Rehnquist Awarded Honorary Degree at Donahue Lecture Program

Perlman on Divestiture

McDonough Elected New Alumni Trustee

Vol. 14 Number 4 May 1986

SUFFOLK UNIVERSITY NEWSLETTER

Rehnquist Awarded Honorary Degree

RECEIVES DEGREE - Justice William H. Rehnquist receives honorary Doctor of Laws degree from President Perlman.

Perlman concluded, "We salute you today confident that these past accomplishments are prologue to an even more outstanding record of legal achievement and service in the nation in the days and years ahead."

Some 200 guests, including a number from the Massachusetts federal and state judiciary, attended the luncheon.

At the Gardner Auditorium before a capacity audience of law students, who won admission to the lecture through a lottery process, Rehnquist discussed "Constitutional Law and Public Opinion" recounting the steel seizure case of 1952 when then President Harry Truman ordered a federal takeover of the steel mills.

Justice Rehnquist conceded in his talk that judges, even those on the nation's highest court, are affected by broad trends in public opinion.

continued on back page

Prof. William S. Sahakian Dead at 64.

Suffolk's academic community was shocked and saddened by the sudden passing of Prof. William S. Sahakian, 64, a member of the Philosophy Department since 1949 and internationally renowned in his field. He died April 7 after suffering a massive heart attack in his Wellesley home.

Sahakian, who was on sabbatical leave at the time of his death, was scheduled to have been the keynote speaker in June in Toronto at the World Congress of Logotherapy, a conclave of physicians, psychologists, psychiatrists and philosophers.

"We were shocked to learn of the untimely passing of our friend and colleague, Bill Sahakian," said Dean Michael R. Ronayne of CLAS. "He was a profound thinker, prolific author and dedicated teacher. He wanted to spend the rest of his life teaching and we will miss him tremendously."

Ronayne joined a number of other representatives from the university at the funeral services for Sahakian at the Riverdale Congregational Church, Dedham, the church where Sahakian had served as pastor since 1982.

continued on back page
President's Corner

The Question of Divestiture

The racist policies of the South African government and the ugly practice of apartheid have aroused the attention and indignation of America's campuses. No social issue has galvanized people's feelings so strongly and occasioned so much debate since the war in Vietnam.

What is the appropriate response for an academic community to take in the face of the South African repression and brutality? First, there is an obligation to educate our students and each other about the situation and the issues; we must teach them to read and weigh the evidence, to ponder alternatives, to question, and to enter into the national debate about South Africa as informed participants. That is our unique role as a community of students and scholars. It carries us past sloganeering and quick solutions.

Beyond that, other questions arise, such as: Should the University invest in companies that do business in South Africa? The Board of Trustees which is responsible for the investment of the University's endowment, weighed this issue carefully and discussed it at length. The Board's policy is to invest in a diversified portfolio of stocks and bonds that have the best promise of safety and growth, as recommended by their investment counsel and Investment Committee. If any of the recommended companies do any business in South Africa they must have signed the Sullivan Principles—a list of fair employment, anti-apartheid and community development principles—and be rated [by the A.D. Little Co.] as having made “good progress” in living up to these principles.

This is a policy which is sometimes described as “selective” or “partial divestiture” since it means that the University will not hold stock (that is, will “divest”) in a company not complying with these principles. Although a few of the companies in the University's portfolio do a small amount of business in South Africa, 0.1 percent to 1 percent, none do very much of their business there, and all meet this test of social responsibility.

Why not have “complete divestiture”? Some students and some faculty members, as well as some trustees, have argued that the University should have complete divestiture, that is, the University should not hold stock in any company with any direct investment in South Africa, however small, and irrespective of whether that company provides job opportunities for black South Africans, equal pay for their work, non-segregated facilities, and the like. The reasons advanced for complete divestiture are: that it makes an empathic political statement of the University's revulsion to apartheid; that American companies have not been successful in developing an integrated workforce in South Africa since they employ a relatively small number of people; that some black South Africans are calling for divestiture; that some other universities have divested all of their holdings; and that divestiture can be accomplished without causing the University to lose money.

