Our Daily Bread

By Ruth Taylor

"The history of the world is the record of the struggle of the people to get a fair deal of bread," wrote Her- odes of Babylon, and the struggle is the same today as it was then. The masses of people in the world are responsible for maintaining the price of bread at a level that makes it affordable for all. This is done by working together, voting for legislation that protects the rights of workers, and supporting organizations that fight for fair wages and working conditions.

The price of bread is a barometer of the economic health of a country. When bread is cheap, people have enough to eat. When bread is expensive, people go hungry. The struggle for fair bread is a struggle for justice and equality. And it is a struggle that we must all participate in if we are to live in a world where everyone has enough to eat.

Never mind the sympathy—he doesn't want it! In his mind, he did his duty, and part of his duty was stopping an enemy bullet.

You have a duty, too, in this war. Part of your duty is to buy War Bonds with every dime and dollar you can.

So simply say "thanks" to a wounded soldier, by buying your full share of War Bonds in the Fifth War Loan. Don't expect credit—you can't match his sacrifice by merely lending your money. But don't be ashamed, either—if you've done your duty, you've shown your gratitude—the way he wants you to.

Say "thanks" to every American soldier—do buy the Bonds you bought before.
