PERLMAN OUTLINES UNIVERSITY GOALS TO FACULTY, STAFF

Continued accreditation of the University by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, reaccreditation of the Law School by the American Bar Association and the American Association of Law Schools and accreditation of the School of Management by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business were among the goals cited by President Daniel H. Perlman in his annual report to the faculty and staff on October 19.

Perlman reviewed the activities and accomplishments of the University during 1981-82 in his second annual address to faculty and staff held in Room 311 of the Donahue Building. He then detailed a number of goals the University has for 1982 or thereafter.

Among the objectives are an expansion and improvement in the University's management information system "including the accounting and budgeting functions" and an effort to improve the reporting scheme so that administrators will have "more timely and more accurate information."

The president also urged continued use of Higher Education Management Institute (HEMI) training materials to provide improved managerial skills for the University staff and to further expand the cooperative education program within the School of Management and the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

The University will study space needs for future years, seek to reduce attrition in the undergraduate schools and also analyze architectural recommendations on the condition of its older buildings and consider ways to maintain, renovate and improve its facilities.

Perlman also aims to improve the University's development program through increased support from alumni, foundations, corporations and friends. He hopes to reduce the University's dependence upon tuition as well as build its endowment. He would also like to see the establishment of a planned giving program for wills and bequests, trusts and other instruments.

He will also explore opportunities and potential for Suffolk University to provide service to the community in the field of continuing education as well as establish and improve institutional research and planning capacity.

Another priority for the University is to improve Suffolk's image by upgrading the quality of its various publications and printed materials as well as expanding the program of visiting committees.

"We also would like to further heighten the sense of being a community of scholars so as to unify the separate parts of the University toward the fulfillment of its common mission of educational service," Perlman said.

"These objectives... will require the concerted energies and attention of the faculty, the administrative and support staff, and the Board of Trustees over the years ahead," he noted.

In discussing the space problems, Perlman cited not only the need for faculty and staff office space but student recreation and physical education space and laboratory space.

Among the highlights cited from the 1981-82 academic year were:

- The successful completion of the "Campaign for Excellence" in which a total of $3.6 million was raised, nearly a third over the goal.

- Completion and dedication of the Frank Sawyer Building and the Mildred F. Sawyer Library.

- A $250,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Education under the Strengthening Developing Institutions program.

- Completion of the decennial self-study and report for the reaccreditation review by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges.

- Appointment of four new full-time faculty in SOM, two in the Law School and 10 in CLAS.

- Appointment of Joseph M. Kelley as director of development.

- First place awards in the Northeast Regional Competition to the Suffolk University teams in Jessup International Law Moot Court and the Patent Law Moot Court.

- Second place award to the debate team in the New England-New York district competition.

Perlman noted that total enrollment is 6278, up from 6136 in 1981-82 and that the full-time equivalent enrollment is 4621, up 102 from a year ago.

Following his report, which was accompanied by visual graphs, a reception was held in the new faculty lounge.

PALLOT LAW LIBRARY DEDICATED - Mr. and Mrs. E. Albert Pallot admire the portrait of Atty. Pallot unveiled at the dedication of the Pallot Law Library on Oct. 21. More than 100 guests, including members of Pallot's 1932 Suffolk Law School class, turned out for the dedication. Pallot is retired president and chief executive officer of the Biscayne Federal Savings and Loan Association in Miami, Florida.

10 SUFFOLK FACULTY-STAFFERS WILL BE HONORED ON NOV. 20

It was 30 years ago that Dr. Arthur J. West joined the Suffolk University faculty, just one year out of Suffolk himself. Since then he has carved a distinguished career at the University as chairman of biology and as the long-time guiding light of the Cobscook Bay marine biology facility.

On Nov. 20, West and nine other members of the Suffolk family will be honored at the Deans' Reception at the Great Hall in Quincy Market. All have served more than 10 years with the University.

Dr. West will receive a Suffolk rocker for his 30 years service.

Receiving captains' chairs for 20 years service to the University will be Ivan Banks, director of physical plant, Law Prof. Clifford Elias, who has served as associate dean, and Dr. John L. Sullivan, professor of sociology.

