95% of the world's consumers are outside of the United States, and yet, only one-quarter of small businesses are engaged in global commerce. Yet, small businesses represent more than 95% of all exporters from the U.S. Globalization is critical, but are there some regions in the world that are more attractive than others? The European Union (EU) has a population of more than 500 million people, yet, there is a lesser tolerance for risk, thus failure is viewed more negatively than the U.S. The United States takes greater risks, experiences a higher degree of failure, and yet, the number of new startups remain consistently around 600,000 every year for a country with a population of more than 300 million people. Is the EU a viable option for U.S. startup growth or opportunities? What are the issues of a union that consists of nearly 30 countries with economic constraints and political forces that appear more restrictive than the United States? How can United States startups leverage a stable economic structure in a region that is more than 7% and nearly twice the size of U.S. consumers? In this course, you will learn the opportunities and challenges between two economically strong regions of the world that encompasses nearly one billion potential consumers. Prerequisites: Junior Standing. This course counts as an ENT major elective.

  Prerequisites:

  Over 54 credits required.

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:
According to Forbes, successful entrepreneurs have a clear vision of what they want their company to be. However, as each investor is added, the vision is less clear and the stakes for the entrepreneur rise. The name of the game is to raise capital, build value, and exit. However, most venture-backed startups fail to provide a reasonable return, while nearly one-third lose the entire investment. What are the benefits and challenges behind venture-backed startups, other than the excitement and stories? How does venture capital take a startup to a higher level than the typical bootstrapped firm? In this course, you will learn the critical elements behind raising venture capital for the startup including: valuation, forecasts, entrepreneurial team, types of funding (seed, bridge, mezzanine, Series A, B, etc.), all leading to developing a venture capital strategy and desired term sheet for an opportunity you develop.

- ENT-356 Bootstrapping the Startup Or Small Business

  Prerequisites:

  ACCT 201 and Junior Standing.

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:

  Did you ever wonder how you are going to start a business or run an existing small business without enough capital? This is a very common phenomenon where startups and small businesses are typically undercapitalized and need to maximize internally-generated cash flow to not only start or run the business, but to also grow. Centered around an experiential process, this course will identify how to internally generate cash flow with the realization that more than 90% of all ventures operate in a bootstrapping environment. This course will identify a strong understanding of cash inflows, outflows, and maximizing both components to generate additional capital necessary for the business's requirements.

  Term:

- ENT-362 Legal and Ethical Issues in Entrepreneurship

  Prerequisites:
  Take BLE-214 or BLE-H214; junior standing required
How do you protect yourself, your venture, and your intellectual property when starting a new business? In this course, you will learn the substantive areas of the law that are essential to entrepreneurs and an integration of that knowledge with ethics. Specifically, you will gain a stronger understanding of a) how to select a law firm that best fits the startup and b) how to protect your intellectual property through the use of trademarks, copyrights, patents, trade secrets, non-disclosure and confidentiality agreements. You will also learn how startups can protect their interests through the use of organizational structures and related equity restrictions and employment agreements. From the ethics standpoint, this course will focus on corporate governance and the importance of a management leading an ethical culture. We will examine substantive areas of the law that create legal risk and point to ethical issues within an organization. An important element for the entrepreneur is communication skills; therefore this course will have a major writing assignment along with a speaking requirement.

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:

  This course will integrate global business theories and concepts with practice. Topics include: Transnational strategy, foreign direct investment, regional development clusters, role and operation of the WTO, outsourcing and supply chain management, and international ethics. Students integrate discipline-specific knowledge, practice investigation and decision-making around global business issues, improve business communication skills, and practice teamwork for global business decision- making. Prerequisite: MKT 210, MGT 317, FIN 310, ISOM 310 ISOM 319, and IB 321.
• IB-510 Directed Study in International Business

  Prerequisites:

  instructor's consent

  Credits:

  1.00- 6.00

  Description:

  This elective course option involves a student-initiated written proposal to a willing and appropriate full-time faculty member for a directed study project. Normally this is for three credits and completed during one semester. The faculty member and student must concur on a written proposal and final project. Approval by the Department Chair and the Dean is necessary prior to registration. Prerequisites: Sawyer Business School required courses, IB 321 AND one other International Business course.

• IB-520 Global Business Internship

  Prerequisites:

  IB 321, Department Chair approval required before registration

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:

  A project-based course that provides a work experience component for juniors and seniors, and allows the student to apply international business theory in a practical context, thereby bridging the gap between education and practice. Students are assigned to a specific project working with a local business in an area of interest, for one semester generally. Students should expect to spend a minimum of 8 hours per week on the job during the 15 week semester. Written reports, including a proposal accepted by both the supervisor/employer and instructor, mid-term progress report, and final report are required. This course can be used as a major elective or as a free elective.

