

Suffolk University

Digital Collections @ Suffolk

Suffolk Journal

Suffolk University Student Newspapers

1958

Suffolk Journal, Vol. 14, No. 4, 1/1958

Suffolk Journal

Follow this and additional works at: <https://dc.suffolk.edu/journal>

Recommended Citation

Suffolk Journal, "Suffolk Journal, Vol. 14, No. 4, 1/1958" (1958). Suffolk Journal. 107.
<https://dc.suffolk.edu/journal/107>

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the Suffolk University Student Newspapers at Digital Collections @ Suffolk. It has been accepted for inclusion in Suffolk Journal by an authorized administrator of Digital Collections @ Suffolk. For more information, please contact dct@suffolk.edu.

SUFFOLK JOURNAL

VOL. 14 NO. 4

BOSTON, MASS.

JANUARY, 1958

Record Crowd Applauds 'Drama' Opening

Club's First Performance Amuses 400 Despite Blackout, Illness Curses

By DICK BOOKER

All things, the poet said, will pass away, but we hope the memory of 'You Can't Take It With You' will linger awhile to give us a chuckle when we sorely need one.

Suffolk's Drama Club played out its initial production under frightening circumstances, but rose in unison in its portrayal of humor, love, eccentricity and downright lunacy to tickle the laugh faculty of a two-night crowd numbering 400.

Beamed Objective

The play provoked little in the way of profound thought, but it did provide entertainment which was precisely what it intended to do.

During the second act of Friday night's show, the overhead stage lights blew out. A sigh of apprehension went out from the audience. The auditorium lights flashed on. The implied questioner said, "what will they do now?" Fortunately, the cast remained composed, and went on, as if a 4.43 megawatt in the black-out, with its delight full program.

If the night episode was not enough to fill the club's spirit, the fact that two boys actors stepped down because of illness might have been those of a less determined group. Luckily, Mr. McAffery and William Hardy, the director, too, filled the vacant roles. McAffery had five days to memorize his role, and did it.

Lark Hot Happp
The story concerned an unwedded family who were not too anxious to find work. The grandfather, William Halpin, put Wall Street years before to back and laugh. Halpin no pun intended acted as if he might have experienced with the idea himself. He was effective and humorous while playing an odd man.

It is difficult to find individual acts when so much depended on the group as a whole. The entire cast was subject to intense criticism and mishaps, but Halpin, along with Lark Elkins, who played an exact. Elkins, a former member of the Boston Company, employed as a wonder girl, Joan McCarthy, David Greenham, and Paul Percheron turned in remarkable performances.

Miss Elkins' character, a "next promotion" I get will be to share, with a Russian agent, show a hilarious response.

Eschmann's Fallout

The last confusion of it we had one automatically goes to St. Eschmann. For sheer courage, Continued on Page Four INDIGNANT PARENTS, Cathy Flower and Jack McAffery, stand bewildered as government agents, Gerry Bruno, Bill Borden, and Tony Bruno, head the home of their potential kinfolk. Joanne McCarthy and Rocco Zizza are off to the right. The scene created comedy in the Drama Club's presentation of "You Can't Take It With You", last month.

Classical Club Appeals For More Members

Deadline Set April 30

Censorship Essay Theme

Winner Gets $25 Award

By PAUL BENEDICT

There is room at Suffolk for clubs with more than purely entertainment value. A club offering intellectual value should appeal to the Suffolk student body.

Having made this statement early last December, Rachel Sachs, a junior majoring in sociology, proceeded to prove her point. Today, the fruit of her labors, the Classical Music Club of S.U., shows every sign of becoming one of the university's most popular organizations.

No Snob Club

The club's first meeting on December 18 was greeted with the presence of not only an enthusiastic group of students, but several faculty members as well, including Dr. Percheron and Dr. Vogel. It became evident that this was to be no "snob group," but a club interested solely in the enjoyment of good music.

"Our purpose isn't to teach, but to entertain," says Miss Sachs. "You don't have to be a high brow to enjoy the finer points of music. And be assured that no student will be refused membership because of lack of knowledge."

Continued on Page Six

Should State Censor Any Books, Yes or No . . . 500 Words or Less

Students willing to utilize their minds in order to earn money are invited to enter a $25 essay writing contest now being offered by the Journal. Competition begins upon publication of this article with the deadline set for April 30.

The subject is: "Should Literature in any form be Subject to State Censorship?" Essays must be limited to 500 words. They must conform to the English department's standards of grammar and spelling. The winning paper will be published in the Journal.

