A Letter to Our Alumni

I am very pleased to speak to the Alumni, through this, the first edition of SUFFOLK ALUMNI NEWS. To unite the Alumni with the activities of the University has always been one of my paramount aims. In order that you may feel closer to the University and to your fellow alumni, I urge you most sincerely to contribute information and to assist us in identifying the who, what, when and where of our widespread alumni group.

Please accept my wish that this publication may contribute to a larger, more vital and more involved alumni group.

The Fenton - Seybolt Era: Its Legacy

HISTORICAL REVIEW — A SERIES:

This is the first in a series of articles on Trustees and officers whose services in behalf of the University have contributed to its growth and development. The next article in the series will feature the University's Life Trustee and long time Treasurer, the Hon. Frank J. Donahue.

The appointment of Thomas A. Fulham to President marked not only the beginning of a new era for Suffolk University, but also the close of a period unique in Suffolk's history. A period marked by the cooperation and concern of two men whose dedication to the future of Suffolk brought sweeping changes and widened horizons: John E. Fenton and George C. Seybolt.

Judge John E. Fenton, as president of the University and George C. Seybolt, as Chairman of the Board of Trustees, guided Suffolk through five years of dramatic growth from 1965 to 1970. Each brought an expertise to his post which formed part of a strong partnership.

A NEW ALUMNI THRUST AT SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY

A complete new and comprehensive program for Suffolk Alumni has been launched by the University. For the first time in its history, the University has structured and is supporting an extensive program geared to serving its alumni. The program is an outgrowth of the realization of the need for alumni participation in the growth of the University and concern that the University was not serving its alumni as best it might.

In the past, alumni activities have been under the direction of an independent alumni association which was established in 1956 by a group of dedicated alumni who saw the need for such programs at Suffolk. Miss Dorothy McNamara, Secretary of General Alumni Affairs, and a small group of concerned alumni have been handling the program virtually alone since then. Their efforts have been noteworthy, but obviously in order to succeed, they needed full University support. Accordingly, the University's Trustees established a committee on alumni affairs with Trustees Lawrence L. Cameron, Herbert C. Hambelton, Jr., and President Thomas A. Fulham serving.

President Fulham also instituted talks with alumni. Last spring he hosted a number of luncheons to which alumni were invited. Their views concerning the structure and aims of a new alumni association were sought. A questionnaire was distributed and conclusions from it appear elsewhere in this newsletter.

A new approach was structured. The existing association and the University agreed that the old association, the General Alumni Association of Suffolk University, Inc. be dissolved and a new association be established — the Suffolk University General Alumni Association, under the sponsorship of the University. Every alumnus will automatically be a member of the new association. It was agreed that the directors of the old association would serve as an interim board of the new association until new officers and directors were elected by all members of the association in the spring. This program has the support of both the Trustees' Alumni Committee and the full Board of Trustees.

Basic objectives in structuring a new Alumni Association are to serve the alumni more fully and to create a cohesive body involved in the growth and planning of the University. (cont. on page 3, col. 3)

Alumni Association
President's Message

It is with sincerest best wishes that I greet you as your new Alumni Association President and also welcome a refreshing new face, the SUFFOLK ALUMNI NEWS which will be published for thousands of Suffolk grads.

One of my primary goals for the Alumni Association is to develop a unified alumni association encompassing all alumni under the reorganized structure of the Association. This is vital if we are to grow and thrive.

My other aims are the formulation and development of regional chapters so that our distant alumni may have a local point of contact and communication and the initiation of an Annual Alumni Appeal for the purpose of promoting the welfare of Suffolk University.

I urge your help and support so that we all can work for the betterment of Suffolk University.

John J. Norton, Class of 1955
Our First Issue

With this first issue of SUFFOLK ALUMNI NEWS, Suffolk University is pleased to take the first in a long series of steps to better communicate with its 9,000 alumni. SUFFOLK ALUMNI NEWS is aiming to bring the Suffolk alumni family together and keep them up to date on a regular basis on what is going on at the University.

We would like you, the alumni, to view this as your newsletter and as a means of communicating among yourselves. Class notes — news of what your classmates have been doing since graduation — will be an important and regular part of this newsletter.

