ERWIN CANHAM SPEAKS MAY 9th

The culmination of that "extra effort" displayed by students throughout the year will find its reward on May 9th during the Recognition Day ceremony in the Auditorium.

The two-hour affair which begins at 11 a.m. will feature Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, as its principal speaker.

TV Moderator

Canham, who moderates "Starving the Editors," a TV program which is seen on Channel 4 Sun day afternoon, holds several awards for his "constant devotion to responsible journalism, and his dedication to greater understanding among peoples and nations."

In 1949, ex-president Harry S. Truman appointed Canham to serve as the alternate U.S. representative at the April meeting of the U.N. General Assembly at Lake Success, New York.

Later in the same year Canham, speaking on Newspaper Day in Maine, sized up the trend of American thought for the future saying "We have fallen into the inferiority complex."

Now we are defending the status quo and that the other fellow possesses the revolution. Actually we have the revolutionary doctrine of free man and the free economy."

Scholastic Test Advisable For Incoming Frosh

Dean Goodrich has announced that all high school seniors who are planning to enter Suffolk in the Fall should take the Scholastic Aptitude Test, which is a part of College Boards.

By taking this exam in high school, it is easier to screen applicants for admission into the college departments.

Not Compulsory

Dean Goodrich said "The Scholastic Aptitude Test will not be compulsory for admission, because some high school students do not always know whether or not they will go to college." He added, "Suffolk feels that it is willing to give these students a chance if they meet all other requirements."

Presently, the Ohio State University Psychological Exam for College Freshmen along with the Wexler-Bellvue Intelligence Scale, are given to people who are in the lower-half of their high school class.

Some day, in the near future, Suffolk hopes to have College Boards as one of its requirements for admission.

his message following the awarding of Journal keys by the paper's editor, Dick Booker.

Jim Kelly, student government president, has lined up an impressive schedule for the event. Included in it are: the awarding of athletic trophies by Coach Charles Law; an acceptance speech by Suffolk's queen, Maureen Sugrue; the results of the school elections, songs by Hazel and the Glee Club, and the presentation of alumni awards, and other awards.

The event has been diligently planned and should provide an interesting day for the entire school. Both the Journal and the Student Government would like to see as many as 1000 students as is humanly possible because this is YOUR day. It's May 9th Friday, beginning at 11 a.m.

$25 Awaits Essayist. Why Not Try It?

A cash prize of $25 awaits someone who can write an intelligent essay on the subject of censorship. As a class student might be interested to know that the Journal has not been flooded with contributions. May 31st is the deadline, and it is impossible to accept anyone's essay after that date.

Dr. Ella Murphy and Mr. Edmund Reiss, both of the English department, have offered their services as judges.

As a final reminder, THE DEADLINE is May 31. It would be a good idea to get busy. It's entirely possible that someone could use an extra $25 to supplement their income.

Maureen Sugrue Acclaimed Queen

Miss Suffolk of 1958 — a 19 year old blue-eyed college, Miss Maureen Elizabeth Sugrue, was crowned March 15 at the University Coronation Ball in the Empire Room of the Hotel Bradford by last year's queen Miss Celia Letourney.

Miss Sugrue was chosen by student ballot from seven finalists, who composed her royal court. The queen-elect was unknown to the student body or the contestants until the actual crowning at approximately 10:30 p.m. Student Council President, Jim Kelley, and the Ballot Committee kept their secret well guarded.

Junior Tradition Broken

This was the first time in several years that a sophomore crowned has been elected. The now abdicated throne of 1954-1955 was held by royal members of four successive Junior classes.

The music was provided by Johnny Sisk and his ensemble. WBZ disc jockey Alan Dary was master of ceremonies, and introduced each of the formally attired young ladies with a thumbnail sketch of their college careers. The seven hopefuls were escorted through the throng gathered around the bandstand by their escorts while the orchestra played their favorite songs.

The dramatic scene was set by several drum rolls, the envelope opened. "Miss Suffolk University of 1958 is an eternal pause! Maureen Sugrue." At Alumni Dance made it impracticable for continued that party.

Through the unlimited efforts of the sophomore class president, the Student Council and committee, the occasion "that almost was" was promoted in a relaxed, but elegant Spring sophomore party, whose class success.

Maureen, a jeweled crown snugly set on her head, bedecked with royal robes, and with stars in her eyes, began her reign.

Late in February, the second date and preparation were still vague for the crowning of "her Majesty, the Queen." Previously sponsored by Joint Alumni and University groups, the dance was now the sole concern of the Student Council. Lack of student funds "missing" at last year's Alumni Dance made it impracticable for continued that party.

Loud Library Lulled

Seven students were ordered out of the library recently for conducting a noisy and distracting conversation. Two of the accused offered a mild protest, but filed out as the library clerk asserted her right to maintain order.

The cause of their expulsion is not a new one. Time and again small groups of students knit together and mumble among themselves about a range of subjects which include everything except academics in a place where silence and study theoretically reign supreme.

The act was justified, and future acts of this nature should be used to protect the rights of the serious-minded students who sit in the library for more important reasons than talking. Their study is seriously hampered by the whims of a few inconsiderate talkers.

And so let the conscientious library staff continue its positive acts of control. We endorse these measures wholeheartedly, but with a note of sadness. 'Tis a pity that college students should be told to curb their childish habits in an adult institution.

Editorial Reflections

Modern advertisement has gained a niche as being one of our more lucrative enterprises. And perhaps its crowning achievement rests on the fact that it raised love from the intimate, my-bag-of-chaos of antiquity and billboarded it alongside Coca-Cola as a popular product.

