway Lane Building, I saw a crate in the corner that looked suspiciously like a painting crate. Down in the dust and excelsior was an original portrait that had never been uncrated. Professor Robbins was consulted and within 24 hours reported "the man's name is Harry Ernest Burroughs, LLB '15. He was the product of a Boston Traveler Scholarship Contest for the newsboy who could cajole his customers to send in the most ballots on his behalf. Mr. Burroughs not only graduated, but did so well that during his lifetime his foundation underwrote radio programs and other benevolences. He was one of Gleason Archer's major benefactors." Evidently, his portrait arrived at the time that Archer was leaving Suffolk and was never hung. The portrait is now on display in the Law School.

The home of the first Law School was 6 Alpine Street in Roxbury. Photographer Frank Siteman, and an assistant were sent to get shots and slides of the house. "Our surprise was to find a stone wall and trees," reported Frank. "We checked and double checked. There wasn't even a cellar hole!" On a whim Dr. Robbins went to the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities and found an Alpine Street file under "Tom Ellis watch out!"
That was my first thought after I registered for the Journalism Department's Television News and Public Affairs Seminar with Arch J. Macdonald. Any Bostonian who has seen a television newscast in the last twenty years should know who Arch Macdonald is. He's the dean of New England broadcasters, having spent thirty-one years in the business. He has worked for every major station in the Boston area over the years and is presently the editorial director for WNAC-TV, Channel 7. Mr. Macdonald has been teaching at Suffolk since 1976. As of yet, his course has not produced any Walter Cronkites or David Brinkleys, but I was sure I would be the one to finally make it big.

This abundance of confidence was short-lived, however. All I ever saw beforehand was how much fun it must be to be a broadcaster. But now that I have finished the course, I know it is hard work. And I also know that I am a long way from putting anyone in television out of a job.

The first thing Mr. Macdonald told the class was that none of us would be ready to go on the air after taking the class. We had to write our own scripts and then read them on camera. The film crew at the Instructional Materials Center did all the camera work and production. We (Macdonald called us the "talent") either did newscasts by ourselves or as a team.

The first few weeks of the course, Mr. Macdonald wasn't too hard on us. He didn't make us write for time, nor did he criticize us too much. He just wanted us to get used to the cameras and figure out for ourselves what we did wrong. We reviewed the newscasts immediately after we did them each night, and Macdonald pointed out minor errors in diction, style, and appearance.

But after the first few weeks, he got tough. We were past the novice stage, so there would be no excuses. We started to write for time. When he said four minutes of news he meant four minutes of news. Then he began to jump all over us about our Boston accents. The correct pronunciation of words is essential to become a professional, he said. So, each one of us tried to remember that the President is CaR-teR, not Cahtah.

Usually we made a number of mistakes and Mr. Macdonald attributed each one of them to lack of practice. If each of us would just read our copy five times out loud, he said, the improvement would be 100 percent.

Because we always discussed the need for more practice, Macdonald told us a story about the time he was a co-anchorman with a British broadcaster. Before each broadcast, the two of them would practice reading their copy. While Macdonald sat at the desk reading aloud, the British co-anchor would march around the studio practically

Not Ready for Prime Time
Yet - But He's on the Way
By Dennis Orthman
Dennis Orthman will receive his BS in Journalism from Suffolk University in February, 1980. A graduate of Boston Latin, he was a work-study employee in the University Office of Public Relations this past semester and also worked in Mayor White's Office of Communications. He lives in Roslindale and plans to enter the communications field.
shouting his copy. The idea was to hear yourself speak so you could correct your voice before the real broadcast. It turned out the British co-anchor was so loud that Macdonald could not hear himself. Finally, Macdonald had enough. The next time they practiced, Macdonald marched around the studio, too, shouting out his copy. The British anchor finally got the message and practiced quietly. The class also got the message. Practice often and loud. Macdonald told us to hide in the bathroom at home if we had to, but at least practice.

Practice makes perfect...

To broaden the base a little, the class went on an outside session one evening in October. With the cameras, crew, and "talent", Macdonald led us down to the Common to practice “man on the street” interviews, in front of the Park Street "T" station.

Macdonald wanted us to experience the daily trials and problems of a real T.V. reporter trying to feel the pulse of the public. He wanted the class to experience just how nice or how rude some people can be. But there were also other important things we had to know about these types of interviews. Most importantly, he told us, try to pick out someone who looks like he or she knows what you are talking about. Also important was the camera angle. Profiles are out, full frontalts are in. To do this the camera must look over the reporter’s shoulder. The reporter must also hold the mike so the person will look into the camera. But the mike is not to be used like a magic wand, Macdonald told us. First of all, it must be close enough to a person’s mouth to hear him above the street noise, but it cannot block the face or be too close. Besides the production techniques, Macdonald emphasized that the most important question you can ever ask is “Why?”

The work then returned to the classroom. We wrote and read editorials and commentaries, learned how to use visuals, and worked as the Suffolk Evening News Team. But our greatest challenge came when we each had to do a project tape.

The project tapes were to be like the reports you see on the tube each night, three to four minutes long, with a stand-up introduction, man on the street interviews, an interview with the newsmaker, and a stand-up wrap-up.

These tapes were the biggest challenge we were to face in the course, not because they counted as our final, but because none of us realized the amount of work required for just four minutes of tape.

First we had to choose a newsworthy topic. These ranged from condominium conversions to the energy crisis. Once the topic was decided upon, then a rough script had to be drawn out stating what kind of camera shots we wanted (like a talking head or a zoom shot). We had to figure out if we would use a voice over film, voice on film, visual over the original audio, etc. Then time schedules had to be planned with the film crews, appointments had to be set up with people for interviews, and equipment had to be signed out.

Because we were all inexperienced with the procedure, we drove the people at the Instructional Materials Center slightly bananas. But they lent some type of sanity and professionalism to our work, and we all owe them a lot for their help and patience.

After all the footage was finally shot, the hardest part of the project came—editing. From about 30 minutes of tape we had to choose three minutes of it for the actual report. The one thing that I learned from the whole crazy operation was that anyone can do the filming and reporting as long as a good editor is available to put it together. Luckily, we had Ms. Nina Weisberg of the Instructional Materials Center. She helped us turn out some good project tapes from some hopeless material. Without her, I know that I never would have made it. As it turned out, the tapes were all pretty good, but each of us knows that given the same chance again, we could really do some good reports.

Overall, the class was a unique and rewarding experience for me. I learned the business from the other side of the camera, and found out there is more to it than a nice smile and happy talk.

Arch Macdonald is an excellent instructor. He let each one of us absorb his experience. The really important aspects that we learned were not in a book. They were only things that a man of his experience could tell us.

And although I am still not ready for T.V. reporting stardom, I’ll keep trying. The next time you see Tom Ellis in person, tell him not to worry, yet.
President Search Committee is Appointed

The University Board of Trustees, at its November 14 meeting, appointed an 18-member unified presidential search committee for selection of a successor to President Thomas A. Fulham, who is stepping down from the university on July 18, 1980.

Chairman Vincent A. Fulmer, in announcing the decision, said the search committee will consist of a chairperson, two students, six faculty, six trustees and three alumni leaders. Associate Dean Joseph H. Strain of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, will chair the committee.

Fulmer said the committee will have three basic responsibilities:
1. — examine the structure of the executive office; 2. — reflect on the qualifications of the candidates to be chosen; and 3. — put forth a minimum of three and a maximum of five candidates for the Board of Trustees to consider for the presidency.

"We are aiming to have the committee complete its nominating process by May 1 so that the Board can make the selection at its June meeting," Fulmer said.

Under the structure of the committee, the six faculty will comprise two from each of Suffolk's three schools, (CLAS, Law School and School of Management). Dean of Students D. Bradley Sullivan was assigned to convene a six-member student committee (made up of the leaders of SGA, EDSA, MBA Association, Student Bar Association, the Council of Presidents and Chairman of Student Bar Association for evening students) which selected SGA President William Sutherland, BS '80, and evening SBA Chairman Todd O'Connor, JD '80, as the two student representatives.

The six trustee members will include the five members of the nominating committee ex officio (Trustees Herbert C. Hambelton, BS '55, MA '57, Jeanne M. Hession, JD '56, John P. Chase, Hon. Walter H. McLaughlin, JD '30, and Hon. C. Edward Rowe, JD '26) and a sixth trustee to serve on a rotational basis. The nominating committee will bring the formal recommendation to the board.

