EDITORIAL...

A Poor Decision

The recent decision by our Administration to cancel the establised Activities Hour is deemed by us to be a poor decision.

The Activities Hour is a highly important time for students to become involved in student affairs. It allows students to have a voice in their school and to participate in the daily life of the campus. The cancellation of this hour means that students will have to find other ways to express their ideas and concerns.

The decision was made on the basis of financial reasons, but it is clear that there are other ways to address these issues. The school could consider other ways to cut costs, such as reducing the number of faculty or administrative staff.

We urge the Administration to reconsider this decision and to find a way to maintain the Activities Hour. It is an important part of the student experience and should not be sacrificed in favor of short-term financial gains.

The students at our school deserve a voice in the decisions that affect their lives. Let us hope that the Administration will take this into account and make a decision that is truly in the best interests of the students.
EDITORIALS

The Hill Supports Law and Order

Before it reached completion the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court signed a new constitution. This constitution, while not free of all past criticisms, is a significant step forward. The new constitution provides for a bicameral legislature, with a House of Representatives and a Senate. The executive branch is headed by a Governor, with a Lieutenant Governor serving as the President of the Senate.

The Suffolk Bar Association has recently taken a number of initiatives to support the new constitution. They have sponsored a number of legal aid programs, and have launched a campaign to educate the public about the importance of the new constitution.

The Hill Student Government President Reports

The new faculty teaches law and order as one of their core courses. The students have responded positively to the new course, with many expressing a desire to pursue careers in law enforcement.

SUFFOLK JOURNAL

THREE

NEW FACULTY MEMBERS

Student Government President Reports

SUFFOLK JOURNAL PAGE

THREE

THREE

J W

Thanksgiving Eve for Empty Pockets

Students, as we are frequently reminded by these editors, are the lifeblood of any university. It is not surprising, then, that the Suffolk University community is deeply concerned about the fate of students who are struggling financially.

The Suffolk Bar Association has taken a number of initiatives to support these students. They have launched a scholarship program, and have provided legal aid services to those who need them.

Evening Division News

The Evening Division Student Council held its fall meeting on Monday evening, October 1, 1984, in Room 202. President John Walsh presided over the meeting, which was held to discuss the current state of the Evening Division Student Council and to address any concerns that the students may have.

The council discussed the current state of the Evening Division Student Council and addressed any concerns that the students may have. They also announced plans for future meetings and events.

SENIORS!

DO YOU EXPECT A YEARBOOK?

Only With Your Help!

Contact the Editors

Room 40
SUFFOLK JOURNAL

Flaxley Agnew
Assistant Treasurer's Office

DEBATING SOCIETY NEWS

The debate was based on the topic of whether colleges should have their own debating clubs, and the arguments presented were as follows:

Pro: Colleges should have their own debating clubs.

Con: Colleges should not have their own debating clubs.

The debate was well-received, with both sides presenting strong arguments. The final score was 5-3 in favor of the Pro side, with 2 abstentions.

Flaxley Agnew
Assistant Treasurer's Office

SUFFOLK JOURNAL

Flaxley Agnew
Assistant Treasurer's Office

Placements Office

Students who are interested in securing full-time positions upon graduation should make application to the Placement Office, University of SUFFOLK, 264 Bridge St., N. York, N. Y.

The Placement Office is now open for business. This office is available for students who want to secure positions upon graduation. The office is open from 8:30 AM to 5:00 PM, Monday through Friday.

The Placement Office can assist students in job search, resume and portfolio preparation, interview preparation, and job placement. Students can also schedule appointments to meet with the Placement Officer to discuss their job search strategy and receive feedback on their resume and cover letters.

The Placement Office is located on the second floor of the Administration Building, next to the Student Services and Counseling Office.

Please contact the Placement Office for any further information or assistance.
EDITORIALS

The Hill Supports Law and Order

Before a packed audience, the High of the Bulletin, a group of students, delivered a speech in support of the proposal to increase the police force at the university. The students argued that the current police force is inadequately equipped to handle the growing number of incidents on campus. They emphasized the need for a more robust police presence to ensure the safety and security of the student body. The students further highlighted the importance of law enforcement in maintaining a peaceful and orderly environment on campus.