In order for the newsletter to be effective, however, it must have the participation of the alumni. Please tell us, using the enclosed form, about yourself — where you are and what you are doing. Let us know what you know about your classmates, and tell us what kind of news you would like to see covered. In subsequent issues, we will print letters and excerpts from letters we receive from you.

We welcome your comments. Please make them known by writing to us or calling Miss Dorothy McNamara at 227-1040, extensions 216 or 217. Help us build the Suffolk University General Alumni Association into a strong and vital organization.

Alumni Committees

The Alumni Office and the association will rely heavily upon recommendations of alumni who participate in the various committees, as well as, upon suggestions received from those of you who are unable to actively participate. Your assistance and involvement is crucial in these early stages. Please indicate on the enclosed form which committee or committees you would be interested in serving on and we will get back to you. Briefly, the responsibilities of these committees are as follows:

PROGRAM COMMITTEE — establishing alumni programs for the current year.

SCHOLARSHIP COMMITTEE — developing activities designed to generate money for scholarship use. The committee will have responsibility for both raising scholarship money and suggesting recipients.

PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE — guiding the staff of the Alumni Office in the preparation of various types of communication with the alumni.

STUDENT-ALUMNIS RELATIONS COMMITTEE — developing better lines of communication between students and alumni and developing programs of interest to forthcoming graduates which involve them in alumni work prior to their departure from the University.

FACULTY-ALUMNIS RELATIONS COMMITTEE — developing greater communication between faculty and alumni and developing methods by which the faculty and alumni can assist one another.

AWARDS COMMITTEE — recommending for recognition by the Alumni Association outstanding men and women from the alumni. Awards will be made annually at the traditional Alumni Day Dinner.

DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE — structuring the various means by which alumni can assist the University in its growth. This committee will work closely with the Office of University Development.

ANNUAL APPEAL COMMITTEE — developing and structuring an annual appeal and promoting alumni support for the appeal.

ADMISSION RECRUITMENT COMMITTEE — recruiting deserving men and women to attend Suffolk University and structuring admission potential among the children of alumni.

UNION COMMITTEE — structuring a system for reunions for the 5th, 10th, 15th, 20th, 25th, and 50th classes of the Colleges and Law School and assisting the various classes in planning their respective reunions.

REGIONAL CHAPTERS AND CLUBS COMMITTEE — assisting the Alumni Office in setting up meetings of alumni in areas some distance from the University which could lead to the establishment of regional chapters or clubs of the association where sufficient interest justifies. Areas being considered for possible Suffolk clubs are: New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, the north shore area of Boston, the south shore area of Boston, western Massachusetts — Springfield, Pittsfield, etc., central Massachusetts — Worcester, New York City, and Washington, D.C. Alumni residing in these areas are urged to volunteer for this committee. In addition this committee will work with alumni of the Colleges of Business and Journalism to structure, within the framework of the new association, separate clubs of business and journalism graduates, similar to the Suffolk Law School Alumni Association.

Interim Alumni Officers Elected

Last fall the members of the old General Alumni Association of Suffolk University, Inc. elected officers and directors who agreed to serve as interim officers of the new association until a general election could be held in the spring at which time all 9,000 of the alumni would be polled.

John J. Norton, BS '55, of Quincy was elected President; Matthew J. Fink, AB '64, of Amherst, Vice President; Donald J. Schmidt, BSBA '68, of Attleboro, Treasurer; and William L. Pepper, AB '68 and M. Ed '69 of Jamaica Plain, Clerk.

Elected as Directors were Paul Bailey, AB '51 of Wollaston; Brendan C. Doherty, AB '69 of Woburn; Claire M. Driscoll, AB '43 of Somerville; Neil D. Hannon, AB '68 of Attleboro; Albert L. Hutton, Jr., LL.B '55 of Needham; P. Richard Jones, BSJ '56 of Boston; John D. McCarthy, BSBA '62 and MBA '69 of Scituate; Kessler H. Montgomery, LL.B '50 and LL.M '61 of Roxbury.

SUFFOLK ALUMNIS NEWS

Mailing of Suffolk Journal Discontinued

The Suffolk Journal, which has discontinued its coverage of alumni news, is no longer being mailed to alumni.