• IB-550 Special Topics in International Business

  Credits:
An in-depth analysis of timely special issues in international business. Specific topics are announced when the course is scheduled.

IB-560 International Bus Travel Requirement

Prerequisites:
Junior Standing, Instructor’s consent required

Credits:
0.00

Description:
All GB majors are required to participate in overseas travel as a part of their major. This requirement may be satisfied by completing a minimum of one travel seminar or a semester abroad. Travel seminars used to fulfill this requirement, may also be used to fulfill major electives or language as appropriate. Students may participate in more than one travel seminar and/or study abroad opportunity. All travel must be pre-approved by the Undergraduate Programs Dean’s Office to ensure optimum credit distribution.

ISOM-120 Information Technology and Productivity

Credits:
3.00

Description:
This course provides a comprehensive introduction to information technology and information systems concepts. Students learn the importance of modern information technologies in the workplace. The course covers technology resources of the digital age, such as computer software, hardware, communication, database and telecommunication systems. Students also learn to increase productivity through the integration and use of productivity software applications, such as spreadsheets, presentation software and databases. In addition, students learn the fundamental concepts of database design and relational database management systems (DBMS) such as Microsoft access.

Term:
Offered Both Fall and Spring
• ISOM-H120 Honors Information Technology and Productivity

• ISOM-130 Data Science and Analytics

Prerequisites:
ENT-101(formerly SBS-101)

Credits:
3.00

Description:
The availability of massive amounts of complex digital data has created the need for professionals that can compile, analyze and share electronic data in a meaningful way. Such data may be gathered from internal company records and business transactions or externally from other data sources and/or the Web. The data must then be cleansed, organized, aggregated, analyzed and presented in order to be useful. This course provides students with a comprehensive introduction to the core concepts, applications and tools of data acquisition, preparation, querying, analytics, and data management as needed in various business functions. Students will have hands-on experience using real data to perform these functions. Topics include: data life cycle, big data, analytics, data collection, preparation, organization and storage, aggregation and summary, and presentation/visualization. Students will use tools such as MS Excel, MS Access, SQL, and SAS Visual Analytics.

• ISOM-H130 Honors Data Science and Analytics
Prerequisites:

ENT-101(formerly SBS-101) and at least 3.3 GPA

• ISOM-201 Data and Decisions Analysis

Prerequisites:

MATH-128 or higher and STATS-240 or STATS 250.

Credits:

3.00

Description:

This course is designed to introduce undergraduate business students to fundamental quantitative methods of using data to make informed management decisions. Topics covered include: decision modeling, decision analysis, regression, forecasting, optimization, and simulation, as it applies to the study and analysis of business problems for decision support in finance, marketing, service, and manufacturing operations. Practical business cases and examples drawn from finance, marketing, operations management, and other management areas are used to provide students with a perspective on how management science is used in practice. The implementation of management science tools has been facilitated by the intensive use of Excel spreadsheet models.

- ISOM-212 Web Design

Credits:

3.00

Description:

Web Design introduces the concepts, vocabulary, and procedures associated with web design. Students will learn how to conceptualize and design professional websites using Wix.com and Microsoft's Expression Web software. Topics will include website evaluation, information architecture, customer and task analysis, usability testing, web-hosting options, typography, color composition, screen layout, navigation, and cascading style sheets. Students will learn practical skills and techniques in projects involving digital photography, image editing, multimedia, and animation. ISOM 212 will also cover important web design themes such as accessibility, globalisation, personalization, and trust.

Term:

Offered Both Fall and Spring

- ISOM-215 Mobile App Development

Credits:
3.00

Description:

This course provides a comprehensive introduction to mobile app technology and design concepts. Students learn how to design, build, and optimize cross-platform mobile app using HTML5 standards. Students use CSS3, JavaScript and several JavaScript frameworks and techniques such as jQuery, jQuery Mobile, and AJAX. In addition, students will use Web services, such as Google Maps, and Web Application Programming Interfaces (Web APIs) to integrate content into their apps. Students will learn how to convert HTML5 apps into native apps for various mobile platforms. This is an introductory course and assumes no prior programming experience.

Term:

Offered Spring Term

- ISOM-230 Big Data, Business Intelligence and Analytics

  Prerequisites:

  STATS-240 or STATS-250 or Instructor Permission

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:

  The understanding and use of big data, business intelligence and analytics is essential for businesses today to improve decision making, cut costs and identify new business opportunities. This course provides an understanding of the business potential of big data; how to build and maintain data warehouses, and how to analyze and use this data as a source for business intelligence and competitive advantage. Students will build data warehouses and learn the inter-relationships between operation and decision support systems and the extraction and filtering process used to produce high quality data warehouses. Students will study data mining concepts and the use of analytics tools and methods for producing business intelligence. Topics include: big data, data warehouses, data extraction and filtering, operation and decision support systems, analytics, business intelligence, text and web mining models (clustering, classification, regression, and decision trees) and data presentation/visualization including reports, charts, dashboards, cockpits and scorecards. Students will use tools such as MS Excel, MicroStrategy (Salesforce), SQL and SAP Business Explorer.

