Treasurer's Report

No one needs to be told that it costs more to exist today than it did two, three or ten years ago. What the various media are telling us daily, combined with the reality of paying our way, makes each of us strongly aware of the pressure on our dollars. What applies to us as individuals, applies to business, and to the operations of an educational institution. The increase in maintenance costs in the past ten years is 843%, library expenditures are up for the same period 796%, and general expenses have risen 484% since 1965. The enormity of these statistics seems overwhelming at first, but when we realize that we support an institution that has increased dramatically in size in the last ten years, and that the costs of materials and services have risen in general, it is easy to see that Suffolk has merely kept pace with paying the bills.

Student enrollment is up, as is tuition. It is evident because of limitations of the physical plant, and the attendant corollary costs, that enrollment may not increase. This will eventually mean an edging upward of tuition. However, we have been able to keep tuition at a minimum and are still very proud of our low cost which makes education accessible for many qualified students who probably would be unable to attend college. Suffolk undergraduate tuition is $1600, up only $700 over the past ten years. Compare our college tuition to that of other colleges: Regis $2300, Harvard $3740, MIT $3700, Boston College $2950, Tufts $3400, Emmanuel $3240, Wellesley $3300, Northeastern $2145. The Law School tuition has increased from $1000 in 1965 to only $2000 in 1975. An average yearly increase of $70 and $90 respectively certainly represents a sincere effort to control educational cost.

Since 1965 we have added the Donahue Building, Ridgeway Lane (the old Stop & Shop building) Mount Vernon Street Building and of course the newly dedicated Fenton Building. Although the number of buildings has increased, these acquisitions have not solved the space problem.

The Donahue Building was designed primarily as an educational facility and is very functional. The Ridgeway Lane property as well as the Fenton Building are conversions from different use designs and although well done, it could not be expected that they would yield the usable square footage of a structure specifically designed for classrooms.

With limited space, we have to be efficient in utilization of the available square footage. Yes, it puts a burden on the students and on classroom scheduling. This has not affected the quality of our service in purely educational terms and this is very important. In time we must resolve the space problem and this will most certainly apply cost pressures. However, with proper planning we will work to resolve this problem economically and to the benefit of the University.

The library is naturally a vital part of any educational institution and we can all be proud of the effort made to increase acquisition. Costs are up, but even so our annual library expenditure over the past ten years has grown from $64,142 to $575,000. This 796% increase has greatly strengthened this very important learning resource area.

Suffolk has worked to maintain a strong financial position and will continue to seek this objective. It is important to note that the Annual Funds provide a much needed source of income in assisting Suffolk University to maintain a sound financial position.

Endowment and the physical plant represent the major assets of Suffolk University. The following chart illustrates the endowment per-student based on fiscal 1974 values, for the private universities of Massachusetts. As it is easy to see, there are some heavily endowed universities, but even so, Suffolk with only seventy years of history can be proud of its endowment and can work to ensure its growth.
The market has played havoc with all portfolios over the past two years, but we have seen a resurgence as represented by a December 31, 1975 market value of $6,094,343. This represents an increase in value of 35% in the past year.

As for the book value of our buildings, the growth represents the addition of the Donahue Building in 1966 and the Fenton Building which came into service this past September. Since 1963 our facilities have changed in value from $4,093,922 to $12,000,000 an increase of 193%. In terms of space utilization, I doubt there is an institution that can compare in efficiency. We are not building monuments to man, but rather are providing basic space in which the higher education process can take place.

The University’s auditors, Ernst and Ernst, have again found our accounts to be consistent and to fairly represent our financial condition.

The proposals are part of the legislative program of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities in Massachusetts, of which Suffolk University is a member.

"Step" Three proposals designed to help qualified Massachusetts high school graduates attend Suffolk University will be considered by the Massachusetts legislature in 1976.

One measure calls for the establishment of "STEP," a student tuition equalization program to bridge the gap between tax-supported and independent institutions. Depending upon individual need, students would be eligible for a grant of either three-quarters of the tuition at Suffolk University or half the total tax-supported cost of attending the University of Massachusetts.

President Thomas A. Fulham has described STEP as "a milestone program in efforts to broaden educational opportunities for Massachusetts students by insuring that every student, regardless of family financial circumstances, can choose between either publicly or independently supported colleges in the Commonwealth."

A second proposal calls for an increase in the General State Scholarship Program of twenty-million dollars, up from $11.5 to $35.5 million. Last year Suffolk students received $225,450 in state scholarship assistance.

A third proposal would create a program of matching grants to independent institutions to help support their scholarship assistance to Massachusetts students. Under such a program, Suffolk University would receive an annual grant equal to half the funds it provides from its own resources for scholarships for Massachusetts students. Fifty percent of the grant funds would be earmarked to provide further financial assistance to Massachusetts students.

President Fulham has described the proposals as "very much in the best interest of Massachusetts students and taxpayers" and has urged Suffolk University staff, alumni and friends to ask their legislators to support the measures during the coming legislative session.

The proposals are part of the legislative program of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities in Massachusetts, of which Suffolk University is a member.