When will the television people stop giving the public what it wants and start producing something good?

Most great fiction is merely an honest opposite of people, society, law, and tradition.

The Concord Reformatory riots proved to the world that everyone in America are not contented cows.

Mr. Truman often reproves Mr. Eisenhower for his persistent glorified endowments, which is similar to a sullen child who's cherished baseball rolled into a sewer.

You have heard that humanity is an orderly, logical, reasonable genre, but we challenge you to pay a visit to any bargain basement on a Saturday and retain this thought.

Our age, like every age that has contained a thinking populace, has regarded itself as the most advanced stage of the evolutionary process. And so it is, the lists have been converted to prize signs; dungeons have found a duplicate in the prison yards, and Utopia remains a myth.

We have no right to think ill of Castro, or the Hungarians for that matter; that is to say, we refuse the right of our race to be dissatisfied with the status quo.

An Intrepid Mailman Brought These

GOOD OL' DAYS

DEAR EDITOR: I read with interest and alarm your article on the lack of discipline in our modern high schools in the November edition of the Suffolk Journal. I recalled an incident in our class room last in 1880. We had a father surely boy as a classmate who was constantly in trouble with the teacher. One day they had a fierce argument, the boy, who was a wooden leg, advanced on the teacher in a menacing fashion. He had forced the teacher to the blackboard when suddenly his leg fell off. The teacher grabbed it and thrashed the boy mercilessly until he was subdued. The boy was silent and obedient for the remainder of the year. The old ways might have been a little harsher but they did have results.

VETERANS LAUDED

DEAR EDITOR: Easter Sunday saw a small group of students from Suffolk University gave their time and energy in comforting the sick children at the Boston City Hospital.

They went through the various wards at the children's Pavilion distributing Easter baskets, singing songs and spreading good cheer. I thought this was a splendid demonstration of what young college people are doing these days. Their act of kindness certainly improved the spirits of my little boy who is a patient there.

I know I express the feelings of all persons involved when I extend my heartfelt thanks.

Yours truly,

Let Not Tuition Blind Your Aim

By DICK BOOKER

As a frantic freshman pointed, on being tipped that another law was passed aiming at his excess cash, "Looks like we're gonna hafta shell out a sadder half of hundred next year to get educated." Now, I'm sure you'll agree that any college student tossing the native vernacular about in so haphazard a manner should devote his lifetime earnings to the improvement of this linguistic sickness, but you would be surprised at the number who do not.

Nevertheless, our less than eloquent observer uttered a poignant truism. It will cost each of you dear readers, and I'm sure your with me, at even $600 next fall to enter school unless, of course, you merely want a drink of water, then you may enter for nothing.

There's more Costly Luxuries Than Suffolk

But, before you contract a case of monetary melancholy, you might find consolation in a few comparisons. Drop that Colt and hear that Harvard, you might think they would never be outdone, topped the field by reaching $1000 for rent, a $250 leap from last year. M.I.T., and they're nobody's fool, jumped up $200, which begs the question: "Are the rockets worth it?"

Frankly, the only thing that's going to hit the moon in our generation are high costs, with the missiles running a poor second. The one blessing of the whole matter is that we're all getting a free ride.

Now, I don't want to sound petty over institutional expenses, since they are cold realities, chilly would be a better word, I think, but I feel I'm entitled to a legitimate complaint as a student. I hope I know my way, at least I know the way far as you must understand that the 'T' is merely a symbol for the student body, aye Ahab.

Fear Excess Tax Will Affect Air

Seriously, the whole subject depresses me. The mere mention of money creates a strangulating constriction in me 'tummy', and forces me to cry WHY? And what irritates me about this why is that I know why, at least I know the why, but to me I realize that in order to get good professors we must offer good money, we certainly don't want poor instructors and poor money. And I realize that personnel and maintenance of our fine universities, but the grocer tells me the same things when tomatoes cost $4.00, and the landlord repeats his tale of woe over the overflowing water bill. Water mind you!

Oh wild and free atmosphere why hath not someone placed a price tag on your cool and invisible wings?

Honestly, I sometimes fear that I might be neurotic when I consider the vast slumber of whys which infest my mind.

Let's get back to the tuition story and end these foolish digressions because digressions carried to an extreme leads to irrelevancy.

Oppressed Class Fights On Grimly

A point in favor of the students is that they might pride themselves over their courage in surmounting insurmountable barriers. I cannot think of any modern division of laborers who have received such stagnant wages and yet carried out their grim task with such fierce determination. They have slugged it out on the minimum wage level for so long they have begun to feel mindless. They are exploited by the meat and ignored by labor for that is their traditional history.

Some are sub-sidized by the government, are they not? Yes, this aid has provided an incentive, but have you tried to stretch $110, over a month with two-thirds of it committed in advance? You have? Then tell me how one gathers food in the Berkshires in the dead of winter and I'll join your noble retreat.

Surely, the student's diversified masters seldom realize his predicament unless they too have marched the obstructive path. He serves at least three overlords: an employer, a professor, and God. If he is a feeble-minded student then he'll find himself under a few more superiors of a less sympathetic nature than the aforementioned.

Married Students Have A Case

Of course the married student is a different case and will be treated to in the form of a novel.

On second thought, let the tuitions rise freely. Let the publishers charge their outlandish prices for texts. Let the price of tomatoes skyrocket out of sight. Let the barrel mount and the cards pile high for the student is strong. So strong that he will crush your obstacles and continue his eternal search for knowledge, truth, and beauty. Nothing will ever rise higher, nor grow stronger than these ever present goals, and they must be sought.