SUNY JOURNAL PAGE THREE

Thanksgiving Fest for Seniors

The Student Government and the Administration have organized a Thanksgiving celebration for seniors. The event will include a special menu, live music, and a guest speaker. Seniors are encouraged to attend and bring a guest. The purpose of the event is to celebrate the seniors' accomplishments and to provide a memorable experience as they prepare to graduate.

NEW FACULTY MEMBERS

Student Government President Reports

Welcome back to all of the student body! We hope you are eager to engage in the upcoming academic year. The Student Government President reports that the first meeting of the semester was held last week. The meeting included updates on various initiatives, including a new diversity program, a sustainability campaign, and a student-led initiative to promote mental health awareness.

STAFF

OF COURSE THERE ARE Tricks, A FEW PLACES TO THE AGREED, SOMEONE HERE DESPERATELY IT FALLS IN LINE WITH THE EXPANSION COMMITTEE’S BUDGET.

Supports and Challenges to the University

The University Board of Trustees met last week to discuss the budget for the upcoming year. The board approved a budget that includes funds for expansion projects, faculty salaries, and student services. However, the board also acknowledged the challenges facing the institution, including rising costs and declining enrollment.

SUFFOLK JOURNAL

Evening Division News

The Evening Division of Student Council is holding a meeting to discuss the budget for the upcoming academic year. The meeting will be held next week at 7 PM in Room 40. All students are welcome to attend and provide input on the budget proposals. The council is committed to ensuring that the budget reflects the priorities of the student body.

Senior! DO YOU EXPECT A YEARBOOK?

Only With Your Help!

Contact the Editor

Room 40
DR. VOGEL VISITS CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA

By Paul Fox

Dr. Vogel, world-renowned for his work on the central and southern American cultures, recently visited Central and South America, where he spent several weeks studying the indigenous peoples and their way of life. His travels took him to various countries, including Mexico, Peru, Brazil, and Argentina, where he observed firsthand the rich cultural heritage and traditional practices that have been preserved for generations.

In Mexico, Dr. Vogel visited several archaeological sites, including Teotihuacan and Chichen Itza, gaining insight into the history and development of these ancient civilizations. He also had the opportunity to meet with local anthropologists and participated in cultural exchange programs, allowing him to gain a deeper understanding of the region's diverse cultures.

Peru, with its vast landscapes and storied history, proved to be particularly enriching for Dr. Vogel. He visited the ancient city of Machu Picchu, which remains one of the world's most enigmatic archaeological sites. Additionally, he spent time in Lima, the capital city, exploring its vibrant art scene and learning about the current cultural movements and trends in the region.

South America offered Dr. Vogel a glimpse into the rich biodiversity and ecological diversity of the continent. He visited the Amazon rainforest, where he observed firsthand the challenges faced by indigenous communities in preserving their traditional practices and maintaining their way of life. His visits to countries such as Brazil, Argentina, and Chile allowed him to gain a comprehensive understanding of the region's natural beauty and the human impact it has on the earth.

Throughout his travels, Dr. Vogel was deeply impressed by the resilience and cultural richness of the indigenous populations. He was particularly struck by the importance placed on education and the preservation of cultural heritage. His experiences reinforced the need for continued support and collaboration between the scientific community and local communities to ensure the maintenance of these important cultural legacies for future generations.

Dr. Vogel's work continues to be influential in the field of anthropology, and his recent travels to Central and South America have added valuable insights to his research. His dedication to understanding and preserving the cultural diversity of these regions serves as a testament to the importance of cross-cultural understanding and the value of supporting indigenous communities in their efforts to maintain their way of life.