The reasons advanced for adopting a policy of partial rather than full divestiture are that it is ineffective in bringing about its desired results, and is potentially injurious to the economic welfare of black South Africans. Although a University's announcement that it will divest has some immediate news value, divestiture simply means that we would sell our shares of stock in certain American companies to someone else, someone presumably less concerned about the issues than we are, and less ready to urge the management of those companies to fully live up to the Sullivan Principles and even go beyond them. Secondly, should “divestiture” lead to sufficient economic pressure on those companies to cause them to withdraw their business activities from South Africa, their holdings or business interests in that country would be bought out, perhaps at “bargain sale” prices by companies from other countries or by white South African firms. There is some evidence that this is beginning to happen.

There is also evidence that the Sullivan Principles are having a positive effect. In an article in The Christian Science Monitor (April 14, 1986), reporter Ned Temko wrote from Johannesburg that some 200 U.S. companies now accept the Sullivan code and three South African companies in unprecedented moves, signed the principles last year. “Sure, it may be a case of Sullivan companies soothing their social conscience,” says a black executive in one of the major Sullivan companies, but the schools, hospitals, or other projects and the advancement of blacks are a contribution all the same . . .”

Black South African leaders are themselves divided on the issue of complete divestiture. Although leaders of the African National Congress have called for divestiture and increased economic sanctions, Chief Mangosuthu Buthelezi, head of the United Workers Union of South Africa, and others, are opposed to divestiture because of the loss of jobs for black South Africans that might ensue.

Divestiture was discussed at length by the trustees in their recent meeting, as it has been discussed by them—and especially by the Investment Committee—at many prior meetings. The Board was mindful of the expressions of concern by many members of the academic community; the student leaders who had appeared before two Board committees were commended for “the forceful and informed manner in which they presented their arguments” and for “their sensitivity to the plight of black South Africans.” After an extended discussion the trustees, in a close vote, voted to continue their policy of selective rather than complete divestiture. continued on next page
It is worthy of note that the University does not have holdings in any banks making loans to the government of South Africa, nor does it have any holdings in South African owned firms.

Beyond our role in educating our students and ourselves about South Africa, and beyond the issue of divestiture, there is a way that the University can assist in the education of black South Africans, and assist those South African universities that have become desegregated, in defiance of their government's policy. The universities of Cape Town, Witwatersrand, Rhodes, Natal, and The Western Cape are all integrated and "open universities". But they need money for scholarships for black South African students.

It takes about $2,800 to provide the living expenses, books, etc., for one student at one of the "open universities" for one year. The Trustees' Student Financial Aid Committee will meet shortly to review this issue. I hope that money can be raised from concerned students faculty and others in the Suffolk community and that the Board will agree to match these funds so that we can establish one or more Suffolk-sponsored scholarships for black South African students who may become the leaders of an integrated government in the future. The struggle for justice in South Africa and in the rest of the world is not going to end quickly. It will not happen as the result of any single action we take. I hope that all of us who are concerned, although we may differ on the specific issue of complete or partial divestiture, will work together to help educate the members of our community about the issues and will take positive steps to improve the opportunities for black South African students in this country and in South Africa—and thereby help promote the peaceful transition to an integrated society where educated black leaders can take their rightful place in the government of their country.

Suffolk Journalism Alumni Honor
Elliot Norton

Retired theater critic Elliot Norton was honored by Suffolk University journalism alumni at a dinner at the university April 9. Norton was the first recipient of the William F. Homer Jr. Award, named for the late Suffolk University journalism instructor and Boston newspaperman.

Norton, renowned critic for the Boston Post, the Boston Record American/Sunday Advertiser and the Boston Herald, was cited for exemplifying the qualities of William F. Homer Jr. as a gentleman journalist and dedicated teacher.

Norton and Homer were classmates in the Harvard College Class of 1926. In addition to newspaper careers that spanned a half a century, both were teachers, Homer teaching at Suffolk University for 37 years and Norton at Boston University for 23 years.