Judges Named

A board of judges composed of the Journal editor-in-chief, Mr. Brown, of the English department, and a third member, yet to be announced, will judge the papers.

The contents of the essays should contain ideas of an original nature concerning the ultimate effects of a state controlled censorship, if we had one. In addition, and it is advisable, students should do some historical research on censorship. Have they tried it elsewhere? If so, what were its effects? What problems did it create? Who did

HUMANITIES CLUB RALLIES INTEREST

The increased interest of students in the Humanities has prompted the future formation of a Humanities Club at S.U.

The first meeting, which will be announced after examinations, will exhibit the pictures which Dr. Vogel took on his trip home to Greece and Italy this past summer.

Those interested contact Dr. Percheron, Ann Picardi, Carter Benjamin, or Robert Martiros.

Continued on Page Four

FUNNY PLAY LURES MANY OUTSIDERS

A record crowd of 400, surpassing last year's "Tide" audience, cultivated the "Amusing" this month with laughs and applause, as the Drama Club struck a high note of humor with "You Can't Take It With You."

One hundred and seventy-five greeted the cast with three curtain calls on Friday night, while 225 acknowledged a fine performance Saturday night with four unbridled outbursts.

Jack McAffery, Club advisor, noted that a good percentage of the crowd were non-students. The Journal blocks Mr. McAffery in his observation. It seems a pity that so worthy a cause as to see reasonable a price should draw its support from outside S.U.

JOHN J. KENNEY, graduate and former lab instructor in geology at Suffolk, is pursuing his Master's degree under the guidance of Dr. Farrington Daniels, holder of the Norris Award in science at the University of Wisconsin. Being hopes to study for his Ph.D. in geology next year.

Attorney Doyle To Speak At Newman Forum

The Boston Province of the Newman Club conducted a forum on February 8, 1958, at 1:00 p.m. at the Boston State Teachers College. This Catholic Student Collegiate Forum had a two-fold purpose. It had Catholic students meeting and exchanging ideas in an effort to form a clear understanding of the problems that are most common to them.

Main speaker of the evening was former assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle. His topic was "The Role of the Catholic in Civic Affairs." A combination dinner dance was held at the close of the forum.

Province Council Meeting Here
On February 9, 1958, the Suffolk University Newman Club sponsored the monthly meeting of the Boston Province Council. The meeting was held in the university library. This marked the first time that such a meeting had been held at Suffolk. It is believed that the results of this meeting have won Suffolk University wider recognition among other colleges in the Boston area.

A FRIENDLY CHAT between members and guests of the Wig & Kade Law Society illustrated the atmosphere during the group's annual Christmas Party. The affair drew 200, who took part in a raffle, dovery, and dancing. Left to right are: Malcolm Dominey; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kelley, and Sam D'Angelo.

Federal Help, Sputnik Discussed At Meeting

Dean Goodrich Represents S. U. At Miami Confab

By ROY VINCENT and MAUREN MURPHY

Dean Donald W. Goodrich represented Suffolk at the 44th Annual Meeting of the Association of American Colleges held last month at Miami Beach, Florida. Membership to the organization was attained less than a year ago, making Mr. Goodrich the University's first delegate.

Upon arriving in the not-so-warm "American Playground," Dean Goodrich registered at the American Conference of Academic Deans. A series of speeches and conferences lasted throughout most of the day. But the major meeting began the evening of Tuesday, Jan. 7.

Federal Aid Discussed

"Various influential educators addressed the delegates with speeches that covered a variety of subjects," explained Dean Goodrich. "An address that comes to mind is one dealing with the forms which a possible future Federal Aid Program might take."

Dean Goodrich also pointed out the importance of college education meeting the need and which is in the form of scholarships received on a competitive basis, or it could be based on a federal income tax credit program.

A second issue brought forth the fact that if the current alarm over the Russian Sputniks continues, there may be too much stress placed on teaching mathematics and science in schools and colleges. As the Dean pointed out, college curricula might become unbalanced and tend to neglect the important areas of the social studies and the humanities.

Shortage Of Ph.D.s

Another interesting talk was given by President Wilson of the University of Oregon, who pointed, Dean Goodrich, "He showed that requirements for a Master's degree will have to be extended and tightened up because of an acute lack of Ph.D.s."

The general consensus was that the Master's Programs are, on the whole, not tight enough and are geared to secondary school teaching, not to the col-

DEAN GOODRICH

Continued on Page Six

Dual Site Suggested For Gala Coronation

All Will See Miss Suffolk, But At Different Times

The growing controversy over where and how this year's Miss Suffolk is to gain her proper attention, has nudged the Journal into a position of compromise.

