Course Descriptions / Class Schedule 1986–87
GENERAL INFORMATION

Course Codes
Within each Department courses are listed sequentially according to the assigned course code. In general, courses with even numbered course codes are offered during the Fall Semester and courses with odd numbered course codes are offered during the Spring Semester. Courses with course codes consisting of two numbers (e.g. G10,11) will run for both Fall and Spring Semesters (i.e. the full school year).

Course Format
Information regarding instructor, semesters offered, credits, duration and frequency of class meetings, and class times is listed with each course description.

Prerequisites
Where applicable, specific course prerequisites are listed with individual course descriptions. Most courses in the Departments of Graphic Design, Interior/Environmental Design, Fashion Illustration and Fine Arts have as a prerequisite the completion of the Foundation Program or its equivalent. Exceptions to this provision may be made only with the permission of the course instructor and the appropriate Major Department Chairman. Courses listed under the Foundation Department have no specific prerequisites (except where noted) other than normal admissions requirements. Eligibility for registration in Major Department courses with specific prerequisites requires that a grade of C or better be earned in the prerequisite course.

Departmental Requirements
For information regarding course requirements within each Department, please see Departments/Course Requirements, in the General Catalogue.

Course Offerings
Course offerings, content and format are subject to change, alteration or deletion in accordance with changing needs, course enrollment and the availability of qualified instructors. All such changes are subject to the approval of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Department of Education.
FOUNDATION DEPARTMENT

The completion of the Foundation Program or its equivalent is a prerequisite for entry into any of the Major Programs. Courses listed under the Foundation Department are first year courses and are not ordinarily elective for students enrolled in any of the Major Programs. However, part-time students, transfer students lacking specific courses and students required to repeat courses may elect courses from this list.

B02 Drawing Foundations I: Observational Drawing
Audrey Goldstein
This is a basic drawing course which will focus on the process of drawing from an observed situation—that is, making drawings of something that is seen, be it an object, a still-life or an environment. The course will approach drawing from a point of view which will emphasize accurately recording that which is observed and will introduce students to the concepts and procedures necessary for generating such drawings. Assignments and exercises will be aimed at developing three basic abilities: 1) Perceptual acuity—the ability to see accurately. 2) Motor control skills—the ability to get the hand (with the pencil) to go where you want it to. 3) Tool use and handling—the ability to use drawing tools proficiently and comfortably. The development and coordination of these three basic abilities will enable the student to generate drawings that correspond accurately with the observed world. That is the primary objective of the course.
fall semester, 2 credits
two 2 hour meetings per week
section 1: Mon. 9:00-11:00 AND Fri. 12:30-2:30 (Brown)
section 2: Mon. 11:30-1:30 AND Fri. 3:00-5:00 (Brown)
section 3: Wed. 11:30-1:30 AND Fri. 9:30-11:30 (Jackson)

B05 Representational Drawing
prerequisite: B02
Linda Brown, Carl Jackson
The aim of this course is to establish proficiency in the skills involved in representational drawing and a corresponding refinement in the use of drawing materials. Attention will be given to strong resolution of problems and the quality of "finish" in drawings. In addition the issues of interpretation and expression within a representational context will be introduced. Materials to be used will include various artist's pencils, drawing pens and ink, and pastels.
spring semester, 2 credits
two 2 hour meetings per week
section 1: Mon. 9:00-11:00 AND Fri. 12:30-2:30 (Brown)
section 2: Mon. 11:30-1:30 AND Fri. 3:00-5:00 (Brown)
section 3: Wed. 11:30-1:30 AND Fri. 9:30-11:30 (Jackson)

B07 Life Drawing I
prerequisite: B02
Audrey Goldstein
An introductory course in drawing the human figure which will emphasize learning to judge proportions accurately and, through the use of basic drawing skills, developing a basic proficiency in adapting the three-dimensional reality of the figure onto the two-dimensional surface of the paper. The class will develop an understanding of anatomy and its influence on surface structure and form in order that the student may be better equipped to deal with both the observation and drawing of the model. It is the interaction of the figure observed and the process of drawing that observation that is the focus of this course. Use of an anatomical text and study of the drawing of past artists will aid the student in understanding the processes involved. Materials to be used will include charcoal, pencils, ink, chalks.

section 3: Mon. 2:30-4:30 AND Wed. 9:00-11:00

B08 Introduction to Lettering I
Jane Coates
This course is an introduction to letters as graphic symbols, tracing their development from Imperial Roman Capitals to modern type faces. Students will become familiar with the traditional tools and materials used in hand lettering while developing skill in Roman and Italic letter forms. They will also explore the way in which weight, structure and spacing affect visual texture and readability through a series of design problems using both traditional and contemporary approaches.
spring semester, 1 credit

section 2: Thurs. 11:00-1:00
section 3: Thurs. 3:00-5:00
B09 Introduction to Lettering II
prerequisite: B08
Jane Coates
This course will continue to develop lettering skills in Roman and Italic forms as well as in flourishing Italic Capitals and Foundational Hand. Students will experiment with elongated and compressed forms as well as with less conventional tools. Such elements as letter spacing, line spacing, balance, proportion and negative space will be explored in a series of design problems. The final project will be a small hand-bound and hand-lettered manuscript book.