It was felt that alumni would be better informed by receiving, on a regular basis, their own publication devoted strictly to alumni matters.

Those alumni, however, who wish to continue to receive the Journal, may do so by noting it on the enclosed form, by writing the Journal Office at 41 Temple Street or by calling Miss McNamara at 227-1040, ext. 216 or 217.
With each issue of the newsletter, we will bring you a report from one of the deans of Suffolk University, telling you of developments in the school. In this issue we hear from Dr. Donald Grunewald, Vice President and Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. You will hear from other deans in upcoming issues.

During the past year, the Colleges have made significant progress in many areas. One measuring stick that may be used as to the desirability of an education at Suffolk is the size of enrollment.

Day enrollment in the Colleges has increased from 1960 in the Fall Semester 1970 to 2110 this Fall — a healthy increase of 150 students or 7.7%. The Evening Division has grown even faster from 1495 in 1970 to 1663 in 1971 — an increase of 168 students or 11.2%. The increased size of the Colleges has occurred without any loss in quality of students admitted. The faculty has been favorably impressed by the maturity and responsibility of our student body. The motivation of so many students who have to work hard to go to school, particularly the sacrifices made by our evening students, give a note of hope for the future of our country and the younger generation. This kind of dedication exemplified by the Suffolk Student faculty does not make the headlines we see in the newspapers.

The larger enrollments in recent years have brought benefits to our students. Larger enrollments have meant that more faculty could be hired. This has permitted the Colleges to offer more courses in a wider variety of areas and to hire more faculty specialists who could offer advanced courses of better quality. For example, the larger enrollment in Journalism in recent years has permitted the hiring of a full time faculty member in Journalism in 1970 with an outstanding background in journalism as well as the addition of new part-time faculty specialists to join our long time lecturers in Journalism. A complete revision of the Journalism curriculum has been made, upon the advice of the new and old faculty working together. The new Journalism curriculum has been commended in a story in Editor and Publisher and by increased employer interest in Suffolk Journalism majors.

Similar examples of exciting new additions to the faculty and revision of curricula already accomplished or in progress can be cited in all areas of the Humanities, Social Sciences, Education, and the Natural Sciences and Mathematics. Dean Waehler can point to similar progress in the College of Business Administration. Government grants and private donors have done much to enhance the quality of education in many areas such as the Zieman Poetry Room, a new education media center with closed circuit television, and new science laboratories.

This growth in size and quality has presented many problems as well as exciting possibilities. Our most serious problem has been a lack of space. Our classroom space has been so tight that desirable new programs such as a graduate program in public administration have had to be postponed. Space for students for activities and even to eat lunch also has been very cramped as has faculty office space. The announcement by President Fulham that a new building is to be acquired for the Colleges has brought a lift to faculty and students alike. This splendid new facility will do much to enhance our educational quality and, will enable alumni of the Colleges to take pride in having the most modern college facilities in the area. Additional funds are also needed for increased financial aid and scholarships to keep up with the rising costs of a college education.

Alumni can take pride in the rapidly growing academic reputation of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Its strong faculty (almost half of the faculty have earned doctorates) and exciting programs are bringing national attention to Suffolk. For example, Suffolk has hosted a National Science Foundation Summer Institute in Marine Biology under the direction of Dr. Arthur West II, Chairman of the Department of Biology, for the past three years. Participants in those institutes have come from all parts of the United States and from overseas. Thus, word about Suffolk and its programs is spreading rapidly. Also, Suffolk faculty are being listed in major directories in increasing numbers — six are listed in the 1972-1973 edition of Who's Who in the East. Other honors are coming to our faculty as well, such as invitations to speak at meetings of learned societies all over the world.

Alumni suggestions for further improvement are always welcome. The faculty looks forward to continuing progress for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences in future years. The support and encouragement of the alumni for Suffolk will play a vital role in this progress as it has in past years.

In the next issue, the DEAN'S CORNER will be occupied by Dean Donald R. Simpson of the Law School.

Alumni Thrust

University. The success of the program, however, is dependent upon the participation of our 9,000 alumni and your support and involvement is earnestly needed.

