Facts About Your Social Peace

Thousands of self-employed men, women and children who make their living as shopkeepers, truck drivers, mechanics, etc., are being called upon to contribute a small sum of money each month in order to maintain a fund that will provide social services for the community. This fund is known as the Social Peace Fund.

The fund was established after a series of conferences in which representatives of the various groups of self-employed workers discussed the need for a more organized approach to social problems. It was decided that a fund should be created to provide for the administration of the fund and to assist in the development of community activities.

The Social Peace Fund will be administered by a board of directors, composed of representatives of the various groups of self-employed workers. The board will be responsible for the overall management of the fund and for the development of community activities.

In order to contribute to the Social Peace Fund, individuals must first apply to the board of directors and be accepted as members. Contributions can be made in the form of cash, checks, or any other form of payment that is accepted by the board of directors.

The board of directors will determine the amount of funds that will be allocated to each activity, based on the needs and priorities of the community. Contributions will be used to finance a wide range of activities, including projects that promote health, education, and the arts.

The Social Peace Fund is a cooperative effort to provide a better quality of life for all members of the community. Through the contributions of individuals, the fund will be able to support activities that benefit the whole community.
