President's Message

This annual report to our donors gives me an opportunity to express my appreciation to those who have helped support Suffolk University over the past year. Your assistance has been of great importance and will assure that Suffolk University can continue its exemplary record of service to students of all ages and backgrounds from all parts of metropolitan Boston and beyond.

The 1982-83 academic year saw continued growth and progress for Suffolk University. We recruited new faculty with a strong commitment to teaching, we developed new programs and new elective courses in many areas and—with your generous assistance—we continued the program of renovating our older buildings. We have kept our tuition moderate, less than half the amount of the tuition at many of competitor institutions in Boston, while the quality of instruction and student services continues to grow. And, with the University's own funds, augmented by governmental scholarship and loan programs, we made over $11 million in student financial aid available to assist students. Some of the highlights of the past year include:

Record Enrollment. Suffolk University enrolled the largest class of freshmen in its history. Six hundred and thirteen full-time freshmen entered the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the School of Management, an increase of 19 percent over 1981 and 54 percent over 1980. There was also an increase in the number of transfer students. Law School enrollment continues at about 1,600 students, as planned. Altogether, over 6,300 students were enrolled. Clearly, the University's strategy of keeping tuition relatively low and affordable while improving its quality has resulted in a higher education of exceptional value, increasingly attractive to students and their families.

Reaccreditation. Suffolk University was visited during the year by a team from the New England Association of Schools of Colleges (NEASC). Based on the report of that team, the University's accreditation was continued. The next visit will occur in ten years. The accreditation team said many complimentary things about Suffolk University. They commented on the quality of the University's self-study, saying it was the best they had ever seen. They remarked on the significant gains over the past decade and commended the faculty for their steady commitment to good teaching. Their recommendations and those of the faculty self-study are being discussed by the faculty, the administration and the Board. Many have been implemented; others will be implemented as time and resources permit.

Cooperative Education Program. The Cooperative Education Program, now in its fourth year, received a five-year federal grant of $235,000 to expand and extend its scope to include undergraduate students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences as well as those in the School of Management. The Cooperative Education Program now provides jobs in career-related positions for students in Biology, Computer Science, English, Government, History, Journalism, Psychology, and Sociology as well as in the various fields of management where the program began.

Title III of the Higher Education Act, Strengthening Developing Institutions. Following the successful completion of an initial one-year grant, Suffolk University was awarded a four-year grant under the Title III program to develop a variety of programs and services to better accommodate the needs of undergraduate students, many of whom are from low-income families. The first year's support under the new grant amounted to approximately $400,000. With this support, the University:

- Further developed the Learning Resource Center.
- Established an Office of Institutional Research.
- Developed a program in Computer Engineering Technology.
- Enhanced the management information system.
- Developed activities to encourage and assist women and minority students to prepare for careers in the sciences.
- Provided expanded opportunities for faculty development.

- Introduced management students to the issues of international business.

Renovation of Facilities. Because of its compact physical plant and its day and evening class schedule, Suffolk University uses its facilities more intensively than almost any other college or university. This means more wear-and-tear and the need to assure that every room functions at peak efficiency. We want to bring the University's older buildings up to the standard set in the Frank Sawyer Building. Our architectural and engineering consultants prepared a detailed report on the additional renovations needed in the Archer, Fenston and Donahue buildings. With your support, we hope to complete these renovations over a period of three to six years.

Message from the Chairman of the Board

Once again, I take both pride and satisfaction in thanking our alumni and friends, our volunteers and our donors to Suffolk University's annual funds. Ours is a debt-free, balanced-budget university, and has been so for many years. Nevertheless, without your generosity and thoughtfulness, projects now being undertaken or sustained might well have had to be deferred or curtailed.

My appreciation of all that is being done for the University through annual giving is shared enthusiastically by my fellow trustees.

John S. Howe
Chairman, Board of Trustees

Highlights 1982-1983

The founding of Summa to identify donors who make gifts of $1,000 or more each year.