Cited with certificates for 10 years employment will be Dr. Margaret Lloyd, chairperson of the Psychology Department, Timothea McDonald, reference librarian for the Sawyer Library, Raymond Parks, associate professor of humanities and languages, Christine Perry, assistant director of financial aid, Jane Scherban, switchboard operator, and C. Thomas Stefaney, assistant professor of education.

President Perlman will make the presentations in a ceremony during the reception. The Deans' Reception will get underway at 5:30 p.m. and is open to all of the Suffolk community.

HAMBELTON WILL COORDINATE TITLE III PROGRAM

Herbert C. Hambelton, former associate superintendent in the Boston school system, has been named coordinator of the University's Institutional Advancement Program supported by a grant from the U.S. Department of Education under Title III of the Higher Education Act.

Hambelton, associated with the Boston schools for more than 30 years, is an alumnus of Suffolk University, holding both bachelor's and master's degrees in education.

In announcing the appointment, President Perlman took note of Hambelton's "distinguished career with the school system, most recently as headmaster of the Boston Business School, a man familiar with grants administration and relations with government agencies."

In addition to being an alumnus, Hambelton served as a member of the Board of Trustees from 1969 to 1982.

NEW EMPLOYEES - Ralph Getchell of Medford, maintenance mechanic, Physical Plant; Ellen Brown of Weymouth, secretary, Counseling Center; Mary Craig of Winthrop, data processing assistant, CLAS/SOM Registrar's Office; Cathy Ciolino of Gloucester, secretary, Law School; Diane Keefe of Danvers, secretary, Dean's Office, Law School; Gail Donenfeld of Boston, senior accounts payable clerk, Accounting Office; Maureen Picciuolo of Winthrop, secretary, Philosophy; and Valerie Scott of Arlington, Marjorie Maida of Dedham and Carol-Ann Palmieri of Medfield, on-call switchboard operators.
PROF. SPITZER VISITS CHINA

Dr. Steven Spitzer, chairman of the Sociology Department, spent two weeks in China in August as part of a 27-member delegation studying crime prevention.

Spitzer and other delegates were invited by Lyon Curtis, president of the Eisenhower Foundation for the Prevention of Violence. The group sought to find a comparative perspective on solving sociological problems occurring in both the U.S. and China.

Although the itinerary was tightly scheduled, the delegates were able to tour the five cities of Beijing (formerly Peking), Nanking, Suzhou, Hangzhou and Shanghai. Among some of the attractions Spitzer visited were the famous Chinese Gardens, noted worldwide for their exotic and breathtaking flowers, the historic Great Wall of China, and traditional shrines and pagodas.

The group met with political officials daily including question and answer sessions to help exchange ideas with professionals in both countries. They also visited a juvenile reformatory in Beijing.

"We talked with inmates and the warden of the reformatories," Spitzer noted. "The conditions in these reformatories are comparable to those in the United States. The Chinese heavily stress juvenile reformation and self-improvement."

Asked what impressed him most about China, Spitzer said. "The land is most impressive. Every inch of land is cultivated. The Chinese use their resources to the maximum capacity. The people are not prejudiced, and their standard of living is easier. It's extraordinary to see thousands of people walking down the street very late at night without any fear of being assaulted."

Spitzer hopes to incorporate some 500 slides from the trip into his lectures here at Suffolk.

ROTC ENROLLMENT GROWS AT SUFFOLK

With five Suffolk students already receiving full tuition scholarships, the University's ROTC program entered its second year with a healthy increase. Enrollment has jumped from 23 last October to 48 enrollees this fall, according to Capt. Joseph Paddock, program director.

"During the past summer, eight students entered the program through the six-week basic camp at Ft. Knox, Ky.," Paddock reported. "Evangelos Manoulases, SOM, '84, was selected from 600 other students to be the cadet commander of troops for his camp cycle. In addition, four Suffolk students completed the Army's Airborne School and now wear the coveted Silver Wings. Another Suffolk student was graduated from Air Assault School and one from Northern Warfare School in Alaska."

Twelve ROTC students are now members of the ROTC program and an Army National Guard or Reserve Unit within Massachusetts.

