In Memoriam, Judge Fenton, Chairman of the Board of Trustees

by Louis B. Connelly, Director of Public Relations

Judge John E. Fenton, chairman of the board of trustees of Suffolk University and former president of the university, died Wednesday, August 14 at Bon Secours Hospital following an illness of seven weeks. He was 75 years old.

Judge Fenton had been active at Suffolk until he became ill at the close of the academic year.

President Fulham said of his passing: "Judge Fenton’s death is a tremendous loss to all of us. We will miss the inspiration and direction which he brought to the campus. His deep feeling for the students and his joy at their individual success was one of the delights of his life."

Judge Fenton was judge of the Massachusetts Land Court for 28 years before retiring and becoming president of Suffolk University in September, 1965. He served five years before retiring and assuming the chairmanship of the board of Suffolk for the second time in October, 1970.

His distinguished career covered a myriad of activities — in law — in education — in civic and fraternal organizations — and in religious and charitable work.

He was past grand exalted ruler of the Elks (B.P.O.E.), having served as national head of that organization from 1960 to 1961. At the time of his death, he was president of Bon Secours Hospital, the institution he helped establish when he directed a building drive that netted more than $1 million in the forties.

A building at Bon Secours was named for Judge Fenton in February of 1972. Earlier, an infirmary at the Paul A. Dever State School in Taunton for retarded children was named for him for his efforts on behalf of the school as chairman of its board of trustees for 17 years.

At Suffolk University, a school Judge Fenton has been associated with for 50 years, President Thomas A. Fulham only recently announced that Suffolk’s new college of Liberal arts building on Beacon Hill would be named after Judge Fenton to “recognize his immeasurable contributions to the colleges, the law school, and its students.”

Judge Fenton was Suffolk’s fifth president and one of its most popular. When he stepped down, then board chairman George C. Seybolt cited Fenton’s relationship with students as “a matter of pride for both himself and the trustees.”

Seybolt credited Fenton’s open door policy of being “within one day of any student” as a major reason why Suffolk University was free of “discord and unrest” during the late sixties.

Judge Fenton, himself, took pride in the fact that he and students could discuss protests reasonably and that Suffolk was free of strikes during that turbulent era. He was never too busy to listen to a student’s problem.

President and 13 Directors Elected

John D. McCarthy of 55 Strawberry Lane, Scituate was elected president of the General Alumni Association. Mr. McCarthy, who holds two degrees from Suffolk, was elected to head the 36-member board at a special meeting following the annual meeting of the alumni in June.

A native of West Roxbury, McCarthy attended Boston public schools, was graduated from St. Mary’s High School, Brookline and received his Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree from Suffolk University in 1962. He earned his Master in Business Administration degree from Suffolk in 1969. He is presently enrolled at Northeastern University’s School of Public Administration.

During his undergraduate career at Suffolk, he was president of Suffolk’s chapter of the American Marketing Association and a Dean’s List student. He is presently an allocation officer for the newly created Federal Energy Administration in Boston. Mr. McCarthy has also been instrumental in the formation of the South Shore Alumni Club.

The son of Mrs. Florence McCarthy of 18 Peak Hill Road, West Roxbury, McCarthy is married to the former Marylou Maher of Dorchester. They have 3 children. McCarthy has lived in Scituate for 9 years and is past president and treasurer of St. Mary’s Holy Name Society, Scituate.

Suffolk Alumni News congratulates Mr. McCarthy and wishes him well in his upcoming year as President.

A Letter From the President of The Alumni Association

Dear Fellow Alumnus:

Now that vacations are coming to an end, a new year is beginning for alumni activities. As your new president, I plan to devote this year to 4 major areas: alumni employment opportunities, alumni area clubs, student alumni relations and class reunions.