How this article ever wound up on an optimistic note shall remain a mystery to the writer.

QUEEN RECOUNTS "FINEST HOUR"

(As Told To CANDY KREUTEL)

The halls of Suffolk University have hosted to the 1958 Queen for more than six weeks. Time, however, has not dimmed 56¢ of sweetness and shining personality. Maureen Suggs just beams when you mention one of the most eventful evenings in her college career.

A finalist in her freshman year, the personable young lady copied the coveted college crown this year in a field of seven dames. Statistically speaking she is 66 inches tall, weighs 126 lbs., 24-24-34.

Maureen, who was nearly speechless when last year's queen Celia Letorney placed the crown on her head, didn't know where to stand to thank each and every one of the students.

"Didn't Think I'd Make The Steps"

"March 15 was the nicest night of my life and one I shall always remember. When someone said I was the Queen I was stunned . . . I didn't think I'd make it up those stairs. When Jimmy asked me to say a few words . . . oh-h-h-h! I couldn't possibly have told you all then what the honor meant, and even now expressive words are hard to find. Thank you for a wonderful evening."

Maureen was so concerned about her thank you sounding insincere on paper. Those of us who know her could never think that. Students who may not know her well would just have to look — a most favorable impression.

"Everyone was just wonderful to me . . . I wished every one of my court could have experienced the same complete thrill as I did . . . the whole evening was like a dream."

Photogenic When It Counts

Maureen, who hasn't had the best of luck as far as photographers for papers are concerned, is extremely photogenic when it counts — in the Boston papers! With glass heels, a white lace gown trimmed with blue, and complimentary accessories, she was Cinderella plus. She didn't have to worry about 12 midnight breaking the spell — it'll last for a

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Suggs of 62 Bateman St., Roslindale, she graduated from St. Mary's, Brookline in 1956. "Me" or "Sugar", as she is called most of the time, is an active member of the Drama Club, Newman Club, Pynch Club and is a cheerleader.

"I love Suffolk — I'm here because they have a tremendous journalism dept. . . it's a smaller college and within easy commuting distance — it's just what I wanted and more."

Jazz, Frankie, Pops, Mr. Homer Liked

What does she like? "People . . . very much. In music it's pops, dixieland, smooth jazz and, is there anyone else but Frank Sinatra?" Mr. Homer will tell you I enjoy baseball and basketball, even if I can't write sports stories!" (For those of you who aren't familiar with Mr. Homer, he is the Journalism instructor.)

Closetwise, Maureen likes collegiate garb for classes, tailored ensembles for dress and young men — she likes the sacque dresses. You'll change your minds if you're sure you don't like them when she wears hers . . . ultimately chic!

Mo's Superman Conforms To Ideal

I asked her about an ideal man rating — a few sips of coke later she smiled. "Everyone says 'talk dark and handsome' — and I'll have to conform."

But most of all he has to have ambition, personality, character, a sense of humor and he has to really like people and it would be nice if he were a college man . . . (more coke) oh yes, pizza, dancing and dogs — one dog, ours —. She must have been referring to "The Dutchess" — a boxer and sparkplug of the Suggs household!

After graduation in 1960, this ambitious lass would like to go to grad school and then into newspaper work. I think I'd better finish this stint first, but that's what I'd like to do . . .

Students — your Queen . . . Health, wealth, happiness and many wonderful years of memories, Maureen. Long live the Queen!!

'58 Year Book Cost Climbs Over $2,000; More Sales Sought

The 1958 Beacon, already reputed to be "the greatest year book publication ever produced by Suffolk University" will cost in excess of $2,000 for publication according to Hank Selvella, Editor-in-Chief.

Selvella announced that the old ideas and format that had been handed down through the years, have been discarded to make way for a new creative layout. The yearbook will feature over 300 photos in a one hundred page coverage, and will include every class, club organization, and school activity.

The yearbook staff believes that the fresh thoughts and techniques incorporated in this year's publication will enlighten reading enjoyment, and because of this factor they have anticipated a very large sale.

Students who have not yet purchased a copy may do so by May 15th. Anyone who wishes to purchase a yearbook during the month of May, must pay for it in full. No installment plan will be in effect during this month.

Spring is here and with it a young man's thoughts turn to this year's Junior-Senior Prom. The prom, which shows all indications of being the season's biggest social event, will be held Friday, May 16, at the Commonwealth Country Club.

The proper ingredients for a gala prom are all there: The elegant Commonwealth Country Club, and the music of Leon Merian's orchestra are an unbeatable combination. Mix in a number of college students wearing sparkling gowns and summer tuxedos and the "recipe" for a wonderful evening is complete.

Trustless Committee

The Prom Committee, headed by co-chairmen, Bob Cheever and Mel Ellen, have worked tirelessly in preparing this gala affair. Other senior committee members include: Celia Letorney, Tony Conzou, Louise Iser Marderstein, Beverly Carlson, Hank Selvella, Gordon King, and Kumar Sampat.

Juniors serving on the committee are Mike Cicco and Rocco Maffittano. All facilities of the Country Club will be available for guests of the Prom. The Club, one of the finest in New England, is located in Newton, overlooking the Charles River.

Leon Merian Plays

Leon Merian and his 10 piece orchestra will provide music for the dancers. Merian, rising young bandleader, has just released an album for Decca. "Merian and his Magic Horn."