- ISOM-231 Automatic for the People: Turn Data Into Insight/W R~python

  Prerequisites:
STATS-240 or STATS-250

Credits:
3.00

Description:
This course introduces students to a detailed overview of statistical learning for data mining, inference, and prediction in order to tackle modern-day data analysis problems. This course is appropriate for students who wish to learn and apply statistical learning tools to analyze their data and gain valuable hands-on experience with R. Statistical learning refers to a vast set of tools for modeling and understanding complex datasets. The course covers the following exciting topics: Regression, Logistic Regression, Linear Discriminant Analysis, Cross-Validation, Bootstrap, Linear/Non-Linear Model Selection and Regularization, Support Vector Methodology, and Unsupervised Learning via Principal Components Analysis and Clustering Methods. Students learn how to implement each of the statistical learning methods using the popular statistical software package R via hands-on lab sessions.

• ISOM-244 Web Application Development

Credits:
3.00

Description:
This first course in Internet application development equips students with the principles, methodology and skills required to define, develop and deploy a fully functional dynamic web application. Students will learn how to customize the content, appearance, and delivery of their website using industry-standard web development tools. Class discussion will focus on web development issues for organizations as well as the role played by development tools such as HTML5, CSS3, XML, and scripting. Each class will include hands-on lab work. A term project will be used to wrap the course content together.

Term:
Offered Spring Term

• ISOM-301 Business Analysis for Management

Prerequisites:
Take MGT-317 and junior status
This course provides students with exposure to the business analysis models and techniques generally applicable to common business problems. Using the case study method, the course will emphasize analytical models including forecasting, optimization and simulation within the context of team-based work. Students will understand the process of Business Analysis (BA), the role of assumptions and elicitation, the critical value of hard analytical skills as the foundation of BA as well as the importance of interpretation, communication and implementation to the effective use of BA.

- ISOM-310 Management Information Systems

  Prerequisites:

  WRI 102 or SBS 220; and at least 45 completed credits

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:

  This course examines the rise of information-enabled enterprises and the role of information technologies/information systems (IT/IS) and e-commerce as key enablers of businesses and social changes globally. - ISOM-313 Systems Analysis & Design

  Prerequisites:
  ISOM-210(formerly ISOM-310)

  Credits:
  3.00

  Description:
  This course covers the concepts, techniques and tools useful for the analysis and design of business information systems. Topics include: the system development cycle, modeling, prototyping and project management. Additionally, the course focuses upon using Object Oriented analysis and design techniques including the UML. The course emphasizes the analysis of business operations as well as the interaction between information systems professionals and end-users. A term project applying these concepts and techniques is required.

  Term:
  Offered Both Fall and Spring

- ISOM-314 Object Oriented Programming

  Credits:
  3.00

  Description:
  This course develops problem solving and basic programming skills through a variety of business application assignments. The course introduces fundamental control and data structures using the VB (Visual Basic) programming language. Students learn about the concepts of structured programming, object-oriented/ event-driven programming without being exposed to the advanced principles of object-oriented programming. The course builds skills in the areas of programming logic, Visual Basic Application (VBA), interactive Windows applications, and Macro application programming. Testing and debugging techniques and the writing of well-structured code are also emphasized.

Term:
Offered Both Fall and Spring

• ISOM-315 Mobile App Development

• ISOM-319 Operations Management

Prerequisites:
ENT-101(formerly SBS 101) and ISOM-201 and at least 54 credits

Credits:
3.00

Description:
In this course, students are introduced to the operating component of a service/manufacturing organization where inputs such as raw material, labor, or other resources are transformed into finished services and/or goods. The following OM areas: strategic and tactical issues, product planning and process design, technology management, quality management, capacity, location, and layout planning, inventory management, forecasting and work force management issues are addressed through class discussions, readings and cases. Quantitative models, analytical tools and case studies are used to analyze problems that the business manager would face in both a local and global setting.