I have appointed James Tzamos, BSBA 67, to head the employment opportunities segment. As the year goes on, you will hear from Jim in this area, in which he is a specialist. As for alumni area clubs, which will also include a new Law School Alumni Club and the MBA Club, many alumni will be appointed to organize these clubs and insure their success. Student Alumni Relations will be centered around career seminars sponsored by the association on various days throughout the school year. We hope to include all students, so that students will be guided in career development from the freshman through graduation year.

In summary, this is to be a year of change for the Alumni Association — a year in which we get down to the grass roots with alumni clubs being developed by geographic area, and specialty clubs, such as the Law School Club and MBA Club. I am looking forward to hearing from you and seeing as many of you as possible. If you can volunteer your time and talents, do not hesitate to contact me via the Alumni Office. Come work with me during the Alumni Year and help make it the best in our young history.

Sincerely,

Jack McCarthy
BSBA, 62
MBA, 69
President
New CBA Dean

Dr. Richard L. McDowell, Director of Suffolk's Center for State Management, has been named Dean of the College of Business Administration. President Thomas A. Fulham made the announcement after the choice of the Search Committee was ratified by the Board of Trustees.

Dr. McDowell, 35, succeeds Dean Robert C. Waehler, who is stepping aside to return to full-time teaching duties at Suffolk. The appointment is effective September first.

A native of Battle Creek, Michigan, Dr. McDowell received both the B.S. and M.S. degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He also earned the PhD. degree at Tufts University.

As Director of the Center for Government Management Dr. McDowell designed and implemented the new graduate and undergraduate public management programs here, and organized nine public workshops for professional men and women during the past year.

Prior to joining the Suffolk faculty, Dr. McDowell was a member of the Bentley College faculty where he established an undergraduate program in public administration.

Dr. McDowell is co-chairman of the Professional Task Force in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Office of Elder Affairs, and was Task Force chairman of the Governor's Commission on the Elderly, and the White House Conference on Aging.

He served as a consultant to the City of Gloucester for an experimental program in interdepartmental group supervision, and organized a seminar on law of the land and housing at Bentley College, a program funded by the University of Massachusetts. He also directed a leadership seminar sponsored by the Agency for International Development from 1968 to 1971.

Dr. McDowell is a member of the American Political Science Association, the American Society for Public Administration, the Public Affairs Council of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, the International Personnel Management Association, and the Policy Studies Organization.

Married to the former Sally Bray, the couple live in Boston, with their three children, Katherine 12, James Scott, 10, and Megan Sue, 2.

Alumni News congratulates Dean McDowell on his appointment.

Professor Elias Promoted to Associate Dean

Professor Clifford E. Elias of North Andover has been appointed Associate Dean of the Law School. A law professor at Suffolk since 1961, specializing in criminal law and procedure, Dean Elias succeeds Judge John E. Fenton Jr., recently named a judge of the Massachusetts Land Court. Elias' appointment was effective July 1. Dean Elias joins Dean David J. Sargent and Associate Dean Malcolm M. Donahue in directing the academic affairs of the law school.

A native of Lawrence, Dean Elias is a graduate of Phillips Academy and Yale University, where he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in literature. He received his Bachelor of Laws degree from Boston University Law School and was graduated from the defense lawyers course at Northwestern University Law School.

During the Korean War, he was an intelligence officer with the U.S. Army and stationed in Korea. He also served asregimental trial counsel for the Army.

At Suffolk Law School, he has served on the Curriculum Committee, the Law School Development Committee, the Faculty Appointments Committee and the Joint Faculty Student Committee.

Active in civic and charitable activities in the Lawrence area, Dean Elias is a special counsel for the town of North Andover, and has been assistant moderator for the town since 1970. He is also a director of Bon Secours Hospital in Methuen.

He and his wife, the former M. Janet Keyes of Methuen, live in North Andover with three daughters, Marsha, Paula and Brenda.

Alumni News would like to congratulate Dean Elias on his appointment.