Fall Alumni Dinner Planned

Dave Saliba, AA '49, JD '52, is Chairman of the Law School Alumni Dinner scheduled for October, 1976. Members of his committee include: Geraldine Lombardo, AB '68, JD '70, Keesler H. Montgomery, JD '50, the Honorable James J. Nixon, JD '55 and the Honorable Edward T. Martin, JD '36. Dave envisions a return to the gatherings which Judge Donahue is famous for, where the spirit of Suffolk Law School filled the ballroom of the Parker House. Dave has been calling many of his Suffolk friends and already has had requests for tables. The committee is determined to bring the Suffolk Law School Alumni together again for the lively talk and good fun they shared so often in the past. The actual date has not been set, but as soon as details are complete all Law School Alumni will be notified.

Moot Court Judges

The final arguments of the 1976 Justice Thomas Clark Moot Court Competition will be judged by an outstanding panel. Presiding as Chief Justice will be the Honorable James L. Oakes of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. Sitting as Associate Justices will be the Honorable John J. Gibbons of the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit and the Honorable Benjamin Kaplan of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts.

Oral arguments begin in the middle of February. Judges for these arguments will be members of the Federal and State Judiciary, Massachusetts attorneys and law school professors. The Clark Competition represents the highest level of achievement in advocacy and brief writing in the Law School. Final arguments are scheduled for the evening of April 1, 1976.
Suffolk Shares in Trust

The University has received a gift in the amount of $53,497 from the estate of the late Winfield S. Quinby, the Brookline, Massachusetts, businessman who owned the La Touraine Coffee Company. The gift is designated for Law School scholarships.

Mr. Quinby died in 1929 leaving a trust for the benefit of his family with the remainder to be given to charity. The beneficiaries are no longer living and the remainder was divided among several greater Boston educational, research and health care institutions, one of which was Suffolk Law School.

The check was presented to the University by Mr. Edward J. Bushell, JD '26, one of the trustees of the Quinby estate.

Law Alumni Span U.S.

In the process of updating, collecting and correcting alumni information, we've gathered some interesting data. As of February, 1976, our files show 7,607 Suffolk Law alumni — of those, some 2,843 are classified as "lost" — a high percentage, but the Alumni Records Office is working to bring the percentage down.

There are some interesting numbers when we look at geographical distribution of law alumni. As expected, most alumni are in Massachusetts, but Suffolk Law alumni are found in 36 other states. The following table lists in descending order the eleven states which account for most of those alumni of whose whereabouts we are aware:

aquarium; during the course of his college career, the student gradually becomes involved in the more sophisticated aspects of the aquarium.

The second level of involvement, that of independent study, is a result of the stranding of some dolphins near the University's Cobscook Bay, Maine Marine Biology Laboratory. The carcases of some of the stranded dolphins were sent to the Aquarium where Dr. Joseph R. Geraci, BS '59, performed autopsies. Several students from the Biology Department were enlisted to aid him. The result has been that two Biology majors are currently doing independent research at the Aquarium.

The affiliation has proved to be rewarding to both the Aquarium and Suffolk students and its continued success is anticipated.

New B.S.

The Sociology Department has established a new program of study leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Health Services. The program is designed for graduates of accredited nursing schools and associate degree programs as well as health professionals and pre-service students.

The Health Services major includes a broad base in liberal arts with core courses in areas such as Critical Health Issues, Public Health and Social Epidemiology, and Medical Sociology among others.

It is expected that the new program will provide a career ladder for in-service personnel and offer an opportunity for entry into health services for those who are interested in a career in the field. The degree may offer an entree to admission to graduate schools of hospital administration, and careers in medical economics, medical sociology, public health, environmental health and other areas of specialization within the field.

Dr. D. Donald Fiorello, Chairman of the Sociology Department, has high hopes for the program and will be happy to furnish details upon request.

Colleges Reunion Evening - May 15, 1976

Mark the date and get ready for an evening you will long remember. Richard Dell'Aria, BSJ '71, JD '75, Chairman of the Reunion Evening has put together a program to entertain everyone. If you like the modern sound it will be there with THE WAY BACK MACHINE featuring as lead singer Stephen Bulyga, AB '73. While the "rockers" of all ages take a break, The Tufts Stage Band will bring you back to the big band sounds of the '40's. Cruise the dance floor or just sit and tap your feet while you talk with friends. Under the direction of Patricia Haskins, BS '71, the interludes of music will be spaced appropriately around the character impressions of Steve Alexander, BSBA '69, MBA '70 and the comedy of Joseph Pilato and Stephen Bulyga.

Make your plans now — start contacting your friends and planning for May 15th.
An exchange professorship with McGill University, in Montreal, Canada, for the summer of 1976 was recently approved. Dr. Glen A. Eskedal, Director of Counselor Education at Suffolk and Dr. William Talley, Professor in Counselor Education at McGill, will exchange assignments for the summer sessions at their respective institutions.

Professors Eskedal and Talley have parallel interests in the field of Counselor Education and are involved in research with groups of young adults and the dynamics of the young adult. During the exchange, both professors will teach two graduate courses, a Seminar in Group Counseling and a course entitled the Psychology of the Young Adult.