section 2: Thurs. 11:00-1:00
section 3: Thurs. 3:00-5:00

B22 Painting Foundations I
Bill Maynard
This is a basic painting course which will introduce students to the basic procedures, tools and materials necessary for acrylic and oil painting. Through a series of structured exercises and problems the student will learn sound technical approaches to the use of these media while exploring the surface, tactile and optical qualities of paint. Assignments will range from the representational to the abstract in order to encourage and foster basic proficiency in the handling of the form, spatial and plastic aspects of painting.

section 3: Wed. 10:30-1:30

B23 Painting Foundations II
prerequisite: B22
Bill Maynard
Building upon the experiences of Painting Foundations I, this course is aimed at establishing competence in the utilization of the oil paint media in conveying form and spatial information. Through both portrait and still life situations the special properties of the oil paint media will be explored. In addition watercolor will be introduced to familiarize the student with the qualities inherent in transparent painting media.

B30 Color I: Principles & Techniques
Harry Bartnick
The study of color is supportive of all other studio disciplines and is a vital prerequisite to any other visual medium. We will approach the study of color through the medium of paint. In this way the student can create and modify the ranges of hue, value and color strength, and apply this experience directly to any other color medium. For this reason, a large segment of the color course is given to mastering color/paint mixing and paint application. Other areas of study include: color 'chords' based on the geometry of the color circle; mixing near-grey tones from complements; harmony of analogous colors; contemporary and traditional views of color proportion; color gradation; temperature contrasts as a means of suggesting space, light, and shadow; the effect which context has on color perception. The student's response through outside homework is of primary importance and will be reviewed in terms of the degree of comprehension and involvement as well as excellence in craft and presentation.

section 3: Tues. 2:00-5:00

B31 Color II: Image & Design
prerequisite: B30
Harry Bartnick
This second semester course in color will take the student into more diverse areas of color exploration. Included will be: creation of spatial illusion through color; representation of the qualities of color through three-dimensional models; phenomena of light transmission, reception and perception; investigation of other color media including direct light (additive color), transparent and projected color. Also covered will be the psychological aspects of color and a study of both past and present views on the use of color in art.

B34 Basic Design I: Visualization & Process
Michael Brodeur
A continuation of Basic Design I, this course will emphasize the application of principles, studied during the first semester in abstract terms, to a variety of applied situations ranging from the functional to the expressive. This course will also expand the principles of organization from the flat two-dimensional surface into the area of three-dimensional space and form. Additional tools and materials will be introduced throughout the semester. The student will also be encouraged to apply his/her developing critical faculties to the practical problem of analyzing and critiquing artwork.

B35 Basic Design II: Application & 3-D Principles
prerequisite: B34
Michael Brodeur
The ultimate goal of this course is to develop on the part of the student an understanding of and basic proficiency in the logic and structure of two-dimensional organization. All visual communications consist of the various elements of the visual language (i.e. line, value, shape, texture, color, etc.), and to form an effective communication the divergent elements must be successfully combined resulting in a unified whole. This course will introduce the student to the constituent elements of this language and will provide the principles of organization by means of which the student can successfully create unified and exciting visual statements. Exercises and outside assignments will progress from the simple to the more complex in order to enable the student to handle the variables involved. Emphasis will be placed upon the "designing process" and various visualization techniques utilized in the development of solutions to problems of visual communication. In addition, basic tools, media and technical skills necessary for effective visual communication will be introduced.

Pictorial Space I: Perspective
Steve Gildea
Perspective is a system of contour control developed at the beginning of the Renaissance which enables the artist to create a naturalistic illusion of three-di­men­sional space on a flat surface. The course will introduce the principles and practices of perspective and explore the relationship that theses concepts have to the development of images from imagination, observation and plans. Both freehand and mechanical pro­ces­ses will be covered in the development of images where the student's primary focus is the effective control of the illusion of space.

Pictorial Space II:
20th Century Art Movements
Steve Gildea
From the Renaissance through the 19th cen­tu­ry artists created images that conveyed the illusion of three dimensions. Beginning in the late 19th century, however, and with ac­celer­ating pace and interest in the 20th cen­tu­ry, artists began to experiment with alter­na­tive spatial systems. This course is design­ed to give students a 'hands-on' famili­arity with 20th century art movements such as cubism, neoplasticism, abstract expres­sionism and others that undertook important experiments with the nature of space.

Ideas of Western Art I & II
Charles Giuliano
This is a two semester lecture course designed to acquaint the student with the major concepts and ideas of Western art.
The role of the artist within a cultural context will be explored as it relates to the image making process. Emphasis will be placed on the interplay of the ideas of the past with the image making process of our contemporary society. The objective of this course is to provide a path by means of which the stu­dent may take the ideas and lessons ex­tracted from the study of art history and turn these ideas into meaningful insights that are utilized in the studio.

Seminar
Faculty and Guests A series of lectures, discussions and demonstrations by faculty members and guest speakers which is designed to expose the first year student to the career objectives of the Major Programs in order that an in­formed choice of a major field of study may be made at the end of the Foundation year.

