Alumni-Trustee Election

As this publication is mailed, the fourth alumni-trustee election is in process. Appearing on the ballot are: Anthony Bille, BSBA'54, JD'57; James J. Nixon, JD'55; and Dr. Harry Zohn, BA'46. You, the alumnus/alumna, will elect one of these distinguished alumni to serve as your representative for a three year term on the Suffolk University Board of Trustees.

The nominating committee is composed of three trustees and the presidents of the three alumni associations. Thirty-four highly qualified alumni were nominated, making the ballot selection process quite difficult.

The newly elected alumni-trustee will join Michael Linguata, BS'50 and Joseph Shanahan, AB'72, JD'75 on the Board. Both Mr. Linguata and Mr. Shanahan have served as alumni-trustees for one year. Their interactions with current students and your elected alumni associations' representatives have been extensive. Through these meetings and conferences they are better able to voice your concerns.

The results of the election will be announced in the Winter issue of the Bulletin.

New Building

December, 1981 has been set as the target date for the University to occupy the newly acquired 12-story United Way building at Somerset Street and Ashburton Place on Beacon Hill.

President Fulham, who announced the purchase of the 63-year old building Aug. 31, says that present plans call for a remodeling of eight floors and two basements. The remaining floors may be developed at a later date.

The university purchased the building for $605,000 from United Way of Massachusetts Bay, Inc., which had occupied the property since 1949. For years, the building housed the Boston City Club, an exclusive men's club. Its tenants also have included a number of social service agencies such as the Visiting Nurse Association of Boston, the Greater Boston Council of Camp Fire Girls and the Associated Day Care Centers of Metropolitan Boston.

Total cost of the project, which includes renovation of the new building and existing ones, will run between five to six million dollars, according to Fulham.

The building could be the new home of Suffolk's College of Business Administration, which will vacate its location at 47 Mt. Vernon St. That property will be sold later for residential use. The Ashburton Place building also may house a new and larger college library with the law school library expanding its present quarters into space occupied currently by the College library. Plans also include a new cafeteria in the Ashburton building, and administrative offices presently lodged at 100 Charles River Plaza on Cambridge Street will move to the Ashburton site.

The purchase of the United Way building will bring about a number of relocations including returning the ground floor of the Fenton building to social use, removal of classrooms from the Ridgeway Building on Cambridge Street and conversion of the present College Admissions Office at 56 Temple St. to law faculty offices.

President Fulham said that the targeted 1981 opening will coincide with Suffolk's 75th anniversary and outlined it as a diamond jubilee facilities development project.

The United Way building was officially known as the Mason Memorial Building. The Mason sisters donated it to United Community Services (the forerunner of United Way) in 1949 to be used as a center for human care service agencies. The United Way is acquiring new permanent quarters at 87 Kilby St., Post Office Square, Boston in December.

"The building, located as it is in close proximity to our other buildings, will enable the university to maintain its traditional mission of providing diverse educational programs to all students in a highly accessible urban location," Fulham said.

At present, the university owns the Frank J. Donahue Building, 41 Temple St., home of the law school, the Archer Building at 20 Derne St., occupied by the colleges, the John E. Fenton Building, housing the College of Liberal Arts, the 47 Mt. Vernon Street Building, occupied by the Business College, the Ridgeway Building at Cambridge Street, used for classrooms and student offices, and 56 Temple St., site of College Admissions and college department offices.

While the building won't be utilized for more than two years, it received an early christening on Saturday, Sept. 16 when the annual Deans' reception was held in the impressive and stately Adams Room. Some 430 faculty, staff and guests were present for the reception, the largest of its kind in Suffolk University history.

Alumni Golf Day

August 21 marked the First Suffolk University Alumni Golf Day, which was played in bright sunshine and 82 degree temperature. Fifty alumni and friends from as far away as Phoenix, Arizona; Cape Elizabeth, Maine; and Westfield, Massachusetts, gathered at the beautiful Wollaston Golf Club in Milton, Massachusetts to participate in this event. Retired Athletic Director, Charles Law was Honorary Chairman and Chairman Arthur Bell, BSBA '50 was ably assisted by David Cavalier, AB '74; Ronald D'Avolio, JD '60; Michael Egan, BSBA '71; Dean Herbert Lemelman; Neil MacLean, BSBA '70; and Joseph O'Rourke, JD '41.

Each golfer received a bag tag and tees imprinted with "Suffolk University Alumni Golf Day" as a memento. Upon completion of the course, alumni gathered for cocktails and a roast beef dinner. Following the dinner, prizes were awarded amidst cheers and laughter.

The prize for Longest Drive was awarded to Gerald D'Avolio, JD '68 for a smashing drive of over 285 yards. Nearest to the Pin, 8'5", was won by Jack Walsh, BSBA '50, who used a 6 iron on the 130 yard par three hole.