This kind of exchange program is valuable to the participating institutions, faculty, and students in that all gain from the opportunity to share new ideas and new approaches to education.

Exciting things are happening in a course entitled "The French Heritage in North America." Taught by Dr. Marshall D. Hastings, the underlying philosophy of the course is that an integral part of the study of a foreign language and culture is the actual visit to the foreign country involved. In keeping with this philosophy, one studying French culture should go to France. But, as Professor Hastings puts it, "Paris is too expensive, so we go to French speaking Canada." The visit is the culmination of a semester filled with study of the various aspects of French culture and its effects upon our American heritage.

The classroom segment of the course deals with the history and culture of French speaking Canada and traces the rise of Quebec nationalism. Not only do students study the historical development of Canada as we know it today, but also they trace the role of French culture in the United States. Students are made aware of the historical presence of French speaking Canada, as evidenced by city names such as "Boise" and "Detroit" and the continuing presence as evidenced by French speaking populations in Louisiana, and New England. Dr. Hastings discusses the French culture as it relates to the fabric of American society from food to "haute couture."

The culmination of the course is the trip to Quebec City. Only members of the class who have taken the course are allowed to go on the trip which takes place during the January break. At a minimal cost, students, under Dr. Hastings' supervision, stay in youth hostels, meet students of all nationalities, participate in conducted tours, and generally, are afforded an opportunity to integrate everything they have learned in the classroom into the experience of seeing the country as it is today.

The French Heritage in North America" is open to Suffolk students in all departments in that it is taught in English to circumvent language barriers facing the student who is not fluent in French. A chance to extend one's horizons, the course provides a unique opportunity.

Aquarium Affiliation

The Biology Department has formed an affiliation with the New England Aquarium which will enable Suffolk students to work at the aquarium while studying at the University. The affiliation evolved as a result of meetings between John Prescott, Director of the Aquarium and Dr. Arthur West of the Biology Department. The Coordinator of the program is Dr. Philip Mulvey of the Biology Department. The arrangement is on two levels. First, students in the Environmental Technology program at Suffolk may spend a block of time working at the Aquarium under the guidance of Aquarium staff. As the program is structured, the student learns very basic methods and problems involved in carrying on the work of the
The results suggest various courses of action for the business community and municipal government. Generally, the study recommends increasing available parking, support of repeal of state Blue Laws and other more specific changes related to business in the area.

Participation in the study has proved to be a unique educational experience for the students involved in that they are able to apply theoretical principals to concrete situations and observe their validity.

CAF Affiliation

The College of Business Administration has entered into an affiliation with the Consumer Affairs Foundation, Inc. (CAF), a non-profit, charitable and educational foundation working in the field of consumer education and information. Established in 1972, with initial grants from eight Better Business Bureaus on the East Coast, the Foundation also investigates business practices affecting the consuming public and fair business competition. The Consumers Tribute is the major publication of the Foundation.

Anthony G. Bonas, Chairman of the Marketing Department at Suffolk, is the on-going liaison person with the Foundation. The affiliation provides broad opportunities for both the University and the Foundation. Student researchers are available to the Foundation and the University is considering developing programs with a business orientation in the area of consumer education. Leonard L. Sanders, President of the Foundation, hopes that the working relationship with the University will be an opportunity to develop course outlines and resource materials for high school, junior college and collegiate use.

Questions concerning the Consumer Affairs Foundation should be addressed to Leonard L. Sanders, President of the Foundation, in care of Suffolk University College of Business Administration.

Governor’s Appointment

Dean Richard McDowell has been appointed by Massachusetts’ Governor Michael Dukakis to the Massachusetts Public Health Council. The appointment was made partly because, in addition to broad experience in higher education, Dean McDowell’s career has included a long standing involvement in the field of elder affairs.

Established to attempt to control spiraling medical costs due to capital expenditures, the Council reviews all applications for construction of health care facilities costing over one hundred thousand dollars.

President’s Reception

Alumni from the Lexington-Concord area heard President Thomas A. Fulham speak on January 29 at the Sheraton-Dunfey Motor Inn in Lexington. President Fulham is hosting alumni receptions in various locales throughout Massachusetts over the next few months. These informal get-togethers provide an opportunity for the President to talk about Suffolk to small gatherings of alumni to bring them up to date on the progress of the University, and to respond to their questions. It is a further step in the effort to better inform alumni and to personally meet with as many graduates as possible. These receptions are for alumni of the Colleges of Business and Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Newton-Needham Market Study

Students in Professor Joseph P. Vaccaro’s Marketing Research class have submitted a voluminous study to the Newton-Needham Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce. The study was one of shopper preference in selected shopping areas. Thirty-three students took part in the survey, interviewing over 800 shoppers and spending over 1200 hours in the various aspects of its production. Students were given a classroom orientation about Needham and Newton by Mr. Lewis B. Songer, Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President, and they then began making field trips for personal orientation, test interviews and other pre-survey arrangements. The entire questionnaire was designed by the students under Professor Vaccaro’s supervision.