GRAPHIC DESIGN DEPARTMENT
G04
Reprographics
Christine Szydio
This course is designed to familiarize students with a wide range of graphic arts processes through the study and practice of various methods involved in preparing original art (drawings, designs, photographs) for reproduction and printing. A major em­phasis will be placed on learning to operate and control the photostat camera with a variety of image-receiving materials (films, papers, etc.). The course will also include an in-depth introduction to the half-tone through exercises with several types of contact screens (e.g. elliptical dot, line, mezzotint, etc.). Proofing systems such as 3M color­key and chromatek color transfers will also be used throughout the course, thus providing the student with valuable practical skills.

Graphic Design Production
Christine Szydio
The principles and techniques used in the development of art work from design through to final printing. Layout, comprehensive, paste-up and mechanical preparation will be considered in relation to the various printing media. Field trips and lectures by individuals employed in the various areas of the graphic design production field will familiarize the student with a wide variety of techniques and operations. Also included will be an introduc­tion to practical business aspects such as making estimates, quotations and contracts and adhering to a realistic schedule.

prerequisite: G06,07
Joe Eiller
This course will stress the practical application of the principles and techniques developed in Graphic Design Production. Emphasis will be placed on increasing sophistication in the use of tools and materials and increasing refinement in terms of the speed and accuracy of their application. Where possible, design problems encountered in other courses will be followed through to production stage and examined for practicability.

Typography for the Designer
Laura Golly
The study and practical application of typography and typographic design as they relate to clear communication by the graphic designer. Major areas of study will include: the history and evolution of alphabets and type faces; typographic terminology; type classification and identification; copyfitting; type selection and specification; typesetting equipment and technology; typographic design and legibility. The aim of this course is to develop in the student an awareness of the enormous impact typography has on design. In addition, the course seeks to develop practical skills which will allow the student to intelligently discuss, select, order and evaluate type and its appropriateness to a given task. Students in this course will also learn about modern computerized typesetting equipment and may have class projects set in type.

Advanced Typography
prerequisite: G10,11
Virginia Just
A senior level course designed to reinforce and refine the skills developed in Typography for the Designer. It is the goal of this course to help the student understand that typography is an integral part of any design/advertising solution. Thus the course will involve projects relating directly to other senior level courses such as Advertising Design II and Graphic Design II. Assignments will involve work in areas such as newspapers, magazines, billboards, packaging and tabular material such as charts and coupons.

Introduction to Computerized Typesetting
Kathy Murray, Jessee Carter
This course will provide an intensive, in-depth introduction to the practical use, operation and application of computerized typesetting equipment. Hands-on time with computerized typesetting equipment (the School's Compugraphic MCS Powerview 10/8000 system) will form an integral part of the course and students will execute actual composition exercises throughout the course. In addition to covering typesetting functions the course will include lessons in computerized editing and file management. Basic typesetting terminology, conventional rules of typography, and typeface classification and recognition will also be discussed. In order that students may have sufficient time to use the equipment enrollment will be limited to six persons.

G24
Illustrating for Publications
Bonnie Dann
This course is designed for students who are considering a career in illustration. We will concentrate on editorial or publishing assignments and try to simulate the professional working process from the time the illustrator receives the manuscript to the time the piece goes on press. Emphasis will be placed on developing the ability to create powerful, effective illustration within a set of guidelines and restrictions. For each assignment the student will receive a manuscript, a layout and color restrictions or specifications. We will discuss methods of interpreting the manuscript to develop visual ideas. We will shoot 35mm photographs to use as reference. The students will present sketches to the class and accept input from others in the class functioning as art directors would. We will discuss printing reproduction methods and the potential problems specific pieces could have. The finished pieces from this class will be the beginning of a professional illustrator's portfolio.

G26,27
Illustration I
Dorothea Sierra
In this course students will learn to work in a variety of media used in professional illustration. The markets available to the illustrator and what media are appropriate for a specific market will be discussed. The course will concentrate on developing the ability to draw real objects and real people, often from a client's specifications. Illustrating from a manuscript or from a layout will also be included. Several free projects will be included in the course, but the main emphasis will be learning the skills necessary for meeting a client's specific illustration needs.

Applied Illustration
prerequisite: G27
Dan Daly
This senior level course will concern itself with the preparation of illustrations for specific markets within the advertising, graphic design and publishing fields. Areas covered will include illustration for trade and textbooks, newspapers, consumer and trade magazines, catalogs, and brochures, and a range of advertising applications (products, people, issues, etc.). Special emphasis will be placed on developing proficiency in a wide variety of media (pencil, pen and ink, watercolor, airbrush, stipple) and on learning different methods of preparing artwork for reproduction. Developing a style appropriate to a particular market will be stressed throughout the course and an important feature of the course will be guest lectures and critiques from professional illustrators and artists' representatives. Also included will be such practical considerations as the role of the art director in buying illustrations, working with a representative, developing a "clip file", and shooting polaroid photos for quick reference.

Professional Illustration Seminar
prerequisite: G27
Dorothea Sierra and Guest Illustrators
The student enrolled in this course will have the opportunity of working with visiting professional illustrators from the Boston area. (Guests scheduled for the Fall 1986 semester include Jim Carson, Marty Swanson and Jamie Hogan.) Each guest illustrator will give an assignment relevant to their expertise. In a period of four weeks the development of concept, technique, professionalism and execution will be emphasized.