"Here they practice the leadership skills developed in the ROTC program and get paid for it," Paddock said.

The department has added Sgt. 1/C Al Ballesteros and Capt. Chuck Motson to its staff this fall. For additional information on the program contact the Military Science Department at Ext. 224.

CORRECTION - In the September SUN, it was reported that 40 percent of the School of Management faculty had terminal degrees. That was incorrect. Approximately 65 percent of the SOM faculty have doctorates.
WINNING HAS BECOME A HABIT AND HOBBY FOR LIBRARY'S PAT BROWN

Some people seem naturally lucky when it comes to winning at the races or in sweepstakes contests. Others claim they never win.

For Assistant Law Librarian Pat Brown, winning in contests has become a delightful habit and hobby.

Since she started entering prize contests in 1979, it's been win, win, win.

First, she won a 1979 American Motors Spirit D/L Liftback automobile in a Colgate Palmolive Company sweepstakes.

A couple of weeks later (Aug. 21, 1979) she received word that she had won $1000 in cash and a round trip for two to Ireland on Aer Lingus in the Calvert Distillers Company Jameson Irish Sweepstakes.

"With those quick back to back wins, I decided to continue with contesting as a hobby," explained Brown, a career employee at Suffolk with three degrees from the University, including a J.D.

Her roots at Suffolk date to her days when she starred on the women's basketball team in the mid fifties.

With Pat, contesting is something of a science, not just luck. She subscribes to contest newsletters and believes in multiple entries. In recent years she has won a GE widescreen television set valued at $3800, cameras, tape recorders, calculators, binoculars and many smaller prizes.

"To be successful, it takes persistence, patience and postage, but it makes my daily mail very interesting," she smiled.

Pat has no intentions of keeping her success formula a secret. "As to how I submit entries or how many entries should be sent or how to time the mailings, I'd be happy to furnish this information to anyone interested along with contest newsletters to subscribe to."

Anyone interested in trying their luck at becoming a winner, can contact Brown in the Law Library.

UNITED WAY UNDERWAY AT S.U. HAVE YOU RETURNED YOUR PLEDGE CARD?

The 1982 United Way drive at Suffolk University got underway Oct. 5 with a luncheon for team leaders in Sawyer 521.

President Perlman called the luncheon and urged support of the campaign. The Massachusetts total goal is $28.5 million.

Perlman pointed out that some 169 social agencies benefit through the United Way and expressed the hope that the University could improve upon its average gift this year.

Also addressing the luncheon guests were William Lee, loaned executive from Harvard University, where he is director of personnel for physical plant, and the Rev. Robert Towner of the Family Counseling and Guidance Center of Boston.

Louis B. Connelly, director of public relations, is United Way drive chairman at Suffolk, assisted by Karen M. DeCilio. Returns should be made to Public Relations, 8th floor, Sawyer Building.
Potpourri

Back when he was nine years old, Public Management's DAVID PFEIFFER was crippled in both legs by polio. One of the ways he has kept his upper body muscles strong is through swimming. Evidence of his skill in this area came last month when Pfeiffer competed in the Burke Games for disabled persons held in White Plains, N.Y., in connection with the National Wheelchair Athletic Association. He won six gold medals, five of them in swimming events.

While Suffolk has been the site of a New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC) visiting team, some of Suffolk's faculty will be serving on visiting teams around New England, among them Education's KEVIN LYONS (Anna Maria College), STEPHEN SHATKIN (UMass, Amherst) and Chairman DONALD UNGER (Salem State College). LOUIS A. D'ABROSCA, assistant professor of education, served as chairman on an accrediting team to the Data Institute Business School in Hartford, Ct. . And SOM Dean RICHARD McDOWELL has been appointed chairman of the visitation team for an accrediting visit for NEASC at Sacred Heart University in Connecticut. . .