Celia Letorney, a member of the Prom Committee, said "we hope that all who can will attend this event. We're sure that they won't regret it."

"Since this is the big social event of the season for the juniors and seniors, I hope that it will be as successful as those staged in the past," commented Dotty MacNamara.

Tickets for the Prom may be purchased from any of the committee members. The price is $6.00 per couple.

Spare, luxury and atmosphere are the key words for the coming Prom.

College Applicants Eligible For Law Scholarships

Dean Frederick A. McVermott has advised the Journal that applications to Suffolk University Law School by college department students in the University should be submitted by June 2.

That date is important for those who wish to enter the Law School in the Fall semester, and who wish to be considered for the four recently established Trustee Scholarships. These are awarded annually to first year law students entering from the college division, and are based on scholastic standing in their college work.

The awards and continuity of the scholarships are made at the discretion of the Faculty Administrative Committee of the Law School. Applications for the Fall semester are being accepted for consideration by Miss Catherine T. Judge, registrar of Suffolk University Law School.

In the group of applicants of last July, 31 Suffolk University Law School graduates were recommended for admission to the Bar on November 12, 1957.

DR. SARAFIAN WILL ACCEPT GEORGETOWN BID

Dr. Vabe A. Sarafian of the History Department has been asked to become an Associate of the Institute of Ethnic Studies of Georgetown University at Washington, D. C.

This Association does not require that he leave Suffolk.

He earned a B.A. degree from Harvard and did graduate work at the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA), before earning M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Boston University.

During the past ten years he has written a number of articles for specialized magazines and publications.

Dr. Sarafian told the Journal, "I will be delighted to accept the offer since I feel the individuals concerned in the Institute will be performing an academic service to the United States and since apparently Georgetown plans to locate a number of excellent men in the field of Eastern European studies, with whom I will be most happy to become associated."

Tuition Fee Raised $50 Effective In The Fall

By BOB VINCENT

The Administration has announced that there will be a $50 increase in tuition, effective September of the '58-'59 academic year. The total will be $600 a year for full-time day students.

President Munce, in announcing the hike, stated that increased salaries for the faculty and the high cost of equipment necessitated the action. "We felt that we had to do something to hold the faculty here," he explained, "and with the other colleges and universities increasing salary scales, Suffolk had to follow suit. We boosted the salary schedule just the amount required to carry on our work, and then only after careful deliberation."

Dean Goodrich brought out that additional faculty members have been and are being sought to fill some of the gaps and to expand certain departments. "We have for the past few years been looking for new professors, but in certain instances we have not found them. Our chemistry and physics departments have been strengthened, but we still need more to expand in other fields," he said.

"Salaries have already been increased and we shall continue to pay more money to toward necessary equipment."

These able professors we have, and to attract new ones to fill the vacancies."

Both Dean Goodrich and President Munce believe that there will be no additional increase for at least a year. "We must certainly still have one if things get all out of line again as they did this year," the President said in reference to the expense of increasing salaries, hiring additional professors, and purchasing necessary equipment.

Business Leaders Caution Seniors

Prominent businessmen warned seniors not to allow the next few months of economic fluctuations to govern their decisions on a course of action which will affect their entire lives, during the Annual Valedictory Exercises held here last night.

Dr. Charles Bliss, professor of Harvard's business school, told the group that "Today's situation could mean trouble unless some expenditures begin to rise. Presently, most people are cutting back on their spending, and if this continues the economy could slide down hill. The person who saves all his income shall lose it."

Tax Cut Asked

The noted educator pointed out that there has always been periods of high activity followed by low productive cycle. To check the current recession, Dr. Bliss calls for a government tax cut with the hope of increasing the public's purchasing power.

When asked about the size of the national budget Dr. Bliss replied, "It doesn't bother me."

The speaker closed his lecture by assuring students that "You will be the sellers, and don't let me be the sellers, and don't let your future be in order to have liberty and high productivity we must continue to plan ahead. The world is full of jobs for those who want to look for them."

Other Speakers

Joining Dr. Bliss on the lecture stand were Mr. Roy Will, former executive vice president of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, and Mr. Philip Eisenman, president of the Bay State Corporation.

"Private industry does not of fer the job security of banking in an executive capacity," said Mr. Eisenman.

Mr. Williams told the group that "The graduating senior should determine by self-analysis what he enjoys doing most. By starting this the student will be leaving off on the right foot." Williams continued, "Students who find themselves will have won half the battle of finding a suitable position in life. This much done the leaders will find room for the students."

The Forum, the second of its kind in as many years, drew 250 students into the Auditorium. Mr. Don Woodcock, placement director, conducted the meeting which lasted two hours.

ACTIVITY FEE OPPOSED

By BOB VINCENT

Tufts University played host to fifteen student council delegates from six New England Colleges recently. Suffolk was represented by Ann Picardi, Beverly Carlson, Jeanne McCarthy, and Jim Kelly. Worcester Tech., U. of Maine, Clark, Amherst, and Tufts were also represented.

The principle event of the convention was a talk given by Hon. Mason Sears, representative of the United States in the Trusteeship Council of the United Nations. He discussed American-African relations, the Russian menace to Africa, and African internal problems.

ELUSIVE MONEY MAIN PROBLEM

Sears, a graduate of Harvard University, has been a member of the State Department, a member of the Massachusetts Senate and House of Representatives, and was a United States representative at the Silver Jubilee of Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia in 1955. He accompanied Vice President Nixon as a United States delegate to the independence celebration of the new state of Ghana.

An activity fee was discussed but most of the schools voiced negative opinions of it. "We all agreed that there is some good Tufts."