Editorial Graphics
Ed Germano
This course will consist of the study and practice of newspaper and magazine editorial art. Areas considered will include the editorial cartoon, the editorial illustration and news illustrations. Assigned problems will be based on current news developments and on earlier events which still have an effect on contemporary life. Idea research, a creative approach to the problem, layout skills, production knowledge and a familiarity with the purposes of the publication will be stressed.

Techniques & Concepts of Illustration
prerequisite: F03, or instructor permission
Carl Jackson
The first semester of this course will be an advanced extension of Drawing Techniques II (F02,03). Assignments utilizing various media will be given, but the character of assignments will be much more clearly related to editorial forms of illustration. The concept of translating a verbal idea into a viable visual image while attaining a level of finish worthy of publication is the goal of the first semester. In the second semester assignments will be fewer and each will be treated as finished artwork for publication. Students will have more freedom to pursue individual stylistic and media responses to problems. Class discussions, slide presentations and guest lectures will offer information regarding the variety of opportunities open to skilled illustrators.

Graphic Design I
Marsha Hewitt
Emphasizing the creative process from thumbnail sketch to comprehensive, this course will introduce the student to the language, tools and techniques used by the professional graphic designer. Attention will be paid both to conceptualization and presentation in solving design problems, including logos, posters, brochures and mailers. As a survey and overview of graphic design, a goal of the course is to provide the student with sufficient information to allow him or her to choose an area of concentration at the senior level.

Package Design
prerequisite: G41, G55
Joe Eiler
This course will cover both the creative and practical aspects of designing for packages, and will stress the importance of three-dimensionality. The restrictions and requirements of a number of package types (including boxes, polybags, cans, plastics, blister cards) will be examined. Emphasis will be placed on the effective use of typography, photography, illustration and color in a three-dimensional format. Also studied will be basic aspects of marketing: the logic behind a design, product positioning, competitive brands, audience appeal, etc.

Basic Publication Design
Jean Hammond
A course in beginning book and magazine design for graphic designers which will focus on the skills necessary to create a text page. Topics covered will include the use of the haberdasher, understanding picas, the importance of leading, and what type faces are suitable for text and display. Also covered will be sizing and positioning photographs and illustrations, and estimating the length of a book. In addition to the traditional method of preparing pencil layouts, students will be given the opportunity of setting up sample pages on the school’s phototypesetting equipment. Two complete book designs incorporating illustration, graphics and photography (complete with layouts and specifications) will complete the semester.

Intermediate Publication Design
prerequisite: G50
Jean Hammond
A continuation of Basic Publication Design, this course will involve the student in practical, in-depth application of the principles and skills acquired during the first semester. Three major projects will be executed, each following a problem through from concept to completed design. Emphasis will be placed on the development of an increased sensitivity to book and magazine typography, the ability to create complex layoutss, and the utilization of each student’s talents (whether they be in graphics, illustration or photography). With the added ability to set type on the School’s phototypesetter, the student will be able to prepare a professional book and magazine design portfolio.

Advertising Design I
Stephen Lyons
A broad introductory survey of typical problems encountered by the professional advertising designer. The course will stress the development of the methodology most commonly used in advertising design: i.e. the progression from concept to thumbnail, to roughs, to layout. Emphasis will be placed on print media, including newspaper and magazine advertising, direct mail, billboard and point-of-purchase.

John Cooney
A survey of a broad range of typical advertising design problems which will stress sophistication in concept, development and execution. Projects will range from single ads to fully developed advertising campaigns and will include work for newspapers, magazines (both trade and consumer), billboards and point-of-purchase. The ultimate goal of the course is the preparation of a professional quality advertising art director’s portfolio.

Advertising Workshop
prerequisite: G55
Jamie Aromaa
This course is designed for the serious student who plans to make his/her career in the world of advertising agencies and studios. The course will take projects from other senior level advertising design courses and examine them in terms of advertising and marketing theory. The student will learn about trade vs. consumer advertising, hard-sell vs. soft-sell, etc. Advertising concept, copy content and visual solution will be stressed as component parts of a successful whole.

Basic Photography
open to freshmen
Jim Haberman, Linda White
A thorough introduction to the basics of camera use and control, and darkroom procedures for developing and printing black and white photographs. Emphasis will be placed on learning by doing and the course will involve extensive use of the darkroom. An appreciation for aesthetic concerns will be developed by critiques of student work and class discussions of the work of influential photographers.

Intermediate Photography
prerequisite: G60
Jim Haberman, Linda White
This course is a continuation of Basic Photography and concerns itself with two major areas: advanced camera and darkroom techniques and the application of these techniques in communicating a personal message. The format of the course will involve extensive use of the darkroom and will feature class critiques of student work and class discussions of the work of influential photographers.

Advanced Photography
prerequisite: G61
Jim Haberman
The aim of this course is to introduce future commercial artists to a wide variety of photographic topics in order that they will be able to deal more effectively with photographs and photographers in their future field of endeavor. The course is designed to expand the basic concepts learned in earlier photography courses, allowing the class members to make more sophisticated images. The majority of the material will cover technical subjects and will be presented as a survey of the many different processes in photography. Among the topics included in the course are studio work, documentary photography, non-silver processes, color photography and the manipulated print.