Term:
Offered Both Fall and Spring

- ISOM-H319 Honors Operations Management

  Prerequisites:
  ENT-101(formerly SBS-101), ISOM-201, at least a 3.3 GPA, and at least 54 credits

- ISOM-330 Applied Predictive Analytics

  Prerequisites:
  STATS-240 or STATS-250 or Instructor Permission

  Credits:
  3.00

  Description:
  When companies make decisions, they do so with the future in mind and essentially are predicting that their decisions will achieve desired results. Predictive analytics allow people to ask and answer questions that can predict demand and/or outcomes and obtain results that lead to reasoned action. This course develops students' capability in applying the core concepts and techniques of predictive analytics for opportunity identification and risk assessment within the context of organizational decision-making. Students will use data-driven approaches to develop predictive analytical models. Students will create and use data models and techniques, apply trendlines to fit models to data, perform what-if analysis, construct data tables, evaluate scenarios, apply forecasting techniques, simulation and risk analysis. Students will learn to use various presentation and visualization tools to communicate results. Topics include: predictive analytics life cycle, opportunity/issue identification, data preparation, modeling, analysis, forecasting, simulation, risk assessment, and operationalization of predictive analytics. Students will use tools such as MS Excel, SPSS and SAS Visual Analytics.

- ISOM-331 Global Electronic Commerce

  Prerequisites:

  ISOM-210(formerly ISOM-310)

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:

  This course examines the role of information systems and e-commerce in global business competition. It considers the technological, cultural, economic, social and legal issues in the development of cross-border information systems for business or social developments. Readings and cases will be used to examine current issues, as well as opportunities and challenges. Prerequisites: ISOM 310, or ISOM 423 or ACCT 430 May also be taken concurrently.

  Term:

  Offered Fall Term

- ISOM-340 Security & Privacy

  Prerequisites:

  ISOM-210(formerly ISOM-310) and at least 54 credits

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:
Students are introduced to the basics of information security & privacy including the legal and ethical issues. Common types of computer attacks and counter-attacks are addressed. Security technologies such as biometrics, firewalls, intrusion detection systems and cryptography systems will be analyzed and several labs done on the same to connect theory to practice. Best practices for planning and auditing security and privacy will also be covered. Pre-requisites: ISOM 310 or ISOM 423.

Term:
Offered Fall Term

- ISOM-341 Project Management

  Credits:
  3.00

  Description:
  Project management is a critical competence to business performance in contemporary organizations. This course introduces the concepts and techniques of project management, which are applicable to the development of products, services, and information systems. Topics will include project life cycles, project management tools, project process management, and project management practices. Relevant quality management concepts and tools will also be discussed.

  Term:
  Offered Fall Term

- ISOM-414 Object-Oriented Programming Development with Java

  Prerequisites:
  ISOM-314 and at least 54 credits or Instructor Permission

  Credits:
  3.00

  Description:
  This course introduces object-oriented programming (OOP) and development using the Java programming language. It covers the basics of OOP including class hierarchies, inheritance, objects, streams, constructors, and GUI components. The course also covers the design, development, and deployment of applets, web applications, and applications that are not deployed via the Internet. Several programming projects, which strengthen the understanding of object based and event driven programming, are required. By the end of the course, students will possess a strong working competency in object oriented programming using Java.

Term:
Offered Spring Term

- ISOM-423 Database Management

  Prerequisites:
  ISOM-210(formerly ISOM-310)

  Credits:
  3.00

  Description:
  This course provides an understanding of the role of information and databases in systems and their role as an organizational resource. Students learn to design databases using normalization and entity-relationship diagrams, develop data models and to build applications with database management systems (i.e., Microsoft Access and SQL). Techniques are examined and applied to business problems through exercises and projects. The course's cornerstone is a group project involving the implementation of a DBMS-based system which supports a realistic business application and the development of a companion user's manual.

  Term:
  Offered Both Fall and Spring

- ISOM-424 IS Strategy, Management and Acquisition

  Prerequisites:
  ISOM-313, ISOM-314, and ISOM-423 and at least 84 credits

  Credits:
  3.00

  Description:
This course is the capstone for IS majors and is designed to assist students in further developing their project management and hands-on programming skills. It emphasizes the management principles that apply to technology development along with practical skills required to develop systems to solve real world problems using the latest available technologies. Students have the opportunity to learn system design and project management concepts, and then apply these principles to projects in the business community. For this reason, the course challenges students to bring together all the computer, information systems and management skills they have acquired to produce a final, capstone project, which is presented to their clients and peers. The goal of the course is to give students experience in working with real users and state-of-the-art software tools such as Cold Fusion to prepare them for the jobs that await them in industry.

Term:
Offered Spring Term

- ISOM-440 ERP System & Process Reengineering

  Prerequisites:

  ISOM-210(formerly ISOM-310) and at least 54 credits

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:

  This course provides students with a conceptual, as well as, a mechanical understanding of enterprise integration and enterprise software, business process reengineering and strategies for maximizing benefits from enterprise systems. It also examines some of the complex organizational changes and issues including implementation challenge; risks, costs, and benefits; learning and knowledge management. Hands-on lab projects on the ERP System (provided by SAP) will be utilized to reinforce the student's understanding of important enterprise systems and business process concepts.