One group feels that the Junior and Senior Prom would supply the delicate and formal atmosphere for this popular event. Another unit of dissenters thinks that Recognition Day, as in the past, is the solution.

Add Lustre To Both

The Journal suggests that both these events be exploited by the Miss Suffolk committee.

Miss Suffolk could be named and recognized during Recognition Day proceedings. Her actual coronation could be completed at the Junior and Senior Prom. This method would allow the entire student body an opportunity to see its queen.

Some groups think that the Prom is an outstanding event in itself, and needs no attraction. However, it is not unusual to name a college queen at such an affair.

Conserve Time

By balancing the event, the time-consuming dramatic effects would be eliminated. There would be no suspenseful buildup at the Prom, since the queen is already known to the audience.

Also, the actual crowning of the alluring crowd could be done by a member of Suffolk. Why hire or engage an outsider merely because they have a name and usually one other than their advertised one to do the hon-ors? There are many outstanding people within this institution who can lend dignity to the event.

ALUMNI DANCE CANCELLED

The Alumni Dance, an attraction which packed the Hotel Bradford and offered the crowning of Miss Suffolk last year, has been cancelled this year by Alumni President Robert Steidman, according to Jim Kelley, Student Government president.

Mr. Steidman said that the majority of the crowd were students and that it was impractical for

6 S. U. STUDENTS VOICE MUSICAL TASTES ON BALLROOM

Six Suffolk students, officers on the Student Government, represented the University of Bob Clayton's Boston Ballroom show February 7.

The program, aired over station WHDH, featured recordings selected by students during the recent poll conducted during the spring registration.

Suffolk's spot on the show was from 3:45 to 6:00 p.m.

In last year's survey, more than 800 votes were cast. The winning disc was Harry Belafonte's arrangement of "Banana Boat," which topped its closest rival, "Young Love" by Tab Hunter. The margin of victory was three votes, 1,378 to 1,375.

Hunter & Tickets For No

Last year's representatives, headed with Hunter, who was Clayton's guest for the day. They also received tickets to a Symphony Hall event.

This year's guests were: James W. Kelley, president of the Student Government; Marge Kearney, Joanne McCarthy, Ann Poirer, Hilary Scivella, and Poirer, Hilary.

the alumni to sponsor a dance when so few of them showed up.

He suggested that the alumni would be standing by to assist student groups in other activities.

THE EARLE COFFEE SHOP

Corner
BOWDOIN & DERNE
STREETS

CONDA'S RESTAURANT

30 DERNE ST., BOSTON

FIRST CLASS FOOD — SELF-SERVICE RESTAURANT

SODA FOUNTAIN SERVICE

SANDWICHES — HOT DISHES

B. U. Chaplain Talks On Modern Jazz

The Rev. Norman P. O'Connor, CSP, well-known Boston University Newman Club chaplain, and foremost authority on the art of Jazz will be guest lecturer at the Newman Club's first meeting of the second semester February 10, in Room 47 at 2:00. Father O'Connor, in addition to his duties as chaplain at B.U., conducts a weekly discussion in Jazz for Station WGBH-TV, Channel 2.

Record Crowd Sees Drama Club Opening

Continued from Page One

age, and a devil may care attitude toward what will people say, he bounded on stage with a makeshift Roman toga which clung snugly around his frame. Where the prop row found this denim shawl remains a mystery, but it would not be surprising if someone snatched it off a neighbor's clothesline. Where how would one go about purchasing a thing like that?

The entire group merits a standing ovation. Inspiring technical failures, time consuming rehearsals, illness, and painstaking preparations, the Club worked with no more in patience than the lot of work towards a successful performance.

Post-Play Comments

Dr. Hartman, professor of his toys, although disappointed by the lack of students at the play, said, "the entire group acted like pros after the lights went out. A real troupe of actors that have some good talent."

An administrative secretary, Nancy Pierce, agreed with the professor and added, "it wasn't one of my favorite plays but I laughed all the way through it. I think Sy Eisenman should be given a medal for getting into a thing like that toga."

You would think those kids were pros the way they acted. Offered Doty McNamara, But said, "They deserve all the credit they can get."

And I thought I'd found when Eisenman came with that thing on."

Original Ideas Sought For Year Book Cover, Doodlers Awaken!

The Yearbook needs an original and attractive cover for its 1968 publication. The idea for such, undoubtedly, rests in a student's imagination. A reward of either a free Yearbook or a free pinon ticket is offered if the winning idea is presented.

