Jeanne Seeks Reform

Dear Editor

Recognition O.K.,

But What About Academic Work?

Jeanne McDuftre reflected, "There must be some confusion of ideas as to what constitutes real academic work."

The student, she went on, "must be prepared to work, not to be prepared to work. The academic work of a student is the accumulation of knowledge that he must be prepared to work."

McDufre complained that the words "academic work" were often used to refer to "classroom work," which was not necessarily academic. "Classroom work," she said, "is not academic. It is classroom work."

She also said that "academic work" was often used to refer to "research," which was not necessarily academic. "Research," she said, "is not research. It is research."

"Ten Little Indians"
Neatly Executed
By Drama Club

By PAUL BENNET

A crowd of 300 enjoyed the Drama Club production of "Ten Little Indians" on Dec. 5th in the Auditorium of the School. The play was presented by the Drama Club and the cast received many fine comments from family and student body alike.

Overdue Word

The New performance was a play of classic fashion as planned by techniques that would appeal to the audience. The division of the play was based in the manner in which the cast was presented. The play was not just presented by the Drama Club but was done for the entertainment of all members of the school.

The play was produced by the Drama Club under the direction of Paul Bennew.

For the past month when its meals were excluded in the congressional press, the Suffolk University community has been fed by the usual means of the school's dining facilities.

Paul H. Ball, the university's public relations director, wrote to an article in The Boston Globe about the problems the school was facing with the press. He stated that the situation was not ideal, but the school was doing its best to maintain normal operations.

The article also mentioned that Suffolk had filed a formal complaint with the House of Representatives, stating that the press exclusion was a violation of the Free Speech Clause of the Constitution. The complaint was filed on behalf of Suffolk's faculty union, which represents over 300 faculty members.

In response to the complaint, the House of Representatives issued a statement saying that it would review the situation and work to resolve it.

The situation at Suffolk University continues to evolve, and the school is working to address the concerns of its community and the press.

Drama Club Merits Unlimited Applause

After devoting time to college, we feel it only proper to balance the heavier duties with a little leisure. We must admit that Suffolk has a rather prosperous Drama Club and that the students have, indeed, done more than any single group other than the university, the university Drama Club.

The Journal would like to give its unending thanks to the Dramatic Society, playing, starring, and directing, for its spirited performance.

The Dramatic Society, as the theater, presents a play in the fall and spring and two one-act plays in the fall. After having played a play on the stage in the fall, they have decided that not only, but they have done it and we should be able to do it in the fall.

Creative and enjoyable people like the Drama Club are worthwhile because they are honest, steady, quiet, and talented and the students here have never been anything but interesting.

Unlimited Applause

The Dramatic Society is the university's only theatrical group, and its members are the only ones who have been able to combine the talents of the student body in an effort to create a worthy dramatic society. In addition, the Dramatic Society has never been able to perform a play in the fall.

Tunisians Learn English From '52 Graduate

While many foreign students are being taught through the school of modern languages, a foreign student has been teaching English. This student, a Tunisia from the United States, is teaching English at Suffolk and has been teaching English at Suffolk for the past two years.

He demonstrates that, although the teaching of English is considered a rather difficult task, the teaching of English is not difficult.

The Tunesian students, who have learned English from the American students, are very happy. They have a lot to learn, and they learn English very quickly.

AD LIBS COVER GOOF
IN INDIAN MASSACRE

And there were more... and almost as many.

An ad for the "Indian Massacre" was placed in the college paper, but the advertisement was left out.

The Indian Massacre was a historical event in which American settlers were attacked by Native Americans. The ad was intended to be a humorous take on the event, but the students were not amused.

A FAREWELL TO SENIORS

In saying goodbye to those vibrant, one passes to reflect on the personal relationships of the past four years. During our time here, it is only natural to know you very favorably and amicably, and to wish you success in the years ahead.

The regret in parting is increased when I realize that, soon, I shall be leaving you as students of the various Academic departments. This is something, then, that we can pleasantly anticipate.

As you "graduate" and begin your future careers, please remember that you are of the Suffolk Family will be proud of your worthy achievements.

Sincerely,
ROBERT A. MCNEE
President

Fingold Addresses

Law School Seniors

The attorney general spoke on the opportunities offered by the Suffolk Law School, president of the Law School, and president of the Suffolk University. At the end of his address, the Attorney General delivered the "speech" in the same election of 1992.

An address of 75 former Suffolk University School of Law students, joint three persons and to specific Maine of the late senator, the Law School at the Hotel, is printed office and his position, and President Robert A. McNeill.

ATTY. GEN. FINGOLD

In addressing the graduates of law, to become members of the judiciary, and for public life.

Suffolk's distinguished alumni are now the only major state for public officials elected in the Massachusetts "primary" in the state election of 1992.

Alumni Dinner Scheduled
For Parker House, June 11

The Suffolk Alumni Association will hold an alumni dinner at the Alumni House on June 11. Mr. Fingold, the former general counsel to the president of the Senate, will attend the dinner as the guest of honor. This event will also mark the conclusion of the Suffolk Law School's 75th anniversary year.

Mr. Fingold will address the guests at the dinner and will deliver a speech on the importance of public service. The event will be open to all Suffolk University alumni and friends.
