Grad School Applicants At All-Time High

Degree Candidates

The general requirements for all graduate programs vary, but the most common requirements include a minimum of 24 hours of graduate work, an undergraduate GPA of 3.0 or higher, and a satisfactory GRE score. In addition, some programs may require specific courses or a minimum of three years of full-time work experience in a related field.

Limited Opportunities

For some students, opportunities may be limited by such factors as the length of time required to complete a program or the global nature of the field. Despite these challenges, many students find ways to overcome barriers and pursue their academic goals.

Plaudits For All

It is appropriate at this time of the school year for the student body of Suffolk University to applaud the student government for their accomplishments during the year. For the first time in the history of the student government, Suffolk students have had a voice in the New Student Orientation Program. This is a significant step forward in the process of student involvement and decision-making. The student government has demonstrated their ability to organize and coordinate events and activities, and their hard work and dedication are greatly appreciated.

On A Platform Of Inertia

Inertia is a concept that is often misunderstood and misinterpreted. It is often thought of as a static force that prevents objects from moving. However, this is not the case. Inertia is the resistance that an object offers to any change in its state of motion. It is a measure of an object's resistance to acceleration. Inertia is a fundamental concept in physics and is essential for understanding the behavior of objects in motion.

A Flexible Formula

In our fast-paced world, it is important to have a flexible formula that can accommodate different situations and scenarios. This is especially true in the field of education. As technology continues to evolve, it is important for educators to adapt to new methods and approaches. A flexible formula would allow for this kind of adaptation and would be beneficial in the long run.

The G.O.P. Candidate

by John E. Naisbitt

The only Republican National Committee man to take a stand on the current campaign is the G.O.P. Candidate, Robert F. Kennedy, who announced the nomination of Edward G. Keating as Administrator of the Export-Import Bank.

Edward G. Keating

Edward G. Keating, a graduate of the Harvard Business School, has served as President of the Overseas Development Corporation, a private agency that provides economic assistance to underdeveloped countries.

The nomination, which broadens the committee's influence, is expected to be announced next week.

ECONOMICS CAN BE CHALLENGING.

Many of the most basic economic concepts are not widely accepted by the general public. Even those who are knowledgeable about the issues often find it difficult to understand the complexities of the economy.

John E. Naisbitt, author of "Marketing the Future," believes that the key to making economics accessible to the public is through education. He argues that by teaching the basics of economics, such as supply and demand, inflation and deflation, and the role of government in the economy, we can help people to make better informed decisions.

"Economics is not just about numbers," Naisbitt says. "It's about understanding how the world works. And that means learning how to read a balance sheet, understand a budget, and interpret economic data."

Suffolk Graduate Made Admin. V.P.

Edward G. Keating, a graduate of the Suffolk School of Economics, has been named as the new Administration V.P. of the Distributing Corp. of America. Keating was formerly a member of the Suffolk School's Board of Trustees.

"Edward is an ideal candidate for this position," said the company's CEO. "He brings a wealth of experience in the field of economics and a strong commitment to education."