The establishment of the donor category, Patrons of Summa, to recognize those whose lifetime contributions exceed $50,000.

An increase of 45% in alumni donors—in a single year.

An unprecedented increase in alumni volunteers at all levels of activity.

A tripling of student volunteer participating in the phonathon program.
Several new facilities were dedicated during the year:
• The E. Albert Pallot Law Library, dedicated by Mr. Pallot (J.D. '32), increases the capacity of the Law School's book collection to approximately 250,000 volumes and expands the seating for students.
• The Edward Masterman Law Student Lounge, dedicated by Mr. Masterman (J.D. '95), provides space for informal student gatherings.
• The John P. Chase Computer Center, dedicated by Trustee Chase, contains computer terminals used by students in the School of Management.
• The Paul Gargano Law Classroom, dedicated by Mr. Gargano BA '60 (J.D. '63), enhances the quality of instructional space for law students.

Alumni Support
Three thousand one hundred and twenty alumni contributed to Suffolk University during 1982-83, a 45 percent increase over the previous year. Alumni donors gave a total of $476,000 to the University. Of which $275,000 were payments of pledges to the 'Campaign for Excellence' and $201,000 were new contributions. Additional contributions from corporations and foundations brought the total of new support to $250,000. Including capital campaign collections, a total of $609,000 was raised. A new donor's group, Summa, was established for individuals contributing a minimum of $1,000 annually. Summa had 115 members in its first year. Summa members met the University's honorary degree candidates, the president and the trustees at a black-tie dinner prior to Commencement. During 1982-83, 115 new members were presented. Summa members met the University's honorary degree candidates, the president and the trustees at a black-tie dinner prior to Commencement. After moving into the Frank A. Sawyer Building. Suffolk University continues and will continue to meet the University's space needs for academic and administrative programs. During 1982-83, work was completed on the E. Albert Pallot Law Library, the Edward I. Masterman Law Student Lounge, and the Faculty Lounge on the third floor of the Archer Building. Guided by the Facilities Audit Work- book of the Association of Governing Boards, the University's consulting architects prepared a comprehensive evaluation of the University's buildings and a schedule for refurbishing and repairs. The first major repairs were started this summer and included cleaning all masonry and applying water repellent to the Archer and Donahue Buildings. This past year's expenditures for capital improvements, repairs and refurbish-ments amounted to $1,136,000, $393,500 of which was funded from current operations and the balance of $742,500 from the Reserve for Renovations. Suffolk University's data processing operations were greatly improved in 1982-83. Our two Prime 750's now serve 78 academic and 50 administrative terminals. Every major administrative office is now on-line. We have also expanded our stand-alone capacity. Units which assist both the academic and administrative programs include 20 Apples, 5 Kay Pro's, and 6 DEC Rainbow 100's. This year for the first time Financial Aid, Accounting, and the Registrar's Office were integrated into an on-line registration process that can register a student in about 15 minutes, eliminating the long lines that most of you remember. Suffolk University has become efficient in energy management as well as in data processing. During the year representatives from a subsidiary of the Royal Dutch/Shell group studied our energy usage and indicated that our energy management is very close to the best they have seen in a university. Suffolk University has achieved the above-mentioned improvements while remaining financially sound. In connection with the reaccreditation, the New England Association of Schools and Colleges evaluated our finances and concluded that Suffolk University is "in a very sound financial position. Furthermore, the University through prudent management has been able to achieve a very low debt structure. These actions, coupled with a relatively low tuition rate as a private post-secondary institution, recent increases in private giving, and a perceived stable enrollment, placed the University in a very favorable financial position."

In spite of sound finances and abating inflation, we are faced with large increases in pension and medical insurance costs. We need your continued support to battle these rising costs and to maintain a high standard of quality for our facilities and programs. Please help us continue to strive for efficiency and excellence.