  Term:

  Offered Spring Term

- ISOM-445 Big Data and Analytics

  Prerequisites:

  ISOM 201; ISOM 310; ISOM 423 is recommended; Junior standing

  Credits:
Description:

This course provides an understanding of the business potential of big data and analytics, data warehousing, how to build and maintain data warehouses, and how to use data warehouses for business advantage and as a source for business intelligence. Business intelligence refers to the use of analytical software tools to analyze big data or complex information about an organization and its competitors for use in business planning and decision-making. In building data warehouses, students will learn the inter-relationships between operation, decision support systems, strategy and the extraction and filtering process used to produce a high quality data warehouse. Data mining concepts and the use of data mining tools and methods for decision-making and for producing business intelligence is presented. Additionally, the concept of building dashboards and other visualization techniques to present data will be covered.

• ISOM-510 Independent Study in IS & OM

Prerequisites:

ISOM-210(formerly ISOM-310) or ISOM-201 and Instructor Permission

Credits:

1.00- 3.00

Description:

Independent study allows students to expand their classroom experience by completing research in an area of interest not already covered by Suffolk courses. The student designs a unique project and finds a full-time faculty member with expertise in that topic who agrees to sponsor it and provide feedback as the proposal is refined. A well designed and executed research project broadens and/or deepens learning in a major or minor area of study and may also enhance a student's marketability to potential future employers. Students cannot register for an Independent Study until a full proposal is approved by the faculty sponsor, department chair, and academic dean. Many Independent study proposals require revisions before approval is granted; even with revisions independent study approval is NOT guaranteed. Students are strongly encouraged to submit a proposal in enough time to register for a different course if the proposal is not accepted. For complete instructions, see the SBS Independent/Directed Study Agreement and Proposal form available online.

Term:

Offered Both Fall and Spring
ISOM-520 Information Systems Internship

Prerequisites:
ISOM-210(formerly ISOM-310), 1 required ISOM major course, at least a 3.0 GPA, and Instructor Permission

Credits:
3.00

Description:
An internship may be used to satisfy the IS major practical experience requirement of a minimum of 150 hours of information systems/information technology experience. Most internships will exceed 150 hours and may be paid or unpaid. Prior approval of your position by the IS Practical Experience Coordinator is required. This is accomplished by completing the IS Practicum Approval Form with an internship description. The internship description includes the job description, the number of hours of work, the number of credits, grading criteria and any other requirements. Students should enroll in ISOM 520 prior to starting their internship. This is a graded course and cannot be used as a major elective. Students may decide to register for this free elective course as pass fail (see http://www2.suffolk.edu/offices/54969.html). Prerequisites: Practical Experience Coordinator's Approval Required and Junior Standing, minimum ISOM GPA of 3.0, and minimum overall GPA of 2.5.

Term:
Offered Both Fall and Spring

ISOM-550 Special Topics of IS & OM

Prerequisites:
Prerequisites dependent on topic.

Credits:
3.00

Description:
An in-depth analysis of timely and special issues in information systems or operations management. Specific topics are announced when the course is scheduled. Prerequisites are dependent on specific topic.

Term: Occasional
• ISOM-560 Information Systems Practicum

  Prerequisites:

  ISOM-210(formerly ISOM-310), 1 required ISOM major course, at least a 3.0 GPA, at least 54 credits, and Instructor Permission

  Credits:

  0.00

  Description:

  All majors are required to complete 150 hours of information systems/information technology experience. The 150 hours of work experience may be obtained in one or more positions as an intern, part- or full-time employee or volunteer. Prior approval of your position by the IS Practical Experience Coordinator is required. This is accomplished by completing the IS Practicum Approval Form. Students should enroll in ISOM 560 no earlier than the semester when they expect to complete the 150 hours. Student should log their work tasks and accomplishments. Prerequisites: Practical Experience Coordinator's Approval Required

  Term:

  Offered Both Fall and Spring

• MGT-101 Business Foundations

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:

  This course introduces the concepts and practices of managing profit seeking firms, as well as the challenges of managing not-for-profit and public sector organizations. Students develop an initial understanding of organizational stakeholders, the global, economic, legal, and regulatory environments, ethical challenges faced by management, and the strategic coordination of various internal functions of organizations. Students develop an integrative approach to analyzing organizations and are coached on effective presentation skill, culminating in a group presentation of a business analysis to a panel of outside managers.

• MGT-200 Leadership and Social Responsibility
Prerequisites:
Sophomore Status

Credits:
1.00

Description:
This course focuses on management challenges faced by leaders of not-for-profit organizations. Through a hands-on team project students will create innovative solutions to a specific organizational opportunity/issue and present these to a panel of external judges. Students will also create sustainability plans so their ideas have life after the course ends. Due to the experiential nature of this course, it will be taught in an intensive format.