HOUSE RESOLUTION COMMENDS SUFFOLK - The University recently was commended by the Massachusetts House of Representatives in a resolution submitted by Rep. Michael J. Rea Jr. of Billerica. The resolution hailed the training and professional development seminars conducted for the staff of the House under the leadership of Dean Michael R. Ronayne and Associate Dean Joseph H. Strain of CLAS. Left to right are President Perlman, Rep. Edward A. LeLacheur of Lowell, vice chairman of the House Committee on Personnel and Administration, Rep. Rea, and Dean Ronayne. Five seminars were held in the auditorium in January.

The dinner, sponsored by the Journalism Alumni Association of Suffolk University, was held in the University's main dining hall, Frank Sawyer Building.

Norton retired in 1982 after reviewing more than 6000 plays for the print media and hosting Channel 2's "Elliot Norton Reviews" for 1100 telecasts. Homer, who died in October of 1984, was a financial writer and editor at the old Boston Herald for 30 years.

CREF Retirement Incomes Jumped 35.5% on May 1

New York, N.Y.—Variable annuity incomes being paid by College Retirement Equities Fund (CREF) to its 95,000 retired participants increased by 35.5% on May 1, TIAA/CREF announced.

James G. MacDonald, chairman and chief executive officer of CREF and Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association (TIAA), credited "the unusually strong stock market" for the increase. He said with the increase, CREF incomes will have risen by a net of 88% over the most recent five-year period.

CREF, the nation's first variable annuity fund and largest equity fund, currently has assets of $22 billion invested in stocks of some 2300 companies traded on domestic and foreign stock exchanges.

CREF retirement participants began receiving the 35.5 increase in pension benefits for the 12-month period beginning May 1.

In a prepared news release, MacDonald cautioned that income from a broadly diversified common stock variable like CREF goes up and down. He said that since 1952 when CREF began, changes have varied from decreases of 17% to increases of as much as 39%.

Some 260 Suffolk employees are enrolled in the TIAA-CREF pension plan.

Members of the Suffolk community interested in the performance of the Fidelity land Mutual plans may contact Dan McDonald at Ext. 416.
People in the News

Carolyne Lamar Jordan, assistant to President Perlman, has been selected to be an American Council on Education Fellow for the 1986-87 academic year. She is among 35 fellows selected in the national competition. Under the program, established in 1965 to strengthen leadership in higher education, fellows serve their fellowships for a year at a host institution. Jordan has served as assistant to the president and director of minority affairs at Suffolk since October of 1983.

Alberto Mendez is one of 50 educators selected nationwide to be profiled in the July/August issue of Change magazine. The American Association for Higher Education has announced. Mendez joined other nominees from throughout the nation for the AAHE's national conference in Washington, D.C. In his nomination letter, Perlman hailed Mendez as "a truly outstanding educator whose contributions have had a lasting impact on his students, our campus community, and beyond that, upon the Greater Boston community as a whole." In addition to teaching in the Humanities and Modern Languages Department, Mendez has been the driving force behind such ventures as Springfest and Hispanic Week. Bill Coughlin of Admissions chaired a panel discussion at the national convention of registrars and admissions officers in Baltimore. His admissions colleague, Joe Walsh, is co-program chair for the annual meeting of the New England Association of College Admissions Counselors at Bates College in Lewiston, ME May 28-30.

Barbara Ash of Education has been elected vice president of the Massachusetts Business Educators Association. She also helped coordinate the National Association for Business Teacher Education session at the NABE conference in Hollywood, Fla.

Sheila Mahoney of Education served on the Mass. State Department of Education accreditation team evaluating the graduate and elementary education program at Smith College. Prof. Joseph W. Glannon of the Law School was a featured speaker at the recent annual meeting of the Massachusetts Civil Liability Institute. Law Prof. Thomas J. McMahon, a discussant at the first Lowell Lecture series program this spring, spoke on fair use in the Boston Patent Law Association Copyright Law seminar on recent developments in copyright law.

