Suffolk University Alumni News Bulletin, Summer 1979

Suffolk University

Follow this and additional works at: https://dc.suffolk.edu/ad-news

Recommended Citation
https://dc.suffolk.edu/ad-news/115

This Newsletter is brought to you for free and open access by the Suffolk University Publications at Digital Collections @ Suffolk. It has been accepted for inclusion in Advancement and Alumni Newsletters by an authorized administrator of Digital Collections @ Suffolk. For more information, please contact dct@suffolk.edu.
Commencement '79

Honorary Degree Recipients at the Law School Commencement. Seated (left to right) Vincent A. Fulmer, Chairman of the Board of Trustees; Vernon E. Jordan, Jr., company; Art-historian, Allan Rohan Crite; and Poet David McCord.

Margaret M. Heckler of the 10th District; Thomas A. Fulham, President; Standing (left to right) Garrett H. Byrne, JD'24, former Suffolk, County Health Commissioner; Chief Justice Alfred L. Podolski of the Probate and Family Courts of Massachusetts; and newly appointed U.S. District Court Justice Martin F. Loughlin, JD'71, of New Hampshire.

Honorary Degree Recipients at the Colleges' Commencement. Seated (left to right) Vincent A. Fulmer, Chairman of the Board of Trustees; Dr. Leo L. Beranek, company; John Nelson Lewis of Newton, highest cumulative average; and Kevin MacLellan of Pembroke, a philosophy major, who will pursue doctoral studies at Brown University. Top scholastic award in the law school, the Daniel J. Fern Award, named to honor a Suffolk faculty member who received his B.S.B.A. degree. The award was presented to Ralph Mooers of Dorchester, a Widowed mother of six, was graduated from Suffolk 27 years later in 1975.

Dean David J. Sar-Atchmore opened the exercises. In the afternoon, Dr. Leo L. Beranek, president of the National Urban League, was the commencement speaker and President of the National Urban League, was the commencement speaker and President of the National Urban League.

Judge Jordan warned that this country is caught up in "a self-made pursuit of greed and privatism." He said, "There is a dark shadow hovering over our nation today, a shadow I have seen in the recent past."

Jordan, who received a standing ovation from the graduates at the conclusion of his address, said that gains made by blacks in the sixties "eroded drastically" in the seventies. He noted that competitors for foreign trade "call on the expert and financial resources of their government in their efforts to outmaneuver us."

One of the nation's most prominent and respected black leaders told some 4,477 Suffolk University Law School graduates that they "have a personal and professional obligation to work for a more equal society."

Vernon E. Jordan Jr., president of the National Urban League, was the speaker for the law school exercises of the June 10 commencement at Hynes Veterans' Auditorium and declared to his audience that racial equality was "the single most crucial issue facing the nation today."

Jordan, who received a standing ovation from the graduates at the conclusion of his address, said that gains made by blacks in the sixties "eroded drastically" in the seventies.

Recipient of an honorary doctor of laws degree, Jordan warned that this country is caught up in "a self-made pursuit of greed and privatism." He said, "There is a dark shadow hovering over our nation today, a shadow I have seen in the recent past."

He cautioned the graduates to turn their degrees into a "money machine to the exclusion of the moral imperative of working to make our society better for all of its people."

Commencement day dawned sunny and warm and brought a large number of families and friends to the Hynes Auditorium for the day-long exercises. In the afternoon, Dr. Leo L. Beranek, president of Boston Broad-

Suffolk's Authors on Display—The College Library recently had on display more than 100 publications by Suffolk alumni and Suffolk faculty. Here College Librarian, Edmund G. Hamann (right) discusses Law Librarian Edward J. Bander's recent book, "Legal Research and Education Abroad." The display coincided with the commencement season and Suffolk's approaching 75th anniversary.
Director of Annual Funds for the Colleges Named

Robert L. West, BSBA'75, has joined the University as an assistant director of development. A marketing major, he comes to the University from Foot-Loj, Inc., where he was a Customer Service Representative.

Mr. West will be responsible for the Annual Fund for the Colleges and its related activities. He stated, "The accomplishment of the Annual Fund in recent years has been most impressive. We look forward to meeting new challenges as the alumni are becoming more aware each day of their importance to the University and its programs."

He replaces Frank A. Sablone, BSBA'70, EdM'71 who became the Associate Director of Resources for Tufts School of Veterinary Medicine. Mr. Sablone directed the Annual Fund at the Colleges for two years. His efforts resulted in a 68 percent increase in the number of alumni now participating in the Annual Fund.

He will be missed by all of the vol­unteers who worked with him.

Sablone was also instrumental in establishing alumni programs in other states.

Richard W. Novak, BSBA'58, of the Washington, D.C. Alumni Chapter, expressed everyone's sentiments when he wrote, "We are going to miss you. You have done a fine job in bringing together the alumni of Suffolk University.

And most importantly, you were able to unite alumni from New York; Maryland; Virginia; Washington, D.C.; and Florida. The Washington, D.C. Alumni Club of the General Alumni Association was ready your creation and we won't forget you."

Preparing to tee-off at the Second Annual Alumni Golf Day are Marjorie Kelleher, MBA'77 and Anthony Farma, BSBA'77.

Second Alumni Golf Day Draws 81

Eighty-one golfers participated in the Second Annual Alumni Golf Day which was held at the Wollaston Golf Club in Milton, Massachusetts. Unfor­tunately, some afternoon showers pre­vented a number of players from com­pleting their rounds, but everyone was able to enjoy the cocktails, dinner, and theIncludes a net score of 72 after the Calloway System was applied. Frank A. Sablone, BSBA'70, EdM'71 took the honors for the second year with a low gross score of 80.

Paul D. DiFederico, MBA'78 won an engraved silver tray for low net score of 72 after the Calloway System was applied. Frank A. Sablone, BSBA'70, EdM'71 took the honors for the second year with a low gross score of 80.