SUFFOLK HOSTS BARRETT, POWERS AT LAW DAY ASSEMBLY

Suffolk University Law School will participate in the national observance of Law Day, April 30, with an assembly of the law school students in the Alumni Auditorium, featuring two distinguished speakers.

The president of the Massachusetts Bar Association, Raymond F. Barrett, will give a talk on "The Profession of the Law" and Walter Powers, chairman of the Massachusetts Board of Bar Examiners, will speak on "The Massachusetts Bar Examination."

In attendance will be the Law School's committee of the Trustees including Justices Francis J. Donahue, chairman, John F. Fontenay, and Eugene A. Hudson, and George B. Rowell and George H. Spillane, attorneys.

The assembly will commence at 7 p.m. Law Day is sponsored by the American Bar Association.

Cub Reporters Aided By Training Course

A journalistic training course has been established by the Hartford Times, and affiliate newspapers. Journal members learned while attending a newspaper seminar at the University of Connecticut recently.

John E. Pearce, promotion manager of the Hartford Times, informed the student group that prospective journalists may be hired for a six-month training program, which includes the covering of political, social, cultural, and economic events. If the novice shows promise, he is named to the regular staff and his apprenticeship is over. While working these six months the beginner draws the usual first year salary of a journalist.

Office Boy Faces Extinction

"The new system," Mr. Pearce said, "although emulated by most corporations, is an innovation in journalism. In the past, the step by step climb from office boy to editor was the preferred method for developing newsmen."

Representing the Journal at the seminar were Dick Booker, editor; John Fitzpatrick, circulation manager; and reporters Paul Benedict and Bob Vincent.

Other speakers at the meeting were Edmund C. Arnold, a typography expert and graphic arts consultant for the Mergenthaler Co.; Henry Keeling, chief, editorial writer, New Britain Herald; and Roger Desjardins, city editor, Springfield News, and John C. Reed, general manager, former editor of the B.T. News.

The weekend program consisted of lectures from 9 p.m. until 9 p.m. on Saturday. Topics of the lectures were news writing, editorials, makeup, and the role of a journalist.

Former editor of the Connecticut Daily Campus paper Bill England, originated the idea of holding an annual seminar of this nature last year. His successor Bill Jones maintained the project this year.

Journal Draws Praise

On both occasions the Journal was represented and received praise from recognized figures in the newspaper business for its newspaper.

Other colleges sending representatives were Northeastern University, University of Mass., St. Anselm College, and Holy Cross. Several schools, notably Syracuse, Cornell, Temple, and Rochester cancelled, out because of severe weather which had kept travel.

Korean Soccer Pars Yank Baseball In Enthusiasm

By Jong Chun Kim

What baseball means to Americans is what soccer means to Asians. In Asia, soccer is to baseball what softball is to baseball in the United States.

Soccer is considered as the national sport in Korea among many other games. The game is played on a field by 11-man teams with goal posts at each end and a crossbar on top. Foot ball soccer is the daily recreation topic among the Koreans over the season as that of baseball season in the United States.

Head and Foot Game

This sport is scored by kicking the ball through opponents' goal which is eight feet high and eight yards apart. Except for the goal keeper, players may not touch the ball with the hands or arms, nor run with it. It's a game of kicking and heading.

A player may break his neck by heading a high ball, but that's the danger every soccer player must take in order to be popular. Usually three games are played in a match and the team Asia wins two out of three is the winner.

Like the Olympic Games, the Asians have a vague feeling that the purpose of this soccer championship is to build up an international friendship and good-will among the nations.

A series of games is played by professional teams, one state against another, and the best scored team is considered as champion of the country. The champion team then represents the country in the "All-Asian" game which is played annually in a country where soccer is a national sport. Asian soccer officials agree to have an "Asian series."

Top Club In East

In the past few years, the Korean team has had a very successful season, defeating many Asian teams including Japan, Formosa, and the Philippines. Most colleges and high schools have a soccer team as they have football teams in the American colleges. Most of the big private organizations, such as banks, factories, and other institutions have a team.

Although soccer has no great popularity in the United States, it is interesting to know that New England has the most outstanding team across the nation. One of the teams is Springfield College, Springfield, which won the championship of New England during last year's season. It is also interesting to know that the champion of Springfield College's soccer team is an Asian student.

PRIEST, DOCTOR DENOUNCE BIRTH CONTROL METHODS

By JIM MEADY

Medicine and religion joined forces recently in calling the practice of birth control detrimental to both body and soul. Father George Aylward and Doctor Arthur Gorman were the speakers during Newman Club-sponsored lectures held at Suffolk.

Malthus Started Matters

Birth control began in 1789, said Malthus' theory of overpopulation. The English man said: "It concerns two non-Catholics not baptized who have been divorced. If either of the divorced pair wish to marry a Catholic then a long procedure is instituted by the Church. The Bishop of the parish in which the parties live must first try to reconcile the divorced couple. If reconciliation is impossible then the Bishop might permit the marriage. The entire process takes from one to two years and the parties must pay a tax to defray expenses."

Pleasure Secondary

Fr. Aylward, arguing from the religious side of the question, informed the group that the primary aim of the sex act is conception, the pleasure resulting is secondary. Those who make use of contraceptives are excommunicated. The pleasure without conception taking place. When pleasure comes an end instead of a means then the act is going contrary to the law of God and the Church.

The Newman Club chapter of the Suffolk County College.

