Donors Report
1981-1982
The overwhelming success of the Campaign for Excellence coupled with continued support from the annual fund is heartening to all of us at Suffolk University and again illustrates the commitment and loyalty of alumni and friends of this institution.

The magnificent, newly renovated Frank Sawyer Building at 8 Ashburton Place and the recently refurbished Frank J. Donahue Building and the Archer and the Fenton Buildings are the fruits of an endeavor that resulted in more than 2,600 pledges from alumni and friends, including major support from the corporate and philanthropic community. At the same time, the University's annual fund brought in more than $80,000 during the 1981-1982 fiscal year. It is certainly clear evidence of the growing support that the University has in its commitment to provide high-quality education at modest cost.

As chairman of the Campaign for Excellence, I give special thanks to the many people who worked with me during the campaign: President Daniel H. Perlman, President Emeritus Thomas A. Fulham, as well as my colleagues on the Board of Trustees and the many alumni and staff volunteers who gave of their time to help make this campaign the most successful in the University's history. Without their cooperation and effort, the campaign never would have achieved its goal.

The generosity of our donors not only insured completion of our $12 million Facilities Development Program on schedule and within budget, but it also paved the way for the University to explore newer and wider educational dimensions and to hold its head high in the academic community.

Again, my thanks to all for your tireless and unselfish efforts.
This has been a year of great progress and achievement for Suffolk University. I am pleased to report to you on the highlights.

The Campaign for Excellence, publicly launched in the Spring of 1980 under the leadership of John S. Howe, who in June 1981 became chairman of the Board, was successfully concluded in January 1982 with a total of $3.6 million raised; over 30 percent more than our original goal. In all, over 2,200 alumni pledged a total of $1,144,000 to the campaign.

The campaign was used to finance the University's much needed facilities development and renovation program. Three of the University's older buildings—Donahue, Archer and Fenton—have been extensively renovated. In addition, the twelve-story building at 8 Ashburton Place has been completely rehabilitated and reopened as the Frank Sawyer Building. The new building was formally dedicated by Governor Edward J. King on April 29, 1982, the University's Charter Day. The Sawyer Building contains thirty-three classrooms; approximately 150 faculty and administrative offices; the multi-level Mildred F. Sawyer Library, which was also dedicated on that day and is now used by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and by the School of Management; the John P. Chase Computer Center and a spacious student cafeteria.

Following the move to the Sawyer Building, the town house at 45-47 Mount Vernon Street—home of the School of Management during the decade of the 1970s—was sold for conversion to residential use. The University was also able to relinquish costly rental space.

Other facilities completed during the renovation of the Archer and Fenton Buildings include the spacious E. Albert Pallot Law Library which expands the seating and book capacity of the law school library, now regarded as a major research library in Anglo-American law; the C. Edward Rowe Law Classroom on the ground floor of the Donahue Building; the Edward I. Masterman Law Student Lounge; new teaching laboratories for the physics, biology and computer science programs; renovated classrooms and offices, as well as lounges and meeting rooms for students and faculty. The quality of the University's educational facilities has never been higher. At the same time, we are continuing to strengthen the faculty with the appointment of scholars who are dedicated to teaching. Two new full-time faculty were appointed in the Law School, four in the School of Management and eight, including replacements for several who had left the University, in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

The University was awarded a grant of $250,000 from the U.S. Department of Education under the Strengthening Developing Institutions program to support various academic and administrative improvements in fulfillment of a long-range plan. The grant has been used to strengthen the Placement Office, to develop a Learning Resource Center for students needing extra help, and to start new programs in various fields.

Other special grants and programs include: a contract with the federally supported Council on Legal Education Opportunity to conduct a six-week "head start" program for students from disadvantaged backgrounds who plan to study law; a grant of $75,000 under the Public Service Fellowships program, which provided fellowship support for nine women and minority students to study public management; two grants to the Sociology Department—one to develop a new course in urban sociology, the other to develop an internship program for students.

Suffolk University continues to fulfill its mission of providing educational opportunities for students from families of modest means. Suffolk University has maintained the lowest tuition of any independent senior university in the area.

In addition, many students qualify for scholarship support. Approximately 85 percent of the full-time undergraduate students receive some form of financial aid.

Suffolk University students continue to excel in academic competitions of all kinds. Law School students entered five national moot court competitions this year, winning first-place awards in the Northeast Regional competition of the Jessup International Law Moot Court and the Patent Law Moot Court. The undergraduate debate team took second place in the New England/New York district. The University continued the celebration of its 75th anniversary with festivities on September 19—Founder's Day—at which "heritage medallions" were awarded to various people who made special contributions to the University's development in earlier years: Gleason Archer, Sr. (accepted by his widow, Mrs. Polly Archer); Carrola Bryant (accepted by her niece); The Honorable Frank J. Donahue (accepted by his grandnephew); The Honorable John E. Fenton, Sr. (accepted by his son); Catharine Finnegan; John Griffin (accepted by his daughter); and Dorothy McNamara. Academic colloquia were held in each school to celebrate the anniversary. At the diamond jubilee law alumni banquet, Dean David Sargent addressed a gathering of over 600 attorneys and judges, most of whom are graduates of Suffolk University Law School, on the subject of the report of the Kutak Committee of the American Bar Association.