Higher education in the Boston area lost one of its greatest friends and benefactors with the passing of STEPHEN P. MUGAR on Oct. 16. A trustee emeritus at Suffolk University, and active trustee for many years, Mr. Mugar was a generous contributor to Suffolk, Brandeis, Tufts, Boston College and other universities. The main law library has been named for him at Suffolk. When he retired as chairman of the board of Star Market in 1969, after 50 years of association, he had presided over the growth of a small market to one of the largest supermarket chains in New England with more than 8000 employees. . . A date for your calendar is Nov. 22 when James McNeely, the Beacon Hill architect who headed the committee that planned and developed Temple Walk, will speak at the University. His 4 p.m. lecture in the E. Albert Pallot Law Library in Archer will cover "The Romantic Mansions of Beacon Hill: An Architectural-Historical Odyssey" and feature color slides tracing the history and growth of Beacon Hill. . .

PRESIDENT PERLMAN is one of 10 leaders from higher education, business and diplomacy elected to the International Advisory Council of InterFuture at a New York meeting at Hunter College. InterFuture, short for "inter-cultural studies for the future," is a non-profit educational organization helping to send talented college students to other nations on individual learning projects as part of their studies. The council will advise the board on the expansion of its scholars program. . . Perlman is also a member of an 11-member steering committee in connection with 1975 pairing agreement among area colleges and universities to upgrade the quality of Boston public education. . .

On the speaker's trail, the Psychology Department will present Dr. WILLIAM L. HANNAH of that department discussing "Family Violence in the U.S." on Nov. 10 at 2 p.m. in the Goodrich Conference Room in Fenton. . .

JOE McCARTHY of Education addressed the meetings of the Greater Boston Guidance Association and the Catholic Schools Guidance Counselors Association, and English's ANTHONY MERZLAK highlighted the English Department's Lecture Series Oct. 12 with a discussion on Shakespeare's comedies. . .

Dr. WILLIAM SAHAKIAN of Philosophy has completed a two-volume Wiley Encyclopedia of Psychology to be published by John Wiley & Sons. . . And the Law School's TOM MCMAHON has been appointed commanding officer of the Naval Reserve Legal Unit based in Quincy. . .

Former Suffolk trustee, JOSEPH J. MELONE, executive vice president of the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, spoke at the School of Management's Distinguished Speakers Series on Nov. 3... Law Prof. CHARLES GARABEDIAN has had an article, "Why a Trial Brief?" published in the American, 1982 issue of the Civil Litigation Section of the Mass. Bar Association. The Faculty Colloquium for Research on Women launched its '82-83 series with a talk by Dr. AGNES BAIN of Government on "Women in China Today." KEVIN LYONS, director of the Learning Resource Center, addressed the Merrimack Valley Council of the International Reading Association at Bishop's Restaurant, Lawrence in a talk on comprehension and problem solving instruction. JANET BENOIT, secretary-receptionist at the Learning Center, has assumed the position of Learning Skills Instructor....

Edward L. Bernays, generally acknowledged as the father of public relations, will be visiting the University on Nov. 15. It was back in the mid-sixties that Bernays produced a series of lectures at Suffolk bringing outstanding lecturers from throughout the world to campus. He undoubtedly will discover a lot of change and progress at the University since the 60s. BEVERLY JOYCE of CLAS/SOM Admissions joined with ALLIE KAFEL of Data Processing and Frank Williams of the College Board to conduct a seminar workshop for beginners at the 9th annual Conference of the North East Association for Institutional Research at University of New Hampshire. The next workshop for Dr. DONALD FIORILLO's Field Experience in Sociology series will be held on Wed. Nov. 17 at 2 p.m. in Sawyer 430. The monthly workshops provide student sociology majors with insight into organizations, goals and expectations of the department's field program. JANE GRAY, FRED CANNIFF, and REGINA MORENO, all sociology majors, are doing student internships at Boston Juvenile Court under the direction of Dr. EDWARD SKEFFINGTON and Dr. FIORILLO of the Sociology Department. JOE VACCARO of Marketing has been reelected vice president/collegiate of the Boston chapter of the American Marketing Association. STEVEN SPITZER of Sociology has been elected to serve a three-year term as a member of the Criminology Council of the American Sociological Association. A couple of open houses to mention, the Government Department held one on Nov. 3 and 4 at its 12th floor offices in Sawyer while the Economics Dept. conducted a Career Day Seminar for economics majors Nov. 3 in Archer 110. KEN GARNI of the Counseling Center, Dean of Students D. BRADLEY SULLIVAN, Minority Student Coordinator BOB WARD, and student representative ROSSALYN RIGGINS represented the University at the Black Student Retention Workshop held Oct. 5 and 6 in Mansfield. The workshop, sponsored by the Office of Civil Rights of the Department of Education, focused on increasing the graduation rate of black students. Dr. SHEILA MAHONEY of Education attended the 10th International Congress sponsored by the International Association for Child and Adolescent Psychiatry and Allied Professions held in Dublin, Ireland. The theme was "Children in Turmoil: Tomorrow's Parents." Parents' income has the biggest influence on children's school success according to a finding by Sociology's JOHN C. HOLLEY. He studied 32 suburban communities in Greater Boston (the computer analysis of information was published in the Sept. issue of Boston Magazine) and found average house value, average SAT verbal and math scores and percentage of children going to college all strongly correlated. "Certain communities differ from the usual pattern," Dr. Holley reports. Despite their very high average wealth, Weston and Lincoln's children do not achieve exceptionally high grades and must be considered underachievers while despite relatively low house values, Swampscott's children are high achievers with a very high 87 percent going to college. SUFFOLK WILL HOST LOWELL LECTURE SERIES