To assist the interim Board of Directors of the Alumni Association and to broaden the base of alumni participating in planning efforts, a number of alumni committees are being formed. They include: PROGRAM, SCHOLARSHIP, PUBLICATIONS, STUDENT-ALUMNI RELATIONS, FACULTY-ALUMNI RELATIONS, ALUMNI AWARDS, DEVELOPMENT, ANNUAL APPEAL, ADMISSION-RECRUITMENT, REGIONAL CHAPTERS AND CLUBS, and REUNION. Plans are to fill committees with alumni who have not participated in the past in alumni activities. Alumni participation via committee service is an important programming element in the new association, principally to set policy and develop guidelines.

Planning by the Alumni Association President, John Norton, the interim board and the Office of Alumni Affairs, headed by Miss Dorothy McNamara, has been underway for the past several months to structure a broad series of alumni programs. By-laws for the new association are being drafted and copies will be sent to all alumni along with notice of election procedures in the spring.

As part of the new program all alumni received a brief questionnaire in December. The information gathered in these questionnaires will aid in updating our records and help to fulfill the requirements of the re-accreditation committee of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. It will also be used as the basis for an alumni directory to be published later this year.

ALUMNI PROGRAMS

A number of alumni activities have already begun or are in the final planning stages. These activities plus those to be developed by the alumni committees should make an exciting and active first year for the new Alumni Association.

One new activity will be the President's Receptions. President Fulham will host on a weekly basis, reception or luncheons for 26 alumni and their spouses. The primary purpose of these receptions is to bring alumni back to the University, for the President to meet as many alumni as possible and to discuss on an informal basis the alumni's thoughts on activities for the Alumni Association. Alumni will be invited on a

President Fulham Inaugurated

On September 26, 1971, Thomas Anthony Fulham was officially installed as Suffolk University's sixth president. The ceremonies took place outside the School on Temple Street, which had been closed off and decorated for the occasion. Nearly one thousand guests, including leaders in education, government and business witnessed the event.

The keynote address was delivered by the President's sister, Sister Mary Vianney Fulham, President of Mount Saint Mary College, Hooksett, New Hampshire. Her remarks centered around humanity in education and the tone is reflected in her closing words: "I wish for Suffolk University and its President, the joy of discussing the central human concerns of its college community and the City of Boston. And I hope that through these dialogues, human vitality and hope will begin to transform the city."

Other speakers included Lieutenant Governor Donald R. Dwight speaking for the Commonwealth and Mayor Kevin H. White who conveyed the greetings of the city.

Neal D. Hannon, A.B. 1968, president of the General Alumni Association, pledged alumni support and assistance in the "continued development of the curricula and the physical plant in order that Suffolk University may maintain its high standing in the community."

The installation was performed by Judge John E. Fenton, Chairman of the Board of Trustees and president of the University until he stepped down in September, 1970.

President Fulham, in his inaugural address, pledged to continue Suffolk's long tradition of providing an "excellent education" for all qualified applicants. He also sketched his view of the future of Suffolk relative to size, location and scope: "The history of Suffolk University is one of steady, integrated growth, nurtured by the demands of our student body for an education for career use. On the basis of our current enrollment, it is imperative that we expand our physical facilities and expand our curriculum."

President Fulham, long a prominent Boston businessman, active in civic affairs and a Suffolk Trustee for ten years, is vice-president of the Boston Fish Market Corporation and, until he assumed the Suffolk presidency, was president of that firm for seventeen years. He is also an associate trustee of Holy Cross College, a trustee of the New England Aquarium, a corporator for the Provident Institution for Savings, and a director of the Association for Better Housing, Inc. in Dorchester.

In 1967 as an advisor for the U. S. State Department, Fulham gained international recognition when he represented this country at the Bilateral Negotiations in Moscow. In 1969 he served in a similar capacity in talks between Poland and the United States at Warsaw.

President Fulham's wife, Annette, and their nine children were present for the Inauguration.

Perhaps the words of Mayor White best convey the general spirit of the occasion: "In truth, I have never seen a street in the City of Boston put to such good use."

Alumni Survey

In the Spring of 1971, a limited survey of Suffolk Alumni was taken. Forty questionnaires were distributed with twenty-six replies received. The questionnaire covered such areas as the organizational structure of the new Alumni Association, programs for alumni, alumni committees and general thoughts concerning the University and an alumni association.