- MGT-302 Developing Innovation Skills

  Credits:
Description:

This highly interactive and experiential course will help you to develop your creative skills for business and life success. Corporate leaders consider creativity [1] to be an essential skill. However, according to a recent Conference Board study [2], college graduates lack the creativity and innovation skills needed to succeed in the workplace. The Council on Competitiveness warns that companies that do not embrace innovation (and creativity) as a core business value will fall to global competition.[3] We will discuss profoundly important meaning of life issues that will serve to clarify your thinking and help you align your values and belief-systems with what you do on a daily basis at work and throughout your life. A substantial body of evidence indicates that people tend to be more creative when working on projects that interest them, and most creative when passionately immersed in their endeavors. We will focus on enhancing creativity in the workplace to achieve defined organizational needs, to add economic value to the organization, and to create social value as well. We will also focus on helping you to understand and apply a wide array of creative processes and tools to develop your creative competencies and skills. We will use breakout groups, role plays, experiential exercises, and discussions to facilitate your learning. This course is an invitation to you to explore and define what you want to create in your life.

[1] The Conference Board defines creativity/innovation as the ability to demonstrate originality, inventiveness in work, communicate new ideas to others, and integrate knowledge across disciplines.

- MGT-510 Independent Study

  Prerequisites:

  Junior standing and instructor's consent

  Credits:

  1.00- 3.00

  Description:

  Independent study allows students to expand their classroom experience by completing research in an area of interest not already covered by Suffolk courses. The student designs a unique project and finds a full-time faculty member with expertise in that topic who agrees to sponsor it and provide feedback as the proposal is refined. A well designed and executed research project broadens and/or deepens learning in a major or minor area of study and may also enhance a student's marketability to potential future employers. Students cannot register for an Independent Study until a full proposal is approved by the faculty sponsor, department chair, and academic dean. Many Independent study proposals require revisions before approval is granted; even with revisions independent study approval is NOT guaranteed. Students are strongly encouraged to submit a proposal in enough time to register for a different course if the proposal is not accepted. For complete instructions, see the SBS Independent/Directed Study Agreement and Proposal form available online.

- MGT-520 Management Internship

  Prerequisites:

  MGT 217 (formerly MGT 317); Management Major; Junior or Senior standing; 3.0 GPA; Instructor consent required; Cannot take this course concurrent with any other internship course

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:

  MGT 520 is an internship course which offers students the opportunity to apply knowledge and skills acquired in management courses to a valuable work experience outside the University. Interns practice using management principles in a carefully selected real world work situation under the direction of a faculty member, while completing academic requirements intended to integrate theory and practice. Students can also use the internship to explore career interests. Sometimes building a relationship with an employer during an internship can lead to a job offer during school or after graduation.

MKT-210 Principles of Marketing

Prerequisites:

WRI 101 or WRI 103

Credits:

3.00

Description:

As part of the core curriculum for the BSBA, this course provides a comprehensive, innovative, managerial, and practical introduction to marketing. Students will learn and apply basic concepts and practices of modern marketing as used in a wide variety of settings. Technological advances, rapid globalization, economic shifts and cultural and environmental developments are causing profound changes in the marketplace. As the marketplace changes, so must the marketers who serve it. These new developments signify a brand new world of opportunities for forward thinking marketers. In response to these new developments, the focus of this course is on four major themes that go to the heart of modern marketing theory and practice: 1. Building and managing profitable customer relationships; 2. Building and managing strong brands; 3. Harnessing new marketing technologies in this digital age; and 4. Marketing in a socially responsible way around the globe.

MKT-H210 Honors- Principles of Marketing

Prerequisites:

WRI-101 or WRI-103 and at least a 3.2 GPA

Credits:

3.00
This course addresses the topics that remain relevant and important, while simultaneously emphasizing new thinking and approaches to marketing practices. Students need to be prepared to operate in the complex and dynamic marketing world of the future, they need to develop the capacity to think and act like marketers in a difficult and uncertain environment. This requires the ability to assess complex and changing marketing situations, to determine the best marketing strategies for these situations, and to execute the strategies effectively. This course serves two purposes: as a foundation for those intending to major/minor in marketing, and potentially as the sole background in marketing for other majors/minors.

- MKT-320 Survey Design and Analysis

  Prerequisites:

  MKT 210; STATS 250

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:

  Surveys are ubiquitous in today's society. Almost weekly, we are asked to complete a survey, and the popular press continually reports results from surveys. To what extent are these surveys and the reporting of survey results flawed because of errors in survey methods? If you want to become a player in the survey game, how can you design and implement a survey that has the least amount of error? This course seeks to answer these questions. The field of survey methodology draws on theories and practices developed in several academic disciplines, including mathematics, statistics, psychology, sociology, computer science, and economics. To become an accomplished survey research professional, one must acquire mastery of research literatures as well as experience in designing, conducting, and analyzing surveys. This course introduces students to a set of principles of survey design that are the basis of standard practices in the field. Credits:
3.00