Low Net was won by Frederick J. Hadge, JD '33, who ended up with a net 71 after the Calloway System was applied. Winning second net was Robert W. Dick, BSBA '68, JD '72, with a 72.

Low Gross was won by Frank A. Sablone, BSBA '70, EdM '71 with an 81, lowest score for the alumni. Frank's round was aided when he eagled the par 5 fifth hole. Michael DeSimone, JD '41, won second low gross with an 83. These four top finishers received silver trays for their accomplishments.

Denis Nee, AB '74, who showed the most perseverance and dedication of all, has been playing golf for only one year. Little did Denis know after tapping in his last putt that he would be the recipient of a gift certificate for the highest score of the day!

In all some twenty-nine prizes were awarded. All of which were contributed by the following concerns:

Cohasset Village Printers, Cohasset
Crimson Printing Company, Cambridge
Foot-Joy, Incorporated, Brockton
Hillside Liquors, Medford
John Gilbert, Jr. Liquor Company, Boston
Medford Square Sporting Goods, Medford

Special appreciation and thanks to Richard Corner, BSBA '69, who as a member of Wollaston, sponsored the alumni outing. Without his efforts, the Golf Day would not have been possible. The committee also wishes to express their congratulations to all the winners, and would like to have everyone check off June 18, 1979 as the date for the Second Annual Alumni Golf Day.

Alumni Golf Day: (L-R) Richard Corner, BSBA '69 and Frank Flannery, MBA '64, Vice President and Treasurer.

Alumni Contract Bids

Alumni who work for or own businesses which provide goods or services applicable to an educational institution, including maintenance and repair work are invited to send a brief description of their wares to Mr. Francis X. Flannery, the Vice President and Treasurer of Suffolk University. Please also indicate whether you wish to be placed on the University's bidding list.

Enrollment, 1978

The largest incoming freshmen class in Suffolk University's history reported for classes September 11.

Some 425 first year students enrolled in Suffolk's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and College of Business Administration, according to William F. Coughlin, director of admissions.

Coughlin noted that enrollment is up about 20 students from a year ago in the face of some predictions that enrollment might be down in area colleges and universities this Fall. "Actually, we probably won't feel the effect of a populations reduction until 1980," he said.

Coughlin went on to report that the number of transfer students enrolled at the university is about 15 less than a year ago, the second year in a row that there has been a reduction. Suffolk expects to enroll about 275 transfer students, mostly from two-year community colleges. He attributes the decline to increased competition among four-year colleges for transfer students.

The colleges draw heavily from the Greater Boston area although Coughlin says that for the second straight year, there is an increase in students from beyond the Routes 128 and 495 areas.

Total undergraduate enrollment for the Fall semester is 3319 and graduate students add another 1460. These figures reflect both the day and evening divisions' population.

Meanwhile, classes opened in the law school with about 535 new first year students (335 days and 200 evenings) selected from some 3800 applicants, according to Admissions Director Marjorie Cellar.

"Some 46 per cent of the first year class is made up of women, six per cent more than a year ago and the largest number of women ever enrolled at Suffolk University Law School," Ms. Cellar reported. This brings the Law School's total enrollment to 1662.

Xmas Shoppers' Service

There were twenty-five happy shining faces at the end of the first Christmas Shoppers' Service last year. Plans are now underway for the Second Annual Christmas Shoppers' Service. Scheduled for Saturday, December 16, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., the program offers you, the alumnus/alumna, a place to leave your children and an opportunity to shop the downtown Boston stores.

The Service is open to children from age four to ten. They will be supervised by S.U. students and alumni. A nurse will also be on call. Cartoons, games, a visit from Santa, favors and a lunch will be provided for the children. The cost is $1 for each child. A number of retailers from the downtown Boston stores will be contacted once again to donate various items to help defray expenses.

This unique service presents you the chance to finish up all your last minute holiday errands while your children are well supervised and have a fun day! Reservation notices will be mailed in November.

55 Alumni to Attend High Court Admission

55 alumni will participate in the Special Admissions Session before the United States Supreme Court on November 13. The ceremony, first of its kind involving a Suffolk group, has been arranged by the Washington, D.C. alumni in cooperation with the Law School Alumni Association. Paul T. Smith, JD'37, noted trial attorney and S.U. trustee, will move the admittance of the group before the full bench of the Supreme Court.

Well-known Washington attorney, Thomas Gardiner Corcoran, will address the participants, their guests and D.C. area alumni at a luncheon on Capitol Hill following the ceremony. Many of the alumni and their families are taking advantage of a weekend travel and lodging package arranged by the Alumni/Development office.

The project encourages attorneys to apply for admittance in open court or by written motion. Nearly 100 additional alumni are being admitted by written motion. Their papers are processed by the Alumni/Development office and are forwarded to D.C.

"The response to the initial letter was excellent," reports William Amidon, Law School Development Officer. "We have had over 900 requests for forms. We were only able to send information to the first 500 respondents. I am sorry that we could not accommodate more graduates."

