PROF. HARRY ZOHN IS ELECTED ALUMNI REP ON BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Dr. Harry Zohn, professor of German and chairman of the School of Humanities Council at Brandeis University, has been elected an alumni representative on the University Board of Trustees.

Prof. Zohn, who received his B.A. with honors from Suffolk in 1946 after attending evenings, was voted to the board under an election conducted by the Alumni Office. He will sit for a three-year term and is one of three alumni elected under this procedure. The others are Atty. Joseph B. Shanahan, Jr. of Chelmsford and Gloucester businessman Michael L. Linquata.

Board Chairman Vincent A. Fulmer hailed Zohn's election, noting that Zohn "has already been honored for his contribution to the enrichment of education for undergraduate students at Brandeis and at Suffolk University for his service as a member of the Trustees Visiting Committee for the Humanities in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and for his lectures and encouragement of language study here."

A native of Vienna, Austria, Zohn emigrated to this country with his parents as a teenager during Nazi rule. The family settled in Dorchester and Zohn was graduated from Dorchester High in 1941. He attended Suffolk evenings while working full-time at a Boston credit firm.

After completing his Suffolk education, Zohn went on to earn his master of arts in education from Clark University in 1947 and received an M.A. and Ph. D. in Germanic languages and literature from Harvard University in 1949 and 1952 respectively.

He has been a member of the Brandeis faculty for 27 years and was chairman of the Department of Germanic and Slavic Languages for 11 years. He is the author or translator of some 25 books. He is also an amateur musician playing the viola with the Brandeis Symphony and performed with the Boston Civic Symphony for 13 years.

He received an honorary degree of doctor of letters from Suffolk in 1976.

Zohn and his wife, the former Judith Gorfinkle, have two children, Steven, 12 and Marjorie, 10, and live in West Newton.

The university is now a member of the Lowell Institute of Cooperative Broadcasting Council, an association of 16 educational and cultural institutions dedicated to fostering educational broadcasting and telecasting.

"We are delighted to participate with the most distinguished public service broadcasting organization in the country," President Thomas A. Fulham said in making the announcement.

The association supports the needs of the WGBH Educational Foundation, operators of public broadcasting stations - Television Channel 2 and Channel 44 in Boston, Channel 57 in Springfield and WGBH-FM radio in Boston. In 1977, Council contributions totaled $267,000 or about 4 per cent of the station's unrestricted funds.

In addition to university membership, President Fulham becomes a member ex-officio of the Board of Trustees of the WGBH Educational Foundation along with the chief executive officer of the other 15 institutions of higher learning or culture, the president of WGBH and eight other trustees.

Other member institutions are: Boston College, Boston Symphony Orchestra, Boston University, Brandeis, Harvard, Lowell Institute, M.I.T., Museum of Fine Arts, Museum of Science, New England Conservatory of Music, Northeastern, Simmons, Tufts, University of Massachusetts, and Wellesley College.

BUSINESS SCHOOL AWARDED GRANTS FOR LECTURE SERIES

Two grants for a series of lecture luncheons utilizing the talents of corporate and government officials have been awarded to the College of Business Administration.

A grant of $8600 was awarded by the Shelby Cullom Davis Foundation and a grant of $6000 from the Gillette Co.

The proposals were made to take advantage of the university's unique proximity to the governmental and business locale in Boston.

Dean Richard L. McDowell plans a number of these meetings in the next two years for faculty and students. Distinguished speakers from the governmental and business ranks will be featured.

Among the topics McDowell hopes to discuss in the programs are: consumer issues, utility regulation, land use control, tax policy, public employment, transportation management, inflation, affirmative action and equal employment opportunity.

"We feel that a number of speakers will be able to participate in these luncheons because of the proximity of our campus," the Dean said. "Their working schedules will not be interrupted and we will keep to a prompt schedule. A noon hour will also enable many faculty and students to attend."

The university already enjoys the advantage of having a number of professional people enrolled in both its graduate and undergraduate programs in business administration and public administration.

ENGLISH DEPT. WILL OFFER COURSE IN ENGLAND

For the first time ever, Suffolk University is offering a course in England.

The pre-summer course, English S4.47, entitled, "The England of Shakespeare's Kings", will be offered from May 20 to June 3, according to Dr. Frederick Wilkins, chairman of the English department, and is open to all Suffolk students.

Wilkins will conduct the three-credit course. He will offer a pre-trip orientation session, lead the tour and share on-site lecturing duties with famous experts on English history and theatre.

Cost of the course is $765 to be paid in two installments: $350 by March 1 and $415 by April 10. It covers airfare, ground transportation in England, hotels, breakfasts, most tours and guest lectures. It also includes tickets for six theatrical performances in London and Stratford-upon-Avon.

There will be no tuition charged because of the large price of the tour. Application forms are available in the English department office in Fenton 203.