Ed Bander, law librarian, was among 24 law librarians to tour the West Publishing Co. in St. Paul, Minn. and critique their on line legal research facilities. Bander also took a peek at the Minnesota Law School's computer facilities.

David Pfeiffer of Public Management was the subject of a lifestyle article in a recent Boston Phoenix issue, one of four people featured. Bernard Meyler of SOM served as a judge for the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants Junior Achievement Awards. He is a member of the society's education committee.

John Cavanagh, chairman of the History Department, was among a group of history scholars invited by Mayor Flynn to Parkman House luncheon to discuss Boston plans for the upcoming 1987-88 Bicentennial Celebration of the Federal Constitution.

Associate CLAS Dean Joseph H. Strain chaired a visitation team to North Adams State College which approved the college for membership in the Association for Continuing Higher Education. Strain is a past regional chair for that association.

Warren G. Briggs of SOM chaired a conference on software tools for artificial intelligence/expert system aimed at the Financial Services Industry and held in New York City.

Jane Ives of SOM has been appointed consultant to the United Nations World Health Organization regional office for Africa. She'll be working in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia to update existing legislation on environmental and occupational health and safety issues.

Myra Lerman, director of advising and assessment in SOM, has been selected to be a state commissioner representing Eastern Massachusetts for the northeastern region of Academic Affairs Administrators. She and Helen Wanderstock, administrative officer for SOM, presented a paper at the National Academic Advising Association's North Atlantic Regional Conference April 10 at Schenectady, N.Y.

Don Levitan of Public Management is a scheduled speaker for the 80th annual Government Finance Conference in Los Angeles June 1-4.

John Sullivan of Sociology addressed pilots and aircrew members of the Mass. National Guard - U.S. Army on "Human Factors and the Cockpit Environment." The meetings were air safety meetings for helicopter squadrons of the U.S. Army Air National Guard.

Duane R. Anderson of Student Activities makes news for two reasons this month. He assumes the post of chairman of the board of directors of the National Association for Campus Activities and he'll be honored by his alma mater, State University of New York at Oneonta, as a distinguished alumnus. He was graduated in 1970 and was a resident advisor there.
Howell, Lukas, Caldwell Speak at Lowell Series

James M. Howell, chief economist and senior vice president for the Bank of Boston, was the speaker when Suffolk University sponsored the first of its three-part Lowell Lecture Series Wednesday, April 2 in the Suffolk University Auditorium.

Howell’s lecture was entitled “Boston: An International Marketplace.”

The program was moderated by Richard L. McDowell, dean of the School of Management. Discussants were Jane Ives, assistant professor of management, Law International Marketplace.

The program was moderated by Richard L. McDowell, dean of the School of Management. Discussants were Jane Ives, assistant professor of management, Law International Marketplace.

The program was moderated by Richard L. McDowell, dean of the School of Management. Discussants were Jane Ives, assistant professor of management, Law International Marketplace.

The program was moderated by Richard L. McDowell, dean of the School of Management. Discussants were Jane Ives, assistant professor of management, Law International Marketplace.

The program was moderated by Richard L. McDowell, dean of the School of Management. Discussants were Jane Ives, assistant professor of management, Law International Marketplace.

Counseling Center Wins Reaccreditation

After a year long self-study and a site visit and review by the Board of Accreditation of University and College Counseling Centers, the Counseling Center has been notified that it has been reaccredited by the International Association of Counseling Centers.

According to Counseling Center director Ken Garni, the visiting team, chaired by Dr. Dennis Heitzman of Penn State University, issued a report to the IACS board “uniformly positive about the counseling center, its staff, and the quality of services it offers to the Suffolk University community.”

It noted that the staff has been fully involved in university life and taken the initiative to help the university community work on and resolve various social issues.

"Considering the relative size of the staff, the center offers an impressive variety of services to all students, faculty and staff," the report noted. The conclusion "enthusiastically" recommended reaccreditation, Garni said.