Anthony F. Farma, BS'77 won the nearest to the pin competition and John A. Zorka, BSBA'74 and Dr. George N. Torrey, BSBA'56, MAEd'74, deserve special recognition for coordinating the pro­gram. The five hour program covered such topics as: Consumer Awareness, Looking for a Home, Home Inspec­tion, Financing, Buying a Home, the Sale and Purchase and Condominiums.

Plans are already underway to repeat the popular luncheon seminar, "Buying Your First Home", in 1980. Over 160 alumni crowded into this year's June 3 program. Over 50 colleges.

Sponsored by the General Alumni Association and the MBA/MPA Alumni Association, John A. Zorka, BSBA'74 and Dr. George N. Torrey, BSBA'56, MAEd'74, deserve special recognition for coordinating the pro­gram. The five hour program covered such topics as: Consumer Awareness, Looking for a Home, Home Inspec­tion, Financing, Buying a Home, the Sale and Purchase and Condominiums.

Suffolk's baseball team socked its way to its most successful season in seven years this Spring, finishing with an 11-7 record and a team batting average of .308.

"This is one of the hardest-hitting teams I've ever coached," said Coach Tom Walsh, BS'74, EdM'76 head mentor for the past seven years, and a Suffolk alumnus. "Right down the lineup we had guys who could hit, and that's what paid off."

What pleased Walsh most was the winning season, reversing an 8-12 record of 1978 and several off years.

Sophomore shortstop Jim Gratia led the club in batting at a .397 average, highlighted by the Framingham State game in which he hit for the cycle (single, double, triple and homer). But right behind Gratia was veteran Gary Donovan with a .396 batting stat.

Donovan concluded his Suffolk ca­reer brilliantly. He was undeated as a pitcher with a 6-0 record in addition to outstanding play at second base. He capped off the year by being se­lected as a Division III All-Star playing for the College Division team in their 3-2 victory over the University Division team in the All-Star game at Fenway Park.

Big wins for the Rams were an 11-0 decision over powerful Division III University of Lowell which was the first time they had defeated the university in 6 years.

Suffolk's baseball team socked its way to its most successful season in seven years this Spring, finishing with an 11-7 record and a team batting average of .308. "Buying Your First Home" seminar speakers: (left to right) K. Gordon Plaine, Founding member, American Society of Home Inspectors; John C. Magier, BA'72, past president, Builders' Association of Greater Boston; Saul J. Feldman, attorney; Russell L. Mahoney, AB'69, JD'69, attorney; John E. Eppich, assistant vice president and manager of two branch offices, Workingmen's Cooperative Bank; John A. Zorka, M.B.A.'84, assistant vice president, Lexington Realty, Inc. Not shown: Richard C. Price, general counsel. Outfit, Consumer Affairs.

House Seminar Draws Capacity Crowd

Rams Baseballers
Dear Alumnus/Alumna,

I am pleased to report to you that the MBA/MPA Alumni Association election, the following alumni were elected to the Board of Directors:

Douglas R. Baird, BSBA'71, MBA'75
Clara A. Bonney, BS'74, MPA'77
Charles J. Hamilton, MPA'75
Frank Kempisty, MBA'78

In the recent MBA/MPA Alumni Association election, the following alumni were elected to the Board of Directors:

Douglas R. Baird, BSBA'71, MBA'75
Clara A. Bonney, BS'74, MPA'77
Charles J. Hamilton, MPA'75
Frank Kempisty, MBA'78
Celia E. Strickler, Exec. MBA'78
Robert P. Zickell, Jr., MBA'73

At the initial meeting of the Board of Directors the officers for the 1979-1980 academic year were elected. They are:

Robert P. Zickell, Jr., MBA'73
President

Charles J. Hamilton, MPA'75
Vice President

Michael L. Backer, Exec. MBA’77
Clerk

University Alumni Council Representatives
Robert P. Edison, BSBA’76, MBA’72
John A. Zorka, MBA’74

Congratulations to all!

Sincerely,

Richard L. McDowell, Ph.D.
Dean

Outgoing director of the MBA/MPA Alumni Association, Robert G. Baxton, MBA’73, is recognized by Dean Richard L. McDowell for his two years of active participation on the alumni board. Also recognized was Daniel A. Sullivan, BSBA’70, MBA’76.

Investment Property

Topic of Seminar

The MBA/MPA alumni luncheon seminar, “Analyzing Investment Property from a Small Investors Point of View,” held on Thursday, May 24 brought approximately 25 alumni back to the university campus.

The program featured Frederick D. Kay of the Frederick Kay Realty Company of Brookline. Since 1963, Mr. Kay has engaged in general real estate practice and is experienced in the brokerage, financing and management of real estate. He received his B.S.B.A. degree from Syracuse University and holds membership in the Greater Boston Real Estate Board, National Association of Real Estate Boards, Society of Real Estate Appraisers, Legislative and Taxation Commission (1977), and the Brookline-Brighton-Allston Investment Council.

Following his talk, Mr. Kay distributed a description of an investment property and showed his audience how to read, interpret and question the figures listed. He warned the group that the average two-family owner-occupant dwelling, today, just about breaks even. He went on to indicate that at least six units were necessary to make money. He felt that condominiums were the least expensive way to live now.
Ronald A. Wysocki, JD'72, has announced that the Annual Law Fund has more than doubled its goal. "Our goal was to break six figures and show a mature level of support, and this has been achieved with gifts of $104,000," Wysocki reported. "I thank the 1,550 alumni and friends who have given generously this past year. Special thanks is due to the many volunteers from coast to coast who spent time on the phones."

Attorney Wysocki is stepping down as National Chairman after three years in that role. During his term, the Annual Law Fund has more than doubled from the $42,000 collected in 1975-1976. Last year $75,600 was realized from 1,250 donors.

President Thomas A. Fulham lauded Wysocki for his efforts. "We are very grateful for the commitment that Ron has made to the school for these three years," Fulham said. "We are pleased with the way alumni have responded to his appeal."