The University again ended the year with a balanced budget. Suffolk University is in a strong position to face the challenges of the years ahead. Greater support from alumni, foundations and friends is needed, however, to enable the University to fulfill its potential as a major urban university.

As president, I want to express the gratitude of the students, the faculty and the trustees to the alumni for their support of the University. Suffolk University has a dedicated faculty and administrative staff, whose efforts have made possible the realization of the achievements reported here and other improvements in the University's quality and scope of service. We greatly appreciate the continued interest and support of the alumni as we advance the ability of Suffolk University to fulfill its mission of educational service.

Dr. Daniel H. Perlman
President
Having finished my eighteenth year at Suffolk University, I look back on a period of the most dramatic changes of my tenure.

On July 1 of 1981, we accepted three floors of the Sawyer Building from the contractor and moved the administrative offices from Charles River Plaza, including the Office of the Vice President/Treasurer, Accounting, Development, Payroll, Personnel, Career Planning and Placement, College Registrar, and Financial Aid.

In August, we moved the Admissions Office and the Sociology Department from the town house at 56 Temple Street to the Sawyer Building. The School of Management moved during the last two weeks of August, and the old facility at 45-47 Mt. Vernon Street was sold to a developer and returned to the tax rolls, as previously agreed with the zoning board of the City of Boston.

In August, we acquired a second Prime 750 computer, and we have expanded from 26 to 146 terminals in four years.

On September 1, we accepted floors three through twelve in the Sawyer Building just in time for the opening of classes, and in December we moved the College Library into the Sawyer Building. At the start of the spring term in January of 1982, the new Mildred F. Sawyer Library opened to the University community. The portion of the total cost of $9,985,000 for the Sawyer Building allocated to the library was $2,800,000, representing the University's strong commitment to academic excellence.

Because the Sawyer Building did not exceed the budget and because the capital campaign was so successful, the trustees authorized the additional remodeling projects to move ahead by six months. Consequently, the University renovated the basement floor of the Donahue Building into two modern, well-equipped, attractive classrooms and a cafeteria for the Law School. The Law School also gained additional faculty office space by acquiring the use of the town house at 56 Temple Street, formerly occupied by the CLAS/SOM Admissions Office. Work commenced on the new E. Albert Pallot Law Library, a new law student lounge, new and larger facilities for the Law Review and the Transnational Law Journal, and new faculty offices in the area formerly occupied by the College Library. The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences obtained a new physics laboratory and two new biology laboratories, an art studio, a computer science terminal room, a science lecture hall, a faculty lounge, and general office and conference space. Also, the ground floor of the Fenton Building was restored for use as a student lounge. The cost of all these improvements was $1,481,000.

During the year, we completed the installation of a new telecommunications system which included our own microwave system which creates an integrated connector to all four of the University's major buildings with our privately owned electronic telephone switch. This system is estimated to have saved almost $67,000 in its first year. The cost of the system will be paid off in less than two years. This project was selected as a winner of the Cost Reduction Incentive Award for 1982 in the program sponsored by the National Association of College and University Business Officers and the U.S. Steel Foundation. The University received an award of $2,500 for this achievement.

Your generosity in the past has helped Suffolk University to substantially rehabilitate its physical facilities. Your continued support is needed to maintain and enhance our facilities to ensure that Suffolk remains an aggressively competitive private urban university.

* Total gifts and grants amounted to $1,536,776. Gifts totaling $5,000 or more amounted to $1,256,692 and went directly to the Reserve for Renewals and Replacements, and the balance of $280,084 was credited to the Current Fund. A Title III grant for developing institutions in the amount of $250,000 was received from the government, and as of June 30, 1982 $105,100 had been requested and received, covering expenditures to that date. This was credited to Restricted Funds.

Compiled by the office of Francis X. Flannery, Vice President/Treasurer
In this 1981-1982 Report to the Donors, Suffolk University confirms the establishment of the Office of Institutional Advancement to place the offices of Alumni Activities, Development, and Public Relations securely in an organizational context that reflects the University’s own maturity.

Suffolk is, nevertheless, a relatively young institution, with all the energy, flexibility, and optimism that youth implies. What is exciting about Suffolk is that the University has a clear sense of what it is and where it is going, and a sense of self-esteem that is neither brash nor timid. The validity of this confidence is borne out by the increasing numbers of alumni, foundations, corporations, and other friends whose enthusiasm for Suffolk is described in these pages.