Art Direction for Photography
prerequisite: G41 or G55, G61
Instructor to be announced
A senior level course for Graphic Design majors, this course is designed to familiarize students with photography for use in advertising and design. Emphasis will be placed on the art director’s role in planning and directing photographic sessions both in the studio and on location. Field trips and guest lectures from professional photographers and art directors will help the design student to understand the techniques, equipment and processes involved in order that they may creatively and intelligently design with photography.

Introduction to Airbrush
Ted Fillios, To be announced
This course will concentrate on mastering the basic airbrush techniques required to produce both commercial and fine art work. Areas explored will include rendering, photoretouching and production. Within the category of rendering the course will deal with advertising illustration, posters, animation, fine art painting and special effects. Production techniques will cover textiles, toys and ceramics, as well as more straightforward applications of the medium. The early portions of the course will emphasize the development of a working familiarity with airbrush equipment, materials and paints. This will be followed by exercises in line, solid form, brush and wash techniques. The latter portions of the course will progress through to finished renderings and retouching jobs.

Introduction to Computer Graphics
Jill Fitzgerald, Steve Gildea
This course is designed to introduce students to the use of the computer as an artist’s tool. Topics of discussion will include basic computer concepts and systems, computer terminology, major applications of computer graphics in industry, and the role of the designer/artist. Students will also be introduced to the School’s four different computer graphics systems (Datamax UV-1, Targa 16, Commodore 64, Amiga) and will be expected to complete outside assignments using these systems. Field trips to manufacturers and users of computer graphics systems will also be included. Enrollment will be limited to 6 persons and priority will be given to seniors.

Computer Graphics Workshop
Jill Fitzgerald
prerequisite: G86
This course is designed to expand on the studies begun in Introduction to Computer Graphics. Through a series of lectures, demonstrations, assignments and field trips, along with a sizeable commitment to hands-on time, the student will develop a familiarity with computer graphics technology in general and the School’s systems in particular. Areas covered include computer ‘paint’ programs, video input and digitization, and the handling of software.

Corporate Design
prerequisite: G41
Karl Johnson
This course will focus on the creation and application of designs within business and industry. Areas of study will include identification of client problems, definition of objectives to solve the problems, and the establishment of design strategies to accomplish the objectives. Specific emphasis will be placed on the analysis and development of corporate identity systems, including the development of logotypes, stationery, signage systems, annual reports and forms. Also included will be graphic design applications to the various advertising, marketing and public relations pieces associated with corporate design. The course will expose the student to the unique aspects of design directed to identify, establish and promote the business community. Emphasis will be given to the role of the artist in the corporate design environment. Also stressed will be the interrelationships between the advertising, marketing, public relations and communications functions for which the designs are created.

Broadcast Advertising
prerequisite: G55
John Cooney
This course will explore and examine the creation of graphics for telecommunications media. Television (including cable and closed-circuit), videotape and film will be addressed and students will be made aware of the techniques and applications utilized in these broadcast media. Problems unique to this industry will be discussed and their impact on design solutions explored. Included will be field trips to studios and locations that will expose the student to the wide range of tools and techniques used by professional film, video and A/V producers. Students will thus be given an opportunity to see commercials followed through all stages of production from storyboarding through production to distribution. New technologies in broadcasting and their effect on design will also be discussed.

INTERIOR / ENVIRONMENTAL DESIGN DEPARTMENT

E12A
Environmental Control Systems: HVAC
Instructor to be announced
An introduction to the mechanical systems of heating, ventilating and air conditioning of interior environments will be studied in lecture format. The quality of space and the implications mechanical systems have for environmental/human comfort will be addressed as pertinent issues for the interior design student and his or her own design work.

Lighting: Theory, Application & Design II
prerequisites: E14A, E40
Anne Robinson
A continuation of the introductory course on the art and science of illumination, with greater stress on applications. This lecture and workshop series will draw on the knowledge obtained in Lighting: Theory, Application & Design I, enabling the student to become more familiar with the procedures for designing, and the particular design criteria for, specific types of residential and commercial spaces.

Interior Design Studio I
prerequisite: B40 or departmental permission
James Futral/Nancy Roper
The first interior design studio in a series, this course will address itself to the implications mechanical systems have for designing, and the particular design solutions particular to individual problems will be investigated through freehand drawing, drafting and models. Projects will be short in duration, sometimes complex in nature and dealing with both commercial and residential environmental situations.

E21
Interior Design Studio II
prerequisite: E20
James Futral/Nancy Roper
Everything being best understood in its context, this design studio will further the investigations of Interior Design Studio I through a more complex series of problems of longer duration. Design methodology, spatial planning and environmental systems will become of greater importance in problems of commercial and residential spaces. As in the first studio, the objectives will be the student's understanding of and ability to effectively deal with interior problems of light, color, shadow, sound, texture and volume.

Site Planning & Landscape Design
prerequisite: B40 or departmental permission
Richard List
A course intended to introduce students of interior/environmental design to the fundamental principles, theories and resources necessary to establish a working vocabulary of site planning and landscape design. An understanding of site analysis, climatic con­ tions, vehicular and pedestrian traffic flow patterns as well as qualitative and documentable aspects of the landscaped/built environment interface enable the student to facilitate personal investigations into landscape design and eventually to effectively design with interior landscaped space.