A practicing lawyer with offices at Ashburnham Place in Boston, Wysocki received an Outstanding Alumni Award in 1978 from the Suffolk Law School Alumni Association. Before beginning the practice of law in 1972, he was a columnist with the Massachusetts Bar Association. Before going into private practice, Wysocki spent time on the phones."

The Annual Law Fund receives untargeted gifts to the Law School from alumni, friends, corporations, and foundations. It also receives gifts from alumni sources. The fund will publish its fourteenth volume during 1979-80. Since its inception in 1967, the Law Review has attained recognition within the legal community for its literary quality and exhaustive research. Accordingly, many courts, including the Supreme Court of the United States and the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, as well as numerous publishers, have cited Review articles.

It is our belief that the Review is a valuable addition to one's library. In addition to articles written by legal scholars and practitioners, the Review publishes student written Notes and Case Comments to keep its readers abreast of recent major developments in the law. The Review also publishes an annual review of decisions of the First Circuit Court of Appeals and an Annual Survey of Rhode Island Law.

Much of the Review's success derives from the assistance and encouragement received from alumni; to insure continued success, we need your continuing support. A full one-year subscription to the Law Review costs $14. All five issues of the Law Review, including the First Circuit Review and the Annual Survey of Rhode Island Law are included in the subscription price.

If you are not presently a subscriber but would like to subscribe to the Law Review, please complete the form below and return it to the Law Review office, or call the Law Review at 723-4700, Extension 180.
by Allegra Atkinson, Third-year law student

Suffolk Director of Admissions, Marjorie Cellar, laughs when confronted with the stereotype of a slightly disreputable Massachusetts politician, dressed in a blue pinstriped suit, who is more notable for his superficial facade of legal style than substantive knowledge of the law.

Married to a physician, she says, "Lots of doctors' wives in the past have spent their lives being doctors' wives—doing entertaining, working in the hospital auxiliary. You learn from the time your husband is in residency that you are responsible for much of your own entertainment. My husband has been entirely supportive of my legal studies because he knows I am finding the same kind of professional satisfaction he finds in medicine.

Her day begins at 7 a.m. when she makes breakfast for her family, sees her children off to school and her husband off to work. She studies law from 9 until noon when the youngest child returns from school. By 4 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays she is on Rte. 128 heading into Boston. Tuesday and Thursday evenings and as much time as possible on the weekends is spent studying law. Social engagements have been cut back to a bare minimum.

Suffolk's entering class is female. Anita Poss from Marblehead in her second year at Suffolk, says, "Today Suffolk is very much a national law school with highest accreditation from the Association of American Law Schools and a highly diverse student population from 38 states and universities around the country." Admission to any law school today is highly competitive. Last year more than 100 applicants took the LSAT (a Princeton-administered legal aptitude test) for fewer than 36,000 places in first year law classes. Because there are only two evening programs in the Boston area—Suffolk and New England School of Law—these schools have a particularly high number of applicants.

Although Cellar says that the LSAT is the best predictor of how well a student will do academically, the school looks at other factors as well. "We find that people who have shown initiative and have been successful in their work—it doesn't matter whether as a street vendor or a bank vice-president—tend to be good candidates for law," she says.

"The aptitudes are easy; just look for competence. As for the intangibles, it's a kind of sixth sense. You have to be careful because there are no absolutes. We operate on the assumption that no one professional background gives one a track into law school." The backgrounds of students accepted reflect extraordinary diversity: physicists, teachers, tax accountants, nurses, pilots, social workers, journalists, former popcorn vendors, Playboy bunnies and brick layers. Many have master's and doctoral degrees; grade points average 3.2 and LSAT scores 620 (out of 800).

The number of women attending law school has increased until today 40% of Suffolk's entering class is female. Anita Poss of Marblehead in her second year at Suffolk, commutes 45 minutes from her North Shore home to law classes on Beacon Hill three nights a week. She chose an evening program because "with six and nine year old children at home, and having had experience with housekeepers on a day basis, I never found anyone whom I wanted to raise my kids."

Suffolk's entering class is female. Anita Poss from Marblehead in her second year at Suffolk, says, "Today Suffolk is very much a national law school with highest accreditation from the Association of American Law Schools and a highly diverse student population from 38 states and universities around the country." Admission to any law school today is highly competitive. Last year more than 100 applicants took the LSAT (a Princeton-administered legal aptitude test) for fewer than 36,000 places in first year law classes. Because there are only two evening programs in the Boston area—Suffolk and New England School of Law—these schools have a particularly high number of applicants.

Although Cellar says that the LSAT is the best predictor of how well a student will do academically, the school looks at other factors as well. "We find that people who have shown initiative and have been successful in their work—it doesn't matter whether as a street vendor or a bank vice-president—tend to be good candidates for law," she says.

"The aptitudes are easy; just look for competence. As for the intangibles, it's a kind of sixth sense. You have to be careful because there are no absolutes. We operate on the assumption that no one professional background gives one a track into law school." The backgrounds of students accepted reflect extraordinary diversity: physicists, teachers, tax accountants, nurses, pilots, social workers, journalists, former popcorn vendors, Playboy bunnies and brick layers. Many have master's and doctoral degrees; grade points average 3.2 and LSAT scores 620 (out of 800).

The number of women attending law school has increased until today 40% of Suffolk's entering class is female. Anita Poss of Marblehead in her second year at Suffolk, commutes 45 minutes from her North Shore home to law classes on Beacon Hill three nights a week. She chose an evening program because "with six and nine year old children at home, and having had experience with housekeepers on a day basis, I never found anyone whom I wanted to raise my kids."

Suffolk Director of Admissions, Marjorie Cellar, laughs when confronted with the stereotype of a slightly disreputable Massachusetts politician, dressed in a blue pinstriped suit, who is more notable for his superficial facade of legal style than substantive knowledge of the law.
Honored by Bar Association—State Representative W. Paul White, JD'73, of Dorchester (left) and State Senator John A. Brennan Jr., BSBA'70, JD'73, of Malden (right) were selected as "Legislators of the Year" by the Massachusetts Bar Association. The Suffolk alumni are pictured with Dean David J. Sargent at the Massachusetts Bar convention.