Of special note is the fact that membership in the various giving clubs is on the rise. This trend, in which we observe a strong and steady effort on the part of all of Suffolk’s supporting constituencies to increase their philanthropic commitments to the University, allows us to recognize an expanding category of donors who make gifts of $1,000 and more. These alumni and friends will in future be designated as members of “Summa,” a term which, in the academic world, denotes achievement of the highest rank. Members of Summa will be invited to a formal pre-Commencement banquet at which the University will honor its honorary degree recipients of the current year. Other activities, such as smaller, more informal receptions to meet new faculty, will also be introduced.

A primary task of the members of the Office of Institutional Advancement is to fulfill their functions as communicators, constantly to create and refine activities that generate understanding and involvement in the enterprise of Suffolk University, and to broaden the base of leaders who are committed to Suffolk’s programs and its institutional mission.

This task is made less complicated by the fact that more and more Suffolk alumni/ae are achieving distinction in their chosen fields. As Suffolk alumni/ae in their personal careers reflect favorably on their University, Suffolk itself becomes more visible as the valuable and contributive institution we know it to be.

The quality of Suffolk’s alumni/ae, as of its students, faculty and administrative staff, is the University’s most important asset. What might be called “The Case for Suffolk” is further enhanced when this quality is paired with the University’s demonstrated record of prudent and responsible management.

The University has solid reason to anticipate a bright future. Its confidence is rooted in a past where realism always prevailed whatever the economic weather and which has always proven to be the successful course.

Joseph M. Kelley
Vice President for Institutional Advancement
Annual Law Fund
During the 1981-1982 fiscal year, some 550 Law alumni/ae gave more than $35,000 to the Seventh Annual Law Fund. Continued participation by Law alumni/ae is particularly encouraging, occurring as it did in the year when the Campaign for Excellence went over its goal to a total of $3.6 million.

I am confident, as I go out of office, that the success of the capital campaign will carry over to the Eighth Annual Law Fund, helping to expand the base of support needed to insure that scholarship and library needs are met.

It has been an honor and a privilege to have been National Chairman for my fellow Law alumni/ae for the past three years. I extend sincere appreciation to all the volunteers and the University.

I am also grateful to the alumni, Dean Sargent, and President Perlman for the support and assistance they have extended to me.

With many thanks,

Walter H. McLaughlin
National Chairman

The Advocates Society

THE ADVOCATES SOCIETY is the designation given to Suffolk University Law alumni/ae and friends who undertake philanthropic responsibility for the Law School by making gifts of $500 or more to the Annual Fund. The group, which has each year increased its membership, includes men and women who have a special concern for the quality of legal education offered by Suffolk University.

The Templars

THE TEMPLARS, whose title recalls the informal nickname given to British students of law, are alumni/ae who demonstrate their special loyalty to Suffolk University Law School through annual contributions of between $100 and $499. The Templars, led by The Honorable Walter H. McLauighlin JD ’30, DJS ’71, LLD ’77, have expanded their ranks consistently during their six years of existence.

Annual Fund of the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences and the School of Management
Report from the General Chairman

During my three years as General Chairman for the Annual Fund of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and School of Management, Suffolk University has celebrated its 75th birthday, inaugurated a new and dynamic president, and has successfully completed the most ambitious fundraising campaign in its history, surpassing the goal by almost one-third.

Over the past three years, Suffolk alumni/ae have continuously demonstrated their loyalty to our University through financial support. This has given the University an excellent base from which to approach corporations and foundations around the country for their support, with highly gratifying results.

As I complete my term as General Chairman, I want to thank all volunteers, whether alumni/ae or friends of the University, who have been the real secret of the success of the Campaign for Excellence and of the Annual Fund.

I sincerely believe that your continued participation in the Annual Fund, and your enlistment of ever greater numbers of alumni/ae and friends, will provide Suffolk University with one of its most important resources for continued excellence in educational programs and facilities.

Thank you,

Melvin Cheney, General Chairman

The Cornerstone Society

THE CORNERSTONE SOCIETY gives recognition to those alumni/ae, members of the University staff, and friends of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and of the School of Management, who strengthen the fabric of Suffolk University through annual gifts of $250 or more. The steady increase in Cornerstone Society membership is evidence of the donors' dedication to and confidence in the programs and policies of the University.

On Thursday, February 10, over 150 alumni, friends, faculty, students and staff of Suffolk University gathered in the dining area of the Frank Sawyer Building for an appreciation dinner. They were honored as having volunteered over the past two years to participate in the phonathons for the Campaign for Excellence and the Annual Funds. Extending appreciation for a job well done were President Daniel H. Perlman and Chairman of the Board John S. Howe. This fall, the phonathons raised over $78,000 in pledges from alumni of Suffolk University. Shown above are Dr. Gerald Loseau, AB '64 (right) and Patrick Dwyer, BSBA '62, EdM '70 (left).