Generally, the Alumni surveyed favored structuring separate alumni groups within the General Alumni Association — 62 1/2% desired regional clubs, primarily in the Greater Boston Area. Fifteen of the twenty-six would like to see the Alumni Association work through class agents.

Most of the surveyed alumni felt that the meetings of the Association should be held at the University and should be both serious and social. Because of the sentiment to develop the social aspects of the Alumni Association, they would like to see the meetings open to spouses of alumni.

When questioned about types of programs of contemporary concern which might be offered for Alumni, those surveyed had the following preferences: taxes, planning a second career, psychology, ecology, drugs, music and art. Programs preferred in the areas of career interest were, in order of preference: public administration; new development in the law, real estate and insurance. Eighty-seven and one-half percent agreed that seminar programs should be combined with luncheon or dinner for which a nominal charge should be made. Those surveyed were also willing to pay a token fee to attend such meetings.

Responses were split concerning means of communication among alumni. However, nearly all agreed to furnish news for an alumni newsletter.

The final section of the questionnaire dealt with alumni committees. Seventy-nine percent of the respondents agreed to serve as an officer or committee member of the Alumni Association, while eighty-seven percent agreed to serve as chairmen or members of an alumni committee. The committees desired, in order of preference, were: Development, Alumni-Faculty Relations, Scholarship, Student-Alumni Relations, Seminar Planning, Publications, Program, Founder's Day, Special Events, and Law School. Two-thirds of those surveyed would serve on an alumni committee for an annual appeal with proceeds from such an appeal distributed in the following order of preference:

1. Unrestricted
2. Scholarship Aid
3. Special Projects
4. Combination of Areas
5. Law Library
6. Special Alumni Events
7. College Library
8. Growth and Development

The responses to this questionnaire were helpful in guiding the Office of Alumni Affairs in structuring alumni programs for this year. The opinions of all the alumni on these matters would be appreciated and will be sought in various ways. The enclosed form represents the first step in this direction. In future issues of the ALUMNI NEWS more specific questions regarding the workings of the Alumni Association will be posed.

The opinion of each alumnus is essential in that the entire purpose of an alumni association is to serve the alumni. This can only be done by making their opinions and judgments concerning alumni activities an integral part of the organization.

Did you know that over 5,700 students are attending the Colleges and the Law School this year?

1965, brought to his position a formidable reputation built as a lawyer who had distinguished himself for twenty-eight years as Judge of the Land Court of the Commonwealth. A graduate of Holy Cross College and Suffolk Law School, President Fenton had received the highest rank bestowed by Pope Pius XII, Knight of the Grand Cross of the Holy Sepulchre. His awareness of the problems as well as the opportunities of the University proved to be an important aspect of his vision for Suffolk.

To the post of Chairman of the Board of Trustees, in 1965, George C. Seybolt brought a broad and varied background. Prominent business and civic leader, his record of accomplishments comprised countless areas of endeavor. As President of the William Underwood Company, the nation’s oldest food canner, he multiplied sales ten-fold and expanded production operations to six countries. During this same period, he served and continues to serve on boards of twenty-six cultural, educational and business organizations and as president of a number of these including the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation, and the Museum of Fine Arts. Seybolt’s presence at Suffolk would prove invaluable.

These two men developed a plan for the future of the University, with the support of the University’s full Board of Trustees, around two major points of thrust. One point was the promotion and acceleration of innovative and improved education at Suffolk; the other, identification of major problem areas and coordination of efforts in attacking these problems.

On a daily and weekly basis this meant a determined commitment by both. One — Judge Fenton — would run the School with a firm and understanding hand, with the other — George Seybolt — would head up the Board of Trustees where the financing and planning would be handled.

The record of the Fenton-Seybolt era stands as a peak in the School’s history. In 1970 when Board Chairman Seybolt retired and took a seat as Trustee and President Fenton retired and re-assumed Chairmanship of the twenty-one member Board, the record of accomplishment was undeniably impressive.

During the period, Suffolk enjoyed its greatest growth. Once a small Law School, the University now had more than 5,000 students and the Law School was the third largest in the nation.