* A Title III grant for developing institutions in the amount of $399,631 was received from the government, and as of June 30, 1983 $243,265 had been requested and received, covering expenditures to that date. This was credited to Restricted Funds. The grant year is from October 1, 1982 to September 30, 1983.
The Office of Institutional Advancement, composed of development, alumni affairs, and public relations, has now passed its first anniversary as a unified department of Suffolk University. We are, I believe, stronger in staff and in program than we were a year ago. This has been in part made possible by our relocation on the seventh floor of 11 Beacon Street in somewhat larger and more suitable quarters than were available in the Sawyer Building. In any event, we are looking forward to the challenges of 1984 and beyond.

The establishment of Summa and the unprecedented increase in alumni/ae participation in Annual Giving were, perhaps the most gratifying developments in the fiscal year just past. Traditionally, annual giving sits at least slightly after the successful conclusion of a capital campaign. Here at Suffolk we are observing an entirely different phenomenon: approximately fifteen percent of Suffolk’s living graduates were donors in 1982-1983. This is an unusual rate of participation of any urban, non-residential university. Very warm thanks are due to our donors and our volunteers, especially those three hundred and twenty alumni/ae, students, faculty, and administrators who worked so hard on the fall phonathon. This is clear evidence both of a growing maturity in the University’s Institutional Advancement programs, and of a deepening appreciation of Suffolk’s mission on the part of our graduates and colleagues.

Joseph M. Kelley
Vice President for Institutional Advancement

President and Trustees of the University at the formal pre-Commencement banquet in June. Suffolk’s 1983 honorary degree recipients were also honored guests that evening. The University, in the program booklet produced for that occasion, also recognized as Patrons of Summa those past and current benefactors whose lifetime contributions have met or surpassed $50,000.

An important activity during the past year was to sustain follow-up efforts for the Campaign for Excellence, with the result that eighty-five percent of the $3.5 million pledged to the Campaign has now been redeemed. This effort will continue, although under diminishing pressure.

Because many corporate benefactors of the University were either still in the process of redeeming Campaign pledges, or had indicated they preferred a year’s recess from solicitation, income from corporate sources was less than that of the previous year. Nevertheless, the President, the Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and the Vice President, paid some two dozen calls on officers of Boston area corporations. Several corporate leaders expressed an increasing awareness of Suffolk and its contributions to the community, which suggests a cordial environment for future cultivation of corporate support.

Special events and alumni activities are also a significant responsibility of the Office of University Advancement. Some special events are specific instruments by which the University expresses appreciation to donors, volunteers, and other members of the University community for faithful service. Other occasions, Alumni Night at Pops and Alumni Golf Day among them, are purely social in nature, and are valuable in helping to reinforce our graduates’ sense of identity with the University. Outreach is further achieved through public relations and University publications. We intend to intensify our efforts in all areas the better to serve Suffolk and its people more effectively.

On behalf of the entire staff of the Office of Institutional Advancement, I thank you all, especially the volunteers, for a very good year.

Joseph M. Kelley
Vice President for Institutional Advancement

This message is a heartfelt thank-you to Norine Bacigalupo 70 BSJ and Thomas E. Dwyer, Jr. 70 JD, and all the volunteers who helped to make 1982-1983 truly a banner year for Annual Giving at Suffolk University. Everyone who spent even one evening at the Phonathon—and there were many who came back again and again—contributed tremendously to the effort. The results: a total of nearly half a million dollars and our highest degree of alumni/ae participation to date.

Coming after the completion of a highly successful capital campaign, both the amount and the numbers of graduates participating are more encouraging than I can easily express. Suffice it to say that all of you, donors and volunteers, richly deserve my gratitude and appreciation, in which the Suffolk University community joins me.

Robert L. West 75 BSJ, 82 MBA
Director of Annual Giving and College Alumni Affairs

As I review my first year as National Chairman for the Suffolk University Law Alumni/ae Fund, I have a genuine sense of appreciation and satisfaction for what you, my fellow alumni/ae are achieving for our Law School. Nearly two thousand alumni/ae gave more than $389,000 in 1982-1983, which makes this past fiscal year truly one for the records. Furthermore, a gratifying number of law alumni/ae were among the founding members of Summa, the designation that honors donors of $1,000 or more per year.

