Meetings For Few

Choral meetings, as a rule, are held for the purpose of providing special groups of students with an outlet for their feelings and an opportunity to express themselves. Meetings of this nature are, of course, desirable. But no meeting, no matter how well conceived and constructed, can be effective if its members are not properly prepared. And this is where the problem lies. Meetings are held for the purpose of providing an outlet for students, but if the members do not have the necessary preliminary training, the meetings will be ineffective. Fortunately, this is the exception rather than the rule. Meetings are held to express feelings, but if the members do not have the necessary preliminary training, the meetings will be ineffective.

In order for meetings to be held, the members must be prepared. The preparation must be evident in the members' actions and attitudes. The members must be willing to express themselves and must be able to do so effectively. The members must be able to construct their meetings in such a way that their ideas and feelings are communicated to the audience. The members must be able to construct their meetings in such a way that their ideas and feelings are communicated to the audience.

It is well that draft regiments, the corps of eight and fifteen, are not used at these meetings. Perhaps the most important thing here is the presence of a class b y-long-out-the-competition student. This student has no need to be the only one.

I greatly appreciate the most mutual expression of sympathy for the students, Faculty and Staff in reference to the death of Mrs. Munce. There have been a large number of contributions to date, and I know that Mrs. Munce would have been proud of what the students are doing for each other in her memory.

In 103-78 Rout At Lowell

The Suffolk Rams, sparked by veteran A.B. Hennaghan and frosh Michael "Eldy" Hendy, romped with a 35-point margin over the visiting Lowell Tech Blue Knights on Friday night. The final score was 103-78, with both teams scoring more than their typical total.

Eldy, a frosh from Lowell Tech, was the game's top scorer with 35 points. He was named MVP of the contest. Hennaghan, a senior who had a quiet year, exploded for 30 points and earned his first game of the season.

The Suffolk Rams, led by Eldy, jumped out to an early lead and never looked back. They outscored the Blue Knights 23-7 in the first quarter. The lead grew to 47-16 by halftime, and the Rams controlled the game throughout.

"Eldy is a great addition to our team," said Coach Bill Buxton. "He's very aggressive and a great finisher. He's going to be a great asset to our squad." Hennaghan added, "I'm just happy to be contributing to the team. I'm looking forward to the rest of the season."

Kansas Dean Rejects Entrance Exam System

Kansas City, Mo. (AP) — The required administrative method of handling the student verification process has been rejected by the Erotic Entrance Exam System of the University of Kansas.

The University of Kansas has decided not to use the Erotic Entrance Exam System due to the concern that it may lead to sexual harassment on campus. The system was used in several other universities but was found to be ineffective and unethical.

The Erotic Entrance Exam System requires students to undergo an exam that includes physical examinations, which many students find invasive and uncomfortable. The University of Kansas has decided to adopt a more traditional method of student verification.