Second Group Joins Supreme Court Bar—On May 14, 1979 Dean David J. Sargent moved the admission of 97 law alumni to the Bar of the Supreme Court of the United States. The Development Office received an Exceptional Achievement Award in Alumni Programs for the Bar Admission Program from the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education. A third admission session has already been scheduled for April, 1980. Advance notice will be sent to all alumni early in the year.

Mass, Bar Association Honors Two Alumni

Two alumni have been selected by the Massachusetts Bar Association as "Legislators of the Year."

Honored by the association at its annual convention Thursday, June 7 at the Radisson-Ferncroft Hotel, Danvers were State Sen. John A. Brennan, Jr. of Malden and State Rep. W. Paul White of Dorchester, who were classmates at Suffolk University Law School.

The awards, presented by MBA President Roy Hammer, are given traditionally for distinguished contributions to the administration of justice in the Commonwealth.

Brennan holds two degrees from Suffolk. He received a bachelor of science in business administration degree in 1970 and his juris doctor degree in 1973. He served as editor of the Law Review while at Suffolk. White also received his juris doctor degree from the law school in 1973.

Hammer said the bar association was "extremely grateful to Senator Brennan for his sponsorship and active support of the Middlesex County Model Jury Selection Act. He has demonstrated a strong commitment to improving our judicial system throughout his State House career."

Hammer said, "Few legislators played as important and as supportive a role in the passage of court reform as did Representative White."

A vice chairman of the important Judiciary Committee, he has become very active over the years on matters concerning the judicial system and general substantive law.

White, who also served on the Arson Commission, the Alcohol Abuse Commission and the Joint Committee on Transportation, said of the award, "While public service was the direction that my primary career has taken, I find it most gratifying to receive this recognition from my own profession."

The Dorchester legislator was first elected to the House while attending Suffolk Law School. He is a candidate for an MPA degree from the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard. Brennan said the Model Jury Selection Act was "designed to afford parties to trials in Middlesex County the opportunity to be tried by juries composed of a true cross section of the community. We hoped to also build into the system features that would minimize the economic hardships that so often accompanied jury service."

Brennan, who now chairs the Banks and Banking Committee, has sat on a number of committees both in the House and Senate. He is chairman of the Special Commission on Alcohol Abuse and the Effect of State Mandated Programs upon Property Taxes. "I am very pleased with this honor bestowed upon me by my profession," said the Suffolk graduate.

Also recognized at the annual MBA meeting were those members of the bar who have practiced law for fifty years. Of the lawyers and judges honored, the following are graduates of Suffolk Law School:

Antonio J. deCardozo, JD'29
Frank B. Frederick, JD'28
M. Martin Gouldey, JD'28
James D. O'Hearn, JD'28
Morris Shapiro, JD'29
Patrick J. Sullivan, JD'28

Congratulations!
strictly male company until 3:30 or 4 p.m., for she is the only female bricklayer in Massachussets. By the time she reports to the Strictly male company until 3:30 or 4 p.m., she leaves little time for anything else. There is truth to the picture of the night student as gaunt and pale reading at her small desk at 2 a.m. in a household that is long since still and silent.

This is largely because the term "part-time" as it applies to the Suffolk evening student is a misnomer. First year students carry five courses their first semester in school (contracts, torts, civil procedure, criminal law and legal practice skills) and all of the same courses, except criminal law, the second semester. Civil procedure is a particularly difficult first year stumbling block, as is preparation for Most Court competition in the Spring.

Suffolk Associate Professor Karen Blum, JD '74, who teaches civil procedure and serves as an advisor to first year students, is an evening graduate herself who worked for Harvard for an LL.M., and returned to Suffolk to teach in 1976. "In terms of budgeting time and getting used to long, rigorous schedules, the Suffolk experience stays with you for quite awhile. I find it helped me become extremely efficient."

She is familiar with the pressures evening students face. "It is very difficult to find any length of time to spend in the library; it is difficult to find time to spend reading secondary materials, law review articles or horn-books. There is limited time for clinical programs and interchange with faculty and class members."

Thomas O'Toole, former dean of Northeastern Law School and Suffolk professor since 1975, agrees that an evening program is not ideal for students. "I would certainly recommend going days if you can. I don't for a moment believe that a student who studies part-time can do as much as a full-time student, on the other hand, on completion results I don't see any difference. Evening students are more mature and have some idea of what they want to do, they are more whole than day students because of the experience they bring."

"There is always a group of people who can't get a legal education except at night. Something in their lives—youth, marriage, work, financial hardships—is killing me. There is truth to the picture of the night student as overworked and struggling. As for the problems he's faced, McCarthy, who seems to be more at ease in the cockpit of an airplane than in the driver's seat of his car, says, "Parking! The commute is killing me."

Admissions Director Cellar says that Adelson and McCarthy are typical of the many Suffolk evening students who do want a mixed career one day, their present one and law combined. "People are willing to attend night school, not because they are endowed with extraordinary stamina or are masochistic at heart, but because they have no other alternative. What they lack in time, they seem to make up for in maturity and a determination to succeed," says Marjorie A. Cellar, Director of Law School Admissions.

Surviving the grind of working an eight hour day, as most evening students do, and studying law on weekends and evenings leaves little time for anything else. There is truth to the picture of the night student as gaunt and pale reading at her small desk at 2 a.m. in a household that is long since still and silent.

This is largely because the term "part-time" as it applies to the Suffolk evening student is a misnomer. First year students carry five courses their first semester in school (contracts, torts, civil procedure, criminal law and legal practice skills) and all of the same courses, except criminal law, the second semester. Civil procedure is a particularly difficult first year stumbling block, as is preparation for Most Court competition in the Spring.

Suffolk Associate Professor Karen Blum, JD '74, who teaches civil procedure and serves as an advisor to first year students, is an evening graduate herself who worked for Harvard for an LL.M., and returned to Suffolk to teach in 1976. "In terms of budgeting time and getting used to long, rigorous schedules, the Suffolk experience stays with you for quite awhile. I find it helped me become extremely efficient."