The visit took place on Feb. 20. Originally accredited in 1975, the Counseling Center reaccreditation carries through the 1990 academic year. Copies of the site visit report are available in the Counseling Center for interested community members.

New Employees

Peggy Bernard of West Roxbury, staff secretary, Counseling Center.

Peggy Ballard of Dorchester, senior clerical assistant, Law Registrar.

Michael Carey of Medford, University Police Officer.

Paul Day of Somerville, academic computing assistant, CLAS.

Mary Ferkin of Waltham, reference librarian, Law Library.

Gregory Harris of Dedham, computer operator/senior accounting clerk, Student Accounts.

John Holland of Malden, University Police Officer.

David Howard of Charlestown, mail clerk, Mailroom.

Brenda McDonald of Boston, office secretary, School of Management.

Robert Rausee of Saugus, student loan coordinator, Financial Aid.

Susan Silver of Norwood, reference librarian, Law Library.

William Walcott of Hingham, ITV Coordinator, IMC.

Joanne Wood of West Roxbury, office secretary, School of Management.

McDonough Elected Alumni Trustee

Vincent P. McDonough of Boston, professor of naval science at MIT, has been elected an alumni representative on the University Board of Trustees, President Perlman has announced.

McDonough, who was sworn at at the April meeting of the board, succeeds Gerard A. Louzeau, B.A. ’64, as a representative of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

A 1956 graduate with a bachelor of arts, McDonough is captain and commanding officer for NROTC at Massachusetts Institute of Technology with the responsibility of training undergraduate midshipmen in the U.S. Navy at MIT, Harvard, Tufts and Wellesley College.

He will serve a three-year term on the board.

A decorated officer, McDonough served as commander of the Navy’s largest technical training command at Great Lakes, was a U.S. naval attache to the U.S. Ambassador in Portugal, commanding officer of the destroyer, USS Garcia, and commanding officer of the Third Riverine Force, Vietnam.

Capt. McDonough and his wife, Katherine, are the parents of five children.
SOM Sponsors Cultural Exchange With China

by Steve Walsh

A manager in the largest industrial steam turbine plant in The People's Republic of China is auditing classes in the School of Management.

As part of Suffolk School of Management's cultural exchange program, Huang Yinguo, from the city of Hangzhou on China's east coast, will be auditing classes in the School of Management and visiting nearby companies through December.

"The opportunity to come to the United States for a year is fairly rare," said Yinguo, who looks much younger than his 38 years. "It was such a great opportunity that I was willing to make personal sacrifices to be here."

One of the biggest sacrifices Yinguo made was leaving his wife of four months to be on the other side of the world for a year. He said the experience will help him in the long run, however, by allowing him to better serve his company.

The Hangzhou Steam Turbine Works employs 3,500 full-time and 500 part-time workers. Yinguo said the company serves an international clientele in Europe and Southeast Asia, and eventually plans to expand its market to include the United States. He is auditing courses in business management, operations management and international business to make the expansion proceed smoothly.

Yinguo is attending Suffolk as part of an exchange arranged by Suffolk Prof. Roger Millen, who is spending the year at the Institute of Economics in Beijing.

A 1976 graduate of South China Polytechnic Institute, a four-year college, Yinguo worked for several companies before joining Hangzhou Steam Turbine in 1979. He said he entered college later than he would have liked because he spent several years working on a farm during China's cultural revolution.

'86-87 Tuition Set

Full-time tuition in the undergraduate programs in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and School of Management, will increase $756, President Daniel H. Perlman has announced.

The rates, voted at the February meeting of the Board of Trustees, set tuition at $5,796 and are effective for the 1986-87 academic year. Full-time tuition in Suffolk Law School was increased from $6700 to $7700.

Despite the increase, "Suffolk University's undergraduate tuition will remain the lowest of any independent university in the commonwealth and approximately 30 percent below the average undergraduate tuition of all the independent colleges and universities in Massachusetts," Perlman said in announcing the 1986-87 figures.