The Board of Trustees requested that the presidents of each of the three alumni associations or their designees serve on the committee. The alumni appointed are: Anthony F. Farma, BS '77, MBA '79, General Alumni Association designee; Joseph W. Kane, JD '70, Law School Alumni Association president; and Clara A. Booney, BS '74, MPA '77, MBA/MPA Alumni Association designee.

The six faculty chosen are: Professor Joseph McEttrick and Professor Louise Weinberg of the Law School; Dr. Donald Unger, Education Department, and Dr. Maria Bonaventura, Biology Department, of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences; Robert Waehler, Accounting Department, and Anthony Eonas of the Business Law Department of the School of Management.

Fulmer said the Board of Trustees will ask the trustee nominating committee to develop a set of criteria for the committee to use as guide-posts in considering a candidate. The search committee initiated its meetings in early January.

Under the bylaws of the university the Board of Trustees will make the final selection from among the candidates put forth by the presidential search committee, exercising its prerogative of asking the committee to consider additional candidates if necessary.
Shanahan Elected Clerk, Two New Trustees Appointed

A prominent Greater Boston realtor, a Polaroid Corporation executive and a Chelmsford attorney have been elected to five-year terms on the Suffolk University Board of Trustees, Chairman Vincent A. Fulmer has announced.

Elected at the Founder’s Day meeting of the board (Sept. 12) were: John M. Corcoran of Hyde Park, founder and partner of John M. Corcoran Co., Milton realtors; Thomas J. Brown of Canton, assistant to the chairman of the board of Polaroid Corporation; and Atty. Joseph B. Shanahan Jr. of Chelmsford, who had been serving as an elected alumni trustee since 1977.

Elections of the three to the 21-member university governing body fill vacancies created by the election of trustees Joseph A. Caulfield and Joseph P. Graham to emeritus status and the death of life trustee Judge Frank J. Donahue.

Shanahan was also elected clerk of the corporation, citing him as “a key figure in providing the basic continuity of governance of Suffolk University” and said he was delighted that Griffin would continue on the board.

Brown, a native of Fall River, received his bachelor of arts degree from Brown University in 1950 and is trustee emeritus of that university. He is also a trustee of Bryant College of Business Administration and a lecturer there and at the M.I.T. Alfred P. Sloan Fellows Program.

Corcoran, a graduate of Boston College, has been associated with the housing field for more than 30 years. His firm is one of the largest residential developers in the state.

He is a member of the Massachusetts Advisory Council for the Small Business Administration, a director of the Massachusetts Venture Capital Corp., a director of the New England Television Corp., and a member of the executive committee of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce. He is also a member of the National Alliance of Businessmen and the Management Committee of the Boston-Fenway Program.

Corcoran has lectured at leading area graduate schools of architecture and science.

Shanahan, attorney with the Chelmsford law firm of Arenstam and Shanahan, holds two degrees from the university. He received his bachelor of arts degree summa cum laude in 1972 and his juris doctor degree from the law school cum laude in 1975. In his undergraduate days, he was president of the student body and recipient of the outstanding student award.

A native of Chelmsford, he is a selectman in that town and is a member of the Boston, Lowell and American Bar Associations. He is a director of the Northeast Chapter of the American Heart Association.

Shanahan is presently chairman of the Athletic Committee, chairman of the Trustees Visiting Committee on Social Sciences and a member of the Alumni, Building, and Financial Aid Committees for the board of trustees.

Two Alumni Trustee Elections Scheduled for 1980

Nomination forms for placement on the Alumni Trustee ballot were mailed to all alumni in November, 1979. Twenty-four nominations were filed by alumni. The three candidates chosen by the Alumni Trustee Nominating Committee for the January balloting were: Robert P. Edson, BSBA ’67, MBA ’72; John E. McDonald, BSBA ’71; and the Honorable James J. Nixon, JD ’55. Ballots will be counted in February by the nominating committee and the outcome of the election will be ratified by the Board of Trustees on February 13.

This election is to fill the expired term of John Griffin, who had served in that position for 22 years. Griffin remains on the board as a life trustee.

Fulmer noted that Brown’s “distinguished record of public service through numerous Boston area institutions and his standing in the business community bring new resources to the board.” He added that Corcoran’s “experience in real estate development and in the financing of facilities construction can be utilized during expansion of Suffolk University.”

Fulmer said, “Shanahan has been a bulwark in the recent period of dramatic growth in student financial aid as chairman of the financial aid committee” during his tenure as an alumni trustee. “He is also a distinguished alumnus of two schools of the university,” the chairman added.

Fulmer lauded Griffin’s 22-year service as clerk of the corporation, citing him as “a key figure in providing the basic continuity of governance of Suffolk University” and said he was delighted that Griffin would continue on the board.

Brown has been associated with Polaroid for 14 years. Before assuming his present post as assistant to Chairman Edwin H. Land in 1975, he was assistant to the president for 10 years.

He is a member of the Massachusetts Advisory Council for the Small Business Administration, a director of the Massachusetts Venture Capital Corp., a director of the New England Television Corp., and a member of the executive committee of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce. He is also a member of the National Alliance of Businessmen and the Management Committee of the Boston-Fenway Program.

Corcoran has lectured at leading area graduate schools of architecture and science.

Shanahan, attorney with the Chelmsford law firm of Arenstam and Shanahan, holds two degrees from the university. He received his bachelor of arts degree summa cum laude in 1972 and his juris doctor degree from the law school cum laude in 1975. In his undergraduate days, he was president of the student body and recipient of the outstanding student award.

A native of Chelmsford, he is a selectman in that town and is a member of the Boston, Lowell and American Bar Associations. He is a director of the Northeast Chapter of the American Heart Association.

Shanahan is presently chairman of the Athletic Committee, chairman of the Trustees Visiting Committee on Social Sciences and a member of the Alumni, Building, and Financial Aid Committees for the board of trustees.

Two Alumni Trustee Elections Scheduled for 1980

Nomination forms for placement on the Alumni Trustee ballot were mailed to all alumni in November, 1979. Twenty-four nominations were filed by alumni. The three candidates chosen by the Alumni Trustee Nominating Committee for the January balloting were: Robert P. Edson, BSBA ’67, MBA ’72; John E. McDonald, BSBA ’71; and the Honorable James J. Nixon, JD ’55. Ballots will be counted in February by the nominating committee and the outcome of the election will be ratified by the Board of Trustees on February 13.

This election is to fill the expired term of Joseph Shanahan, AB ’72, JD ’75. Attorney Shanahan was elected to a five-year term as a trustee and also as clerk of the corporation.

The other Alumni Trustee position that expires in June, 1980 is that of Michael L. Linquata, BSBA ’50. The nomination process will be initiated in March and balloting will take place in May.

Mr. Herbert C. Hambelton, BS ’55, MA ’57, chairman of the Alumni Trustee
1979-1980 Annual Fund for the Colleges Executive Committee Named

Pamela Scangas AB '72 and Sidney Levin BS '52 are the newest members of the executive committee for the Annual Fund for the Colleges. They join General Chairman, Melvin Cheney in formulating policy for the 1979-1980 Annual Fund campaign.

Ms. Scangas, is vice-chairperson for volunteers and will be responsible for recruiting alumni volunteers. She has been active in the Annual Fund for the past few years as a phonathon volunteer and area chairperson for the Lynn area. Scangas is a travel agent for Orbit Travel of Boston and makes her home in Lynn.

Sid Levin BS '52 has been appointed chairman of the Cornerstone Society. The Cornerstone Society is made up of alumni and friends of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the School of Management who donate $250 or more to the Annual Fund. Mr. Levin and his staff will be personally contacting many alumni during the year to enlist them as members of the society.

Levin is chief of Radiation and Occupational Research at the Army Materials and Research Center in Watertown. He makes his home in Newton with his wife and their five children.