Frank Scheldt, editor of the Yearbook, said that an ability to draw artistic skill is not as important as the willingness to express an idea. He thinks that merely a rough draft could be presented and the drawing would be done for someone else. The deadline for the creative effort has been set for April 1. Those planning to enter the competition it would be advisable that they drop into room 101 and study past covers, both Staff and others, to get an out line of what is required.

GROUP AIDS MENTAL CASES, STUDENTS ASKED TO ASSIST

'Volunteers Strive To Alert Public Interest'

By MAURICE S. WELCH

Paul Mayrads, director of the Volunteer Services of the Eastern State Hospital, has appealed for volunteers to donate some of their time visiting patients in the hospital.

"I am sure that if the public could be made to realize the need of the patients they would be more than willing to help. Many people are eager to lend their services, but simply do not know what to do."

15 Years' Experience

Mayrads is trying to lessen the gap between the patients and the public. His 15 years experience in the field of public relations has prepared him well for his work.

A Boston University graduate, Mayrads is working to improve the relation between the patients and the public. In doing this he is helping to erase the stigma which is too often attached to mental illness.

among people who want to help him.

The volunteer's job should not stop with the patient, Mayrads said. He should then visit the family of the patient, explaining to them that the patient is a sick person, just as if he had a heart or head disease. This way, he said, only this way will he be able to wipe out the shame connected with the mentally ill.

Educate Public

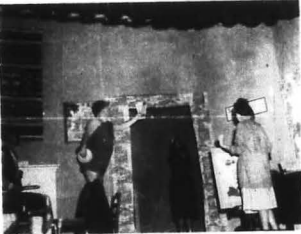

Mayrads feels that it is important to lay too much stress on the necessity of educating the public to the seriousness of the situation. Mental illness is not a species of class, he said. "It could strike anywhere. We must educate the layman so they will be prepared to accept it when it strikes close to home."

A group of Suffolk students have responded strongly to Mayrads' plea. Members of the Drama Club had the privilege of visiting and talking with a number of the patients at the Eastern State Hospital on Christmas Eve.

We hope that this will be the start of conscientious action of Suffolk students in aiding these unfortunate patients.

Mr. Mayrads' plea is more than food for thought. It is a call to arms.

SY EISENMAN POSES, rigged in a toga that would have made Nero rear if the violinist saw the play, while Jeanne McCarthy reproduces the picture on canvas. Maureen Sugrue, the maid, tries to call a halt to the whole affair. Paul Brendel looks on in bewilderment during the Drama Club's presentation of "You Can't Take It With You."

Filmland Lured Another Critic

Paul Brendel, actor, pianist, writer and humorist promises to give the Journal an added attraction in its next edition. The versatile septuagenarian will write a personal column on "What's Hot At The Movies."

Look for his scorching, critical views on the films, the stars, and Hollywood in the February edition of the Journal.

HELLO EDITOR JOURNAL PRAISED

DEAR EDITOR — The Dimeen has been of the Journal was brought to my attention recently, and I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and the members of your staff for your cooperation with our March of Dimes campaign currently under way.

Only by bringing our message to the public can we provide hope for the thousands of polio victims for whom the vaccine came too late.

Our grateful thanks again for your help, and your interest in the March of Dimes.

Sincerely,
JOHN MANLY JR.
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

'THANK YOU' . . . DOG

DEAR EDITOR — I wish to express my sincere and doggy gratitude to having been honored with my pictorial appearance in the December issue of the Suffolk Journal.

My canine friends on reviewing the article expressed their envy at my having been granted space in your outstanding University newspaper.

I will always hold Suffolk University and their newspaper among my fondest memories.

Sincerely,
COLLEGIATE (art)

Business Manager WANTED FOR JOURNAL

BOOK CLEARING HOUSE

423 Boylston St., Boston

(Near Berkeley St.)

(Opley 7-1600)

- * NEW AND USED TEXT BOOKS
- * PAPER BOOKS
- * OUTLINES — STUDY AIDS
- * LONG PLAY RECORDS AT DISCOUNT PRICES

WE BUY TEXT BOOKS

Best Essay Wins $25

Continued from Page One

the winning?" And if we have one who will do the winning?

The fact that a student takes the affirmative or the negative side of the issue is immaterial to the judges.

Should We Have One

Another thought for essayists to keep in mind is that the question does not mean to imply that certain types of literature should be removed. We want to know whether or not a state-sponsored and directed agency should censor literary work or not.

