Dr. Brown Speaks

At Class Reunion

Salem, Mass. — Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown was speaker of the class of 1888 at the Salem Normal School, now called the Salem Teachers College on Saturday, October 29. This is the fifty-third anniversary of the class in which Dr. Brown was the only Negro student.

Dr. Brown was born in Henderson, North Carolina, and spent her early childhood days in Cambridge, Mass., and thereby received her education in that area.

The distinct honor is the recognition given for her fifty-four years of service as an educator, and founder of Palmer Memorial Institute, and also as the most successful and illustrious member of her graduating class.

ATTY. LAURENCE BANKS, who last week announced that he will run for re-election because Mayor Hynes strongly approves the resolution on the Till case in Mississippi, which will be introduced at next Monday meeting of the City Council, Banks urges all registered voters to turn out next Tuesday.