She is familiar with the pressures evening students face. "It is very difficult to find any length of time to spend in the library; it is difficult to find time to spend reading secondary materials, law review articles or horn-books. There is limited time for clinical programs and interchange with faculty and class members."

Thomas O'Toole, former dean of Northeastern Law School and Suffolk professor since 1975, agrees that an evening program is not ideal for students. "I would certainly recommend going days if you can. I don't for a moment believe that a student who studies part-time can do as much as a full-time student, on the other hand, on completion results I don't see any difference. Evening students are more mature and have some idea of what they want to do, they are more whole than day students because of the experience they bring."

"There is always a group of people who can't get a legal education except at night. Something in their lives—youth, marriage, work, financial hardships—is killing me. There is truth to the picture of the night student as overworked and struggling. As for the problems he's faced, McCarthy, who seems to be more at ease in the cockpit of an airplane than in the driver's seat of his car, says, "Parking! The commute is killing me."

Admissions Director Cellar says that Adelson and McCarthy are typical of the many Suffolk evening students who do want a mixed career one day, their present one and law combined.
The Annual President's Alumni Luncheon on April 25 marked a very special occasion for all the alumni in the Washington, D.C. area. Highlighting the event was the club charter presentation by President Thomas A. Fulham which established the D.C. club as a recognized alumni organization, unanimously approved of by the University Alumni Council. It was the first such club to be formed outside of Massachusetts.

Special thanks go out to Anthony Vannone, MBA'73 for organizing such a fine program and to Richard Novak, BSBA’70 who initiated alumni functions and the chartering process for the D.C. area.

Suffolk students, enrolled in an internship program in Washington during their Spring semester, were also invited to join the alumni. They had a taste of what their alumni programs might be like after graduation, as they learned that the friendships made on Beacon Hill do live on in many regions of the country.

Luncheon Highlighted by Charter Presentation

Election Results Finalized

Topping the ballot in the recent General Alumni Association election for three-year terms to the Board of Directors were:
- Robert E. Coughlin, AB’73, EdM’74
- Mary R. Ferris, AB’73
- John J. Norton, BS’55
- Frank A. Sablone, BSBA’70, EdM’71
- Richard D. Tranfaglia, AB’73
- Lawrence E. Blacke, AB’71, JD’76
- Barbara B. Freedman, AB’74
- Paul J. Keane, BSBA’51
- Richard W. Novak, BSBA’58, who initiated alumni functions and the chartering process for the D.C. area.

The purpose of compiling placement statistics each year on all University majors is to gain feedback on the effectiveness of our programs. Should any one program show a consistent trend over the years toward a high unemployment rate, the Placement Center can be geared to give more individualized assistance.

Placement News Notes

Each year the Career Planning and Placement Center for the Colleges surveys the previous year's graduates for employment and salary statistics. Of particular interest to those alumni/alumnae who are thinking of returning to school for a graduate degree, is the salary information obtained from the 1978 MBA graduates. Overall the average salary received by MBA graduates was $19,600.

MBA graduates with undergraduate degrees in engineering had the largest average annual salary, $24,400. MBA graduates with undergraduate degrees in Business were next with an average annual salary of $20,300. MBA graduates with Liberal Arts undergraduate degrees followed with an average annual salary of $17,500.

The purpose of conducting a follow-up survey of recent graduates of the class of 1979. If you are a recent graduate and are looking for employment or are a seasoned alumnus in the process of seeking new employment, please contact the Center and set up an appointment with the Director.

Congratulations are certainly in order for John E. McDonald, BSBA’71, the Chairman of the Colleges Annual Fund for 1978-1979, and the more than 120 alumni volunteers who assisted him throughout the past academic year. Their devoted efforts have resulted in over 1,000 donors supporting the college's programs through gifts to the fund.

Unrestricted contributions have exceeded $45,800, a dramatic $14,700 increase over last year's totals.

The officers for 1979-1980 will be:
- Paul J. Keane, BSBA’51, Secretary, 1977-1979.
- Richard D. Tranfaglia, AB’73, General Alumni Association Board of Directors
- Robert E. Coughlin, AB’73, EdM’74
- Mary R. Ferris, AB’73
- Frank A. Sablone, BSBA’70, EdM’71
- Anthony F. Farma, BS’77
- Joseph A. Saponaro, AB’52
- Peter F. Crowley, AB’75
- Lawrence E. Blacke, AB’71, JD’76
- John J. Norton, BS’55
- Richard W. Novak, BSBA’58
- Barbara B. Freedman, AB’74
- Paul J. Keane, BSBA’51
- John J. Norton, BS’55
- Frank A. Sablone, BSBA’70, EdM’71

Congratulations to all!
Fifteenth or Tenth reunion committee, please contact Fall Reunion events are being planned for the College interested in participating on your Twenty-fifth, of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the School of Management (including, for example, Francis O'Neill, candidate Linquata, and Bertram Krinsky). Pre-1950 photos, however, are in very short supply. If you have any Suffolk photographs from that era, please contact us. The Heritage Project Needs Photos—We have plenty of Suffolk and Boston photos, but we need more. If you don't want to part with them permanently, you can contact us about lending them to us for reproduction. His address is: David L. Robbins, Chairman of the Heritage Committee—or if you have any photos that you would like to lend to the project, please contact us. Only through your help can the Heritage Project succeed.

Reunions
Fall Reunion events are being planned for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the School of Management. Class of 1951, 1964 and 1969. If you are interested in participating on your Twentieth, Fifteenth or Tenth reunion committee, please contact the Alumni Office, (617)772-4700, Ext. 220. Only through your help can the Heritage Project succeed.

Class Notes

In Memoriam
Alumni

1932
Law School
William J. Galvin, JD, currently practices law in Boston.

1938
Law School
George A. Dahab, JD, the administrative law judge to the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, D.C., plans to retire at the end of 1979 after more than 40 years with the agency.