The subject was not selected at random. It is, in reality, a measure which is now being debated in the state legislature. The bill contains a clause which would allow state policemen to censor books in the name of the law.

Welch Disproves

Opposing the proposal among others is Nathan M. Joseph N. Welch noted for his defense of the Aton in the McCarthy hearings of 1950. Welch contends that the profane methods of censoring books and such are inadequate.

Proponents of the bill feel that innocent children are influenced by the sale of obscene and indecent writings.

We are interested to learn what you, the participants in this contest, have to say on a modern situation.

THE MYRTLE LUNCH

24 MYRTLE STREET

open 5 a.m. to 2 p.m.

R. A. WESTON, prop.

tel. CA 7-8855

Rams Rout Clark 85-74, Eldy Moore Tallies 25

Co-Capt. Eldy Moore paced a second-half surge which carried the Rams to a BIG 85-74 win over Clark recently.

The S.U. club played its finest ball of the season and recovered from a half-time deficit to dump the Scarletts on their home court. Eldy Moore pumped in 25 points, 17 coming in the second half. Joe Henaghan was right behind with 23.

Coach Charlie Law attributed the win to "an outstanding team effort." He added that he was now set on his starting lineup. He had been experimenting in the earlier games to come up with the best combination. Eldy Moore, Archie Mellare, Joe Henaghan, Bob Sansone, and Frank Crotty will be on the floor for the opening tap-off in the rest of the games, with Joe Fate the sixth man.

Archie Mellare is the only senior on the starting five. Moore is a junior, while Henaghan, Sansone, and Crotty are sophomores.

Barlog's Cagers Net Three Straight

The S.U. frosh cagers have posted three straight wins after opening losses to BU and Branford.

Coach Jack Barlog's club came back strong to stop Harvard, Clark, and Merrimack in their latest outings.

The freshmen have displayed a well-balanced attack and strong rebounding in all their games.

Tony Santino and Bill Grant, former Boston Conference stars, are the leading scorers through the first five games.

Novak Resigns, Journal Seeks Replacement

Paul Novak, business manager of the Journal, turned in his verbal resignation last month, saying, "I've been so busy with studies that I can't put the necessary time into the job."

Novak's regrettable move leaves the paper with a gaping vacancy in its ranks. The job, admittedly, is no snap. It requires time, effort, and concentration. Ads must be gathered, and their payments as well represents a challenge to a willing student.

The Journal invites any student, regardless of class or department, to drop into room 10 and make an application for the position.

Officials Welcome Incoming Students

President Maurice Dean Goodrich, and other University officials greeted approximately 75 freshmen and new students last week in room 18.

SINGING AND SMILES, and several winter games, marked the 1958 Winter Carnival. The one-day fun fest in the frozen hinterland, sponsored by the Sophomore Class, was regarded as a "big success." The event took place at Mt. Belknap, N.H., February 1.

The group constituted about two-thirds of an expected and year enrollment of over 100 new students.

The president advised the group to feel free to consult the Faculty, Administration, and Student Government for encouragement and information. Other speakers who introduced them advised to the incoming students at the present time.

Mr. Dean Goodrich, Coach Charlie Law, Mr. John Colburn, and Student Government President Jim Kelley.

The Dean, speaking on the new teaching methods, recently discussed during a national conference in Florida, said that the learning method, with the stress on notes and consultation, was regarded as the most practicable at the present time.

BUSINESS MANAGER WANTED FOR JOURNAL

SUPER-WINSTON PRODUCTIONS PRESENTS

ROMAN IN THE GLOAMIN

THE HEART-WARMING STORY OF A SIMPLE GLADIATOR

...YOU CAN'T TELL THE GLADIATORS WITHOUT A PROGRAM!

...AND IN THIS CORNER FRANKIE APOLLO!

THEY ARE MIXING IT AND FRANKIE IS DOWN!

FRANKIE IS TALKING TO THE CARTHAGINIAN!

WINSTON TASTES GOOD!

LIKE A CIGARETTE SHOULD!

AND THE THAT FULL RICH FLAVOR, CATHY?

THAT'S WHAT I LIKE THE GREATEST!

AND A NEW CRUSH-PROOF BOX, TOO—LIKE WOW! ➡

LEGALLY SPEAKING

By CHARLES ZAROUIS

Freak Call Allows
St. Anselm's 87-82 Win
Over Underdog Rams

A freak goal tending call turned off a series of bad breaks in the last 25 seconds which helped St. Anselm's to tip the Rams 87-82 at Manchester on Jan. 11.

After just two minutes on the field, it was the head coach's hands on almost every break. The St. papers were ringing to a one point edge when the whistle went. Almost then in the final moments.