Chances For Remarriage

The second condition, Fr. Aylward said, is the Vatican Privilege which applies when either party of the first marriage is a baptized non-Catholic. The same information is gathered as in the Vatican Privilege, but this time it is forwarded to Rome. This process may take up to five years to complete.

The purpose behind these procedures is to discourage second marriages. The last part of the lecture was a question and answer session.

Members of the Church in question does its best to see that this is explained the two conditions quickly. The Newman Club had a very successful evening.

DRAMA CLUB OFFERS MYSTERY ON MAY 9, 10

By CANDY KREUTEL

The stage has been set for the spring premiere of "Ten Little Indians", a mystery play by Agatha Christie, and presented by the Suffolk Players on May 9th and 10th in the college auditorium.

An open dress rehearsal on May 9th at 7:30 and an evening performance at 8:30 on the 9th and 10th of May will climax the Players' assemblage of talent '56.

Thursday rehearsals have been devoted to the reciting of lines and mastering the blocking for an effective presentation. Tickets will be on sale within a week and may be purchased from any member of the cast.

Progress on the actual stage set seems promising, but some backstage are presenting a problem. The prop closet is empty. There are many pieces of furniture, sofas, and tables, lamps, draperies, and chairs. The size of the stage and the amount and shape of these have made their acquisition a problem.

Who Owns A Liquor Shop?

Does anyone know of or have a liquor cabinet or reasonable facsimile? Much of the action centers on the liquor cabinet and its contents. George Pourcel as Philip Lombard and Paul Benedict as William Blare pave a path through the already worn carpet for cocktails at any hour of the day. If you know of one please contact Paul Benedict, Kathy Flower or Candy Kreutel soon.

Be sure to keep the 9th and 10th open. You'll enjoy the plot and if you have any inquiries to our backstage dilemma, we'll be in the corridors in the daytime and auditorium band Thursday nights. Think how thrilled you'll be to see a fellow friend of yours onstage. And think how grateful we'll be.

CAPERS CUT PATH BACK INTO PRINT

By KUNI KREUTEL

"A fellow in Syndicate No. 40, S.U." was erratically tossing papers about the scared desk covered with a chaotic green blotter (dust seems to come in contemporary slides these days). There were delicate insinuations about missing pencils, who "lifted" the back issues from the second drawer, the pilfered pencils and what ARE we going to use for fillers." Although he indubitably chats with himself near dead-ends, this jargon was directed at me, evoking my usual (revised) reply and piercing looks. Cynical, if not sadistic facial features were rained upon me. Sudden calm — silence disturbed only by the gnashing of "noiseless" keys; and then, as almost a compromise —

New Committee Formed Out Of Controversy

An open Student Government meeting was called Friday, April 25, concerning Revocation Day leader McCarty's resignation. The original Committee which handled the awards be dissolved Joyce Sipera awarded the motion and a new committee consisting of the entire Student Government was assembled in response.

Disaffection developed when Government members objected to the methods employed in forming the original committee. They felt that the committee should have been presented for approval to the entire Government body, which it was not.

Not Completely Correct

Constitutionally Correct — Constitutional President Jim Kelley has the honor to select a committee. However, the objection was that the committee was not presented to the Student Government.

At 3:25 p.m. on Friday the Government voted in favor of holding a closed meeting. During the second meeting several changes were made in the Revocation Day award but the student will receive a trophy instead of a certificate and another student will receive a certificate instead of a trophy. Two others were added as certificate recipients.

Members of the original committee were Mr. John Valburn, director of student activities, Jim Kelley, Student Government President, and Mel Elin and Bill Ash.

Trustees Name 3 Teachers To Full Professorships

By JOE SENNOVICH and MAUREEN SUGRUE

Three full professorships were conferred by the Trustees of Suffolk University on Dr. Ella M. Murphy, John J. Mahoney, and Dr. Stanley M. Vogel.

China's Loss, Our Gain

Dr. Murphy said, "I was completely surprised and of course I was thrilled by the news."

She came to S.U. in 1948. She earned a B.A. from Smith College, an M.A. from the University of Wisconsin, and a Ph.D. from the State University of Iowa.

Murphy has also done graduate work at Columbia, Harvard, N.Y.U., Breadloaf School of English, and Cambridge University, England.

Interpersed with these studies was one year of teaching at Yenching University, Peking, China, under the auspices of Harvard University.

Mr. Mahoney, Chairman of the Business Administration Dept., was "extremely pleased by the news."

Mahoney, in his 13th year at S.U., has been teaching for 22 years.

He earned his B.S. and M.A. in Ed. at Boston University. Mahoney has also taught at Seton Hall Univ. and has done graduate work at N.Y.U.

"Not An End"

"I was delighted when I received the news," Dr. Vogel said. "I must say in all honesty that it came as a complete surprise." Dr. Vogel doesn't feel that this accomplishment should be the height of his teaching career.

"Naturally, I'm pleased, but if I felt that this achievement were the be all and end all, I would have nothing to strive for."

Dr. Vogel received his A.B. degree from New York University with honors in English and was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Honor Society in his Junior year. Having been granted a University Fellowship, he completed his Master of Arts and Ph.D. degrees at Yale University and taught for one year at Princeton University. He then took post-graduate courses at Oxford University, England.

In 1955 Dr. Vogel won the Phi Kappa Phi Publication Award from the Yale University Press for his column "German Literary Influences on the American Transcendentalists."

Kay Holland Hellos Full Dozen

Mrs. Kay Holland, switchboard operator, became a grandmother for the 12th time. Her daughter gave birth to a baby boy! ... All grandmothers should look so young! Speaking of the stork, JOE LETORNEY, a Suffolk grad, is a proud papa of a seven pound two ounce girl on March 4. (Yours truly is Godmother.)