The Sunderland Journal

The Drama Corner

By Paul Fox

THE SUFFOLK JOURNAL

Dr. Vogel Visits Central and South America

Dr. Vogel, the renowned anthropologist, recently embarked on a journey to Central and South America to explore the rich cultural heritage of these regions. His travels took him to Mexico, Peru, Brazil, and Argentina, where he met with local scholars, visited historical sites, and gained insights into the traditional practices and way of life of the indigenous peoples.

In Mexico, Dr. Vogel was captivated by the ancient ruins of Teotihuacan and Chichen Itza, marveling at the architectural ingenuity and the cultural achievements of these civilizations. He also had the opportunity to participate in a cultural exchange program, allowing him to interact with local anthropologists and learn from their expertise.

Peru, with its stunning landscapes and storied history, proved to be particularly enriching for Dr. Vogel. He visited the ancient city of Machu Picchu, a UNESCO World Heritage site, and was awestruck by its architectural beauty and the immense effort required to construct such a monumental edifice. He also spent time in Lima, exploring the city's vibrant art scene and learning about the cultural movements and trends that are shaping the modern Peruvian capital.

South America offered Dr. Vogel a glimpse into the rich biodiversity and ecological diversity of the continent. He visited the Amazon rainforest, where he observed the challenges faced by indigenous communities in preserving their way of life. These communities, living in harmony with the natural environment, have retained a deep connection to the land and its resources, maintaining practices and traditions that have been passed down for centuries.

Throughout his travels, Dr. Vogel was deeply impressed by the resilience and cultural richness of the indigenous populations. He was particularly struck by the importance placed on education and the preservation of cultural heritage. His experiences reinforced the need for continued support and collaboration between the scientific community and local communities to ensure the maintenance of these important cultural legacies for future generations.

Dr. Vogel's work continues to be influential in the field of anthropology, and his recent travels to Central and South America have added valuable insights to his research. His dedication to understanding and preserving the cultural diversity of these regions serves as a testament to the importance of cross-cultural understanding and the value of supporting indigenous communities in their efforts to maintain their way of life.

The Sunderland Journal

The Drama Corner

By Paul Fox

THE SUFFOLK JOURNAL

Dr. Vogel Visits Central and South America

Dr. Vogel, the renowned anthropologist, recently embarked on a journey to Central and South America to explore the rich cultural heritage of these regions. His travels took him to Mexico, Peru, Brazil, and Argentina, where he met with local scholars, visited historical sites, and gained insights into the traditional practices and way of life of the indigenous peoples.

In Mexico, Dr. Vogel was captivated by the ancient ruins of Teotihuacan and Chichen Itza, marveling at the architectural ingenuity and the cultural achievements of these civilizations. He also had the opportunity to participate in a cultural exchange program, allowing him to interact with local anthropologists and learn from their expertise.

Peru, with its stunning landscapes and storied history, proved to be particularly enriching for Dr. Vogel. He visited the ancient city of Machu Picchu, a UNESCO World Heritage site, and was awestruck by its architectural beauty and the immense effort required to construct such a monumental edifice. He also spent time in Lima, exploring the city's vibrant art scene and learning about the cultural movements and trends that are shaping the modern Peruvian capital.

South America offered Dr. Vogel a glimpse into the rich biodiversity and ecological diversity of the continent. He visited the Amazon rainforest, where he observed the challenges faced by indigenous communities in preserving their way of life. These communities, living in harmony with the natural environment, have retained a deep connection to the land and its resources, maintaining practices and traditions that have been passed down for centuries.

Throughout his travels, Dr. Vogel was deeply impressed by the resilience and cultural richness of the indigenous populations. He was particularly struck by the importance placed on education and the preservation of cultural heritage. His experiences reinforced the need for continued support and collaboration between the scientific community and local communities to ensure the maintenance of these important cultural legacies for future generations.

Dr. Vogel's work continues to be influential in the field of anthropology, and his recent travels to Central and South America have added valuable insights to his research. His dedication to understanding and preserving the cultural diversity of these regions serves as a testament to the importance of cross-cultural understanding and the value of supporting indigenous communities in their efforts to maintain their way of life.