E23
Landscape Design & Interior Plantings
prerequisite: E22
Richard List
A continuation of the study and investigation of site planning and landscape design, this course is intended to further the student's knowledge and understanding of the theory, application and practice of landscape design in the interior/exterior interface. Through various projects relating to the design studies the student will develop an attitude toward the landscaped interior environment and pursue the study of interior plantings as elements of interior design.

E24
Furniture Design & Construction I
prerequisite: E41
Al Columbro
A seminar/studio which will investigate the various materials and techniques used in the fabrication of furniture, as well as drawing and presentation techniques appropriate to this study. Through a series of design problems the student will develop the design process from concept to presentation. Letures, field trips and class critiques aid the student in developing a thorough knowledge of the furniture design industry.

Tues 11:30-1:30

E25
Furniture Design & Construction II
prerequisite: E24
Al Columbro
A continuation of the studies of Furniture Design & Construction I, this course will allow the student to pursue the design of various pieces of cabinetry, furniture and acessories pertinent to particular projects undertaken in the design studios. Where desirable, this course will work in conjunction with drafting courses in developing informational detailing.

E26
Interior Design Studio III:
Commercial Design
prerequisites: E21, E41, E45
Instructor to be announced
This senior (third year) level design studio concentrates on the beginning phases of the design process. Programming and schematic design are the particular phases that will be covered in the course. The programming phase covers the design problem definition through information gathering and research of a particular client type. It is a brief directive, outlining the course of actions and the criteria to be followed in both planning and design. The schematic design phase is the interpretation of the program requirements by studies and drawings to illustrate basic interior architectural concepts (i.e. space requirements and relationships, circulation, scale, general appearance and scope of the project). This will be accomplished by the following methods: lecture/slide/discussion, individual term projects, sketch problems,
desk critiques, and formal presentations.

E27
Interior Design Studio V: Commercial Design
prerequisite: E26
Instructor to be announced
This second semester course in commercial design will be a continuation of Interior Design Studio III and will concentrate on the processes of design development through work­ing drawings and specifications. The design development phase follows the approval of schematic design. It includes the design determination and coordination of all interior architectural elements. This phase results in drawings and documentation, plus additional material as necessary to illustrate final development and insure that all significant design questions and problems have been answered. The working drawing and specifications phase transforms the preceding approved design development package into a set of detailed documents.
This will be accomplished by the following methods: lecture/slide/discussion, individual term projects, sketch problems, desk critiques, and formal presentations.

Interior Design Studio IV:
Residential Design
prerequisites: E21, E41, E45
Barbara Kingsbury
This course will address itself to the planning and design of residential structures. A survey of American residential styles from Colonial to contemporary times will be undertaken in conjunction with field trips. Design problems will address adaptive reuse, multi-family and single family housing, using drawings and models as tools.

E29
Interior Design Studio VI:
Residential Design
prerequisite: E28
Barbara Kingsbury
A continuation of the studies of Interior Design Studio IV, this course will focus on contemporary residential buildings. The student will study and analyze a variety of current approaches to single family and multi-family residences. Two major design problems will be undertaken: one an attached housing complex and one single family residence.

E40
Contract Drafting I: Basic
prerequisite: B40 or
departmental permission
Doug MacElroy
A course designed to familiarize students with the basic concepts and equipment necessary for visualizing space and geomeric objects in specific graphic illustrative terms known as plans, elevations and sections. The course aims to provide students with a working knowledge of the processes, graphic and reproductive, used to produce a basic set of contract drawings necessary in the planning and design of interior spaces for commercial or residential use.
fall semester, 1 credit
one 2 hour meeting per week

E41
Contract Drafting II: Intermediate
prerequisite: E40
Doug MacElroy
A continuation of the studies of Contract Drafting I with an emphasis on increasing sophistication in concepts, techniques and use of tools. In addition to floor plans, elevations and sections the student will be intro-troduced to production manuals; the problems of electrical, lighting, telephone and furniture requirements; working with typical specifications and finish schedules. Projects include will sometimes involve problems iniitially encountered in Interior Design Studios I and II.

one 2 hour meeting per week
Tues. 2:30-4:30

E42
Contract Drafting III: Advanced
prerequisite: E41
John Parrillo
This course will serve as an extension of the studies of Contract Drafting I and II. Its objectives are the production of professional quality work for presentation and portfolio purposes. Class problems will refine drafting skills and will work in conjunction with some problems from Interior Design Studios III and IV.
fall semester, 1 credit
one 2 hour meeting per week
Mon. 12:00-2:00

E43
Contract Drafting IV: Contract Documents
prerequisite: E42
John Parrillo
Contract documents, which are perhaps better known as "working drawings" will be the focus of this course. Drawing on the student's prior background in drafting techniques, this course will continue the study of informational detailing in the pursuit of pro-essional quality drawings which will document design work.