In 1966, a new seven-story air-conditioned building on Temple Street adjoining Suffolk’s older structure was opened. Soon after, the Derne Street building was completely refurbished, and a new library was installed. Finishing touches were put on new offices and laboratories.

Enrollment was up 66%; endowment up 485%; physical plant increased by 223%; scholarship awards up 100%; and library acquisitions increased by 483%.

Other areas of advancement included increasing of faculty and refinement of its quality and standards; adoption of new faculty salary and fringe benefit policies; broadened curriculum; and initiation of the Presidential “open door” policy of availability to both faculty and students, a move which contributed to the stability of Suffolk.

Student participation in University affairs became an integral part of the Fenton-Seybolt era. The President and Vice President of the Student Government Association and the President of the Sophomore Class are accredited to the College Committee with eight Trustees; on the Law School Committee with nine Trustees, the Editor of the Law Review, and the President and Chairman of the Student Bar Association are accredited. This increased democratization of the University’s governing process has contributed in large measure to communication between the administration and the student body.

Another major accomplishment of the Fenton-Seybolt era was the faculty-administrators self evaluation study, an intensive year long study and analysis covering goals and objectives of the University, enrollment patterns and student qualifications, academic programs, faculty and administrative structures, finances, and the relationship of the University to other institutions in the Boston area.

Perhaps most dramatic and certainly history making, was the decision to become the first tax-exempt institution of higher education to make a voluntary payment to Boston for municipal services rendered. This precedent-setting contribution was applauded by the Mayor and the press.

Today, Suffolk looks ahead with strength and confidence in its future. A big reason is its recent past, one rich with fine leadership and dedication of the Board of Trustees and these two concerned men.
Professor Fiorillo Honored

A long-time Suffolk University professor, well known to hundreds of alumni, was the recipient of an honorary degree at the September commencement.

Professor D. Donald Fiorillo, chairman of the Suffolk University Sociology Department, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities. He has been a Suffolk faculty member for 25 years.

President Fulham, who conferred the degree, noted: “Don Fiorillo has given an entire career to Suffolk and has been a true pioneer in the development of so many programs which have contributed to making this university the progressive institution it is today.”

Fiorillo, 47, is a graduate of Clark University and Boston College and joined Suffolk only a year after he was awarded his bachelor of arts from Clark.

During his career at Suffolk, he has been responsible for the creation and development of many programs. He founded the internship program for sociology majors, the Suffolk Crime and Delinquency program and the urban studies program. He has also served as basketball coach, assistant dean in charge of activities and founded the Sociology Club.

Have You Been Back?

Have you been back to Suffolk recently? If not, you will be pleasantly surprised.

The seven year old Donahue Building at 41 Temple Street houses the administrative offices, the Law Library, the cafeteria and spacious classrooms. The older Archer Building at the corner of Derne and Temple Streets has been completely renovated. You would not recognize it. On the third floor is a sparkling new College Library. The fourth and fifth floors house the science laboratories which are fully equipped and equal to any undergraduate science facilities in the country.

A townhouse across the street at 56 Temple Street has been converted into modern offices for Alumni Affairs, Public Relations, University Development, Law Placement, the Athletic Department and the Superintendent of Buildings. Down the street on Cambridge Street at the corner of Ridgeway Lane is the Ridgeway Building which has both classrooms and offices.

In its four buildings the University has over 200,000 square feet of modern space. If you haven’t been back recently, plan to return soon. You’ll like what you see.

Suffolk Hosts Child Care Conference

Suffolk University hosted a six-state New England Child Care and Development Conference January 23-25, attracting more than 300 participants from all levels of legislative, educational and professional ranks. The program was designed to meet regional needs and develop support for child day care programs.

The University, through its Sociology Department joined with the New England Regional Commission, the Federal Regional Council, the Office of Child Development of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the New England Governor’s Conference in sponsoring the program.

In discussing the Conference, Dr. D. Donald Fiorillo, Chairman of the Sociology Department, said, “It is hoped that it was a catalyst for formulating regional child care programs and legislation, something of paramount concern today.”