The Sunderland Journal

The Drama Corner

By Paul Fox

THE SUFFOLK JOURNAL

Dr. Vogel Visits Central and South America

Dr. Vogel, the renowned anthropologist, recently embarked on a journey to Central and South America to explore the rich cultural heritage of these regions. His travels took him to Mexico, Peru, Brazil, and Argentina, where he met with local scholars, visited historical sites, and gained insights into the traditional practices and way of life of the indigenous peoples.

In Mexico, Dr. Vogel was captivated by the ancient ruins of Teotihuacan and Chichen Itza, marveling at the architectural ingenuity and the cultural achievements of these civilizations. He also had the opportunity to participate in a cultural exchange program, allowing him to interact with local anthropologists and learn from their expertise.

Peru, with its stunning landscapes and storied history, proved to be particularly enriching for Dr. Vogel. He visited the ancient city of Machu Picchu, a UNESCO World Heritage site, and was awestruck by its architectural beauty and the immense effort required to construct such a monumental edifice. He also spent time in Lima, exploring the city's vibrant art scene and learning about the cultural movements and trends that are shaping the modern Peruvian capital.

South America offered Dr. Vogel a glimpse into the rich biodiversity and ecological diversity of the continent. He visited the Amazon rainforest, where he observed the challenges faced by indigenous communities in preserving their way of life. These communities, living in harmony with the natural environment, have retained a deep connection to the land and its resources, maintaining practices and traditions that have been passed down for centuries.

Throughout his travels, Dr. Vogel was deeply impressed by the resilience and cultural richness of the indigenous populations. He was particularly struck by the importance placed on education and the preservation of cultural heritage. His experiences reinforced the need for continued support and collaboration between the scientific community and local communities to ensure the maintenance of these important cultural legacies for future generations.

Dr. Vogel's work continues to be influential in the field of anthropology, and his recent travels to Central and South America have added valuable insights to his research. His dedication to understanding and preserving the cultural diversity of these regions serves as a testament to the importance of cross-cultural understanding and the value of supporting indigenous communities in their efforts to maintain their way of life.

The Sunderland Journal

The Drama Corner

By Paul Fox

THE SUFFOLK JOURNAL

Dr. Vogel Visits Central and South America

Dr. Vogel, the renowned anthropologist, recently embarked on a journey to Central and South America to explore the rich cultural heritage of these regions. His travels took him to Mexico, Peru, Brazil, and Argentina, where he met with local scholars, visited historical sites, and gained insights into the traditional practices and way of life of the indigenous peoples.

In Mexico, Dr. Vogel was captivated by the ancient ruins of Teotihuacan and Chichen Itza, marveling at the architectural ingenuity and the cultural achievements of these civilizations. He also had the opportunity to participate in a cultural exchange program, allowing him to interact with local anthropologists and learn from their expertise.

Peru, with its stunning landscapes and storied history, proved to be particularly enriching for Dr. Vogel. He visited the ancient city of Machu Picchu, a UNESCO World Heritage site, and was awestruck by its architectural beauty and the immense effort required to construct such a monumental edifice. He also spent time in Lima, exploring the city's vibrant art scene and learning about the cultural movements and trends that are shaping the modern Peruvian capital.

South America offered Dr. Vogel a glimpse into the rich biodiversity and ecological diversity of the continent. He visited the Amazon rainforest, where he observed the challenges faced by indigenous communities in preserving their way of life. These communities, living in harmony with the natural environment, have retained a deep connection to the land and its resources, maintaining practices and traditions that have been passed down for centuries.

Throughout his travels, Dr. Vogel was deeply impressed by the resilience and cultural richness of the indigenous populations. He was particularly struck by the importance placed on education and the preservation of cultural heritage. His experiences reinforced the need for continued support and collaboration between the scientific community and local communities to ensure the maintenance of these important cultural legacies for future generations.

Dr. Vogel's work continues to be influential in the field of anthropology, and his recent travels to Central and South America have added valuable insights to his research. His dedication to understanding and preserving the cultural diversity of these regions serves as a testament to the importance of cross-cultural understanding and the value of supporting indigenous communities in their efforts to maintain their way of life.