MRS. RITA SHELMAN, secretary to Donald Woodrow, Placement Director, was recently given a farewell party. Sarah Annin is her successor as secretary.

Night Student Is Author
"Little Nellie of Holy God," recently visited Skidmore College, in Saratoga Springs, N. Y. spotted a sign on the campus reading, "MEN WANTED." Quite a switch from Suffolk's DORMITORIES ARE IN DEMAND! A male student was seen striding into the Men's Lounge carrying a bottle of shampoo, a razor, and, of course, a tooth brush. The hot water was suddenly turned off in his apartment, and he had a big date! HEARD IN THE CORRIDOR: BILL: "Gee, the students sure look neat today." JOE: "Well, the Yearbook pictures are being taken!"

Fr. Newman O'Connor's lecture on Jazz at Suffolk aroused some students to attend the Jazz Club meeting at Storyville a few weeks ago. Erroll Garner, "Mr. Improvisation" was to appear at this meeting, but disappointed all when he didn't show up! (These temperamental musicians!) Eddie Jacome, freshman, who

DeTours Gets Award
Congrats are in order for Walter DeTours, pres. of the Business Club, who won the American Marketing Association Plaque at the Annual A. M. A. Meeting, held at Boston College. Suffolk had an excellent representation of both students and faculty at this gala affair.

Maureen Suzanne really flipped when she won the "Miss Suffolk" title. May your reign be a happy one. Maureen!

Spring fever has hit Endy Minkin and Harvey Brower. One can immediately see that engaged look on their faces.

A former coed, Betty Otto, couldn't stay away from Suffolk. She enrolled last week. How's Margaret?

The Suffolk Veterans Club played Easter Bunnies for the children at the City Hospital on Easter Sunday. Their songs and baskets brought glowing smiles to all the tiny faces, which were worth more than an after noon at home.

Prom Set May 16

Leon Merian, the man with the "Magic Horn" has been contracted to provide the music for the Junior-Senior Prom on May 16. Tickets are on sale. Don't get shut out!

Students have been working extra hard these days in extra curricular activities. Throughout Day is coming!

Pucksters Post 14 - 4 Mark; 'Stickless' Wing Scores Goal

S.U.'s independent hockey team ended its season with an impressive 14-4 mark.

One of the many highlights of the campaign occurred in the waning moments of the game against Halsey Institute. Because of a shortage of equipment Phil Doherty was skating at a forward post minus a hockey stick, but undaunted by this handicap Phil kicked in the tying goal from five feet out.

Ronnie Gaudin, Bill McBer, Alton Trowbridge, Hymie Wong, and Larry Cappel formed the nucleus of the club.

The team played all season with neither recognition nor financial aid from the University and turned in an outstanding job. Practice sessions in the early hours of the morning were part of their routine.

With several of the players returning next year, it seems obvious that S.U. is in a position to field a solid hockey team to add to its sports program.

Newman Officers Picked

The Newman Club chose its new officers for the coming year. They include: Pres., James Mealy; V. Pres., George Dolan; Sec., Hazel Greenham; and Treas., Phil Doherty.

The members selected Paul Benoit as publicity director.

The officers are certain that with the cooperation of the incoming members the club will enjoy another highly successful year.

LONG HOT SUMMER COOLS BENEDICT

By PAUL BENEDICT

It's a sad sight to see a sure thing miss. 20th Century Fox's "Long Hot Summer", now at the Keith Memorial, was planned as a sure thing. The William Faulkner short stories that inspired it were meaty material, and Fox's current fair-haired boy, Martin Ritt, was assigned to direct. It boasts the considerable talents of Orson Welles, Joanne Woodward (best actress, '57, "Three Faces of Eve"), Paul Newman, and Anthony Franciosa. And yet "Long Hot Summer" does miss. In its worst moments it falls flat on its southern accent.

Familiar Line

The plot is one that is becoming increasingly familiar to motion picture audiences. Take one town (preferably Southern and decadent), with a collection of obnoxious citizens (niggers, one beautiful, love-starved girl, and a hot spell. Add one handsome, Tahiti-did stranger of the "stud horse" variety and mix well. In this case you come up with a Faulkner cake with Tennessee Williams candles and Stanislavsky icing. That's a little tough to swallow.

Paul Newman is the spark that starts the fire in this one—literally. He is a "bar-burner," the lewdest on the shanty-trash totem pole. This is a hated breed that settles its scores with neighbors by putting the torch to their barns. Joanne Woodward ("Mrs. Paul Newman") is Miss Clara the chaste ("She's got quality"). Together, with Tony Franciosa they seem bent on making it a field day for the Actors' Studio. Unfortunately, the message is often lost in the "Method."

WHICH ONE WAS IT? By the smiling poses of the seven candidates it appears all seven won, but Maureen Sugrue, extreme right, appears awe-stricken as Alan Dary announces her Miss Suffolk. Flanking Dary are Celia Letourney, last year's queen, and student government Jim Kelly. The van quished, but vivacious girls are: Rayline Smith, Paula De-la-Flor, Hazel Greenham, Candy Kreutel, Claire McMahon, and Joanne McCarthy.

Suffolk University Boxer Featured In National Amateurs

Tommy Thibault, Suffolk University junior who stole the show in the recent New England tournament, was added to the New England team for the National amateur boxing championships, at the Boston Garden.