Description:

This course presents an in-depth and innovative framework for implementing relationship marketing within the sport industry. This framework includes network-and market-oriented methods and tools that enable sport organizations to design and develop products that provide targeted stakeholders with greater functional and experiential value. Sport organizations provide a wide variety of services from leadership, governance, management, development, entertainment and control to educational materials and other retail products, all of which benefit from relationship marketing principles. Because many sport organizations have adopted a relationship-marketing approach, they are necessarily network-based, operating in a system formed by numerous stakeholders. Their goals may be economic, social or environmental with the foundation of the system being the sport itself, with various bodies involved in the development of the sport. Through a consulting project with a sport organization, students will develop an understanding of the dynamics of the relationships between the different stakeholders who make up the network of the sport industry. Specifically, students will learn how sport organizations carry out their strategic actions within a network of stakeholders.

- SBS-HC150 Cut to the Chase: Getting to the Point In Business Writing

  Credits:

  2.00

  Description:

  Imagination is a key component of 21st century business writing. Increasingly the business scenario is more than a dry recital of what if or if this, then that. Good scenarios must be gripping and lively. It is not enough to assemble facts and regurgitate crunched numbers. Today the scenario must be polished and fully engaged. This goes for other types of writing too. Memos and reports must have style. This is the best way to demonstrate expertise and authority. Gripping. Lively. Polished. Engaged. How to achieve these writing goals? Our course will examine the mechanics of concise writing. We will go over the essential writing, revising, and editing skills that will allow you to create copy that gets to the point and makes its point. Be prepared to offer examples of your work, rewrite and revise them. This will not be a workshop. You will not edit your peers. You will review their work, but this will not be a roundtable writing seminar. You will learn to read your own work with a critical eye. Shorter attention spans demand better writing. This course will show you how to cut your copy to better fulfill the task before you and meet your readers' needs.

- SBS-HC151 Cut to the Chase: Getting to the Point Baseball: a Metaphor for Social Responsibility and Ethical Behavior

  Prerequisites:

  3.2 GPA required

  Credits:

  1.00

  Description:

  Baseball is an American game that began in the mid 1800’s and has evolved into a national pastime. This course will focus on the historical development of baseball along with issues past and present that have affected the game and the lives of Americans. These issues include segregation, diversity, honesty, integrity, loyalty and team play. Within the discussion about baseball, we will also cover other topics, including: academic strategies, wellness, citizenship and diversity. Throughout the course, we will read, write and engage in class discussion using baseball, the game in its current and past state, as it relates to ethical behavior and decision making and social responsibility. We will look at the fundamentals of the sport, some of the major players who have impacted the game to provide us with both good and bad role models. We will discuss recent and past issues and scandals, e.g. steroids, gambling, cheating, discrimination, financial gain and loyalty.

Stories are the heart of language and can move us to love and hate. In this challenge course, Dr. Dumas will guide you in exploring the vital necessity of recreating common ground for each other's stories. Each session will focus on fascinating narratives in written form, film and images about people, family and community. The sessions will include practical instruction about the nature of story, how it works, and how we can practice it in our lives. Participants will have the opportunity to explore personal stories captured in journals, stories of family legacy, the underlying stories that drive our organizations, and the stories that define our personal identity.

• SBS-HC250 Your Intelligent Career: Examining and Joining the Global Knowledge Economy

Prerequisites:
3.3 GPA required
Applying your intelligence to your own career- and not just to the jobs you will be asked to fill- is fundamental to the health of the global, knowledge-based economy. It is also fundamental to your personal career success within that economy. Yet, it is hard to gather good advice. Organizations pursue talent management programs based on their own rather than their employee's interests. Management consultants echo the interests of the organizations that they serve. Scholars give selective advice that reflects the particular academic discipline in which they have been trained. What is needed is a broad survey of the principal tasks and challenges that present and future brainworkers will face. This course will provide such a survey, as well as a series of exercises and conversations to help students gain direct exposure to the issues they will face.

- SBS-HC251 Gandhi's Leadership

  Prerequisites:

  3.3 GPA required

  Credits:

  2.00

  Description:

  Leadership has a special place in the Sawyer Business School. Our mission declares: 'We create a learning environment that enables our students to emerge as successful leaders in the practice of global business and public service.' As you look around, you will see various forms and styles of leadership in the professors you meet, the student clubs you attend, your community, and the political party that you are inclined to support. As business students, these provide you with opportunities to observe learn and reflect on its applicability in the business world. Even as the daily newspapers fill us with information of violence in another part of the world, we would take time in this course to reflect on the leadership of a man who used non-violence and 'truth force' as part of his leadership style. The course will use segments of the Richard Attenborough film Gandhi to understand Gandhi's actions in South Africa and India, and derive principles of leadership. This will be compared to other leaders who were present at times of major transformations and had a role in them, such as Kemal Ataturk, Yasser Arafat, Martin Luther King, Aung San Suu Kyi, Abraham Lincoln, Nelson Mandela, Jack Welch, Lee Kwan Yew, and Mao Zedong; you will choose one (from within or outside this list) with whom you will compare Gandhi. While discussing leadership styles, we will bear in mind their applicability in an organizational context.