The Sunderland Journal
OUTSIDE S. U.

The only Dedlock has changed for her trip to Europe with the New York Post. A trip to Europe this summer, the newspaper said, "is the only way to see the real beauty of the world's greatest city." The Dedlock is currently at the Dedlock Hotel in London, where she is staying with her family.

THE COMMUNITY

The news of the departure of the Dedlock for Europe has spread quickly through the community. Many local residents are excited to hear that the Dedlock will be visiting their town.

During the last week, the Dedlock has been spending time with the Dedlock family, who have made Dedlock their home for the past few years. The Dedlock family has been known for their hospitality and warm welcome to all who visit Dedlock.

Public Speaking

The Dedlock is known for her public speaking abilities. She has given numerous speeches on various topics, including the importance of education and the need for community involvement.

Dedlock News

The Dedlock has been busy with her work in Dedlock. She has been involved in several community events, including a charity concert and a local art exhibit.

The Dedlock's departure will be a loss to the Dedlock community, but she is looking forward to her trip to Europe and the new experiences she will have there.

---

NEED CASH for the HOLIDAYS?

Apply Now for Christmas Selling Positions

Need & Women... Full or Part Time

Receive your invitation with super special average and information about the Dedlock. Call or visit the Dedlock for more information.

EMPLOYMENT OFFICE, 15660 ST. BOSTON

Please bring Social Security Card

---

duette PHOTOGRAPHERS

8 Central St, Arlington
Mission 3-3557

---

CONDA'S RESTAURANT

30 DERNE ST. BOSTON

FIRST CLASS FOOD — SELF-SERVICE RESTAURANT

SODA FOUNTAIN SERVICE
From Cairo to Cape Town

Dr. Massey at the English Institute near they explained that the English climate is similar to the Egyptian climate, and that the English people are used to it. I asked him about the differences between Cairo and Cape Town, and he replied:

"Cairo is hot and humid, with high temperatures during the day and cool nights. Cape Town, on the other hand, is much cooler and has more moderate temperatures throughout the year. The landscape is also very different. Cairo is surrounded by the Nile Delta and the desert, while Cape Town is located near the ocean, which gives it a more temperate climate."

I then asked about the culture and traditions of the two cities. Dr. Massey explained:

"In Cairo, the culture is very diverse, with influences from the Middle East, Africa, and Europe. The majority of the population is Muslim, but there are also Christians and Jews. In Cape Town, the culture is more Western, with a strong influence from the Dutch settlers. The majority of the population is African, but there are also a large number of whites and mixed-race people."

I was interested in learning more about the daily life in the two cities. Dr. Massey continued:

"In Cairo, people tend to spend a lot of time in the markets and cafes. The food is very diverse, with many different types of spices and herbs. In Cape Town, people tend to spend a lot of time outdoors, whether it's at the beach or in the parks. The food is also very diverse, with a lot of seafood and South African dishes."

I thanked Dr. Massey for his time and insights, and he wished me well on my journey.
Sports

Folk Music

by Nancy Gibbons

Two more folk albums have appeared this season, and it is credited to the interest and perseverance of the students, that some talent may rise out of the depths of the music. These two are "Folk Album," a Columbia release, and "Folk's Best," a Columbia release. Folk Album is a collection of material presented by various groups, and Folk's Best is a collection of material presented by various individuals. The latter is much more interesting to the listener and more stimulating to the performer, which will be held December 1st. It is a perfect opportunity for the student body to show how much they have learned and how much they enjoy music.

The Activities Fee is your responsibility.

PAY IT NOW!

Halloween Dance

Costumes

Saturday, October 31

"318" Club

Somerville

Tickets $1.00

8 - 12

Sponsored by the Class of '64

The Glee Club

needs your

VOICE

The President's Committee on Election Day, the High School, the Junior Class, and the National Movement of Student for a New Education.

Puritan Luncheon Home

Workers Food

IN URBN, MA.

Boston

The Glee Club needs your voice.