Joe Haganham netted 23 points to pace the Rams scoring while Archie McLean stopped in 18. Despite the loss, Coach Charlie Lane was high in his praise of the team and added that they continued to play the four brand of ball that carried them to wins over Clark and Merrimack.

Youth's Idealism Vs. Adult Reality

In the complicated and intricate world of today, the student is constantly challenged, as never before, to deal with problems of human conduct, society, and other related matters. Youth, fortunately, is frequently imbued with idealism, dauntlessness, and resolution — qualities often, and sometimes justly, referred to by our elders as foolishness.

The question now arises as to how one possessing these qualities in addition to a desire to meet these various challenges must achieve this latest energy and change it into a personality.

ZAROUIS

that is impossible to using these principles. The power to develop thought into a reality.

That is, as we create individual who are capable of producing an effect that will serve and better society. For my part, the problem is that anyone, a legal education. Indeed, it is a formidable goal that one must do to meet the continuous problems of this complex world and attempt a clarification and answer, whether it be in the realm of human rights, labor or peace. The choice of direction is ours. The result of this choice might well be a service to man and ourselves.

Wig and Robe Held Party
It is again noted that the "Wig and Robe Society" will be holding its annual Christmas party on Friday evening, December 13, 1957. It will also be noted that on the same evening the "Old Ark" will not visualize the usual profits.

This year also announces the 10th anniversary of the founding of the "Wig and Robe Society." All heretofore previous many festive occasions including a banquet to follow a new Alumni Day.

It is noted that first year students are residing in William on campus, never left upon this list of laws.

Struggling Lawyer
When a young graduate of law school enters into a contract for a year's employment, he obtains a right to his monthly salary by finishing his first month's service, irrespective of his failure to perform the remainder of the contract, yet it is obvious that his services at the beginning of the term are of slight value.

Congratulations are extended to law graduate Judge C. Edward Lane who still receives a high $5000 honor because of his outstanding example in professional and charitable activities.

Incidentally, one of the finest

Hammurabi's Code

According to my past notes, I have read quite a number of times that Professor Parker, although he has cited diverse opinions, has never quoted Hammurabi's Code. There is no doubt, however, that it is familiar with it. Perhaps in a future lecture a portion of the Code will appear in its entirety. It is an interesting document, but safe keeping. It is a code in gold in a world of silver. It is a code in gold in a world of silver. It is a code in gold in a world of silver.

ANST. CIRCULATION MANAGER Eddie Fox prepares to ship copies of the Journal to Alumni members. Fox goes through the first stage of mailing which will carry the papers to Tanganyika, Tunisia, Alaska, Ethiopia and the Western Hemisphere.

CAMPY'S BATTLE RECALLS OTHERS

By DICK ROBBIE

An undefeatable force, indifferent to science and unbreakable to man, drives individuals to achievement in the game of physical misfortune. The history of sports brings this element into reality.

It would be foolish optimism to predict the return to baseball of Roy Campanella, presently crippled with a broken knee received in an automobile accident last month. But we can, as Campy himself, hope.

Grey Had Goals

Physical handicaps of the cricket type have been overcome in the past. Let's begin with Pete Grey, former outfielder with the St. Louis Browns. Pete, as a precocious youth, loved to hop trucks and tread cars. One day his hands slipped from the side of a vehicle and he fell off. His right arm caught under the rear tire and it was so severely mangled that a doctor had to amputate it.

Grey had another interest, he liked to play ball, but who ever heard of a one-armed baseball player? Notably, at that time but Grey was not a precedent.

Shortly, and painfully Pete learned to grip and swing a bat with one hand. He choked up on the handle seven or eight inches and became a good slap hitter.

One Arm Magician

In the field, he determined athletes developed the most unorthodox style of catching and throwing ever seen on a diamond. He grabbed fly balls with his glove, flipped the ball into the air and batted the glove under his shirt. He caught it with his bare hand and threw it toward the infield.

Grey was not a freak, but a polished ballplayer when he reached the minors in 1915. He asked not for sympathy but a chance to play, and he got it. Baseball is richer today because Pete showed that desire to play could overcome physical handicaps which supposedly prevented play.

Critics tend to count people out who still are able to live and breathe. How many times have we heard, "Well, that's it for him. He'll never play again." Some times even the grave is noticed in a hearty spirit.