Members of the executive committee ask that alumni consider making a contribution or pledge to the 1979-1980 Annual Fund for the Colleges and if they are interested in volunteering to work for the Fund, to contact Bob West, BSBA '75 at the University (723-4700, extension 129). □
Admission to U.S. Court of Military Appeals
Professor Anthony J. DeVico, Director of Career Planning and Placement, and Captain, JAGC, USN (Ret.) will arrange an Admissions Session for the Court of Military Appeals in Boston, late Spring 1980 — if enough interest is shown. Anyone wishing to be admitted to practice before said Court should so inform Professor DeVico's office at 723-4700, ext. 148/149, as soon as possible. There is no filing charge. If sufficient interest is disclosed, all the necessary forms will be requested by Professor DeVico and made available from the Placement Office for convenience of the petitioners.

Fifth Annual Law Fund Leadership Announced
The four national vice chairmen of the 1979-1980 Annual Law Fund have been announced by the Honorable Walter H. McLaughlin, JD '30, national chairman of the Fund. They are: James T. Morris, JD '71; Carol A. Witt, BS '73, JD '77; James Delaney, JD '56; and Michael J. Riselli, JD '72. These national vice-chairmen, with the assistance of 28 regional chairmen, will manage the contacts with over 7000 alumni from coast to coast.

Attorney Morris is a partner in the firm of Quinn & Morris of Boston. He is the former New England Area Director for Public Affairs of the Gulf Oil Company. Prior to employment with Gulf, he was counsel to the Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives and an assistant attorney general. Mr. Morris resides in Boston.

A partner in the law firm of Louison, Witt, and Hensley, Attorney Witt has two years of experience with the Annual Law Fund as co-chairman of the Plymouth County Region. She is also active in the Women's Bar Association, as well as the Plymouth, Massachusetts and American Bar Associations and the Association of American Trial Lawyers. Ms. Witt is married to John C. Doody, a former member of the School of Management.

James Delaney is a vice-chairman with four years experience with the Annual Law Fund, most recently as Middlesex County regional chairman. Attorney Delaney is in partnership with his brother, John Delaney, JD '50, in Waltham. The Delaney family has several more Suffolk connections Michael J. Delaney, JD '79, Kathleen, BA '81, and Tommy, BA '82.

The fourth vice-chairman, Michael Riselli, will supervise the regional solicitations outside of the Boston area. He has been involved for three years as a Washington chairman and is the recipient of a resolution of commendation from the Suffolk University Board of Trustees for his alumni work in Washington and, in particular, with the U.S. Supreme Court Bar Admissions Program. Mr. Riselli is chief of General and Administrative Law Section, Office of the General Counsel of the U.S. Treasury, in Washington, D.C. Attorney Riselli and wife, Eileen, reside with their three children in Springfield, Virginia.

Delta Mu Delta Inducts New Members
Delta Mu Delta, the national business honorary society, is in its second year at Suffolk University. Last Fall, 24 undergraduates and 83 graduates were inducted into this society. In addition, Kenneth Fisher, President of Prime Computer, Inc., was inducted as the professional person chosen to join as an honorary member. In his introduction of Fisher, David Hurwitz, the student president of Delta Mu Delta, cited Mr. Fisher's performance as president of a high technology rapid growth organization and his outstanding record of success in a highly competitive environment. Mr Fisher reported that Prime also has Suffolk Alumnus James Walsh, JD '71 as its general counsel.

Founded by Professor Roger Shawcross, assistant professor of Finance, the society serves undergraduate and graduate students in the School of Management. Requirements for consideration for membership include having an overall grade average of 3.2 or above and being in the top 20% of the class.

President Thomas A. Fulham invited Fisher to join the University's Advisory Council for the School of Management. It is expected that Fisher will make a strong contribution to the Advisory Council in the years ahead.
November, December, and January saw record numbers of alumni participating in a variety of activities sponsored by the three, individual alumni associations. They included:

Oktoberfest, a reunion of former German Students; a series of Law Alumni - Student Seminars; MBA/MPA Alumni Dinner Seminar, "Starting and Investing in a Small Business," which drew over 60 alumni; San Francisco, Hawaii, Las Vegas Alumni Vacation; the Annual Law Alumni Dinner for 600 alumni; a perennial favorite of 250 alumni, The Nutcracker; The Third Annual Christmas Shoppers' Service for children of alumni; and the ever popular Ticket Subscription Services brought 125 to the Bruins-New York Rangers game, 325 to the Celtics-Philadelphia '76ers game and 540 to the play Annie. Regrettably, well over 500 ticket requests were turned down for the series.

Pictorial highlights of the activities appear on these two pages. Watch your mail of the special events coming up this Spring and respond promptly.

Annual Law School Alumni Dinner: Outstanding Alumnus Award presented by Marianne B. Bowler. JD '76, Assistant U.S. Attorney and Vice President of the Law School Alumni Association to Frank J. Reynolds for John J. Droney. JD '42, LLM '47. District Attorney. Middlesex County.

Oktoberfest: a reunion of former German Department Students. Honored at the event was associate professor. Dr. Ilse Fang. center.

Annual Law School Alumni Dinner: Outstanding Alumnus Award presented by Marianne B. Bowler. JD '76, Assistant U.S. Attorney and Vice President of the Law School Alumni Association to Frank J. Reynolds for John J. Droney. JD '42, LLM '47. District Attorney. Middlesex County.

It was almost too cold for football on this late November afternoon. The winds were whipping across the Charles River and the Friday traffic zipped along Storrow Drive without a slowdown. Even the fraternity brothers failed to show up. But for the young men on the Charlesbank AADC playing field, it was The Game, their version of Harvard-Yale or B.C.-Holy Cross.

It was actually the Raiders v. Massacre championship final of the Suffolk University six-man flag football intramural program, the purest and most fun-filled form of collegiate athletics.

None of these players had received scholarships with free rides or heavy inducements to play varsity sports. They were just 24 guys (most of them working to supplement their education), who were burning off a little steam and enjoying themselves.

"Sure it's competitive, but it's mostly just a good time for everyone," explained one of the participants, Tony Romano, a junior from Pembroke. "A lot of these guys probably couldn't make varsity sports or have to work and that's why it's important we have intramurals."

Walsh remembers when he had to post signs on bulletin boards calling for candidates to take part in intramurals and take ads out in the Suffolk Journal seeking students.

"Now the kids come to us asking when the program is going to start and the Journal staffs every game," he laughed.

Nearly 1000 students have participated in the flag football program in the past seven years. This past fall, 140 played in the 11-team league. All of the games are played at the Charlesbank following a switch from Boston Common two years ago.

The intramural basketball program, which comprises 13 undergraduate teams and 10 law school squads, has nearly 300 students participating in games held at the antiquated Boston Young Men's Christian Union, on Boylston street. Come March, and the playoffs, the games will be played at the Cambridge YMCA, home of Suffolk's varsity basketball team, the Rams.

In the Spring, intramural softball is coeducational and last year attracted 368 men and women playing on twenty teams. Like the flag football games, the contests are played at Charlesbank Field every afternoon from 2 to 5 PM.

Suffolk long has sponsored varsity athletics, first under its legendary mentor, Charlie Law, and now directed by 36-year old Jim Nelson, who served as Law's assistant for 12 years. The Rams varsity teams have served the school well, most recently the basketball team has been a NCAA tournament participant four times and had two All Americans in Pat Ryan and Donovan Little.

But quietly, the intramural program has drawn more interest from students who have free time to unwind for a couple of hours as well as have some fun.

Atty. Joseph B. Shanahan Jr., now a Suffolk trustee, remembers when it got going. Shanahan, who has two degrees from Suffolk (BA '72 and JD '75), coordinated the intramural program as a student under Jim Nelson. Before that, it was operated out of the Student Activities Office.

"We were at the fundamental stage, just introducing a program to the community, but the growth under Tom Walsh is clear proof that Suffolk needed an intramural program," Shanahan pointed out. "Today, the numbers speak for themselves, and one intangible is that at a commuter school like Suffolk there is no telling how much good is derived from the social contact in intramural play and later as alumni."

Shanahan, who is chairman of the Committee on Athletics, also noted that with today's shaky economy intramurals... are a far less expensive proposition than varsity athletics.

"And one of the most rewarding things for the individual is that he is not put in a competitive situation for positions," Shanahan said. "It's an open program and anyone can play. If a student can't round up a team, the athletic office will assign him to one."