"The cost of fringe benefits provided to faculty and staff rose by 76 percent over the last four years and the cost of health insurance alone soared by 160 percent over that time," Perlman said. The University's expenditures for postage have increased over 80 percent during those years."

RATES FOR 1986-87

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Study Level</th>
<th>Program</th>
<th>Tuition</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Undergraduate</td>
<td>study in the College of Liberal Arts or School of Management</td>
<td>$5,796</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Full-time (day) study in the Law School</td>
<td>7,700</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Full-time MBA program</td>
<td>7,830</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Full-time Masters in Public Administration</td>
<td>7,575</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Law School Evening Division</td>
<td>5,775</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>For part-time students the tuition rates for a three-credit hour course will be:</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Undergraduate</td>
<td>$492</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Graduate</td>
<td>Business Administration 783</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Public Administration 759</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Education 645</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

No Bunker Hill Day Holiday

Since summer session classes are scheduled on Tuesday, June 17, Bunker Hill Day, the University will remain open on that day.

To make up for the Bunker Hill holiday, the University will be closed on Thursday, July 3, providing for a long Independence Day weekend.

Four-Day Work Week

For those departments whose staffers are interested in utilizing the four day work week, it will begin June 9th and end August 22nd.

Acting Personnel Director Judy Minardi said that as in the past, the following guidelines will be observed.

1. Hours of work will be 8:15 a.m.-5:30 p.m. with a half hour for lunch.

2. During vacations or other staff shortages, it may be necessary to revert to the regular Monday through Friday, 8:45-4:45 p.m. schedule at the department head's discretion.

3. Staff members who are taking courses during the day may not schedule a four day week during the summer session(s) when they are attending classes.

"Single secretory departments choosing to go on the four day week must close on Friday rather than on Monday," Minardi said. "Monday is a busier day than Friday requiring that a majority of the staff be present."

The switchboard staff have agreed to take messages on Friday but they will be unable to deliver them. Department heads, secretaries, or others in the department should call them for messages on Monday. If the head or others in the department will be in on Friday(s), they should notify the switchboard so that they can forward calls.

If your office intends to go on the four day week this summer, contact Judy Minardi at Ext. 415.
Potpourri
By Lou Connelly

Rarely has a speakers’ calendar been as jam-packed with varied star attractions at Suffolk as the month of April. Supreme Court Justice William H. Rehnquist has recently been the center of attention, his appearance scheduled as detailed on Page One. The weekly Suffolk Journalism Alumni Newsletter has received numerous requests from prospective students interested in a career in journalism.

I honored by the Suffolk Journalism Alumni Newsletter was the key speaker at the annual conference of the Society of American Journalists. The event was held at the Park Plaza Hotel and featured a range of topics, including media law, ethics, and the role of journalists in society. The conference was attended by students, faculty, and professionals from across the country, providing a platform for sharing ideas and insights.

Dr. Ann Hargraves, former Suffolk employee, was recently appointed as a professor at the University of California, Los Angeles. Her research focuses on education policy and its impact on student success. The appointment marks a significant milestone in her career, and she will be working closely with her colleagues to advance the field of education.

Several tentative dates for road races have been announced, including the Decisions Sciences Institute conference in Boston and the Northeast Regional Conference of the International Reading Association. These events are expected to attract a large number of participants, with many interested in sharing their latest research and networking with colleagues in the field.

Counseling Center reminds us that several tentative dates for road races have been announced, including the Decisions Sciences Institute conference in Boston and the Northeast Regional Conference of the International Reading Association. These events are expected to attract a large number of participants, with many interested in sharing their latest research and networking with colleagues in the field.

Sarah Caldwell, artistic director of the Boston Opera Company, has been named as the keynote speaker for the upcoming conference at the Boston Opera House. Her talk, "The Art of Collaboration," is expected to be a highlight of the event.

Teradyne has continued to bring in top business executives with its CEO Campus Forum featuring April 1 and 2. Jack Welch, former chief executive of General Electric, and Don Liddy, former CEO of Teradyne, entertained a capacity crowd with their insights on leadership and innovation.

