VITAL CELEBRATION MARKS END OF WAR

IT'S LIKE THIS... by MATTY REEDER

In my brief and not always unworthy career, I have traveled and lived in many places. I have visited most of the cities and towns of the Mississippi River and the Ohio River, and I have seen the most wonderful parts of the world. In short, I have seen most of what there is to see. I believe that New York, on its own, is a great, influential and artistic city. Anybody who has been there will tell you the same thing. I have visited this city as often as I have the money to spend on it. (Continued on page two)

BOSTON, MASS., SATURDAY, AUGUST 18, 1945 FIVE CENTS

The first whistle, a siren, blew at two minutes after seven. At five minutes after seven the streets were filling with people, cars, trucks, buses, and other vehicles. In some parts of the city the streets were closed, and people were walking in the street. In the center of the city, on the Green, there was a great crowd of people. The soldiers and sailors were singing songs and waving flags. The flags were mostly American flags, but there were some flags of other nations. The crowd was singing songs of victory and of peace. In the Course Of Events

By W. L. Channing

The old adage is "she's a dog on a feather box together." But the "She's a dog" in this case was the Miss O'Brien, the late Miss Mabel O'Brien, who had a big appetite for life. Yes, Boston has some of the most delicious pieces of Mike in its musical repertoire, and this one is called "Miss O'Brien." It's a drinking..."

... to the South End and South Boston, where many of the occupants have been affected. The churches have been filled with people for several days, and the situation appears to be improving. The stores have also been able to supply some of the needs of the people. It is important to note that the churches and stores have been functioning without any government aid, and that they have been able to provide some relief to the people affected. It is hoped that the situation will continue to improve, and that the people affected will be able to return to their homes as soon as possible.

New York—It's an old adage among sports writers that the Negro stars have been getting the lion's share of the attention, but basketball is growing to the front as a serious spectator sport. sculpture of sport, but steps as it may seem, is still holding its own. The recent role of many coaches and fans in the game has been one of exciting action, and even the players. From the minor league circuits to the major leagues, basketball is gaining ground.