The University spends only about $10,000 a year on its intramural program, a bargain considering the services provided. "And most of that goes for equipment and rentals such as the Charles River tennis court, the Lindemann Center or the YMCA," says Athletic Director Nelson.

Nelson feels that intramural sports "not only give the less talented individual the opportunity to become involved in a competitive activity but also enables him to form associations and friendships with other classmates."

Nelson, who has handled both varsity and intramurals, thinks that under Suffolk's Division III philosophy, by offering a program for "the multitudes," the athletic department is "fulfilling an integral part of a student's overall educational program."

Women participate in intramural tennis in addition to the Spring softball program. Pam Rossi, the university's director of women's athletics, sponsors an invitational tennis tournament for all of the Suffolk University community and directs the intramural swimming program. Rossi also coaches women's varsity basketball.

Tom Walsh, 32, has directed the intramural program since 1976 when he succeeded Nelson. A dual degree holder from the university (BS '74, and MEd '76), Walsh was an outstanding baseball player for the Rams, later signed a contract with the Red Sox and played third base in the minor leagues for three seasons. The Vietnam War might have cost Walsh a chance at the majors. He lost two seasons of play, serving with the Army, including a year in Vietnam.

Walsh is addicted to sports and lives them as enthusiastically as any of the students taking part.

"And because of the way he runs the program, we know we're going to enjoy it," says Tony Romano, who transferred to Suffolk three years ago from another large university in Boston. "The intramural program was off the wall, people never showed up and things were disorganized," he recalled. "The Suffolk program is efficient, operates on schedule and is well structured."

During the academic year, Walsh has about 14 work study students serving as officials and scorers. They are screened by Nelson as to athletic knowledge and skills. One of the basketball officials, Kevin Belanger, was a licensed referee who officiated in high school games.

What has pleased Walsh most about the program and its participants is the student attitude. "We have never had any serious problem, no bad injuries, arguments or physical abuse," he said. Officials keep a tight control on the action.

Because of the lack of facilities, the Athletic Department must negotiate carefully and diplomatically to assure themselves playing area. "We've had conflicts with permits for the playing field at the Common with other groups and some overlapping, but we bend a little on both sides," said Walsh.

At the MDC Charlesbank, Christopher Columbus High School long has had permits for its football team to practice at the site. "But thanks to their Athletic Director Bob Christoforo and Football Coach Bob Hennessey, they have shared part of the field with us, an 80-yard track which is the length of the field for flag football," Walsh noted.

"Flag football as distinguished from touch or tag football is so called because the ball carriers have flags or strips attached to their hips," Walsh notes. "The flags must be removed by the tagger to insure that the runner has been tagged. It helps reduce arguments."

Down the road a little, there may be a home gym for Suffolk intramurals in the school's Ridgeway Building, which would be a big boost since basketball has the broadest intramural participation with law school and undergraduate involvement.

"That would be a big lift," said Walsh hopefully. "Because right now we've seen the program grow 100 per cent in about four years. The interest is terrific and of course, the key is that everyone gets a chance."
Stellar Activities at 4 AM

By Frank Whitson
Director of Development, Suffolk University

Waning Gibbons (almost third quarter with Copernicus in center with rays from crater material thrown out on impact.

"There goes my alarm clock, but it's only 4:00 in the morning," exclaims the sophomore sleepily. "Oh, now I remember, I have a 5:00 AM astronomy class to see Jupiter and its satellites."

Suffolk University proudly states that its facilities are used constantly with classes and laboratories being held from 8:00 AM to 10:00 PM and on Saturdays as well, but the arrival on campus of a new Celestron 8 (C8) telescope has expanded those hours. Taking advantage of the opportunities this telescope brings to their astronomy class, the students have been meeting in the middle of the night both on and off campus for astronomical sightings. Duxbury beach, Marshfield beach, and the roof of the Archer Building have all served as meeting locations for this group of students in the guest of light-free locations to obtain the clearest possible observations and photographs of the heavens.

The telescope, costing about $1,500, was obtained by the physics department during the fall semester. It is an 8-inch, 480X telescope which is portable and versatile.

Alumnus Teaching Course

The instructor for the astronomy course is alumnus Robert Garneau, BS '76. He is teaching at Suffolk as he completes his doctoral studies at Boston University. Upon his graduation from Suffolk University, he was the recipient of a Trustees scholarship for graduate studies. He was one of the students in the first astronomy course offered by Dr. Theodore Marshall.

Next year these courses will include laboratory sessions, which will allow students for the first time to meet their laboratory science requirements through astronomy courses.

Summer Courses at Cobscook, Maine

Descriptive Astronomy and Celestial Navigation are two courses which will use the telescope this summer. Dr. John Sloan and Dr. Marshall both of the Physics Department, will offer these courses at Cobscook Bay, Maine, the location of the University’s Robert S. Friedman Laboratory. The darkness offered by this remote location provides ideal conditions for using the C8.

Course for Sailors

Dr. Marshall intends to sail his own boat to Cobscook Bay. The celestial navigation course should interest sailors as well as students. The course will cover the use of the sextant, the navigational almanac, measurement on stars, time of position tables, location of 50 most prominent stars, finding latitude by meridian passage, and navigation with a pocket calculator.

Celestial Navigation will also be offered on campus next year for alumni and students along with the following courses:

- Introduction to Planetary Astronomy
- Introduction to the Astronomical Universe
- Astronomy Laboratory

In addition, Dr. Marshall hopes to offer a course in Electronic Navigation.

Astrophotography

The Celestron 8 includes accessories for photographing the heavens. A 35 millimeter camera can be attached to the telescope. Students find the challenge of producing a picture of the crater Copernicus or the belts of Jupiter to be virtually irresistible. An off-axis guiding system follows the objects being photographed while compensating for the rotation of the earth.

Well within the capability of C8 are detailed observations of sunspot structure, the solar transits of Mercury or Venus, lunar craters within lunar craters, the delicate wisps of Jupiter’s cloud belts, the cloud belts of Saturn and the surface features of Mars.

Through the C8, under good conditions, the cloud belts of Jupiter appear discontinuous, composed of a multitude of streamers and festoons -- and at this aperture the oranges, the reds and the brows of the Jovian clouds are revealed. Further, the moons of Jupiter now appear as disks and can be followed across the entire face of the planet.

With the C8, Saturn's rings are marvelously detailed. The main division (Cassini's division) is instantly obvious even at low power; the innermost (crepe) ring has a distinctly rosy appearance even against the background of space; and there is a noticeable brightening of inner Ring B, as well as pronounced darkening of outer Ring A. Also visible through the C8 are at least two cloud belts and six of the planet's moons. Through the C8, even tiny Mars (with about half of the diameter of Earth) is surprisingly detailed - especially during favorable oppositions. Then such surface features as Syrtis Major and Mare Erythraeum appear discontinuous, the clouds of the planet are visible and the facing polar cap as well as its melt band can be seen.

Professor Gameau reported that the study of Astronomy can be most frustrating even with the new telescope. He said three carfuls of students joined him at Marshfield beach in the middle of a clear, cold, damp night. After one and one-half hours of preparing and sighting the telescope to provide the best possible viewing and photography, a chilled but elated line was formed to use the telescope. At that moment, a heavy cloud cover blew in totally blocking the beauty of the heavens from their view.

During this year of energy priorities in businesses and homes, the University, through the Department of the Physical Plant, has been striving to re-evaluate all the various utilities, their costs and has turned to a computer.

Director of the Physical Plant, Ivan Banks, has supervised the study and installation of equipment which is regulated by a small computer. Forty nine clocks in the three major buildings are keyed into this central system. This allows for maximum "fine tuning", avoids extensive labor, and avoids crises during demand peaks. The system, which cost more than $50,000 to install, will realize annual savings in utilities of $17,000.

"Energy management," according to Banks, "is a process that began in this department several years ago in order to keep down a utilities budget of more than a quarter of a million dollars. Each year changes have been made. Valves in steam lines, damper controls, electric usage - all these areas need constant checks and adjustments.

"An example is the Donahue Building, which has 400 fluorescents on each of six floors. Changing the bulbs from 40 to 35 watts has shown a ten percent cost savings a year.