Amidon said, however, that due to the heavy demand, the Washington alumni group has planned a second session for May, 1979. An announcement will be made early next year.

The Honorable Martin F. Loughlin, JD'51, Chief Justice, New Hampshire Superior Court.

N.H. Chief Justice is S.U. Alumnus

Martin Loughlin, JD'51 has been appointed Chief Justice of the Superior Court of New Hampshire, announced Governor Meldrin Thomson, Jr. Judge Loughlin has been the senior judge on the Superior Court, to which he was appointed in 1963.

A native of Manchester, New Hampshire, Loughlin is married to Margaret Gallagher. They have seven children and one grandchild.

Justice Loughlin is a graduate of St. Anselm's College where he teaches evidence and criminal law. He is a member of the editorial board of the New Hampshire Law Weekly and has chaired the Superior Court's sentence review division. He is the author of New Hampshire Trial Practice, published in 1975.

Annual Alumni Dinner

Monday, December 4 marks the date of the annual Law School Alumni Dinner. Under the chairmanship of Charles Collatos, JD'64 and alumni president David Saliba, AA'49, JD'52, this annual affair will bring over 600 alumni together at the Boston Park Plaza Hotel. Over the years the spirit of camaraderie that the dinner evoked has made it the principal law alumni event of the area. "Even lawyers that are not Suffolk alumni ask to be invited," reports David Saliba.

Commissioner Collatos informs us that announcements of the dinner have been mailed and the invitations are at the printers. Individual ticket subscriptions will be $16. Tables seat ten and will cost $160. Because there are no individual seating assignments except for groups of 10 or more, alumni are encouraged to get together with their friends and purchase an entire table. A cash bar will be open from 5:30-6:45 p.m. and the dinner will start at 7:00 p.m.

For ticket information contact the Alumni Office, at 723-4700, Ext. 132.

4th Annual Law Fund Begins

Ronald A. Wysocki, JD'72, National Chairman, has announced the start of the 1978-1979 Annual Law Fund. The campaign will seek alumni contributions from Maine to California through 29 regional networks of alumni volunteers. This year's drive will continue to June 30, 1979.

"We are now at the threshold of maturity," according to Wysocki. "This is our fourth year. Beginning in 1975-76, 755 alumni gave $42,000. The next campaign, 1976-77 we realized $49,800 from 943 alumni. Last year was the best yet with a sizeable leap upward totalling $77,500 from 1257 alumni."

"Today we are at the threshold of finally attaining a very meaningful response from our graduates of a $100,000 Annual Law Fund. This figure puts us in a comparable league of alumni support with law schools across the country."

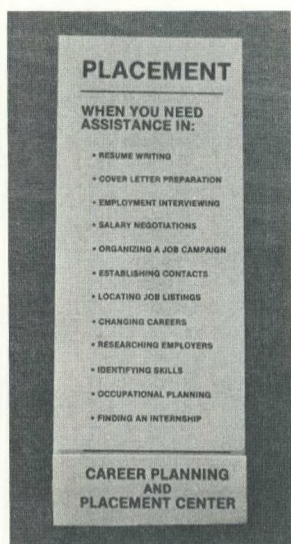

"Our Fund is new born, only four years old, and its growth and the response from alumni is remarkable in achieving such a level of giving in such a short span of time. In fact, the level of alumni participation exceeds the national average of alumni giving to institutions of higher education."

"This year our goal is $100,000. With continued growth of our gift clubs, the Templars and the Advocates Society, as well as the continuous excellent record of gifts from young alumni, we will achieve this goal."

Patience Has Rewards/Alumni Directory

The Law School Alumni Directory, originally planned for delivery in October, is now scheduled for mailing in early December. Our apologies for the delay which has been caused by editing and printing schedules. The reward for patience will be a more accurate and useful reference tool.

Copies of the directory can still be ordered by sending a check for five dollars payable to Suffolk University to the Alumni Office, Suffolk University, Beacon Hill, Boston, MA 02114.

Only a few of the services offered!

Ms. Elizabeth McCombs, Assistant Director of Career Advising and Placement for the Law School, has been at Suffolk University since 1975. Prior to that she worked as a staff assistant in the Executive Office of Human Services as a legislative liaison and recruitment coordinator.

Bulletin: Now Mike, what about the Placement Library and the Workshops?

Rubino: Anyone looking for a job should always know something about the company they are interviewing with and should research a variety of alternatives. The College Placement Library has descriptive information on over 500 companies and government agencies that hire at the bachelor or master level. In addition to this, you will find numerous publications concerning the current job market, future employment trends, and salary and wage information. We have materials on resume writing, job interviewing, how to carry out a successful job finding campaign and a selection of directories of government, business and educational institutions. I'm sure Tony has similar literature but directed toward law primarily.

DeVico: That's correct.