Architectural Rendering I: Freehand Drawing
prerequisite: B40
Terry Cracknell
A course designed to introduce students to fundamental concepts, tools and techniques necessary for visualizing and representing three-dimensional space. The course is directed toward developing the ability to draw with speed and accuracy in three dimensions as well as increasing the student's spatial awareness and sensitivity.
fall semester, 1 credit
one 2 hour meeting per week
Thurs. 11:30-1:30

E45
Architectural Rendering II: Design Drawing
prerequisite: E44
Terry Cracknell
A continuation of Architectural Rendering I which will concentrate on developing the principles of design drawing. Heavy emphasis will be placed on trace overlays as this course will act primarily as a workshop and will strive to quickly produce a wide variety of design solutions through specific application of a complex graphic vocabulary. Specific areas of study include: commercial and residential environments; urban design problems; landscape design problems.
spring semester, 1 credit
one 2 hour meeting per week

E46
Architectural Rendering III:
Mechanical Perspective
prerequisite: E45
Rainer Koch
An introduction to the study of mechanical perspective, isometric drawing techniques and axonometric drawing techniques. This course will utilize Interior Design Studio problems and will strive to develop skills for describing designed space with a wide range of graphic possibilities in a highly refined and specific manner. The course will also consider reproduction techniques, media and materials, photographic presentations, shade, shadow and rendering techniques.

E47
Architectural Rendering IV: Delineation
prerequisite: E46
Rainer Koch
A course aimed at producing students capable of a high resolution of graphic presentation of space. The student will pursue several projects from concept through design drawing to finished presentation drawing. Specific areas of study include:
hardline drawings; detailed renderings;
media and materials; delineation techniques for interior materials, textures, glass, water, sky and ground cover.

Interior Structural Systems: Basic Elements of Construction
Rainer Koch
A lecture course intended to introduce the interior/environmental design student to the foundations of contemporary technology and methods as they apply to the preliminary investigations of residential and commercial space and structures. The aim of this course is to make the student aware of the resources available and the limitations of construction techniques which ultimately affect any design solution.

Architecture: History & Analysis I
Carol Rusche
This course is the first part of a two semester survey of the history of architecture and the analysis of architecture. In order to gain a full and usable understanding of history, it is important to study history in two ways: 1) in its historical context and 2) as an artifact from the past. In the spirit of its historical context, history will be studied as a survey course with illustrated lectures, readings and discussions. In order to study examples from history as artifact and to gain a means for using architecture for contemporary design needs, a formal analysis of architecture and discussion time will be allocated. The goal of the course is to develop the student's critical abilities in the understanding of the significance of architecture in the age of its design as well as the ability to use the understanding of a building as we see it now in current design problems.

The course will provide the student with a knowledge of major architectural developments from the ancient civilizations of Egypt, Greece and Rome through to the Baroque era.

FASHION ILLUSTRATION DEPARTMENT

102,03 Fashion Rendering I
Frank Raneo
This course will emphasize the development of drawing skills as they relate to the special requirements of the fashion field. A heavy emphasis will be placed on the human figure, both male and female, and its interpretation for fashion and advertising purposes. Included are studies in anatomical proportion, movement, foreshortening, facial expression and hair styles. Exercises in fabric rendering will explore techniques for rendering textures (e.g. cotton, wool, leather, velvet, knits) and patterns (e.g. stripes, floral prints, plaids, paisley) commonly encountered in professional work. Fashion related products and accessories such as jewelry, handbags, cosmetics and shoes will also be dealt with. The execution of these exercises will involve the student in the practical application of a wide variety of drawing media and techniques, ranging from simple line art to full-color renderings. Throughout, the emphasis will be placed on the preparation of camera-ready art work.

104,05 Fashion Rendering II
prerequisite: 103
Judy Tufts
This course will continue the studies of Fashion Rendering I on a more sophisticated and professional level. A heavy emphasis will be placed on interpretive renderings of products and styles - i.e. learning how to effectively project both the literal reality and the desired image or impression simultaneously. Continuing studies of the human figure and fabric renderings will teach the student to deal creatively and originally with poses, textures and patterns. The ultimate goal of the course is the preparation of a professional quality portfolio of fashion illustrations.

FASHION DEPARTMENT

106,07 Fashion Layout I
Frank Raneo
This course will concern itself with the overall layout and design of fashion advertising pieces. Far more than good drawing is involved in the preparation of successful advertising and it is the goal of this course to make the student competent in dealing with these other elements. The course will therefore deal with problems which overlap in graphic design: problems in page organization, type measurement and specification, mechanicals and paste-up. Throughout the emphasis will be placed on the special problems encountered in fashion advertising. Such problems will include the effective arrangement of figures and products illustrated and the relationship between the illustration and other elements such as copy, logos and photographs.

FASHION ILLUSTRATION AND DESIGN DEPARTMENT

108,09 Fashion Layout II
prerequisite: 107
Frank Raneo
A continuation of Fashion Layout I, this course will deal primarily with the practical application of the principles and skills learned in the prerequisite course. Assignments given will emphasize the production of finished layouts and will therefore stress an effective balance of drawing, type and space. Students will also be given an opportunity to expand their skills beyond the level of single page advertisements and into brochure and catalogue design. As with the senior level rendering course, this course will aim for the preparation of a professional quality portfolio.

