Journal Writer Severely Beaten

Screaming Mob Gives W.J.D. His "Just Deserts"

Walter J. Druce, jr., remote editor of the Suffolk Journal, was severely beaten yesterday morning outside of the Suffolk Educational Trust Foundation in downtown Suffolk, when he was attacked by a group of angry students. Druce was reading a舜ur革新's demonstration in support of the Suffolk Journal, which he was editing at the time. He was hit repeatedly by the mob, which consisted of over 50 members of the Suffolk Educational Trust Foundation, who were protesting against the publication of an article in the Suffolk Journal that they believed to be inflammatory.

Druce was rushed to the hospital where he remains in critical condition. The police are currently investigating the incident and have made several arrests.

BONGO DRUMMER ALUMNUS OWES EVERYTHING TO SUFFOLK EDUCATION

Mr. Roland Hill, an alumnus of Suffolk College, has publicly acknowledged that his love of music and his career as a bongo drummer were both influenced by his time at Suffolk. Hill attended Suffolk College from 1968 to 1970 and was a member of the Suffolk College band, where he learned to play the bongo.

"I owe everything to Suffolk," Hill said in an interview. "The education I received there gave me the foundation I needed to pursue my passion for music." Hill went on to explain that his love for bongos began during his time at Suffolk College when he first heard the instrument in a band class.

Hill currently performs with several bands around the country and has released several albums featuring his bongo playing. He continues to be an active member of the Suffolk College alumni community.

Salem refreshes your taste — "air-softens" every puff

"Take a puff of Springtime! Just as springtime transforms you to the beauty and softness all around... in every Salem, monotype and soft "air-softens" your taste. Salem, with all its rich tobacco taste, is a gentle, easy-smoking smoke. Special High Velocity paper "air-softens" every puff, as that helps to ease out. Salem gives you the breath of springtime. Salem refreshed... smoke Havana... menthol fresh... rich tobacco taste... modern filter, too.

A Better Shade of Green!

The limited class enrollment situation which was approved by the trustees last year was to be accepted by the trustees at their most recent meeting and will go into effect for the fall semester of 1964. The trustees have stipulated that the number of enrollments per year, to be a function of registration from each college, and is distributed to the dean and the director of undergraduate classes in proportion to their enrollments.

The revised policy was adopted upon the advice of a faculty advisor, to accommodate limited class activities and to effect the cost of the program.

The proposed policy has been made to the trustees earlier in the year that has been revised on the grounds that there was no assurance that the revised policy would be actually adopted.

Another Social Problem Solved

As a final note, I would like to present a unique article that I believe will serve as an excellent example of how social problems can be addressed in a creative and effective manner.

The average individual is faced with the dilemma of where to eat. He or she must decide whether to spend a few dollars on a quick meal at a fast food joint or to spend a bit more money on a sit-down meal at a restaurant. The choice can be challenging, as the budget-conscious individual may feel that the cost of a sit-down meal is too high.

However, there is an alternative that can provide a solution to this problem. CONDA'S RESTAURANT, located at 30 Derne St. in Boston, offers a first-class food service that is self-service. This means that customers can select their own food, which is prepared on the premises.

The self-service aspect of CONDA'S RESTAURANT provides a unique opportunity for individuals to enjoy a high-quality meal without breaking the bank. The restaurant offers a variety of dishes that can be prepared to order, allowing customers to create their own unique meal combinations.

Chemistry Dept. Gets Equipment For Petro Testing

The Suffolk University Chemistry Department has received funding for the purchase of equipment to test for petro products.

The equipment, purchased through the university's allocation of funds, will allow the department to conduct research on natural gas and petroleum products. The equipment includes a gas chromatograph, which will be used for the separation and identification of components in natural gas.

The equipment will also be used for the determination of the composition of petroleum products, such as gasoline and diesel fuel. The gas chromatograph will be able to detect and quantify the various components present in these products.

The equipment will be housed in the Chemistry Department's research lab, where it will be used by faculty members and graduate students for research projects.

POLITICAL SCIENCE CLUB FINISHES WITH HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The Suffolk University Political Science Club has completed its highly successful year.

During the year, the club has organized several events, including guest lectures and discussions on current political issues.

One of the most successful events was a debate on the topic of healthcare reform. The debate was moderated by a panel of experts and was well-received by the audience.

The club is planning to continue its successful efforts in the upcoming year.