But what is particularly encouraging is the increase of Law donors at every level of giving, for wide participation by a school’s graduates is telling evidence of the esteem in which an institution is held by its own family of former students. That Suffolk Law School is all we believe it to be has been further reinforced by the recent report of a visiting committee from the American Bar Association and the Association of American Law Schools which, to say the least, expressed enthusiasm for the work of the school.

While complete details of the David J. Sargent Testimonial Dinner on October 20, 1983, and the establishment of the David J. Sargent Fellowship Fund, properly belong to next year’s report, it is fair to say that 1983-1984 got off to a head start. The Law Alumni/ae Annual Fund is becoming a formidable instrument for good in the continuing evolution of Suffolk as a leading and nationally recognized law school.

Message from the General Chairman

First of all, let me thank all volunteers—alumni, students, faculty members, and friends—who devoted so much time and energy to the 1982-83 Annual Fund through working on the Phonathon. You are the real reason that we can report an outstandingly successful year. Let me also thank all of you who continually give and those of you, who, as new donors, helped to increase alumni/ae participation by forty five per cent over 1981-82, and by twenty five per cent over our previous best year. We cannot remind ourselves too often that a high percentage of alumni/ae participation is invaluable to the University for their positive participation in the University’s continuing health and well-being.

Annual Fund of the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences and the School of Management

The Beacon Club

THE BEACON CLUB welcomes to its membership alumni/ae, faculty and staff of the College of Liberal Arts and School of Management, and friends who, through annual gifts of $100 to $249, testify to their confidence in Suffolk University, its people and its programs. Beacon Club members are invaluable to the University for their positive participation in the University’s continuing health and well-being. First of all, let me thank all volunteers—alumni, students, faculty members, and friends—who devoted so much time and energy to the 1982-83 Annual Fund through working on the Phonathon. You are the real reason that we can report an outstandingly successful year. Let me also thank all of you who continually give and those of you, who, as new donors, helped to increase alumni/ae participation by forty five per cent over 1981-82, and by twenty five per cent over our previous best year. We cannot remind ourselves too often that a high percentage of alumni/ae participation significantly strengthens the case for support of Suffolk University through annual gifts of $250 to $999. The steady increase in Cornerstone Society membership is evidence of the donors’ dedication to and confidence in the programs and policies of the University.

The Cornerstone Society

THE CORNERSTONE SOCIETY gives recognition to those alumni/ae members of the University staff, and friends of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and of the School of Management, who strengthen the fabric of Suffolk University through annual gifts of $250 or more. The steady increase in Cornerstone Society membership is evidence of the donors’ dedication to and confidence in the programs and policies of the University.

Other Ways of Giving

There are ways other than cash or transfer of securities to make gifts to Suffolk University. (NOTE: Gifts of securities should always be sent by registered mail to F. X. Flannery, Financial Vice President, Suffolk University, 8 Ashburton Place, Boston, Massachusetts 02108.) These methods of giving include gifts-in-kind, annuities, and bequests.

Gifts-in-kind include libraries, art works, real estate, or other items which can be retained or sold for the benefit of the University. Prospective donors of gifts-in-kind should first confer with the Vice President for Institutional Advancement or the Financial Vice President regarding the usefulness and appropriateness of the intended gift.

Annuities create a method of making a substantial gift to Suffolk University while retaining the use of some annual income for one's own and/or one's beneficiary's lifetime, with considerable tax benefits. Again, prospective donors of annuities should confer with their personal financial advisors. Bequests are a very attractive method of associating one's name with a university in perpetuity. Graduates and friends who are considering including Suffolk in their wills should confer with their own attorneys as well as with officers of the University.