FINE ARTS DEPARTMENT

F02,03 Drawing Techniques I
Bill Maynard
An introductory course in drawing, emphasizing the use of line, tone, and texture in the communication of visual form. Instruction in the use of graphite and charcoal as well as other drawing materials will be provided. Emphasis will be placed on the development of the descriptive and interpretive skills necessary for the expression of ideas and concepts through the visual arts.

F24,25 Drawing Techniques II: Advanced
Carl Jackson
An in-depth continuation of the study of drawing. A wide range of materials for drawing with color will be explored, with emphasis on mixed-media possibilities. A major aspect of the course will be the search for personal means of image generation, using the self-portrait, narrative sequences, collage, and the use of projected and grid adaptations. Critiques and ongoing class discussion will aid in developing the verbal skills necessary for appraising the visual elements and qualities of works produced by each student.

F34 Contemporary Realism
Harry Barnett
A studio painting course which will explore current directions (both painterly and superrealist) in representational painting. Following the lead of Pop Art (and often strongly influenced by abstraction) contemporary realists have expanded the possibilities of representational painting to create a new, distinctly modern art, generally referred to as 'New Realism'. Students will combine given problems with self-determined projects to gain an understanding of the qualities and motives behind this work and to find an expressive vehicle in the depiction of perceived reality. Occasionally the class will visit galleries to see and discuss painting related to the course.

Basic Silkscreen Techniques
Christine Szydio
The technical and aesthetic possibilities of a variety of silkscreen techniques will be explored in this introductory course. Fine arts and commercial uses of the medium will be considered, including cut paper stencils, cut film stencils, single and multi-color prints and an introduction to photographic techniques. Individual and group criticisms will evaluate the student's work and progress.

F60.61
Life Drawing II: Rendering
Carl Jackson
Building on the Foundation Program course in life drawing this course will continue to build insights and abilities in drawing from the nude and draped model. Proportion, foreshortening, the use of space, compositional problems and anatomical structure will all be considered in relation to a growing familiarity with a variety of drawing techniques and media.

Life Drawing II: Concepts
Audrey Goldstein
This course will focus on the study of the nude in relation to the history of the use of the nude in art. The styles of contemporary and past artists will be discussed in relation to the student's own progress in making use of the nude as a vehicle for expression. Both representational and more abstract techniques will be studied and practiced.

Life Drawing III: Concepts
prerequisite: F61 or F69
Audrey Goldstein
This course is designed for senior students whose drawing abilities have reached an advanced level and will stress the use of the model as the starting point for interpretive drawing and illustration. A continuing historical study of the use of the figure will suggest styles and approaches to be explored.

Life Painting Studio
Linda Brown
Life Painting Studio is designed to explore basic technical and conceptual approaches as they apply to painting the figure from life. Using a direct, alla prima method, students will work on exercises in composition, light and shadow modeling, and with several alternative color systems on white and toned grounds. The model will be studied both clothed and nude, with attention given to texture and detail in drapery as well as anatomical construction. Ongoing critiques will address individual student progress while providing direction and inspiration for further development of paintings outside of class time. The course will foster a deeper understanding of the human form while allowing students to pursue personal painterly expression and interpretation. In addition it can be of significant value to students of fashion and book illustration by offering them an opportunity to strengthen technique in line, color and brushwork.

Research Tutorial

The highly motivated, inquisitive student will sometimes find that a specific direction of study in which he or she is interested is not covered by an existing course at NESA/D. For example, an Interior/Environmental Design student may desire to develop his or her ability to photograph interior and architectural space, and although this area of photography may have been introduced in an existing photography course, no course is currently offered which covers the subject in depth. In order to accommodate such students NESA/D has developed the Research Tutorial. Working closely with a faculty advisor a student will write a clearly defined program of study, drawing on the resources available at NESA/D and elsewhere. Such a proposal will then be presented to the appropriate Department Chairman and the Administration. If found acceptable, the student may then pursue this individually designed program of study. At the end of the semester the student’s work will be evaluated and appropriate credit given. Only full-time students in good standing may apply for Research Tutorial and a maximum of two credits per semester will be given. All Research Tutorial proposals must have clearly defined objectives, methods and schedules and must demonstrate significant professional/vocational relevance. All such proposals must be approved by a faculty advisor, the appropriate Department Chairman and the Administration.

Work-Study

The Work-Study Program of The New England School of Art & Design is a program which is designed to give senior students experience in and exposure to the realities of the professional world of art and design. Under this program a student may be placed with an agency, studio, business firm, etc. whose work is directly related to the student’s major field of study. In such settings students work on a part-time basis and function essentially as apprentice employees. Participating students receive credit for such work, the amount of credit being dependent on the amount of time devoted to Work-Study. This program is open to full-time students only and is ordinarily limited to seniors. Participating students may substitute Work-Study for elective courses, but may not be released from required courses of their Department. Students may earn no more than 6 credits for Work-Study and one credit will be given for every 45 hours of Work-Study. All Work-Study time must be confirmed in writing in order for credit to be given. All Work-Study arrangements must be approved by the appropriate Department Chairman and the School prior to student participation. The objectives of the Work-Study Program are purely educational in nature and therefore students may not be paid for their Work-Study time (i.e. that time for which they are receiving credit).