1941
Law School
John E. Haggerty, JD, the associate director of the New England Regional Primate Research Center of Harvard Medical School located in Southboro.

1959
School of Management
William J. Smith, BSBA, is presently working as branch manager of the Montville office of the Savings Bank of New London in Connecticut.

1961
College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
John J. Walsh, BS, recently opened a real estate office under the name, Eire Real Estate.

1962
Law School
Robert B. Shumway, JD, is a senior partner in the Worcester law firm of Shumway and Giguere and President of the Worcester County Bar Association.

1963
Law School
Eldos C. Swim, JD, has retired from his position as deputy group head of the financial services group at State Street Bank and Trust Company in Boston. Mr. Swim has been with the bank since 1935.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
John F. Tavares, AB, has been appointed market manager supermarketers by Nashua Corporation in Nashua, New Hampshire. Nashua is a major supplier of labeling programs for supermarkets.

1964
School of Management
Vincent Polito, BSBA'39, MBA, is employed as the Controller at the Waltham Hospital.

1965
Law School
Harry E. Hoyt, JD, has been elected corporate secretary of the Insurance Company of North America, a subsidiary of INA Corporation.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Terry E. Graham, PhD, AB, is a professor of biology at Worcester State College.

1966
Law School
Nancy Gould, JD, is currently serving as the third assistant registrar of probate for Suffolk County.

Frank D. Rodick, JD, has been sworn in as Associate Public Works Commissioner for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
James F. Bush, Jr., MABEL, AB, has been promoted to superintendent of postal operations at the Monson Post Office.

1967
Law School
Michael F. Farrington, JD, is an assistant secretary in the executive office of the Massachusetts Public Safety Commission.

Gary L. Fialky, JD, is a practicing attorney with the newly formed law firm of Bacon, Wilson, Ratner, Cohen, Savage, Fialky and Fitzgerald, P.C. in Springfield.

Henry F. Owens, III, JD, has been elected president of the Massachusetts Black Lawyers Association. Atty. Owens is the senior partner of the Boston law firm of Owens & Associates.

1968
Law School
Kelman S. Derderian, JD, is an assistant corporation counsel for the City of Boston.

Stephen N. Holland, JD, has been named corporate secretary of Optimum Systems, Inc. in Santa Clara, California.

School of Management
Robert E. Dawley, BSBA, has been elected president of the Federal Savings and Loan Association. Alty. Owens, the senior partner of the Boston law firm of Owens & Associates.

1969
Law School
Lawrence J. O'Keeffe, JD, is an assistant district attorney for Essex County and is currently serving as city solicitor in Peabody.

School of Management
Rodney C. Brunsell, BSBA, is employed as a financial accounting manager for the Electronics Corporation of America, a subsidiary of INA Corporation.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
George K. McGarty, has been appointed an assistant instructor of income taxes and business law at Bunker Hill Community College in Charlestown. He is a practicing attorney in Danvers.

Notes

John J. Walsh, BS, recently opened a real estate office under the name, Eire Real Estate.

Law School
Robert B. Shumway, JD, is a senior partner in the Worcester law firm of Shumway and Giguere and President of the Worcester County Bar Association.

Law School
Eldos C. Swim, JD, has retired from his position as deputy group head of the financial services group at State Street Bank and Trust Company in Boston. Mr. Swim has been with the bank since 1935.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
John F. Tavares, AB, has been appointed market manager supermarketers by Nashua Corporation in Nashua, New Hampshire. Nashua is a major supplier of labeling programs for supermarkets.

School of Management
Vincent Polito, BSBA'39, MBA, is employed as the Controller at the Waltham Hospital.

Law School
Harry E. Hoyt, JD, has been elected corporate secretary of the Insurance Company of North America, a subsidiary of INA Corporation.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Terry E. Graham, PhD, AB, is a professor of biology at Worcester State College.

Law School
Nancy Gould, JD, is currently serving as the third assistant registrar of probate for Suffolk County.

Frank D. Rodick, JD, has been sworn in as Associate Public Works Commissioner for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
James F. Bush, Jr., MABEL, AB, has been promoted to superintendent of postal operations at the Monson Post Office.

Law School
Michael F. Farrington, JD, is an assistant secretary in the executive office of the Massachusetts Public Safety Commission.

Gary L. Fialky, JD, is a practicing attorney with the newly formed law firm of Bacon, Wilson, Ratner, Cohen, Savage, Fialky and Fitzgerald, P.C. in Springfield.

Henry F. Owens, III, JD, has been elected president of the Massachusetts Black Lawyers Association. Atty. Owens is the senior partner of the Boston law firm of Owens & Associates.

Law School
Kelman S. Derderian, JD, is an assistant corporation counsel for the City of Boston.

Stephen N. Holland, JD, has been named corporate secretary of Optimum Systems, Inc. in Santa Clara, California.

School of Management
Robert E. Dawley, BSBA, has been elected president of the Federal Savings and Loan Association. Alty. Owens, the senior partner of the Boston law firm of Owens & Associates.

Law School
Lawrence J. O'Keeffe, JD, is an assistant district attorney for Essex County and is currently serving as city solicitor in Peabody.

School of Management
Rodney C. Brunsell, BSBA, is employed as a financial accounting manager for the Electronics Corporation of America, a subsidiary of INA Corporation.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
George K. McGarty, has been appointed an assistant instructor of income taxes and business law at Bunker Hill Community College in Charlestown. He is a practicing attorney in Danvers.
1970
School of Management
Daniel Collyer, Jr., MBA, has been promoted to human resources manager of the company's products division at Bausch and Lomb in Rochester, New York.
Bruce D. Nelson, MBA, is currently the president of Bruce D. Nelson and Associates in Boston.
Jeffrey Slater, MBA, assistant professor of business at North Shore Community College in Beverly, recently had a textbook, Practical Accounting Procedures, published in Rochester, New York.