ENCLOSED IS A SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY DECAL — JUST A LITTLE SUMMER BONUS!
DISPLAY IT WITH PRIDE ON YOUR CAR WINDOW.
SUFFOLK IS PROUD OF ITS ALUMNI AND WE NEED YOU TO TELL EVERYONE YOU'RE PROUD OF SUFFOLK.
I am enthusiastic about having the opportunity to succeed Dean Robert Waehler as Dean of the College of Business Administration and the Graduate School of Administration. He and the Suffolk faculty and administration have done an excellent job of developing the business programs at the University.

Working with the faculty, alumni, students and the professional management community will be a stimulating assignment. The University and our relationships with the professional management community must continue to develop if the foundation laid so well by the teachers and students of the past are to continue to flourish in the future.

The business programs of the College and School are well established and a departmental structure is in place and beginning to work effectively. Last spring, 1,675 men and women were students in business at the University. Four hundred seventy-six of these participated in the graduate program.

During the past year, I have had an opportunity to work with faculty and others in the professional management community to establish the basis for a strong public management and public administration program at the University. Over seventy students have become degree candidates in that program since January. More than 400 men and women have participated in non-credit courses, workshops and conferences sponsored by our Center for State Management.

Next year, the public administration programs will be reviewed in the context of the 1974 Report of the Standards Committee of the National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration. We hope to develop the public management and administration programs into a major resource for professional men and women in government, particularly state and local government. We have a strong and active Advisory Board and look forward to Alumni support in the continued strengthening of that program.

In the Graduate School of Administration and the College of Business Administration we have a unique strength in working with men and women with a practical orientation. We provide an effective mix of academic and professional skill and insight which makes sense to men and women in the formative years of their careers.

As economic circumstances shift, and as professional requirements develop, we must keep in touch with the men and women who understand the Suffolk tradition, and want to help extend its influence, enrich its content and maintain its viability. One of the principal ways in which this can be done is through meaningful association with professional men and women – particularly alumni. We hope to extend our capability in continuing professional management education – both academic and non-academic. We want to be able to provide sound educational opportunities for business, nonprofit, and government managers where and when they can use them.

As we develop our programs in the months and years ahead, your suggestions and insights will be most welcome. We hope to work with alumni, the Business Advisory Council and other individuals and groups who have the interests of management education at Suffolk University at heart.

I look forward to meeting you in the months and years ahead, and working with you, the faculty, the students, the administration and the Trustees in support of a strong and effective program in business and public management at Suffolk University.

A Letter From the Director of University Development

In the spring I advised President Fulham that I would be resigning as Director of University Development effective in September to accept a position in the private sector. As I prepare to leave Suffolk, I want to take a few lines in the Suffolk Alumni News to thank the University's alumni and particularly the hundreds of alumni with whom I have had the opportunity to work for their cooperation and support in launching new Development and Alumni programs at Suffolk. It was only because of your cooperation that it was possible for the Development and Alumni offices to launch these programs and make them an integral part of Suffolk's life and future.

I am especially mindful of the alumni's cooperation in establishing the University's first Annual Appeal, this publication, Suffolk Alumni News, several new alumni programs such as Homecoming, Suffolk Night at the Pops, Alumni Fellows Awards, our first regional club and a new general Alumni Association.

I am also personally indebted and would like to thank for their cooperation, President Fulham, Vice President Flannary, the Dean of the University, and my fellow administrators and in particular Miss Dorothy McNamara, former secretary of Alumni Affairs.

The Board of Trustees of the University has established a Search Committee to select a replacement for me and sometime in the fall someone should be selected from the ranks of professional development officers. The Trustees have also adopted a reorganization plan for the Development and Alumni offices which calls for a new Associate Director of Development to work with the alumni of the Law School and a new Associate Director of Development to work with the alumni of the Colleges. Each will be responsible for alumni program implementation and fund raising within their respective alumni groups. Every effort will be made to fill both Assistant Directorships from the ranks of alumni of the Law School and Colleges respectively. Under the reorganization plan the position of Secretary of Alumni Affairs will be responsible for continuing and maintaining alumni and development records and providing support services to the alumni association and to the regional clubs. When the appointments are made, announcement will be made in the Suffolk Alumni News.