Rubino: In regard to the workshops, Tony and Betsy also conduct similar sessions. These are geared toward students primarily but are also helpful to alumni. The two most important are resume writing and job interviewing techniques. A well-written resume is one of the most important tools a person needs when looking for employment. It points out accomplishments, identifies skills and most definitely assists in obtaining an interview. I teach various resume formats as well as composition of the cover letter.

The job interview workshop teaches employment interviewing from the employer's perspective. You learn why the employers ask the questions they do and what they look for both verbally and non-verbally.

DeVico: I am constantly taken aback at how some people—alumni and students—will not take the time and effort necessary to produce an effective professional resume or to research and prepare for an interview with prospective employers.

Rubino: Hopefully, that is what we try to overcome.

But what is a principal concern of mine is establishing a network of job information referrals. If a student or alumnus is interested let's say in community counseling or working for an accounting firm but doesn't really know if he/she would like to make a career of it there's no established network of contacts that I can utilize to refer the person to for direct information and/or an internship.

DeVico: That is what our Job Information Sessions accomplish to a degree. But I agree with Mike, nothing can take the place of the one-on-one dialogue of a person presently active in the career with a student, or the practical experience gained in an internship setting.

Bulletin: You have both discussed services you offer to students and alumni. You have both also alluded to your need for alumni assistance. What exactly are you saying is necessary?

DeVico: You're right. It is a two-way process. I feel we need to expand the alumni volunteer advising system or network as Mike calls it. There is also the constant need to obtain information on job vacancies, both full and part-time, as well as summer employment opportunities.

Rubino: Right. But let's emphasize that it is a two-way process. For example, I repeatedly, and so does Tony, receive calls on job opportunities that require experience. Many times I can alert and refer alumni who maintain a placement file with us to that particular firm. But . . . many times I cannot.

Bulletin: Then what is the best way for an alumna or alumnus to: 1. volunteer their assistance; 2. register with the office for assistance; and 3. inform you of job vacancies.

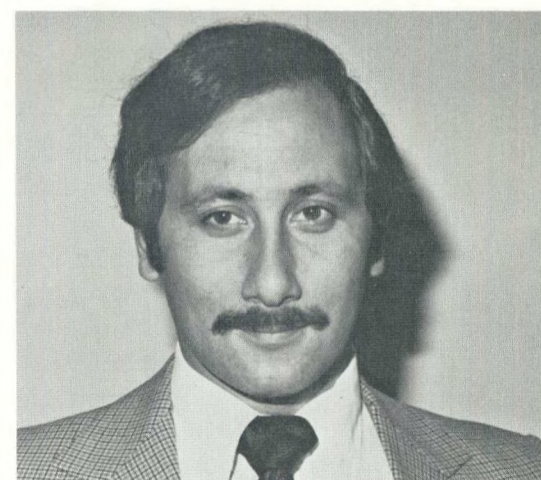

DeVico/Rubino: 1. Keep the Alumni Records Office informed of their occupation and business address and whether they wish to volunteer their services. The Alumni Associations' Boards of Directors have been working with us and will keep us informed. Their computerized record system is established to maintain this information.

2. We require at least one personal contact with anyone registering for Placement services. An alumna or alumnus can call or write to set up an appointment. We want to know our graduates.

3. In regard to job vacancies, please call or write—immediately to the appropriate placement office! (Placement for the Colleges and Graduate Schools 723-4700 X-118 and Placement for the Law School 723-4700 X148 OR Suffolk University, Beacon Hill, Boston, MA 02114, please indicate the appropriate office).

Prof. Anthony DeVico, Director of the Law School Career Advising and Placement office, served as commanding officer of the U.S. Naval Justice School in Newport, R.I., Military Judge and Senior Attorney for the Navy in the First Naval District with offices in Boston before coming to Suffolk in 1971. He received his Juris Doctor and Bachelor of Arts degrees from Boston College and a Master of Arts degree from Boston University. He holds the position of President-elect of the American Justinian Society of Jurists, director of the Massachusetts Justinian Society, and was the first treasurer of the National Association for Law Placement. He also maintains membership in the American, Federal, Massachusetts, Middlesex and Boston Bar Associations. He is admitted to the Massachusetts Bar, Federal Bar (Mass.), U.S. Court of Military Appeals, U.S. Customs Court and the U.S. Supreme Court. DeVico and his wife, Ida, have two children and reside in Belmont.

Mr. Michael Rubino, Director of Career Planning and Placement for the Colleges, joined the university in July, 1978. He was previously the placement director at North Shore Community College in Beverly, Mass. A Bachelor of Arts graduate from Clark University, he received his Master of Education degree in counseling from Northeastern University. He is presently a doctoral candidate in higher education administration at Northeastern. He is the Vice President of the North Shore Personnel Association, the College Placement Council and the Massachusetts Educational Recruiting Consortium. Rubino and his wife, Christina, live in Marblehead. They have one child.