Principal speakers in the three day program included Mrs. Patricia Reilly Hitt, Assistant Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Congressman Robert F. Drinan, Congresswoman Mrs. Louise Day Hicks and Dr. Edward Zigler, Director of the Office of Child Development of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Huge Response to Questionnaire

Response to the Alumni questionnaire mailed in December has been overwhelming. Over 3,000 replies — better than a 35% return, were received in the first few days and more replies are still coming in. Thank you for your cooperation. We appreciate it.

If you haven’t already filled in your questionnaire, please do so and get it back to us. If for some reason you did not receive one or mislaid yours, please note it on the enclosure, call 227-1040, ext. 216 or 217 and speak with Miss McNamara, or write the Alumni Office at 56 Temple Street. Again, thanks for the prompt replies.
Class Notes

An integral part of the effective operation of a university is the voice of its alumni. Yours is a very special view—one which can aid in development of the University on all levels. Suffolk needs your participation and, as a first step, we hope to gather together all alumni in this newsletter.

In this, our first attempt in gathering news of the classes, we are faced with a dearth of information. Our main source has been recent news clippings.

Needless to say, we need your help. Your participation will make this section of the ALUMNI NEWS a means of communication among yourselves and, ideally, a forum for Suffolk’s 9,000 alumni.

In order for you to aid in this endeavor and to help fill in the gaps, we are asking that you complete the enclosed form or call Miss McNamara at 227-1040, ext. 216 or 217.

University Buildings Named

Gleason L. Archer, Hiram J. Archer, Frank J. Donahue—these are three illustrious names in Suffolk University history, and it is fitting that the Board of Trustees has recognized their contributions by naming Suffolk’s two major buildings after them.

The Board, at its September meeting, voted to name Suffolk’s older building, a five-story structure on Derne Street built in 1920, in memory of the Archer brothers. Gleason Archer was Suffolk’s Founder, first President and Law School Dean. His brother, Hiram was Clerk of the Corporation and Life Trustee. The building will be called the Archer Building.

Suffolk’s $3 million, six-story adjoining building at 41 Temple Street has been named the Frank J. Donahue Building in honor of Judge Donahue, the dean of the Massachusetts Superior Court, former University Treasurer, and now Life Trustee.

Still sitting regularly on the Superior Bench at the age of 90, the remarkably spry Judge Donahue recently chaired the successful Suffolk Law School Alumni Association Fall Dinner which attracted an overflow crowd of 300 to the Parker House.

“It is most fitting that the Board recognize the achievements and contributions these gentlemen have made to Suffolk during its long history,” President Fulham noted.

President Fulham Named to Presidential Board

President Nixon recently named President Fulham to a three year term on the twenty-five member National Advisory Committee on Oceans and Atmosphere. President Fulham has since been named to the six member Executive Committee. The other members of the Executive Committee are: Dr. William A. Nierenberg of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, Dr. William J. Hargis, Jr., of the Virginia Institute of Marine Sciences, Dr. Dayton H. Clewell, Senior Vice President of the Mobil Oil Corporation, Dr. Charles Drake of Dartmouth College’s Department of Earth Sciences, Dr. Thomas F. Malone, Vice President of the Graduate School of the University of Connecticut.

The Committee was established in August by Congress to undertake a continuing review of the progress of the Nation’s marine and atmospheric science and service programs; to advise the Secretary of Commerce on the governance and administration of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration; and to submit an annual report to the President and the Congress.

Alumni Privileges

As an Alumnus of Suffolk, you are entitled to use of both the College and Law Libraries and the Faculty Dining Room. If you live or work in or just visit Boston, why not plan to have lunch at Suffolk and visit Miss McNamara in the Alumni Office at 56 Temple Street.

Story of Suffolk Told on TV

You may well have seen it. If you didn’t, you’ll be happy to learn that Suffolk University was featured on the popular WHDH-TV Channel 5 program, “The Week Ends Here” on Saturday, November 20.

The ten-minute segment on Suffolk featured interviews with President Thomas A. Fulham and students in the Colleges and Law School and contained considerable footage on Suffolk’s facilities, including libraries, classrooms, laboratories and moot courtroom.

We think it effectively told the unique role Suffolk plays as a thriving university in Greater Boston, the strides it has made, and the multiple educational opportunities it offers in today’s complex educational world.