Again I would like to thank all alumni for their support and cooperation over the past several years.

Sincerely,
James I.F. Matthew

John Norton to Head South Shore Club

Mr. John Norton, BS in GS '55, will succeed John J. McCarthy as president of the South Shore Alumni Club.

Mr. Norton's principal goals for the South Shore Alumni Club will be to increase membership through social activities in which many alumni will participate and to assist alumni in job placement and recruitment. He plans an aggressive program to provide information concerning job opportunities in the area.

The Social Affairs Committee of the Club is planning a Winter Dance and is completing plans for a Clambake to be held next spring on the Cape.

One of the original incorporators of the old General Alumni Association, Mr. Norton served in various capacities and as president of that association for 8 years. Mr. Norton has served on the Board of Directors of the new General Alumni Association since its inception and was reelected this year for 3 more years.

Judge Fenton was twice cited by Suffolk students. The Student Bar Association presented him with the Dean Frederick A. McDermott Award in 1966 for devoted service to the law school and students. Only last May, the undergraduate students honored Fenton as the outstanding administrator at their senior banquet.

During Judge Fenton's tenure as president, Suffolk enjoyed its period of greatest growth. It opened a new six-story building on Beacon Hill and two new libraries were built. The school's enrollment in its colleges and law school nearly doubled as did the number of faculty. Today, Suffolk's colleges and law school have a combined enrollment of more than 6000 students.

Judge Fenton succeeded Dr. Dennis C. Haley, former Boston school superintendent, as Suffolk president. Fenton was 67 at the time and upon assuming the position, told an interviewer, "Retire? I'm just beginning. The main reason I took this job was to do some good for future generations."

Judge Fenton was named to the Massachusetts Land Court in June of 1937 by Gov. Charles Hurley. Before that he was register of deeds for Northern Essex County. Probably the proudest moment of his long career came two months ago when his only son, John E. Fenton, Jr., was sworn in as an associate justice to the same court his father served for so long.

The younger Fenton was an associate dean and law professor at Suffolk Law School.

Long a Catholic lay leader, Judge Fenton was named a Knight of the Holy Sepulchre by Pope Pius XII in 1951 and in 1958 was elevated to the highest rank in that Papal Order, Knight of the Grand Cross of the Holy Sepulchre.

He was a past national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and was awarded the John F. Kennedy Gold Medal by that order in May of 1967. The award is presented annually to the outstanding Catholic of Irish lineage in the United States.

In 1965, Judge Fenton was the recipient of the Saint Thomas More Medal presented by the Worcester Diocesan Saint Thomas More Society for outstanding service in the Massachusetts Judiciary.

A vigorous fund-raiser, Judge Fenton was the leader in the Merrimack College Building Fund Campaign which raised more than $1 million, campaign chairman for the Greater Lawrence Boys Club Building Fund to raise $650,000 and also led building drives for Lawrence Central Catholic High School.

When Judge Fenton was named chairman of the campaign to help build Bon Secours Hospital, a goal of $600,000 was set. But under his tireless direction, the drive went over the million mark.

A large, white-haired man who presented a fatherly image to students, Judge Fenton was born Aug. 28, 1898 in Concord, N.H. but lived nearly his entire life in Lawrence, where he was widely active, and where he began his career as a high school English teacher.

Following graduation from Lawrence High School in 1916, Fenton attended Holy Cross College and received his bachelor of arts degree in 1920. He attended Suffolk Law School evenings and earned his L.L.B. degree in 1924. He held honorary degrees from Suffolk, Holy Cross, Merrimack and Emerson College.

He served as faculty manager of athletics at Lawrence High School from 1924 to 1929 before becoming registrar of deeds.