He's a nifty fighter and he probably would have won the 132-pound championship in the New England if he didn't have that extra gift. He had to fight three times in one night, while all others who won championships had to fight only twice—and George Freeman, former Irish-American club promoter.

The 70th tournament with more than the 100 entries looms as the best since World War II, according to Freeman, one of the few men who has seen every tournament since 1900.

IRV'S WIT RETAINED

By IRV GRACE

Three hermits lived in a cave and spent all day staring at the walls, never speaking. One day a stallion ran past the entrance of the cave. Six months later, one hermit mumbled, "That was a pretty brown horse."

Two years later another hermit said, "That wasn't a brown horse, it was white."

About a year later the third hermit got up and stalked toward the entrance of the cave. "If it's going to be this constant bickering," he said, "I'm leaving."

A man, after placing some flowers on a grave in a cemetery, noticed an old Chinese placing a bowl of rice on a nearby grave, and cynically asked: "What time do you expect your friend to come up and eat rice?"

The Chinese replied with a smile: "Same time your friend comes up to smell flowers."

Charlie: "If you'll give me your telephone number, I'll call you up sometime."

Gina: "I'm in the book."

Charlie: "Fine! What's your name?"

Gina: "That's in the book too."

Visitor: "That is wonderful, how long have you been here?"

Native: "I was born here."

Nan: "Who is your favorite author?"

Bob: "My father."

Nan: "Why, what does he write?"

Bob: "Checks."

Reporter: "Why, say the bleachers went wild."

Two elderly Beacon Hill ladies who evidently had not seen each other for a long time, met on the street. "Oh, Mary," the woman excitedly exclaimed, "I've had a lot happen to me since I saw you last. I had my teeth out and an electric stove and a refrigerator put in!"

A stingy farmer berating the hired man for carrying a lighted lantern to call on his best girl. "The idea," exclaimed the farmer, "When I was a-courtin', I never carried no lantern, I went in the dark."

"Yes," said the hired man, sadly, "and look what you got."

US Judge Gibson Calls For Court Of Review At Alumni Dinner

By LOU BELL

More than 200 members of the law school alumni heard guest speaker Judge Ernest W. Gibson ask for a court of review for administrative decisions during the Alumni's Annual Meeting, Tuesday at the Quaker House recently.

Judge Gibson, a former U.S. senator and governor of Vermont, told his audience that the bar of the nation ought to take an interest in a new kind of law. He said, "The industry is the freedom of the individual man. It was created by our forefathers when they created the Constitution of the United States."

Agency Review Favored

He said that the American Bar Association has already expressed itself as being in favor of a court of review for decisions as may be rendered by such agencies as the Interstate Commerce Commission, Federal Communications Commission, Civil Aeronautics Board, Board of Veterans' Appeals, and some decisions of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Judge Gibson was appointed to the U.S. District Court of Vermont by President Harry S. Truman in 1959. During World War II, he served as a military judge from December 1945 to the judge served overseas as a combat officer and was awarded the Silver Star, the Legion of Merit, Purple Heart, and was also presented a War Department Citation in recognition of his service to the General Staff after his overseas duty.

Presiding at the dinner was Superior Court Judge Frank J. Donahue, president of the alumni association, treasurer of the Suffolk University Corporation and a life trustee of Suffolk. Present were Robert J. Monev, president of the University; Dean Frederick A. McElmerrist of the Law School; and trustees, chairman George B. Bonnell, Jeffrey Eugene Hubson, John E. Fenton of the Massachusetts Land Court, and a trustee, and David A. Nagle of the Superior Court of Mass. Also Vice-Dean Livingston Hall of Harvard Law School, Suffolk County District Attorney Garrett Byrne, Prof. Malcolm Donahue of the law school faculty, and the presidents of the Massachusetts and Boston Bar Associations, and most of the county bar association.

LEGALLY SPEAKING

By CHARLES ZAROLIS

Wig And Robe Banquet May 3

How time is again slipping underneath our shoes moving feet. Banquets, final examinations, and for some, the bar examination, all play to the tune of that old, bad cheater, — time. A moment's reflection, however, over the continuous series of events and scenes of the now fading year presents an interesting panorama. True, a view of simplicity, of unpretending enjoyment, and personal gratification, all so ordinary that the world takes no heed; yet, — are part of it, — and that is enough.

There are those who do not profess to the scholarship of such personages of Ken McMillen, Jordan Ring, or C. John Parker, but prefer the greater pleasures of life when time allows.

Expectant Mothers

The wives of Paul McTague, "Wigs" Calkins Party ended in Mel Rowan, and Peter Beatrice are presently expecting children while Allen Alford and Norman Sligh are presently fathers.

Then too, sadness and pain have also said, "Hello." Ray Mahr, who was injured in an accident, again is attending day classes along with his beaming wife, much to the dismay of those desirous of sleep, but motivated of those absent, and then, these are those who will not be with us next year.

Of course, in reference to education, it was indeed heartening to hear of those who have conceded the superiority of Suffolk Law School. But this honor was not so readily attained. It has required a goodly number of boasts among the beds of both schools before the above was acknowledged.

Is Majority Right?

There were also honors bestowed upon personages, and at work. The senior class elected as officers: James Regan, pres.; Paul Cobert, vice; James Harrington, treas.; and Samuel DeAngelis, sec'y. This simple statement, however, reveals the question: "Is the majority always right?"

Finally, to his fellow classmates who will pass the coming bar, Norman King sagely advises, "The law has honored us, may govern." Research, however, reveals this was said by D. Webster.