Making plans for the 1978-1979 Annual Fund campaign are Frank Evans BSBA'50, Vice Chairman for Special Gift Societies and John E. McDonald BSBA'71, General Chairman.

Key Volunteers Named

John E. McDonald, BSBA'71, General Chairman for the 1978-1979 Annual Fund is pleased to announce the appointments of three alumni volunteers to key leadership roles.

Robert Benoit, BSJ'52, of Bedford has agreed to serve as Vice Chairman for Volunteers. Bob's duties will include assisting the General Chairman in building a national alumni volunteer group for the Annual Fund.

Melvin Cheney, AB'50, of Lowell will be the 1978-1979 Cornerstone Society Chairman. Mel has been active in the Annual fund for the past three years. His assignment is to establish a committee of alumni who will be responsible for the growth of this special gift society.

Vice Chairman for Special Gift Societies is Frank Evans, BSBA'50, of Cohasset. Frank is the past chairman of the Cornerstone Society. He will be responsible for working with Jack McDonald in establishing other gift societies and soliciting key donors for the Annual Fund.

Over 600 alumni volunteers have been involved with the success of the Annual Fund since 1975. If you would like to be part of this successful team, please contact John E. McDonald, Annual Fund General Chairman, Suffolk University, Beacon Hill, Boston, MA 02114 or call (617) 723-4700, extension 130.

3rd Annual Ticket Series

Over the past two years, over 2,000 alumni have enjoyed what is called the Ticket Subscription Series. Sponsored by the General Alumni Association, the Series provides tickets, at cost, to alumni for cultural and sporting events. The Third Annual Ticket Series is enlarging to also include Suffolk University events. Some of which are available to alumni free of charge.

Starting off the program is a play produced by the Suffolk Theater Company. A Company that is a professional, non-profit, tax exempt organization housed and partially subsidized by Suffolk University. Entering its second year, S.T.C. has established a resident theater for the Beacon Hill and general Boston communities. On November 10, 11, 12, and 13 the premiere of the musical drama Album, by Leslie LeRoy Hurley, will open. The song play is about a young, black composer in search of self-realization and success in the music industry of the late 1960's and early 1970's. Curtain time at the Suffolk University Theater on Temple Street is 8:30 p.m. Tickets will be $4.

On November 18, the Suffolk University L.I.F.E. Committee (Leisure is for Enjoyment) has scheduled the Boston Flamenco Ballet. The performance is free of charge and will be held at 7:00 p.m. at the University Theater on Temple Street.

L.I.F.E. Committee has also invited the Chamber Theatre Productions to present, "Mark Twain Sketches". Admittance is free and the Sketches start at 1:00 p.m. in the University Theater on December 5.

The Nutcracker, a perennial favorite and more resplendent than ever with new sets and costumes, will be on Friday, December 8 at the Music Hall Theatre, Boston. Tickets are $8 per person.

The Boston Celtics and the Philadelphia 76ers are the Ticket Subscription Series' choice for Sunday, January 21 at the Boston Garden for a 1:45 p.m. game.

A 7:00 p.m. face-off between the Boston Bruins and the New York Islanders is scheduled for Sunday, March 11.

Still to be decided and tentatively scheduled for March is a play at one of the Boston theaters. The Box Offices have been unable to confirm a specific production before this issue went to press.

The General Alumni Board of Directors are excited about the schedule and wish to remind interested alumni to make their reservations early.

D.C. Alumni Dinner Planned

Saturday evening, November 11, 1978, will mark the first annual dinner for college alumni residing in the greater Washington, D.C. area.

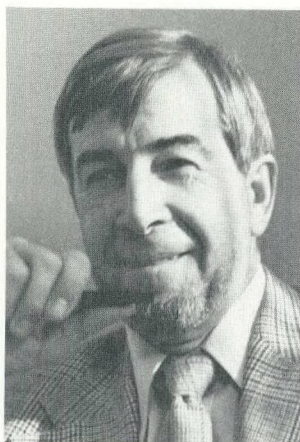

The evening is being planned by Richard W. Novak, BSBA'58 and Robert R. Rodman, BSBA'53, MA'55, and will be held at Stouffer's National Center Hotel, Arlington, Virginia.

Cocktails begin at 7 p.m. with dinner being served at 8 p.m.

NEH Grant Awarded

In June the newly formed department of Humanities/Modern Languages received notification of approval of a consultant grant from the National Endowment for Humanities. Throughout this academic year, the department and the consultant will be working to produce a curriculum which articulates the department's directions in conjunction with the long-range plans of the University and the Curriculum Committee.

Professor Harvey Buchanan from Case Western Reserve has been selected as the Consultant. A former provost for Humanities at his institution, Professor Buchanan serves on the National Board of Advisors in Humanities for the N.E.H.

He recently completed his first three-day visitation, which will be followed by four or five additional sessions throughout the year. During this visit, he met with the President, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the Curriculum Committee chairman as well as the chairman and faculty of the Humanities/Modern Languages department.