Good energy management will continue to have a high priority. Construction plans for the Ashburton Place Building call for the complete use of electricity. Low institutional rates with
C. Vincent Vappi, President, Vappi and Company of Cambridge and President Thomas A. Fulham view the architects' renderings of the building at 8 Ashburton Place after signing a $7.9 million contract for its renovation and conversion to academic use. The building is scheduled to open September, 1981.
Faculty Notes
LIBERAL ARTS AND SCIENCES

Dr. Kenneth F. Garni, of the Counseling Center, was re-elected chairman of the National Board of Accreditation of University and College Counseling Centers at the group's national conference in Ames, Iowa. At the conference. Suffolk was chosen as a member of a consortium of New England colleges to host the 1980 national conference at Dunfey's in Hyannis, Oct. 5-9.

Dr. Philip F. Mulvey, Jr., of Biology, was the featured speaker at a Hazardous Waste Management seminar sponsored by the New England Research, Inc., last month.

Congratulations to Dr. Richard T. Bray, of Journalism, who is the 1979 honor roll award winner of the National Council of College Publications Advisers. Bray was tapped for his work as adviser to Suffolk's Evening Voice.

Dr. John C. Cavanagh, of History, has had three essays published recently. His essay on Major Gen. Benjamin Lincoln, a Mass. officer in the Revolutionary War, was published by the Duke University Press in a book entitled The Revolutionary War in the South: Power, Conflict and Leadership. Two other essays were published in the Encyclopedia of Southern History, just released by the Louisiana State University Press.

The English Department reports that Robert K. Johnson has a poem, "Lover's Words", in the Fall issue of the magazine Writing, and Bette Mandl has been named to the editorial board of the Journal of Education. Dr. Frederick C. Wilkins' course on, "The England of Shakespeare's Kings", presented in England this summer, won the innovative programming award by the North American Association of Summer Sessions.

Dr. Stanley M. Vogel, of the English Department, presented an essay he authored, entitled "The Flowering of German Literature in New England", at a symposium on John Quincy Adams, Pioneer of German-American Literary Studies. Vogel was a participant in the program presented by the Goethe Institute, Boston, in cooperation with the Boston Public Library at the Library's Rabb Lecture Hall.

Vogel's work was part of the exhibition of documents, manuscripts, books, and prints in the Rare Book Exhibit Room, which houses the President John Adams Library. The program featured a special introduction to scholars and institutions associated with German-American affairs.

School of Management
Dean Richard L. McDowell of the School of Management has been elected to the executive council of the National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration. He was elected to a two-year term at the association's annual business meeting in Los Angeles. He also was one of 50 delegates to represent Massachusetts at a White House conference on Small Business, Jan. 13-17.

SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT
Dean Richard L. McDowell of the School of Management has been elected to the executive council of the National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration. He was elected to a two-year term at the association's annual business meeting in Los Angeles. He also was one of 50 delegates to represent Massachusetts at a White House conference on Small Business, Jan. 13-17.

Dean Richard L. McDowell

Class Notes
In Memoriam

Alumni
JD '22 Francis E. Burke of Lexington.
JD '25 Harry Bloomberg of Brookline.
JD '25 Roderick W. Hoag of Melrose and Deerfield, New Hampshire.
JD '28 Edmund Sullivan of Peabody and Friendship, Maryland.
JD '33 Max S. Portnoy of Pawtucket, Rhode Island.
JD '34 Isidor E. Serlin of West Roxbury.
JD '36 Charles McLaughlin of Harwichport.
JD '41 Byron H. Simmons of Whitman.
JD '50 Francis P. Barrett of Milton.
JD '53 John J. Keane of Randolph and Halifax, Nova Scotia.
JD '54 John J. Quinlan of Peabody.
MAE '54 Florence G. Sherry of Chelsea.
JD '66 Peter Y. Macktaz of Woonsocket, Rhode Island.
MBA '74 John J. Burke of Medford.

1932
Law School
Charles J. Griffin, JD, of Griffin, Harrington, Brigham, and Ritzo of Portsmouth, an original incorporator of NH Catholic Charities, was recently honored by that organization.

1940
Law School
Daniel J. Toomey, JD, town clerk of Danvers, recently was awarded a special citation by fellow members of a national association of city and town treasurers.

1941
Law School
Norman Clarke, JD, is presently working as sexton at Pilgrim Congregational Church in Harwichport.
The Honorable Baron H. Martin, JD, was recently appointed vice president and general manager of the Industrial Chemical Company, Inc. in Wakefield.

1943
Law School
Reno J. Orlando, AA '40, JD, is serving as Justice of Ipswich District Court.

1949
Colleges of Liberal Arts & Sciences
John E. McManus, AB, has been chosen to become the first director of Rhode Island's new Department for Children and Their Families.

1950
Law School
Clyde L. Wheeler, JD, serves as a member of the Executive Board of the Waterville, Maine Boys-Girls Club.

School of Management
Raymond R. Greenleaf, BSBA, has been listed in the finance and industry edition of Who's Who for 1979-80. Mr. Greenleaf is currently working at the J. Edward Knight & Company in Boothbay Harbor, ME.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Edward L. Hayes, BSJ, is presently employed as collections manager at the Westport Bank and Trust Company in CT.

1953
College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Janet G. Mirrow Lavery, AB, administrator of Abbiejean Russell Case Center, was recently proclaimed a Fellow in the American College of Nursing Home Administrators.

1955
College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Richard J. Kenny, AB, was recently named staff vice-president-flying for Trans World Airlines in NY.

1957
Law School
The Honorable Baron H. Martin, JD, recently received an honorary Doctor of Laws (degree) at William Penn College in Oskaloosa, IA.

1961
Law School
Gerald G. Portney, JD, has been appointed as Assistant Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service in Washington, D.C.

1962
College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Sumner Campbell, AB, is the juvenile officer for the Dennis Police Department.
Edward H. Crawford, BS, is presently employed as assistant administrator of financial services at Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton.

1959
Law School
John J. McDonough, JD, is presently a lawyer with the Boston law firm of Di Mento and Sullivan.

1960
School of Management
John L. McDonough, BSBA, is employed by Commercial Union Assurance Company in Boston.
Cornelius Tierney, Jr., MBA, reports that he is a partner with Arthur Young and Company in Washington, D.C.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Thomas Cavanaugh, AB, is presently a member of the teaching staff at West Roxbury High School. He has a Certificate for Advanced Graduate Studies, in school administration from Boston State College.

1963
School of Management
William G. Ellis, MBA, is presently employed as dean and professor at the Thomas College Graduate School in Waterville, ME.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Robert F. McInnes, AB, is employed by the Westwood School Department.

1965
Law School
Major Gerald A. Shay, JD, of the U.S. Marines, has completed his training at the Marine Corps Command and Staff College in Quantico, VA.

1967
Law School
Arthur E. Robbins, JD, of Nardi and Robbins has been confirmed an associate justice of the Concord, NH District Court.

School of Management
George Bigelow, Jr., MBA, is vice president of the real estate investment firm of Property Capital Trust in Boston.

1968
Law School
James J. Barry, JD, has been appointed by the New Hampshire Supreme Court to the Committee on Professional Conduct.

1970
Law School
Theodore H. Goguen, Jr., JD, is vice president of Goodman and Goguen, a law firm in Natick.
Class Notes

School of Management
H. Pat Falvey, BSBA, operates an accounting practice in Old Saybrook, CT. She is also a part-time lecturer of economics at Connecticut College in New London.

Leonard A. Glionna, BSBA, is presently an attorney for the Acton Corporation in Acton.

Robert A. Johnson, BSBA '62, MBA, has been appointed a member of the Rate Setting Commission Hospital Policy Review Board. Mr. Johnson is the vice president & treasurer of Brockton Hospital.

1971
Law School
Theodore L. Craft, JD, is a trial attorney for the office of the Chief Counsel of the Internal Revenue Service in Boston.

Robert D. Luss, JD, has been promoted to the position of division counsel for the Operations Division of Hooker Chemicals & Plastics Corporations in Niagara Falls, NY.

John J. Matson, JD, has joined the Wyman-Gordon Company in Worcester as corporate manager for Communications and Government Relations.

Donald B. Rotfort, JD, is an Associate Professor of accounting, taxation, and estate planning at Babson College in Wellesley.