1971
Law School
Thomas A. Cevelly, JD, has become associated with the Marlboro-Harbor law firm of Robert M. Murphy, JD, and P.C.
Joseph F. Griffin, AB, JD, is an attorney with the National Labor Relations Board in Boston and is employed as a staff manager with personnel responsibilities by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in Boston.

School of Management
Bruce D. Chow, BSBA'68, MBA, has been named vice president/college officer at the Indian Head Bank in Concord, New Hampshire.

Lawyer
David B. Hamilton, BSBA'70, MBA, is a vice president at Linnell and Company in Boston.

1972
Law School
Russell B. Millholland, BSBA'70, MBA, is a manager in the manufacturing accounting office of the Norton Company in Worcester.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Randy J. Travers, AB, has been promoted to senior commercial lines underwriter of the Reupke and Gray Insurance Agency of Fallsmansk, Hyannis and Orleans.

Law School
Richard Berman, JD, has become a member of the law firm of Rogers and Gray Insurance Agency of Fallsmansk.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Hampshire.

1973
Law School
Norman A. Cohen, JD, has been elected a fellow of the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants. Presently, he is a sole practitioner in Winthrop.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Salem.

Law School
John F. Grey, Jr., BSBA, is a cost price analyst for the Raytheon Company in Burlington.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Virginia Long, MBA, is an employment manager at Sanders Associates in New Hampshire.

Law School
John L. Bonee, III, JD, has been elected a fellow of the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants. Presently, he is a sole practitioner in Winthrop.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Hartford, Connecticut.

Law School
David M. Walsh, AB, is employed as a real estate appraiser and serves as Town Moderator in Sharon.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences

Law School
Louise E. Banks, JD, is associated with the law offices of Attys. Francis T. MacGregor, Jr., and LLP'76 in Fall River.

Law School
John R. DeCiantis, JD, practices law with Attys. James J. Mullen and William T. Murphy, JD'76, in Providence, Rhode Island.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Worcester.

Law School
John A. Zorka, MBA, has recently been employed by Mupac Corporation in Brockton.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Dorothy M. Villa, AB, has been designated a Certified Residential Specialist by the Realtors National Marketing Institute of Chicago. Mrs. Villa is a realtor for R.W. Carlson Associates, Inc., in Boston.

Law School
Joseph R. DeCiantis, JD, practices law with Attys. James J. Mullen and William T. Murphy, JD'76, in Providence, Rhode Island.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Edwards.

Law School
John Webster, JD, is working at Peabody Inc., in Boston.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
John L. Bonee, III, JD, has become a partner in the law firm of Bai, Pollack and Waters and is a member of the law firm of Kenyon, Bonee and Greene.

School of Management
Robert W. Barris, III, MBA, is currently employed at Factory Mutual Engineering Corporation in Malden.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Vermont.

Law School
David M. Walsh, AB, is employed as a real estate appraiser and serves as Town Moderator in Sharon.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Massachusetts.

Law School
Robert W. DeLeo, JD, has opened a private practice law serving Winthrop and surrounding communities.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Illinois.

Law School
John G. Duggan, JD'75, in Millis.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Malden.

Law School
Christopher J. Ritchie, JD, is the associate general counsel at Factory Mutual Engineering Corporation in New London.

School of Management
Robert W. Barris, III, MBA, is currently employed as customer satisfaction administrator at Fairchild Engineering in South Portland, Maine.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Brian R. Mahoney, EdM, is employed as a teacher in the Lynn Public School System.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences
Arthur E. Robbins, BS'75, MS, is a staff psychologist with Adolescent Counseling in Development (AcID) in Malden.
Champagne Reception following Alumni Night at the Pops.

1977

Law School

George Quentin Anthony, Jr., JD, currently practices law at the offices of Sheffield and Harvey in Newport, Rhode Island. John F. Aylmer, JD, has joined the law firm of Boudreau and O'Neill in Hyannis. Robert C. Betters, JD, is an attorney with the Alveret. Withington and Bettis law firm in Plymouth. Peter J. Carrozza, JD, is currently an attorney doing arbitration at the Peabody District Court. Pauline A. Erickson, JD, is associated with the law firm of Hamilh, Macdonald, Jenner, Mitchell and Resh in Waltham. Doris S. Mcmorror, JD, reports that she has recently joined the law firm of Coles and Wise, Ltd. in Chicago, Illinois. Beverly B. Weasley, JD, is the assistant legal counsel to Police Commissioner Joseph Jorn of the Boston Police Department. School of Management

Michael J. Abuzzuasse, BSBA'75, MBA, was recently appointed assistant director for materials management at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Boston. Claire Ann Bonney, BS'74, MPA, is presently employed as a staff assistant for special projects by the Boston Housing Authority. Richard Redum, BSBA, is currently working at Avis Truck Rental Agency in Boston. Stephen T. Brey, MBA, has been appointed to the title of financial analyst manager in the financial planning and analysis defensive systems division at Sanders Associates, Inc. in New Hamp­shire. Brian D. Kelleher, BSBA, is an administrative analyst at IBM in White Plains, New York. Barry R. Kielb, MBA, is employed as the lease credit administrator for Prime Computer Company of Wellesley Hills. Leslie A. Wier, BSBA, has been named assistant comptroller at the Haverhill National Bank. College of Liberal Arts & Sciences

Joel Braverman, BS'75, EdM, reports that he is a vocational educational consultant employed by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act in Medford. Glenn D. Busfield, BSJ, has been named assistant sports editor for the Minute Man Publications in Lexington. Elizabeth L. Connelly, EdM, is currently employed as a teacher at the Russell School in Dorchester. Paul W. Landry, EdM, is the director of recreation programs in Gloucester. Michael C. Maloof, BS, is an inventory clerk at Washington Chevrolet in Lowell. Donald L. McKinnon, BSBA'61, EdM, is presently employed as a teacher at Tauton High School. John H. Ricciardone, BSJ, is employed by Atlantic Industrial Supply Company in Burlington.