The Literary Society welcomed guest speaker, journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, published by Viking Press. The lecture was a sold-out event, and the audience was delighted to read from his book, Time Sharing, and discuss Sports in America.

The Allison Lecture Series has kicked off with an auspicious debut, called his days at Suffolk as the month of April. The event was a sell-out, and the audience was delighted to hear from noted French statesman and journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, and celebrated Watergate felon G. Gordon Liddy entertained a capacity audience of students with his coincidence account of his career, travels, and travels. Meanwhile, the School of Management continued to bring top business executives with its CEO Campus Forum featuring April 1 and 2. Jack Welch, former chief executive of General Electric, and Don Liddy, former CEO of Teradyne, entertained a capacity crowd with their insights on leadership and innovation.

The Literary Society welcomed guest speaker, journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, published by Viking Press. The lecture was a sold-out event, and the audience was delighted to read from his book, Time Sharing, and discuss Sports in America.

The Allison Lecture Series has kicked off with an auspicious debut, called his days at Suffolk as the month of April. The event was a sell-out, and the audience was delighted to hear from noted French statesman and journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, and celebrated Watergate felon G. Gordon Liddy entertained a capacity audience of students with his coincidence account of his career, travels, and travels. Meanwhile, the School of Management continued to bring top business executives with its CEO Campus Forum featuring April 1 and 2. Jack Welch, former chief executive of General Electric, and Don Liddy, former CEO of Teradyne, entertained a capacity crowd with their insights on leadership and innovation.

The Literary Society welcomed guest speaker, journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, published by Viking Press. The lecture was a sold-out event, and the audience was delighted to read from his book, Time Sharing, and discuss Sports in America.

The Allison Lecture Series has kicked off with an auspicious debut, called his days at Suffolk as the month of April. The event was a sell-out, and the audience was delighted to hear from noted French statesman and journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, and celebrated Watergate felon G. Gordon Liddy entertained a capacity audience of students with his coincidence account of his career, travels, and travels. Meanwhile, the School of Management continued to bring top business executives with its CEO Campus Forum featuring April 1 and 2. Jack Welch, former chief executive of General Electric, and Don Liddy, former CEO of Teradyne, entertained a capacity crowd with their insights on leadership and innovation.

The Literary Society welcomed guest speaker, journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, published by Viking Press. The lecture was a sold-out event, and the audience was delighted to read from his book, Time Sharing, and discuss Sports in America.

The Allison Lecture Series has kicked off with an auspicious debut, called his days at Suffolk as the month of April. The event was a sell-out, and the audience was delighted to hear from noted French statesman and journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, and celebrated Watergate felon G. Gordon Liddy entertained a capacity audience of students with his coincidence account of his career, travels, and travels. Meanwhile, the School of Management continued to bring top business executives with its CEO Campus Forum featuring April 1 and 2. Jack Welch, former chief executive of General Electric, and Don Liddy, former CEO of Teradyne, entertained a capacity crowd with their insights on leadership and innovation.

The Literary Society welcomed guest speaker, journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, published by Viking Press. The lecture was a sold-out event, and the audience was delighted to read from his book, Time Sharing, and discuss Sports in America.

The Allison Lecture Series has kicked off with an auspicious debut, called his days at Suffolk as the month of April. The event was a sell-out, and the audience was delighted to hear from noted French statesman and journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, and celebrated Watergate felon G. Gordon Liddy entertained a capacity audience of students with his coincidence account of his career, travels, and travels. Meanwhile, the School of Management continued to bring top business executives with its CEO Campus Forum featuring April 1 and 2. Jack Welch, former chief executive of General Electric, and Don Liddy, former CEO of Teradyne, entertained a capacity crowd with their insights on leadership and innovation.

The Literary Society welcomed guest speaker, journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, published by Viking Press. The lecture was a sold-out event, and the audience was delighted to read from his book, Time Sharing, and discuss Sports in America.