Suffolk University has been invited to participate in the distinguished Lowell Institute Lecture Series.

The lecture series is supported under the will of John Lowell, Jr. offering free public lectures in Boston. Suffolk joins UMass, the Kennedy Library, Boston College, Harvard, Simmons, B.U. and the Museum of Fine Arts as Lowell Institute participants.

Suffolk will open a series of four lectures on Dec. 8 in the auditorium at 5 p.m. with a discussion on "The Tax Revolt: Creative Opportunity or Formula for Disaster?"

Herbert Lemelman, associate dean of the Law School, will moderate a panel consisting of John Crosier, executive director of the Mass. Business Roundtable; Rep. Gerald Cohen, chairman of the House Committee of Taxation; Dr. Donald Levitan, professor of public management, SOM; and Dr. Helen Ladd, associate professor of the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard.

During the course of the year other lectures will feature Suffolk's Steven Spitzer of Sociology, Alexander Cella of the Law School, Dr. David Tuerck of Economics and Robert Waehler of Accounting.

PHONATHONS RING TO THE TUNE OF $30,088

Evening phonathons for the annual fund have raised a total of $30,088 in eight nights of calling, the University Development Office reports.

That's more than twice the amount raised over a similar period during phonathons in last year's "Campaign for Excellence."

According to Development Director Joseph M. Kelley, some 803 donors have made pledges to date (compared to 452 pledges a year ago.)

"We're aiming for 2500 donors and a goal of $75,000 between now and Dec. 7," Kelley said. "The response by alumni, students and staff asked to make phone calls has been very encouraging."

Kelley noted.

The phonathons are conducted Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in the Alumni Conference Room, Room 808. For those interested in making calls for the annual fund, call the Development Office at Ext. 452.

Holley offers to make the dataset available to the Suffolk community to compare districts. He plans to use such typical data for his new course "Computer Applications in the Social Sciences.

SOM will hold its first Business/Government Forum for 1982-83 on Wed. Nov. 17 at 7:45 a.m. at the Parker House Speakers for the forum, "Business and Government Unite to Control Hospital Costs," will be Daniel Kinzer, president of the Mass. Hospital Association, John Crosier, president of the Mass. Business Roundtable, State Senate Majority Leader Daniel Foley, and David Frost, president of Blue Cross/Blue Shield. And congratulations to PATTI STANZIANI, captain of the Women's Tennis Team, and the team itself. Patti won the Mass. Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (MAIAW) Division III First Single's State Championship at a recent MAIAW tournament held at Endicott College in Beverly. The team placed third in the tournament and finished the season with an 11-3 record. The faculty, staff and administration ice skating party will be held on Jan. 12 from 5:45 p.m. to 7:45 p.m. at the Boston University skating arena. Contact MAUREEN DOOLEY, budget analyst, at Ext. 611 for details. That's it for this month. See you at the Deans' Reception Nov. 20.