1978

Law School

Jean M. Alexander, AB'72, JD, recently became associated with the Springer and Langson Legal Center as a staff attorney in Quincy. Stephen R. Anderson, JD, has become associated with the law firm of Milham and Provence in Worcester. Alden J. Bianchi, JD, is enrolled in the LLM Program at Georgetown Law Center in Washington, D.C. Patricia T. Christo, JD, has opened an office for the general practice of law in Portsmouth, New Hampshire. Francis A. Ford, JD, has joined the Worcester law firm of Burwick and Burwick.

Li. Joseph F. Graul, JD, is assigned to the NUSC laboratory officer in charge. He is staff for contract management analysis, for the Naval Underwater Systems Center in Rhode Island. Bruce S. Holland, JD, is employed as assistant to the president of the American Chemical Works Company in Providence, Rhode Island.

Stephen H. Lash, JD, is currently associated with the law firm of Burke, Winsers, Moran and Hurlay in Boston. Mark A. Leachy, JD, reports that he is practicing law with Atty. George H. Howard in Westwood.

William R. McClaflin, JD, is employed at GTE Sylvania in Waltham. William M. McCourtney, JD, is presently teaching English at Milbury Memorial High School.

John P. McGrail, JD, has become associated with the law firm of McGuire and McGuire in Worcester. James O. Peterson, JD, is an attorney with the law firm of Bond and Nickerson in Boston. Curtis C. Pfunder, JD, is employed as assistant legal counsel to Massachusetts Governor Edward King.

Edward F. Rhodes, JD, is presently employed as treasurer for Bancroft Convertible Fund, Inc. in New York and Boston.

Timothy Richards, JD, is employed by Robert Fenscher and Associates in New York City and is the assistant editor of the International Tax Journal. Joseph Sarno, JD, is the director of Community Development in Chelsea.

Phillip E. Shea, JD, has been named staff attorney for the Springer and Langson Legal Center in Worcester.

Louis V. Sorgi, Jr., JD, is currently associated with the First Security Services Corporation as an investigative operations manager and legal advisor in Boston.

Neil T. Tobin, JD, is an attorney for the Massachusetts Department of Banking.

Anthony N. Tomasiello, JD, has joined the law offices of Healy, Delimione and Rocheteau in Worcester.

Mario V. Valenzuela, JD, is employed by the office of legal aid for Pima County in Tucson, Arizona.

Hedwig Veith, JD, is the assistant vice president for academic affairs at the University of Massachusetts, Boston.

Edward F. Wallace, JD, is now engaged in the general practice of law with offices in Lowell. Marc D. Wallick, JD, is practicing law with association with Connors and Kilguss in Providence, Rhode Island.

School of Management

Pamela A. Bombardari, MBA, is employed by New England Telephone Company as an account executive.

James R. Dandulis, BSBA, is an accountant with the State Street Bank in Boston.

James E. Foley, Jr., BS'75, MPA, reports that he is employed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as the regional budget manager for the department of mental health.

Frank M. Kempisty, MBA, is employed as an executive representative for the Canteen Corporation of Waltham.

Stephen M. Masi, BSBA, is presently employed as an accountant for Bolt, Beranek and Newman in Cambridge.

Margaret E. Reardon, MBA, was named manager of the Weymouth residence service center by New England Telephone Company.

Celia Steickler, MBA, is employed as a corporate consultant by Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates in Boston.

Richard M. Waldman, MPA, is a hearing officer in the Consumer Division of the Mas­sachusetts Department of Public Utilities.

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences

Kurt A. Droeber, BSJ, is employed by Waters Associates of Milford.

President Thomas A. Fulham: student helper. Debbie Eseane and Alumni Treasurer. Dr. Harry Zohn, AB'64, thoroughly enjoying the champagne reception following the Alumni Night at the Pops.
12 DAYS/ 11 NIGHTS $649*

DEPARTING FROM BOSTON MONDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1979
RETURNING FRIDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1979

YOUR VACATION INCLUDES

• Round Trip Jet Transportation via a wide-bodied jet of United Airlines*
• Hotel Accommodations for 2 nights at the SAN FRANCISCO HILTON in San Francisco — for 7 nights at the DELUXE HAWAIIAN REGENT in Honolulu — for 2 nights at the ALADDIN HOTEL or comparable in Las Vegas.
• All Transfers and Baggage Handling between the airport and the hotels and inter-city.
• All Taxes and Tipping for services included in the program.
• Half-Day City Sightseeing tours of San Francisco and Honolulu.
• A Hospitality Desk in each Hotel, staffed by Trans National Travel's on-site team of professionals.
• Welcome Party in Honolulu.
• Optional Tours a variety of optional tours are available. Details will be sent to you when you register for your San Francisco-Hawaii-Las Vegas vacation.
• A Special "Dining Option" which includes 11 American breakfasts, 5 Dine Around Dinners in Honolulu $125.00 Per Person.

RETURNING ____________
DEPARTURE ____________
December 3, 1979 December 14, 1979

1 I want to go to SAN FRANCISCO, HAWAII and LAS VEGAS.
2 Enclosed please find $ __________ as full payment for __________ number of persons. $100.00 per person.
3 Enclosed please find $ __________ as deposit for number of persons.
4 I want the Special Dining Option (Add $125.00 to my final payment).
5 I wish to share a room with another person.

NAME ___________________________ CITY ___________________________ STATE ______________ ZIP ____________
PHONE ___________________________ HOME PHONE ___________________________
CARDS Accepted: MASTERCARD VISA/BANKAMERICAN

RETURN TO: Suffolk University Alumni Association
Beacon Hill Boston, MA 02114

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CALL: 617-723-4700 Ext. 131 Ellen Peterson
617-262-9200 Hawaiian Department

NO REGIMENTATION! YOU ARE FREE TO EXPLORE THESE EXCITING CITIES AS YOU PLEASE!

DEPARTING
DEPARTURE CITY
December 3, 1979
Boston
PRICE
$649.00 +15% ($97.35) = $746.35

ALL DELUXE