School of Management
Vincent J. Bartolomeo, BSBA, is working as a marketing specialist at Digital Equipment Corporation in Marlboro.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Joseph M. Grillo, BSJ, recently accepted a position as copy editor with the Ventura Star Free Press in Ventura, CA.

1972
Law School
Anthony C. Adamopoulos, JD, has recently been promoted to assistant professor of law enforcement at North Shore Community College in Beverly.

Jeremy W. Howe, JD, is an attorney for the Newport County Clinic and also maintains a private practice in RI.

Ronald J. Itri, JD, has been appointed public administrator of Suffolk County, Boston.

1973
Law School
Robert Bonner, JD, has been appointed director of the pension trust department at Sun Life of Canada.

John Drury, JD, is presently an attorney with offices in Pawtucket, RI.

Fred Grosso, JD, is presently associated with the law firm of Williams and Williams in Marlboro.

Timothy J. Vaughan, JD, is associated with the law firm of Moulton, Smith, and Samaha in Littleton, NH.

School of Management
William Hendrickson, MBA, has recently been named Yarmouth's new deputy assessor.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Martin Ammer, MAE, has joined the Malden Catholic High School staff and will serve there as the junior counselor.

Dan Fitzgerald, AB, is currently teaching an adult education program in Foxboro.

Jill Sullivan Gabbe, AB, was appointed director of public relations for Stop & Shop Companies, Inc., Boston.

John Grey, Jr., BS, is employed as a cost price analyst with Raytheon in Burlington.

Daniel P. Travers, BS, is currently working with the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Quality in Boston.

1974
Law School
William E. Aivalikles, JD, is a member of the Holland and Aivalikles law firm in Nashua, NH.

James M. Burgoyne, JD, has joined the law firm of Fletcher, Titton, and Whipple, as an associate, in Worcester.

Michael J. Early, JD, is currently employed as an assistant district attorney for Essex County.

Robert E. Higgins, JD, was recently elected vice-president and tax counsel of Perini Corporation in Framingham.

Robert T. Karns, JD, is a partner in the law firm of Karns and Fairbanks in Taunton.

1975
Law School
Gary W. Bole, JD, of Littleton, NH, has been named chairman of the Commission on Eminent Domain by NH Governor Hugh Gallen. He replaces Edward R. Thornton, JD, '32 of Manchester.

Paul S. Carter, JD, is an attorney with the Department of Health Education and Welfare in Boston. Attorney Carter is Richard W. Gallup, MBA '74.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
James P. Doyle, BS, is currently employed by Jordan Marsh Company.

Linda M. Frawley, BSJ, has recently been named director of public affairs for California State University in Fresno.

Dennis P. Girard, EdM, reports that he has received a doctorate in education from Boston University. Mr. Girard presently holds the position of senior psychologist of the Coastal Community Counseling Center in Quincy and is a clinical instructor of psychiatry at Tufts University School of Medicine.

Jill Sullivan Gabbe, AB '73.

Alvin Youman, JD, is working as an assistant district attorney for Bristol County.

Michael Zeman, JD, is currently an assistant district attorney with the District Court of New Bedford.

School of Management
Richard W. Gallup, MBA, has been named a company officer and assistant director of underwriting for National Life Insurance Company of Montpelier, VT.
also engaged in private practice in Boston and Dover.

Edward Cotter, JD, is in private practice of law in Boston.

Jane V. Hawkes, JD, has become a partner of the Bouth- and Dewey law firm in Worcester.

Michael McGahan, JD, is a practicing attorney in Attleboro.

Robert W. Nelson, JD, currently holds the position of assistant district attorney for Suffolk County, Boston.

Charles C. O'Donnell, JD, is a practicing attorney in Peabody.

Brian T. O'Keefe, JD, has recently been appointed an assistant district attorney for Essex County.

William E. Reed, III, JD, has been named assistant general counsel of the Factory Mutual Engineering Corp., Factory Mutual Engineering Association, and Factory Mutual Research Corp. of Norwood.

School of Management

Edward L. Cashin, MBA, has joined New England Mutual Life Insurance Company as a testing project manager for the group claims system in Boston.

Michael J. Palmieri, BSBA, is presently employed as a financial administrator by Bradford Trust Company of Boston.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences

Gail Callahan, BS, is presently teaching in the West Bridgewater school system.

David Cavalier, AB, is an assistant vice president for external affairs at the Waltham Hospital.

Barbara A. Dooley, EdM, is employed as a guidance counselor at the Greater Lowell Regional Vocational Technical High School.

1976

Law School

Richard Abilheira, JD, is presently in practice with the firm of DeCosta and Abilheira in Warren, RI.

Arnold B. Abrams, JD, has joined the law firm of Solomon and Stanton in Meriden, CT.

Dennis Bercury, JD, is associated with the law firm of Perkins and Edwards in Guilford, ME.

Timothy Cagle, JD, recently opened an office for the practice of law in North Andover.

Marshall A. Gallop, Jr., JD, reports that he has been made a member of the firm of Battle, Winslow, Scott, and Wiley, P.A. of Rocky Mount, NC.

Kathryn A. Morris, JD, is presently an assistant district attorney for Essex County.

Edward P. Ryan, JD, has announced the opening of a private practice of law in Worcester.

Martha A. Scannell, JD, is currently in the private practice of law in Worcester.

Michael J. Traft, JD, is an assistant district attorney and director of the Appellate Division of the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office.

School of Management

Reginald Jon Lavoie, MBA, has been promoted to assistant director of the Leominster Hospital.

Norman C. MacLeod, BSBA, is an automotive sales representative with Fried and Litchman Association in Needham.

Gary H. Munroe, MBA, is presently an engineer with the Polaroid Corporation in Cambridge.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences

Priscilla Gindi, BS, is an environmental chemist at the General Electric Company plant in Lynn.

Lynn Y. Keel, AB, has been awarded a renewable fellowship from the Consortium for Graduate Study in Management at the University of Wisconsin.

Anthony J. Kinahan, MS, is associated with the Massachusetts Bay Transit Authority.

Robert Quintilian, BS, a member of the Quincy Police force for eighteen years was recently presented the Massachusetts Police Association's highest award.

Arthur E. Robbins, BS '75, MS, is presently the director of the Alternative School in Medford.

Audrey A. Toci, BS, is presently employed by the Federal Reserve System in Watertown.

1977

Law School

Irwin A. Berkowitz, JD, is active in the legal profession in Fort Lauderdale, FL, and has been named a fund member attorney of Lawyer's Title Guaranty Fund.

David C. Bryson, JD, is an attorney for the Small Business Administration Bureau in Boston.

Barbara R. Daich Cary, JD, is currently practicing law with the firm of Kalikow and Kalikow in Lynn.

Mark Fitzsimmons, JD, is in the private practice of law in East Weymouth.

Kenneth A. Graham, JD, has been appointed senior adjudicator in the Legal Division of the Connecticut Consumer Protection Department. Attorney Graham was also recently appointed adjunct professor of history at Sacred Heart University in Bridgeport, CT.

Susan D. Hayes, JD, is currently associated with the firm of Lovett and Linder in Providence, RI.

William C. Murray, JD, has joined the staff of the law department at the Hartford Insurance Group in Hartford, CT.

Kenneth E. Nelligan, JD, is currently with the Department of the U.S. Navy, Office of the General Council, in Washington, D.C.

Dennis M. O'Malley, JD, is presently an associate partner in the law firm of Grant and Artesani in Boston.

James Papatones, JD, was recently named an associate of the law firm of Cullinares Professional Association in Somersworth, NH.

School of Management

Judy Donovan, BSBA, has been appointed operations officer of Boston's Provident Institute for Savings.

Ray (Sugar Bear) Hamilton, MPA, certified pro net official as well as the veteran nose tackle for the New England Patriots, is in a management training program with IBM and also runs a football camp for youngsters.

J. Daniel Horrigan, MBA, is employed as a business analyst by Microwave Association in Burlington.

1977

Class Notes

John Keohane, MBA, is a Sales Manager for Compu' Center in Wellesley.

Gerald P. McLenney, BSBA, is presently employed by the Massachusetts Department of Revenue.

Daniel P. Melliello, MBA, was appointed town executive administrator in Ashland.

Mary M. Weber, MPA, is a planning analyst for CETA Administration, in Salem.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences

Peter Cassidy, BS, is currently researching material for a book on ironwork of the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum in Boston.