Judge Fenton was an associate trustee of Holy Cross College and past president of the Holy Cross Alumni Association.

During his long association with the Elks, Judge Fenton served in many capacities. He was past grand exalted ruler from July, 1960 to July, 1961. He was secretary for the Elks National Foundation Trustees and president of the Massachusetts Elks Scholarship, Inc. He was also past president of the Massachusetts Elks Association and past exalted ruler of Lawrence Lodge No. 65.

His activities in Lawrence included service on the Lawrence School Committee (1941-to 1942); chairman of the Lawrence Planning Board (1944 to 1953); president of the Lawrence Community Chest for three years; chairman of five Community Chest campaigns, and honorary president from 1946 to 1965; and a founder of the Greater Lawrence United Fund and director for 15 years.

He was also a director of St. Ann's Home, Inc. and president and member of the Advisory Board of the Greater Lawrence Mental Health Center, a past grand knight of the Lawrence Council, No. 67 K. of C., and past district deputy and past state advocate.

A World War I Army veteran and past judge advocate of Lawrence Post No. 15, American Legion, Judge Fenton was also chairman of selective service for the Essex County Appeal Board during World War II.

His career at Suffolk University included service as chairman of the board of trustees before becoming president and again upon retiring as president in September, 1970. He was a life trustee of the university, and was chairman of the finance committee.

In addition to being president of Bon Secours Hospital, Judge Fenton was a director of the hospital, chairman of the hospital advisory board, a trustee, and director of the hospital guild.

Judge Fenton was chairman of the Neighborhood Awards Committee of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Inc. from 1965 to 1971.

Other posts and memberships he held include: co-founding chairman for St. Francis Seminary Guild; director for the Lawrence Boys Club; director for the Arlington Trust Co., Lawrence; trustee for the Robert M. Birmingham Charity Fund and lifetime honorary trustee of the Community Savings Bank in Lawrence.

He was also a former director of the Massachusetts Association for Mental Health, Inc.

He was a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association, the American Bar Association, the Boston Bar Association and the Essex County Bar Association and a former member of the Board of Governors of the Catholic Lawyers Guild of the Archdiocese of Boston. He was also a former member of the Massachusetts Judicial Council.

A widower, Judge Fenton was married to the former Elizabeth A. McMahon of Lawrence. She died Jan. 31, 1971. In addition to his son, Judge Fenton leaves a brother, the Rev. Francis P. Fenton, OSA, pastor of St. Rita's Church, Chicago, Ill., and a sister, Sr. Mary Eugenia of St. Mary's Convent, Rahway, N.J.

The Very Rev. Fenton presided at a concelebrated Mass of the Resurrection Saturday, August 17 at St. Mary's Church, Lawrence. More than 1,000 persons thronged the church including a large delegation from Suffolk University and its alumni.
Suffolk University Alumni Fellows Program

Suffolk University is and continues to be the alma mater of leaders in all areas of society. In recognition of this fact, the Suffolk University General Alumni Association has established the Alumni Fellows Program. The program annually honors three Suffolk graduates who have distinguished themselves in their professional careers or in activities related to social or community service. The awards will be presented at a Homecoming event in Fall, 1974.

In order that selections be made, we are asking for your nominations. Nominations may be made by an alumnus or non-alumnus, and the nominees must meet the following criteria:

1. The nominee must be a graduate of Suffolk University (this includes the Law School, the College of Business Administration, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the College of Journalism).

2. The nominee must have met the criterion of distinguished service either through a profession or career, or social or community involvement. A nominee need not be a public figure—but, he or she should reflect the ideals of Suffolk University.

Please complete the nomination form on the reverse side and return it by September 30. Final selections will be made by a Committee comprised of several of the faculty and administrators of the University who are themselves Suffolk alumni and who, because they are members of the selection committee, are ineligible for the award.

We hope for your full cooperation and support in this program. Suffolk has always had outstanding graduates and we must now give them the recognition they have earned and deserve.