Terri's Mr. Hogan

Who can forget the gutsy hit he pulled from Hogan? After a hard smash into his car on a lonely Texas street, Hogan was rushed to a hospital. The chart at the foot of the bed indicated the tragedy. Broken pelvis, possible skull fracture, shattered ribs, excessive loss of blood proved to the experts, the end of a career.

Hogan didn't think so. As a matter of fact, he refused to walk the longest and most fatiguing circuit in the country to win gold's highest honors.

Rollins' Blind Bat Wan

The savage game of hockey has offered some bloody examples of human determination. Chicago's Althea's Ken Keselowski, who had shot off the stick of a flume with his four a few years ago. The gallant postplayer retired to the first and second where a surgeon sewed up the cut. It required nine stitches.

Back at the net Rollins cleared shot after shot although hand gloves covered his left eye. Finally, Rollins failed to see another strong blast from in close and the puck split his nose. The front of the cage was a pool of blood.

ROY CAMPANELLA

17 Stitches In Face

This time the doctor patched him up with eight stitches and advised that Kenny call it a night. The goalie refused vehemently. He wanted to finish the game, although masked with blood and tape which plastered 17 stitches in his face. Kenny Rollins skated back to his position and went on to beat the Bruins 4 to 3.

The Fights On

The story of humanity over coming adversity rolls on in an unbroken narrative. Not just in sports, fearlessness is found in other fields as well. The most serious hit in the world today, the presidency of the United States, is held by a man who has twice been filled by body attacks.

So, let us watch the storied Isador rather. His day by day struggle back, his pride may or may not be real. But let him hang up his own spikes. Let him say that he is finished. The impossible only exists until somebody does it.

SUPPORT YOUR CLASS

BEACON HILL KITCHEN, Inc.
"Excellent food at Reasonable Prices"
TYPICAL SPECIAL
Roast Half Chicken
Two Vegetables - Bread & Butter
35 cents

INSIDE S. U.

By CELIA LETORNEY

"The vacation is over, and finals are here. They are not what is known as 'Holiday' cheer." Don't Worry, dear friends, you will pass all the course. By flattery, bravery, or sheer force. Just remember your aim in the following years. Is to strengthen that muscles-between both your ears!" S. U. certainly looks different these days with all the repairs freshly painted walls, new windows, improved lighting, and high concrete steps outside the front entrance, with peck-a-bow who dwells on the door.

Travel By Memory
Have you been sitting in the right class these days? Incidentally, the numbers on the classroom doors have been removed by the painters!

LETORNEY

If you heard a loud outburst coming from the faculty room, it may have been DR. MURPHY. While the windows were being repaired, two inches of dirt accumulated on the top of her desk.

Congratulations are in order for CONNIE GIROUX, Secretary to the Dean, on her recent engagement to YACOV CONNOR. Speaking of engagements, RONALD GUIDICE, gave his fiancée a two and one half carat emerald cut diamond for Christmas. "WOW," (Do you have any brothers, Ronalde?).

Mr. John Nolan, Asst. Prof. in the Law School, was recently married to Miss Louise McLaughlin, who was Secretary to Pres. Munce a few years ago. Best wishes to both of you.

If anyone wishes to "Live Mourn," see DONALD BROUSS. (Cough! Cough!)

VACATION DEPT.: Maureen Suggs spent a glorious week in Washington, D.C. By the way how is John? REGULO MONCADA'S trip home to Caracas, Venezuela was not too pleasant. Anore for a revolution? (chuckle, chuckle).

SEYMOUR EISENMAN has been voted "Mr. Discus Thrower of 1958" — his performance in "You Can't Take It With You" had the audience rolling in the aisles! WARNING!: Don't park your car on Beacon Hill. — MR. COLBURN reported that two of his husbands were missing! (At least they didn't tow away the car!) DIANNE TAGGART was recently in an automobile accident but miraculously escaped with a broken toe! (Where? The Journal almost lost a photograph, er?)

Sophomore Class Pres., JOE O'HARA, is busy these days planning for "Ski Day," Feb. 1. NOTE: Coeds, a "Ski Queen" will be chosen at the affair! For more details see Joe, or any of his committee members.

From In Newton

The Commonwealth Country Club, in Newton, will be the site for the Senior Prom, May 12. We are really living it up this year! — Anyone for a cha cha?

FLASH!: The stock is hovering around Suffolk these days. — Mrs. Theresa McTague, Bureau's vice and Mrs. Rita Sherman, Sec. to Mr. Woodson, expect their "babies of joy" in the latter part of Spring. — "Happy Bunting!" Orders for Class Rings are still being taken by yours truly. (Don't forget your $5.00 deposit.)