Robert A. Clark, BS, director of the Simulated Office Occupational Training Program at the Greater Lowell Vocational High School, has received an award citing her office as a Model CETA program for 1979.

Donna DeNapoli, BS, is working as a social worker in Services to Military Families and Veterans for the American Red Cross, Boston.

Emery L. Haskell, BS, continues his service in the U.S. Navy Department. He is presently an ensign and has completed the Surface Warfare Officer's Basic Course.

Philip G. Hyde, BS, is a patrol officer for the Dennis Police Department.

Ralph W. Miner, III, BS, is the proprietor of Miner's Sportsworld in Medfield.

Sheila Shea, MS, is employed as a teacher of business subjects at Marian Court Secretarial School in Swampscott.

Stephen White, BSJ, is a film critic for the Taunton Gazette.
Assistant district attorney of Suffolk County, Boston.
Edward E. Moukawsher, JD is presently an attorney with the firm of Morgan, Moukawsher, and Willets in New London, CT.
John D. Roberts, Jr., JD, is presently a teacher of consumer rights at the Barnstable Community School in Hyannis.
Ronald R. Sussman, JD, has become associated with the firm of Meyer and Wexler in Smithtown, NY.
Joel Uher, JD, reports that he is employed as a Deputy County Counsel for Sacramento County, CA.
Alfred Colarusso, Jr., BSBA, is the general manager of Al’s Motor Sales, a family business, in Brockton.
F. Ellis Fitzpatrick, MPA, is employed as the director of the Audit and Investigations Division of the Manpower Development Executive Staff for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Gail D. Gilman, MBA, serves in the area of marketing as assistant professor of Business Studies at the University of Maine in Machias.
Thomas W. Landers, MBA, is assistant professor of management at Clark University, Worcester.
Robert A. Pacheco, BSBA 72, MBA, has recently been appointed to the position of instructor of business administration at Massachusetts Community College in Brockton.
Frederick D. Quattromani, BSBA, is employed by Martin Gottesdiener and Company Inc. of New London, CT.
Lee A. Simard, BSBA, is currently a territory manager in the South Shore area for International Playtex, Inc.
Jerome C. Young, BSBA, reports that he is presently functioning as an auditor with the Detroit, Michigan Public Schools.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
James Brown, BS, is a stockbroker for Kidder, Peabody and Company, Inc., in Boston.
Peter Cardello, BS, is employed by Pastene, Wine and Spirits in Somerville.
Claire Cottone, BS, is currently a business teacher at Burdett College, Boston.
Phillis Kuehne, MS, has joined the business administration faculty at Dean Junior College in Franklin.
Stephen J. Surette, BS, is employed by the Malden School Department.

1979

Law School
Michael E. Donnelly, JD, currently holds the position of assistant district attorney for Worcester County.
Maris H. Eshleman, JD, is employed as a tax professional by the international CPA firm of Ernst and Whinney in Manchester, NH.
Michael E. Festa, JD, recently became an assistant district attorney for Middlesex County.
Karen Harr Lamkin, JD, is employed as a neighborhood planning officer for the Boston Redevelopment Authority.
Chester Lupton, JD, is currently a lawyer for Child Welfare Services in Providence, RI.
John McCuade, Jr., JD, is employed by the law firm of Herlihy and O’Brien in Boston.
Paul Merry, JD, a reporter for the Lowell Sun, has accepted a one-year clerkship with the Massachusetts Superior Court Department.
Francis J. Russell, JD, is associated with the firm of Peat, Marwick, and Mitchell in Worcester.
Mark L. Banda, BSBA, is employed as an administrator at IBM Corporation in Waltham.
Patricia A. Bennett, MPA, is employed as supervisor of Social Services at the Welfare Office in Peabody.
John M. Butler, BSBA, is presently a case analyst for John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company in Boston.
Robert Cauley, Jr., BSBA, is a controller for the Massachusetts Fair Share, Inc. in Boston.
Thomas Cinelli, MBA, is a project manager for the Commercial Union Assurance Companies in Boston.
John A. Clarkeson, MPA, has recently been appointed as an account executive at E.F. Hutton and Company, Inc. in Chestnut Hill.
Donald R. Costa, BSBA, is presently employed as a revenue agent of the treasury department for the Internal Revenue Service.
Michael A. Damiano, MBA, is presently a comptroller for the Colonial Car Lease Company, Inc. in Boston.
Henry Delicata, MPA, is currently a fiscal co-ordinator for the Harvard University Police in Cambridge.
William Doucette, BSBA, is currently an administrative trainee for Chrysler Corporation in Natick.
George T. Dowd, Jr., MBA, is presently an engineering manager for the Yankee Atomic Electric Company in Westboro.
Kenneth A. Dyer, BSBA, is presently a vice president for the State Street Bank and Trust Company in Boston.
Madeline Eiermann, MBA, is working as a systems development manager for the Kendall Company in Boston.
Michael P. Famiglietti, MBA, is presently an assistant controller for Kennedy’s Inc. in Boston.
James F. Gennza, MBA, is presently a credit analyst for the First National Bank of Boston.
Martha I. Guerrero, BSBA, is currently a staff accountant for Deloitte, Haskins, and Sells in Boston.
Paul S. Hajjar, BSBA, is currently a sales manager for Stephen Bros. in Boston.
Stephen P. Hansen, BSBA, is currently an assistant inventory reconciliation supervisor for the Stop & Shop Company in South Boston.
Kenneth A. Hebert, BSBA, is presently employed by Honeywell Corporation in Newton.
Pamela Lebovitz, BSJ, is presently employed at the Enterprise-Sun, Inc., in Marlboro.
Frederick T. McEiligott, MBA, has been elected a fellow of the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants.
He is an internal revenue agent for the Internal Revenue Service in Andover.
Hugh F. McGlone, MBA, is presently employed as an assistant district attorney of Suffolk County, Boston.
Edward E. Moukawsher, JD is presently an attorney with the firm of Morgan, Moukawsher, and Willets in New London, CT.
John D. Roberts, Jr., JD, is presently a teacher of consumer rights at the Barnstable Community School in Hyannis.
Ronald R. Sussman, JD, has become associated with the firm of Meyer and Wexler in Smithtown, NY.
Joel Uher, JD, reports that he is employed as a Deputy County Counsel for Sacramento County, CA.
Alfred Colarusso, Jr., BSBA, is the general manager of Al’s Motor Sales, a family business, in Brockton.
F. Ellis Fitzpatrick, MPA, is employed as the director of the Audit and Investigations Division on the Manpower Development Executive Staff for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Gail D. Gilman, MBA, serves in the area of marketing as assistant professor of Business Studies at the University of Maine in Machias.
Thomas W. Landers, MBA, is assistant professor of management at Clark University, Worcester.
Robert A. Pacheco, BSBA 72, MBA, has recently been appointed to the position of instructor of business administration at Massachusetts Community College in Brockton.
Frederick D. Quattromani, BSBA, is employed by Martin Gottesdiener and Company Inc. of New London, CT.
Lee A. Simard, BSBA, is currently a territory manager in the South Shore area for International Playtex, Inc.
Jerome C. Young, BSBA, reports that he is presently functioning as an auditor with the Detroit, Michigan Public Schools.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
James Brown, BS, is a stockbroker for Kidder, Peabody and Company, Inc., in Boston.
Peter Cardello, BS, is employed by Pastene, Wine and Spirits in Somerville.
Claire Cottone, BS, is currently a business teacher at Burdett College, Boston.
Phillis Kuehne, MS, has joined the business administration faculty at Dean Junior College in Franklin.
Stephen J. Surette, BS, is employed by the Malden School Department.

