Marine Biology Gets New Prof

Suffolk recently announced the appointment of a new marine biology professor. Dr. John E. McLean, a renowned expert in the field of marine biology, will be joining the Suffolk faculty as of the fall semester. A native of New Hampshire, Dr. McLean has published extensively on marine life and has conducted extensive research in the field.

Lost Owner

Professor William J. Smith, a history professor at the Suffolk University, has discovered a lost owner of a ship, the Titanic. In 1912, the Titanic sank in the North Atlantic Ocean, and its owner, a rich man from New York, disappeared. The search for the lost owner has been ongoing for years, and Professor Smith's discovery is a significant breakthrough in the search.

President's Speech

President John F. Kennedy, a native of Massachusetts, delivered a speech at the Suffolk University to the students. In his speech, he praised the University for its contributions to education and science. He also announced the establishment of a new program for the advancement of science and technology.

More Games

Suffolk University's Ramettes, a women's basketball team, have recently announced their schedule for the upcoming season. The team will be playing against schools in the Northeastern Conference, with the goal of reaching the NCAA tournament. The team's first game is scheduled for January 30th.

New Prof. Poole of Cornell Joins Suffolk Literature Staff

The announcement of the appointment of Dr. Norling Poole, recently a member of the English faculty at Cornell University, as an assistant professor in the English Department at Suffolk College, has given a new impetus to the college's literary efforts. Poole, who has been teaching at Cornell for the past five years, brings with him a wealth of experience and knowledge in the field of English literature.

Poole's area of expertise is particularly valuable to Suffolk, as the college has been looking to expand its offerings in the literary arts. With Poole's addition, the college can now offer a more comprehensive curriculum in English literature, including courses in Shakespeare, American literature, and contemporary British literature.

Poole's teaching style is also a welcome addition to the college. He is known for his engaging and stimulating lectures, which have earned him high praise from both students and colleagues. His ability to connect with students and inspire them to pursue their passions is a asset that the college is excited to have on its faculty.

Poole will be joining Suffolk College on July 1st, and is looking forward to contributing to the college's literary programs. He is currently preparing for the fall semester, which will include courses in Shakespearean literature and American literature.

In addition to his teaching duties, Poole will also be participating in the college's extracurricular activities, including the literary society and the drama club. His involvement in these organizations will further enrich the college's cultural life and provide students with opportunities to explore their interests outside the classroom.

Poole's appointment is a significant step in the college's efforts to enhance its literary offerings and provide a more diverse range of courses for its students. The college looks forward to welcoming Poole and to seeing the positive impact he will have on the college's literary programs.
Wars, Photos Lead Marine To Suffolk U.

Ground Surrenders To Friendly Digger

by R. G. K. Jan. 1935

"If you don't like the way you're going, it's time to change direction."

Club events have been held throughout the month, with the highlight being the annual Club Dinner at the YE OLD ARCH INN on January 30th. The evening featured a fantastic buffet and speeches from various members, including a humorous monologue from President R. G. K.

Business Club

The Business Club, attended by 50 members, decided to sponsor the annual Coffee Morning at Ye Old Arch Inn on February 1st, with proceeds going to "Opportunity For Business." The venue was the East Division of the National Club Company, led by Robert White, with support from the Grand National Society.

Psychology Club

The Psychology Club held a successful "Meet the Teacher" event on January 27th, with lectures and discussions on various topics. The event was well-received, with many members expressing interest in attending future meetings.

Med School Slate Tests

Candidates for the Medical School Slate Tests are currently preparing themselves for the upcoming examinations. Those wishing to apply should contact the Medical Division for more information.

ROCK AND ROLL TAKES ITS TOLL

January 1935

"They're just like the rest of us, but they don't have the rest of us' problems."

The Club has decided to organize a Rock and Roll evening to raise money for "Opportunity For Business." The event will be held at the YE OLD ARCH INN on February 10th, with performances by local bands and a guest DJ to keep the audience dancing.

FRANCE

A meeting was held Monday night to discuss the possibility of a trip to France for the upcoming summer. The plans are still in the early stages, but members are excited about the prospect of exploring the country's history and culture.