"Those individuals who met and worked with Professor Buchanan found his visit to be stimulating and are most enthusiastic about his assistance," stated Dr. Cleophas W. Boudreau, Chairman of the department and author of the grant proposal.

Happenings in Education

Special Education: The new program, leading to a Master of Education degree in Special Education, is a competency-based, pragmatic curriculum. It is designed to prepare the regular classroom teacher integrating children with special needs; the teacher of school age children with moderate special needs; and the generic teacher of school age children with mild special needs. Candidates for the degree can expect to complete the program in one year and one summer of full-time study. However, part-time students will take a proportionately longer period of time to finish. A minimum program involves 36 semester credit hours. Non-degree students are allowed to register for certain courses within the program after consultation with the director. Interested alumni are advised to consult with Dr. Joanne Carr, Program Director at Suffolk University, 723-4700, Extension 289. Students from all fields of education are welcome.

Business Education: This summer the Education Department offered three, one week sessions in business education for graduate credit. Filled to capacity, 180 business educators came from every state in New England, as well as New York and Canada. Out-of-town participants stayed at the Parker House and special activities, including a wine and cheese reception and buffet dinner, were planned for all. Co-sponsored by the Gregg Division, McGraw-Hill Book Company, the three programs presented "Current Issues and Trends in Shorthand and Transcription", "Current Issues and Trends in Office Education", and "Current Issues and Trends in Typewriting". Ms. Barbara Ash, Director of the Business Education Program at Suffolk University, is to be congratulated for organizing such an outstanding program.

Business Education Program Director, Barbara Ash with Dr. Allan C. Lloyd, Director of Typewriting Instruction Services, Gregg Division of McGraw-Hill Publishing Company and Chairman of the Board of Trustees Vincent A. Fulmer at the seminar awards dinner.

Suffolk Journal Sponsors Workshop

More than 100 student journalists attended a day-long workshop sponsored by the Suffolk Journal, a student newspaper at Suffolk University, on Saturday, September 23.

The program, first of its kind at the University, presented working media people as guest speakers throughout the day and included a luncheon for the guests in the school cafeteria.

Featured speaker was Robert J. Sales, former Boston Globe reporter and now editor of the Boston Phoenix, a weekly alternative paper. Sales compared the role of the alternative newspaper with that of the daily Metropolitan paper.

Four alumni of Suffolk University, three of whom were previous Journal editors, were speakers. Joseph Gavaghan, BSJ'75, of the Lexington Minuteman discussed jobs in journalism and feature writing; Deborah Burke, BSJ'77, of the Malden Evening News talked on news writing and women in journalism; Philip Santoro, BSJ'78; of the Lexington Minuteman and

Faculty Appointments

Full-time faculty appointments to the Education, Government and Economics, Speech and History departments were announced in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences for the Fall semester.

Appointed to Education were Joanne E. Carr, assistant professor and director of special education, and Michael Zifcak, assistant professor.

Dr. Carr comes to Suffolk from the University of South Florida where she was a county-wide resource teacher for programs for the emotionally handicapped. She was also an adjunct professor and had a private practice for children and adolescents with emotional problems and learning disabilities. Dr. Carr holds a B.A. in elementary education from the University of Florida and a Ph.D. in special education from the University of Georgia.

Dr. Zifcak has an A.B. in philosophy from Brown University, an M.Ed. in special education from the University of Rhode Island and a Ph.D. in special education from the University of Connecticut. He has been a special education teacher and a teacher of learning disabilities with the Providence and Warwick, R.I. school systems and a lecturer in special education at U. Conn.

Communications and Speech —

Edward J. Harris, acting chairman and instructor, and Gloria M. Boone, instructor in communications.

For the past two years, Harris was the coordinator of forensics and a teaching assistant at Penn. State where he received an M.A. degree and is working on his doctorate. He received a B.A. cum laude from Plattsburgh State College. Harris was the first graduate student and youngest member ever to be elected to the National Forensic Association Executive Council.

Boone is a cum laude graduate of Penn. State B.A. 1977 and was awarded an M.A. from Temple University in 1978. Her Penn. State career won her numerous awards including outstanding debater award from Niagara University. She was on a graduate teaching assistantship at Temple.

Government and Economics —

Agnes S. Bain, assistant professor. She has a B.A. from McGill University and a Ph.D. in political science from Boston University. After serving as a teaching fellow at B.U., she was a lecturer and instructor at Suffolk.

History — Kenneth Greenberg, assistant professor. Most recently he was on a visiting lectureship at UMass, Boston and prior to that was an assistant professor in American history at Alfred University. He holds a B.A. in history from Cornell University in 1968, an M.A. in American history from Columbia University in 1970 and his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin. Greenberg was a visiting fellow at Harvard this past year.

Phoenix, spoke on editorial writing and layout, Dan Petipas, BSJ'78, former arts editor for the Journal and station manager for WSUB, the Suffolk student radio station, discussed the arts.