1979

Law School
Michael E. Donnelly, JD, currently holds the position of assistant district attorney for Worcester County.
Maris H. Eshleman, JD, is employed as a tax professional by the international CPA firm of Ernst and Whinney in Manchester, NH.
Michael E. Festa, JD, recently became an assistant district attorney for Middlesex County.
Karen Harr Lamkin, JD, is employed as a neighborhood planning officer for the Boston Redevelopment Authority.
Chester Lupton, JD, is currently a lawyer for Child Welfare Services in Providence, RI.
John McCuade, Jr., JD, is employed by the law firm of Herlihy and O’Brien in Boston.
Paul Merry, JD, a reporter for the Lowell Sun, has accepted a one-year clerkship with the Massachusetts Superior Court Department.
Francis J. Russell, JD, is associated with the firm of Peat, Marwick, and Mitchell in Worcester.
Mark L. Banda, BSBA, is employed as an administrator at IBM Corporation in Waltham.
Patricia A. Bennett, MPA, is employed as supervisor of Social Services at the Welfare Office in Peabody.
John M. Butler, BSBA, is presently a case analyst for John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company in Boston.
Robert Cauley, Jr., BSBA, is a controller for the Massachusetts Fair Share, Inc. in Boston.
Thomas Cinelli, MBA, is a project manager for the Commercial Union Assurance Companies in Boston.
John A. Clarkeson, MPA, has recently been appointed as an account executive at E.F. Hutton and Company, Inc. in Chestnut Hill.
Donald R. Costa, BSBA, is presently employed as a revenue agent of the treasury department for the Internal Revenue Service.
Michael A. Damiano, MBA, is presently a comptroller for the Colonial Car Lease Company, Inc. in Boston.
Henry Delicata, MPA, is currently a fiscal co-ordinator for the Harvard University Police in Cambridge.
William Doucette, BSBA, is currently an administrative trainee for Chrysler Corporation in Natick.
George T. Dowd, Jr., MBA, is presently an engineering manager for the Yankee Atomic Electric Company in Westboro.
Kenneth A. Dyer, BSBA, is presently a vice president for the State Street Bank and Trust Company in Boston.
Madeline Eiermann, MBA, is working as a systems development manager for the Kendall Company in Boston.
Michael P. Famiglietti, MBA, is presently an assistant controller for Kennedy’s Inc. in Boston.
James F. Gennza, MBA, is presently a credit analyst for the First National Bank of Boston.
Martha I. Guerrero, BSBA, is currently a staff accountant for Deloitte, Haskins, and Sells in Boston.
Paul S. Hajjar, BSBA, is currently a sales manager for Stephen Bros. in Boston.
Stephen P. Hansen, BSBA, is currently an assistant inventory reconciliation supervisor for the Stop & Shop Company in South Boston.
Kenneth A. Hebert, BSBA, is presently employed by Honeywell Corporation in Newton.
Pamela Lebovitz, BSJ, is presently employed at the Enterprise-Sun, Inc., in Marlboro.
Frederick T. McEiligott, MBA, has been elected a fellow of the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants.
He is an internal revenue agent for the Internal Revenue Service in Andover.
Hugh F. McGlone, MBA, is presently employed as an assistant district attorney of Suffolk County, Boston.
Edward E. Moukawsher, JD is presently an attorney with the firm of Morgan, Moukawsher, and Willets in New London, CT.
John D. Roberts, Jr., JD, is presently a teacher of consumer rights at the Barnstable Community School in Hyannis.
Ronald R. Sussman, JD, has become associated with the firm of Meyer and Wexler in Smithtown, NY.
Joel Uher, JD, reports that he is employed as a Deputy County Counsel for Sacramento County, CA.
Alfred Colarusso, Jr., BSBA, is the general manager of Al’s Motor Sales, a family business, in Brockton.
F. Ellis Fitzpatrick, MPA, is employed as the director of the Audit and Investigations Division on the Manpower Development Executive Staff for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Gail D. Gilman, MBA, serves in the area of marketing as assistant professor of Business Studies at the University of Maine in Machias.
Thomas W. Landers, MBA, is assistant professor of management at Clark University, Worcester.
Robert A. Pacheco, BSBA 72, MBA, has recently been appointed to the position of instructor of business administration at Massachusetts Community College in Brockton.
Frederick D. Quattromani, BSBA, is employed by Martin Gottesdiener and Company Inc. of New London, CT.
Lee A. Simard, BSBA, is currently a territory manager in the South Shore area for International Playtex, Inc.
Jerome C. Young, BSBA, reports that he is presently functioning as an auditor with the Detroit, Michigan Public Schools.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
James Brown, BS, is a stockbroker for Kidder, Peabody and Company, Inc., in Boston.
Peter Cardello, BS, is employed by Pastene, Wine and Spirits in Somerville.
Claire Cottone, BS, is currently a business teacher at Burdett College, Boston.
Phillis Kuehne, MS, has joined the business administration faculty at Dean Junior College in Franklin.
Stephen J. Surette, BS, is employed by the Malden School Department.
investment executive with Shearson, Hayden, Stone Inc., in Boston.
Robert F. McKenna, Jr., MBA, is currently employed by the Massachusetts State Senate.
George D. Miller, BSJ, is presently a writer/editor for Mitre Corporation in Bedford.
Wayne A. Mitchell, BSBA, presently holds the position of sales representative at Erie Technological Products in Wakefield.
Luciano F. Montillo, BSBA, is currently a key punch operator for Newton-Wellesley-Hospital in Newton.
Timothy J. Morrison, MBA, is a manager for Data General Corporation in Westboro.
Richard H. Nathanson, MBA, has recently been promoted to vice president of the Haverhill National Bank.
Charlene A. Paquette, MBA, presently holds the position of assistant staff manager of the New England Telephone Company in Boston.
Melvin Rosensaft, MBA, has recently been named associate professor of management at Keene State College in Keene, NH.
Lea G. Snow, MBA, is currently a financial manager for the Special Commission on State and County Buildings in Boston.

1979
College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Maria Bacigalupo, MS, presently holds the position of teacher/counselor at Curry College in Milton.
Diane J. Capozzoli, BS, is an assistant register of Suffolk Probate Court for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in Boston.
Peter Frederickson, EdM, is presently a counselor-teacher at the Lynnshoeh School in Lynn.
Todd F. Little, BS, is presently a research assistant for the Charles River Breeding Labs in Wilmington.
Richard J. McCusker, Jr., BS, is currently a marketing administrator for the New England Telephone Company in Boston.

Class Notes
Robert W. McManus, MEd, is currently the director of psychiatric Outpatient Services at the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital in Melrose.
Angela M. Neofotisots, BS, is currently employed by Computervision of Bedford.
James A. Osenkowski, MEd, is presently a teacher for the McElwain School in Bridgewater.
Paul J. Roach, BS, is presently employed by the Town of Stoughton where he is firefighter.
Beth A. Surgens, BS, is presently a Bio Technician for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in West Newton.
Robert H. Takvorian, BS, is a manager of product supplies with the Northeast Petroleum Industry Inc. in Chelsea.

Family, friends and associates of the late Frank J. Donahue, former Superior Court Judge and Suffolk University Trustee, gathered for the unveiling of his portrait. Shown (l-r): The Honorable James P. Lynch, Jr., Chief Justice, Superior Court; The Honorable Lawrence L. Cameron, Justice, South Boston District Court and Trustee; Jacob Binder, artist; Malcom M. Donahue, Associate Dean, Suffolk University Law School; and the Honorable Roger J. Donahue, Justice, Superior Court.
Calendar Of Events

February
- 9  Third Annual Alumni Basketball Game, Cambridge Y.M.C.A. 6:00 PM followed by the varsity team vs. Tufts University. Alumni reception to be held at the Sheraton Commander Hotel, 16 Garden Street, Cambridge.

March
- 18  MBA/MPA Alumni Association Board of Directors meeting, President's Conference Room, 5:30 PM.
- 19  General Alumni Association Board of Directors meeting, President's Conference Room, 5:00 PM.
- 20  Law School Alumni Association Board of Directors meeting, McDermott Conference Room, 5:30 PM.
- 22  MBA/MPA Alumni Luncheon Seminar on "Buying Your First Home".
- 27  MBA/MPA Alumni Dinner Seminar on "Financial Planning".
- 30  Annual Science Alumni Banquet, Fantasia Restaurant, Cambridge.

April
- 13  Martinique Alumni Vacation Departure.
- 17  General Alumni Seminar on "Wine Tasting".
- 23  Washington, D.C. College Alumni Club President's Luncheon.
- 24  MBA/MPA Alumni Dinner Seminar on "Outplacement".

May
- 19  U.S. Supreme Court Open Court Admissions Session for Law School Alumni.

June
- 7  Reunions for the Colleges.
- 8  Commencement

"Details to be announced in a separate mailing."