The Allison Lecture Series has kicked off with an auspicious debut, called his days at Suffolk as the month of April. The event was a sell-out, and the audience was delighted to hear from noted French statesman and journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, and celebrated Watergate felon G. Gordon Liddy entertained a capacity audience of students with his coincidence account of his career, travels, and travels. Meanwhile, the School of Management continued to bring top business executives with its CEO Campus Forum featuring April 1 and 2. Jack Welch, former chief executive of General Electric, and Don Liddy, former CEO of Teradyne, entertained a capacity crowd with their insights on leadership and innovation.

The Literary Society welcomed guest speaker, journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, published by Viking Press. The lecture was a sold-out event, and the audience was delighted to read from his book, Time Sharing, and discuss Sports in America.

The Allison Lecture Series has kicked off with an auspicious debut, called his days at Suffolk as the month of April. The event was a sell-out, and the audience was delighted to hear from noted French statesman and journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, and celebrated Watergate felon G. Gordon Liddy entertained a capacity audience of students with his coincidence account of his career, travels, and travels. Meanwhile, the School of Management continued to bring top business executives with its CEO Campus Forum featuring April 1 and 2. Jack Welch, former chief executive of General Electric, and Don Liddy, former CEO of Teradyne, entertained a capacity crowd with their insights on leadership and innovation.

The Literary Society welcomed guest speaker, journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, published by Viking Press. The lecture was a sold-out event, and the audience was delighted to read from his book, Time Sharing, and discuss Sports in America.

The Allison Lecture Series has kicked off with an auspicious debut, called his days at Suffolk as the month of April. The event was a sell-out, and the audience was delighted to hear from noted French statesman and journalist Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, and celebrated Watergate felon G. Gordon Liddy entertained a capacity audience of students with his coincidence account of his career, travels, and travels. Meanwhile, the School of Management continued to bring top business executives with its CEO Campus Forum featuring April 1 and 2. Jack Welch, former chief executive of General Electric, and Don Liddy, former CEO of Teradyne, entertained a capacity crowd with their insights on leadership and innovation.
SAHAKIAN
continued from page 1
Sahakian has served as chairman of the Philosophy Department from 1949 until 1974 and was scheduled to head that department again beginning in July. He was a popular teacher with students. He was noted as a specialist in logotherapy of the so-called third Viennese school of psychotherapy and its three principles of freedom of the will, the will to meaning and the meaning of life.

Author of some two dozen books and numerous articles, Sahakian was graduated from Northeastern University with a B.S. in psychology and sociology in 1941. He also received a Ph.D. and master of divinity degrees from Boston University and an honorary degree from Curry College.

His former wife, the Rev. Mabel Marie (Lewis) died in 1982. On July 29, 1984 he married Karen Cross Cary who survives him along with two sons, Richard and James, two daughters, Barbara and Paula Nunn, a stepdaughter, Beth Cary, and a granddaughter.

Burial was in Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

REHNQUIST
continued from page 1
"Judges go home at night and read the newspapers or watch the evening news on television; they talk to their family and friends about current events. Judges, so long as they are relatively normal human beings, can no more escape being influenced by public opinion in the long run than can people working at other jobs."

Rehnquist felt that "great tides of public opinion played an important role in the decision of the steel seizure case."

Following his talk, Rehnquist returned to the Mugar Library for an open reception, then took time to visit the Phi Delta Phi International Legal Fraternity (William H. Rehnquist Inn), dedicated in his name 10 years ago.

IT'S EASY TO SEE... . . .

REHNQUIST
continued from page 1
Just 10 years ago, Justice William H. Rehnquist of the U.S. Supreme Court came to Suffolk Law School to be inducted into the Phi Delta Phi law fraternity. He returned last month to receive an honorary degree and while here reenacted a photo taken by Suffolk photographer John Gillooly 10 years ago with Law School Dean David J. Sargent and Prof. Alexander J. Cella. The trio look as good as ever, wouldn't you agree?