The workshop explored such topics as news writing, photography, feature writing, small and daily newspapers and journalistic responsibilities.

President Thomas A. Fulham addressed the student journalists at the start of the program. In addition to Suffolk journalism majors, high school students from Quincy, Wakefield, Hopkinton, Burlington and Lawrence attended the seminars.

Joseph A. Reppucci, editor in chief of the Journal, and Richard M. Saia, production manager for the Journal, directed the successful program, which may be repeated next year.

"Taxachu$ett$"

The Seminar Luncheon Series for 1978-1979, sponsored by the MBA/MPA Alumni Association began on November 2. The speaker for the first seminar was George Keverian, majority leader of the Massachusetts House of Representatives. His topic: "Taxachusetts, Is a Proposition 13 or 2 1/2 coming to Massachusetts?" was timely and well received by the alumni, students and faculty present.

Plans have been made by the MBA/MPA alumni to sponsor three additional seminars in January, February and March with a dinner in the Spring. Details will follow in the next Bulletin and in special mailings.

These seminars are usually held in a conference room on campus. They begin at noon with a buffet lunch, followed by a speaker and a question and answer period, ending promptly at 1:30. For any additional information, please contact the Alumni Office (723-4700 X132).

200 Honor "Miss Mac"

More than 200 friends and former associates of Miss Dorothy McNamara, retired alumni director for Suffolk University, honored her at a testimonial dinner, Friday, October 13 at Lantana's in Randolph.

Alumni from four decades turned out for the tribute to "Miss Mac", who served the university for 47 years, many of them as bursar. John J. Norton of Quincy, BSGS'55 unveiled a portrait of Miss McNamara at the dinner. The portrait presented to her was painted by Raymond Parks of Suffolk's humanities department. It was originally commissioned by the 1971 Alumni Board of Directors. She was also the recipient of a plaque presented by Matthew J. Fink, AB'64.

Dancing to the music of Bob Jennings and orchestra followed the dinner. Many thanks were extended to John Norton and his committee members for their diligent efforts in planning this successful function.

Business School Notes

Dean Richard L. McDowell has announced the appointment of Ronald Sundberg as assistant dean of the college and the designation of Peter Caldwell as director of the Management Education Center.

Sundberg previously served as assistant dean for continuing education at the State College at Cortland, N.Y. Married with three children, he is a graduate of Boston University (B.S. in B.A.) and is completing a doctorate in education there. He succeeds Dr. Lin Bothwell.

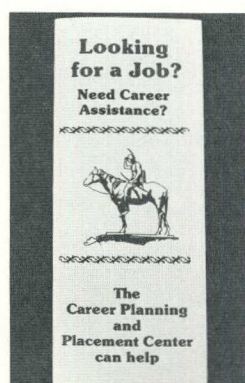

Caldwell, who will also head up the Executive MBA program in the business school, has his MBA from the Tuck School and is completing a Ph.D. in English at Tufts University. He was associated with Tufts in a number of management capacities including business manager of the dental school. He and his wife, Phyllis, have one child and live in Duxbury.

Two new faculty appointments were also disclosed. Dr. Charles J. Shelley and Dr. Daniel A. Sankowsky were named assistant professors of management.

Shelley previously taught at Northeastern University and Wright State as an assistant professor and was an instructor at University of Massachusetts at Amherst. He holds a BBA degree and Ph.D. from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Sankowsky was visiting professor of mathematics at Babson College and before that served at Simmons College. He has his B.A. from the University of Pennsylvania and Ph.D. from the University of California at Berkeley.

Career Advising and Placement for Current Students and Alumni

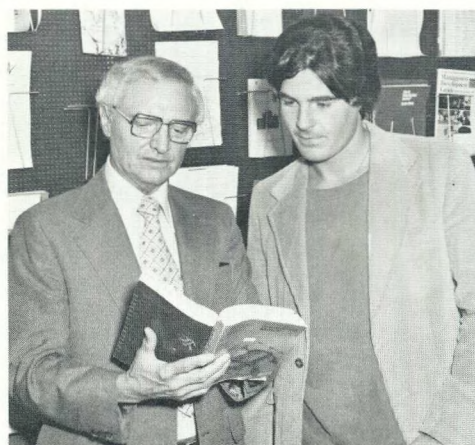

Suffolk University alumni continually ask the question, "Can I use the career advising and placement library and services?" The answer is, of course, a resounding yes! Because there are such a variety of services for alumni and a great need for alumni volunteers, Prof. Anthony DeVico and Mr. Michael Rubino, consented to an interview with the BULLETIN to explain their programs in greater detail.

Ms. McCombs and Professor DeVico.

Third year law student, Elizabeth A. Wolfe reviewing job opportunities with Professor DeVico.

Reviewing Placement literature.

Bulletin: First, just what is the purpose of the Career Advising and Placement Offices?