FEMININE SUPPORT, in the form of seven lovely coeds, which helps to spur the Ram basketball squad on to sweeping victories are: kneeling, Maureen Suggs, Capt. Jeanne McCarthy, Hazel Grenham, and Tami Elkins. In the back row are: Claire McMahon, Carol Berns, and Marge Keating.

Dr. Hartmann Now A Major In Reserves

Dr. Edward G. Hartmann, Professor of History has recently been promoted to the rank of Major in the Air Force Reserve. He served as combat historian for the 90th Infantry Division in the European Theatre of Operations during World War II. A sidekick. He was coauthor of "Tough Ombers, the Story of the 90th Infantry Division, published in Paris in 1941, and edited A Short History of the 35th Infantry Regiment which was published in London, Germany in 1945. In 1950 he was transferred to the Air Force Reserve (Good Luck, MAJOR).

That's about it this month. — hope you got all "AS" Will be seeing you "Inside S. U."

Say It With Grace Let's Revue The Varsity Club

By IRV GRACE

Woman to Dr. Lieberman: "Doctor, something's wrong with my brother. He thinks he's a sheep."
Doctor: "Well, what would you like me to do?"
Woman: "Nothing yet, we need the wool!"

A professor of Greek, who had torn his suit, took it to a tailor named Acridophorus, from Athens. Mr. Acridophorus examined the suit and asked, "Acridophorus?"
"Yes," replied the professor. "Lemmehsee!"

Prez: "So you asked your Unit for an allowance?" "How did he take it?"

Bob: "Just like a Lamb." "Oh he said was, 'Bah!'"

A man calls his wife the Lane Ranger, because she is always looking in his pocket for silver.

Pauline: "Did you hear about the soldier that matched three miles and finally moved two feet?"

Dianne: "That's all he had."

Bob: "Whoever told that guy he was a prof? He just doesn't know how to teach the stuff. Everybody hates him. Every time he tries to explain something he digresses so much that no one can understand what he's talking about. I think he ought to quit teaching and go back to the farm."

Jerry: "Yeah. I finished too."

Once there were two skunks named, In and out. One day, Out was in and In was out so the Mother Skunk sent out to find In. In less than five minutes Out came back with In. When the Mother Skunk asked Out how he had found In so fast, Out replied, "Instinct."

Professor: "I believe you missed my class yesterday."
Joan: "Why, no. I didn't. Not to the least."

Sam, in a restaurant window. "If you don't eat here, we'll both starve."

A stranger was very unhappy and poured out a tale of misery to a stranger who was sitting beside him on a park bench. "Young man, I can see by looking at you that you're going to be poor and unhappy until you are dead. And what will happen then?" the youth asked. "You'll get used to it," said the stranger.

The young attorney had become involved in a dispute with his honor about some ruling. The judge terminated the argument sharply with,

Judge: "Young man, I fine you ten dollars for contempt of this court."

Attorney: "Yes, Your Honor, am much obliged to you. I've that ten spot right here in my right hand set pocket." And he reached in his pocket for the currency.

Judge: "Well, while you're getting it just dig down in your right hand set pocket and see if you can find 30 cents because that's the rest of the sentence."

A farmer and a Professor were riding side by side on a train. After a while, both of them tired of conversation. "Just to pass the time away," said the professor, "let's have a game of riddles. If I have one you can't answer, I'll give you a dollar, and vice versa."

"That's fine," replied the farmer, "but you are better educated than I am, so do you hand if I give you only fifty cents." "All right," answered the professor, "you go first." "Well," queried the farmer, "what has three legs walking, and two legs flying?"

"I don't know," said the professor. "Here's your dollar. Now what's the answer?"

"I don't know, either," came back the farmer. "Here's your fifty cents."

If he can remember so many jokes, With all the details that mould them, Why can't he recall with equal skill, How many times he's told them?

An inmate in a mental institution was troubled by a cat in his stomach. The fellow had told several attendants, true around inside and showed him something fierce. One day the poor fellow got a real pain — from a bad appendix. An operation was necessary, and the surgeon figured that maybe this was his chance to cure the patient of his delusion. He sent him for the cat, a black one, and when the patient came out of the ether the doctor held up the animal and said, "There's all right now. Look what he got."

The patient took one look, grabbed his tummy and howled: "You got the wrong cat. The one that's been bothering me is a gray one."

COME DOWN TO MOLLY'S SNACK BAR

Donuts

Coffee

Tea

Ice Cream

Sandwiches

Chips

Nuts

Cake

Milk

Good food at reasonable prices
Without leaving the building