DEBATING TEAM CAPTURED 62 AWARDS DURING FALL SEMESTER

It was another big Fall semester for the Walter M. Burse Debating Society.

The debaters, under first year coach Ed Harris of Communications and Speech, have already won 62 awards (compared to 69 last year) and climaxed the Fall campaign with a second place showing in overall competition at Southern Connecticut State College.

In the competition at Southern Connecticut, competing against the likes of M.I.T., Army, University of Virginia, New York University, and Princeton, the Suffolk debaters won 18 awards. They finished second to Emerson in overall competition.

Harris, who led Penn State to a sixth rating nationally a year ago, is pointing his 23-member team towards the Minuteman Invitational at UMass Amherst, Feb. 2-4. The Suffolk debaters have already qualified five members for the national championships at Whitewater, Wisconsin.
A LITTLE GOES A LONG WAY

Suffolk's basketball team has a battle on its hands as it tries for a fifth straight NCAA tournament bid, and if the Rams succeed, it will be Little by Little.

Donovan Little, the smooth, multi-talented senior from Dorchester, has been the story for this year's hoop team. The Rams held a 10-6 record at this writing, and it has been Little who has kept them in contention.

The 6 foot 4 inch forward has already broken Chris Tsiotos' all-time scoring record and soon will shatter Tsiotos' rebounding mark as well. He is averaging 25.8 points a game and has been named the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference's player of the week. In a recent win over Babson he scored a career high 35 points and followed that with 38 points against Salem State.

Little's feats have not gone unnoticed. He has been the subject of feature stories in both the Globe and Herald and in a film clip on Don Gillis' sports show on Channel 5.

Coach Jim Nelson feels that Little is a Division III All-America, and if he is selected, it will be the second year in a row a Ram player has been so honored. Pat Ryan was chosen a year ago.

Suffolk suffered a bad spell starting at the Salem tournament when they dropped the final to the host team, and they lost three in a row at the Cambridge YMCA. But then they bounced back to win five straight.

"We don't have the offensive punch we had last season, but I think we are now improving as a unit," said Nelson.

WSFR WILL AIR YOUR ANNOUNCEMENT

Faculty and club leaders are reminded that the student radio station WSFR will broadcast, free of charge, public service announcements for events or meetings within the school.

Station Manager Debbie Banda says that department or organization heads should write the announcement as they would like it read on the air (i.e. time, place, date, subject, etc.)

For the best coverage, the announcement should be written concisely with sufficient notice. The announcement should be deposited in the WSFR mail box outside Student Activities Office or sent through interoffice mail.

PRESIDENT'S CHRISTMAS PARTY

As usual, Santa Claus (played by Jack Kelliher, husband of Marge of President Fulham's office) was the big hit of the President's Christmas Party. He distributed gifts to about 150 youngsters and our Duette photographer captured a lot of happy faces, including these. The Public Relations Office has a number of unidentified photos of children on hand. If your youngster had his/her picture taken, drop in to Charles River Plaza and pick up your photo.

The election of Prof. HARRY ZOHN to the Board of Trustees appears to be the fitting climax to a very inspirational Suffolk story. Zohn fled Nazi rule in Austria with his parents as a teenager, came to Boston and attended Suffolk evenings for his undergraduate degree, later became the first Suffolk grad to earn his Ph.D. and rose to high academic ranks at Brandeis. Incidentally, Zohn's election makes it 16 Suffolk alumni on the 21-member board of trustees. FRAN BURKE of Public Management memos us that Otis G. Cox, Jr., the FBI's recently appointed minority media representative in Washington, D.C. is enrolled in Suffolk's M.P.A. program. He's scheduled to receive his degree next Fall. English's FRED WILKINS, who edits the Eugene O'Neill Newsletter, has been elected a director of a professional society named for the famed playwright. New supportive staff are: VINCENTA MAGALETTA of Medford, Accounting; KAREN BERNSTEIN of West Roxbury, Financial Aid; PATRICIA A. MURPHY of Hudson, Personnel and MARY ANN HARNEY of Melrose, Financial Aid. Dukakis appointed Public Management's DON LEVITAN a member of the Special Commission studying plans for the Commonwealth's 200th anniversary. Globe Santa got some of its biggest contributions from Suffolk this season. Not only did the undergraduates' pie-throwing contest net $2000 but Globe Santa collected more than $1100 from the Student Bar Association.

MIKE LOMBARD, long-time Accounting Office aide, has departed S.U. for a law practice after successfully completing the bar exam. Also successful in the bar exam was JIM PETERSON, former Student Activities director and husband of ELLEN PETERSON of Alumni and Development. ROBERT K. JOHNSON of English presented a paper on the Australian Nobel Prize novelist Patrick White at the December Modern Language Association meeting in New York City. BETTE MANDL won a research scholarship for the Spring semester of doctoral study at Boston University.