Rubino: The office exists to assist students and alumni in developing career plans, in becoming acquainted with the job market and in developing the strategies and techniques needed to secure successful employment.

DeVico: I agree totally with Mike. However, it often surprises people who are unfamiliar with the legal system, of the multitude of opportunities for a young lawyer that exist outside of private practice. While the Law School does not deal with the range of possible careers that the College must, we do present as broad a spectrum of possible alternatives.

Bulletin: What services do you offer?

DeVico: We have full and part-time job listings, on-campus employment recruiting, co-ordinate off campus job recruiting, job information sessions, resume and cover letter writing assistance, video tapes of different types of job interview sessions, job interview workshops, individual and group career counseling and a placement library. Other services include, wage and salary information, which we get calls on from alumni quite frequently and card files on alumni who have volunteered to serve as career advisors to students. We also put out a bi-monthly placement newsletter for alumni interested in relocating—job wise or location wise.

Rubino: Other than the alumni card files and the newsletter, we also provide the same services with some additions. As Tony indicated we do deal with a wide range of careers. Because of this, I keep updated information on occupational trends, and graduate school data. I have also obtained access to the state job bank through an on site microfiche viewer.

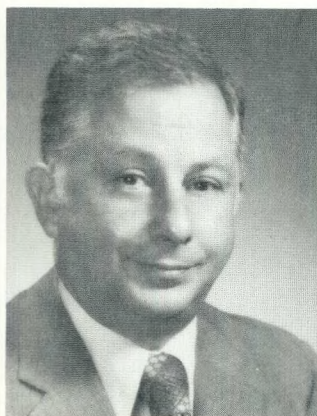

Bulletin: There are a few statements you both made that I think need further elaboration for the readers. Tony, you mentioned job information sessions, an alumni card file system and a newsletter. Please tell me more about these services.

DeVico: The newsletter has been published by the assistant director, Betsy McCombs, for almost 2 years now. We first solicited subscribers for it in this publication. Basically, it contains job information applicable to recent graduates and to alumni out of school several years who wish to relocate. Our job information is definitely not limited to Massachusetts. Alumni must specifically request to be put on the mailing list.

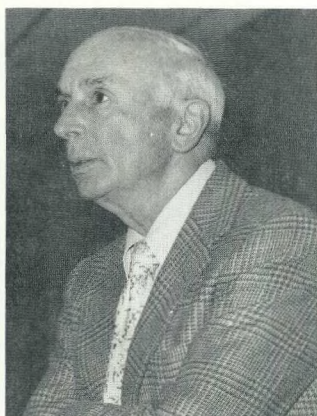

The job information sessions and the alumni card file system came about through the Law School Alumni Association's questionnaire that was sent to all law alumni a little over a year ago. The questionnaire asked for alumni volunteers to serve as on-campus speakers on legal careers, as career advisors on a one-to-one basis with students, and as possible internship supervisors. As a result of the response (200 plus), Betsy and I set up the job information sessions. At these sessions, alumni speak on legal opportunities in a broad range of settings e.g. house counsel in insurance firms; litigation in insurance firms; lawyering in public accounting firms; lawyers in federal, state and local governmental agencies; lawyers in the office of a district attorney; tax practice; and a variety of others. The one-on-one alumni volunteers have been used thus far primarily with students who are planning on practicing out of Massachusetts. These two programs will be expanded this year.

Ronald A. Wysocki, JD'72, National Chairman, Annual Law Fund.

Edward J. Bander, newly appointed director of the Law School Library.

Milton Katz who has been named distinguished professor of law at Suffolk University.

Law School Appointments

Noted constitutional law authority Milton Katz of the Harvard Law School has been named distinguished professor of law at Suffolk University Law School, and Edward J. Bander, former associate law librarian at New York University, has been appointed law librarian for the school.

Katz was a member of the Harvard Faculty for 40 years as the Henry L. Stimson professor of law and also directed the International Legal Studies Program for twenty-four years. He is recognized for his direction of the Marshall Plan in Europe and for his efforts in unifying the Armed Forces during World War II. He will teach courses in constitutional law and torts.

A native of New York City, Katz received his A.B. from Harvard in 1927 and his J.D. in 1931. He is chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and co-chairman of the American Bar Association.

Bander, who succeeds the retiring John W. Lynch, served at New York University for 18 years, taught legal research and paralegal courses and edited that law school's alumni bulletin. He has also been named professor of law.

Author of a number of legal works, including Mr. Dooley on the Choice of Law, which is a Lawyer's Literary Club selection, Bander is a former librarian for the U.S. Court of Appeals in Boston. He holds B.A. and LL.B. degrees from Boston University and an M.S. in Library Science from Simmons College.

A member of the Massachusetts Bar, Bander formerly was president of both the New England Law Librarians Association and the Law Library Association of New York.

He and his wife, the former Frances Waite, a copy editor for Time magazine, live in Concord. They have three children.