- SBS-HC253 Leading in the Knowledge Economy: Six Challenges for Taking Action and Inspiring Others

  Credits:
  2.00

  Description:
  This course complements SBS HC250/Your Intelligent Career. While that course helps you to take stock of your present career situation, this course is focused on helping you to take future action. Specifically, it is focused on six challenges confronting both personal and collective success: making sense of your ever-changing career situation; embracing and leveraging technology; celebrating and collaborating in communities; working with employers (past, present or future); telling and re-telling your story, and building your world. You will read about and participate in exercises addressing each of the above challenges, you will join a small team of experts responsible for examining one of the challenges in greater depth, and you will develop and submit a journal on how you will continue to meet all six challenges after the course is over.

- SBS-HC254 Venture Capital in the U.S. and Abroad

  Prerequisites:
  3.2 GPA required

  Credits:
  2.00

  Description:
Venture capital has played a major role in the financing of technology and biotechnology firms, including Human Genome, Powersoft, and E-Bay. With capital made available to such firms through venture capitalists, many are poised to become the Microsofts and Apples of tomorrow. Yet, the venture capitalist assumes a calculated risk, investing significant money in exchange for an ownership stake in these companies. This seminar will focus on how venture capitalists (VCs) finance American and international start-up companies, the qualities VCs identify to determine a winning formula for corporate success, and the pitfalls that can result during the start-up phase of a company. Students will learn the importance of due diligence when conducting management, industry, and investment research to determine a start-up company's financial attractiveness to the venture capital firm. Class activity will include role playing exercises in which students act as venture capitalists, performing due diligence on a start-up company seeking venture financing. Two guest speakers will also be scheduled to speak about their experiences in the industry. We will also explore the similarities and differences between private equity and venture capital.

- SBS-HC310 Understanding the Amazing Boston Economy A Roadmap

  Credits:

  2.00

  Description:

  Most students are unaware of the vast range of opportunities right under their noses as citizens of the Boston area. This course explores the fundamental drivers of the greater Boston economy and is designed to give students a full appreciation of the dynamism and emerging economic potential in the Boston job market -- and will guide students in crafting their own strategies for pursuing local job opportunities. The course is designed to be a roadmap for students looking to get a start in the Boston economy. After providing an in-depth exploration of the pillars of the Boston economy, the course will track how greater Boston evolved after World War II to become a leader in technology and financial services. The course will then drill down sector by sector, exploring a range of local companies, both large and small, that are helping shape the economic future of the region. Drawing from an assortment of sources, including Boston Business Journal research, students will learn about the region's fastest-growing sectors and the fastest-growing companies, and hear first-hand from an assortment of business leaders about their businesses and Boston's relative strengths and weaknesses.

- SBS-HC320 Utilizing Real Time Data, News, Analytics and Research

  Prerequisites:

  FIN 200 (formerly FIN 310); 3.3 GPA

  Credits:
Students will gain hands-on and real-world experience using information and technology utilized by leading decision makers in business. Expose students to real-time platforms for financial and global business news, data, analytical tools and research. Students can deepen both their research and classwork, while learning how to analyze markets, assess economic scenarios and interpret the key news developments that impact the global economy. Bring the pace and excitement of real-time business and macro/micro econometrics into the classroom. Real-time trading applications will be introduced and utilized extensively throughout the course. Students will have multiple opportunities to participate in local and national virtual trading and analysis competitions. Integrate theoretical curriculum from prior courses and teach practical applications that can also be helpful in later courses. Examples drawn from ongoing economic and financial issues will be used to illustrate topics and concepts throughout the course. Guest speakers will be scheduled to speak about certain topics and their experiences.

- SBS-HC330 Leadership Decision Making

  Prerequisites:

  3.3 GPA; Sophomore status required

  Credits:

  2.00

  Description:

  This course will introduce students, as future business and government leaders, to crisis leadership decision-making in the context of resolving conflicts. Students will examine different techniques to resolve disputes by exploring major concepts of alternative dispute resolution (ADR) including position and interest bargaining and negotiation, mediation, and arbitration. Through actual case examples in business, government and labor, students will observe the roles played by the different sides of the disputes as well as the third party intervener. Students will practice resolving these conflicts by working together as teams to apply the techniques of alternative dispute resolution. Students will begin to appreciate and acquire the essential rudimentary skills for effective leadership in conflict resolution.

- SBS-HC350 Going Green: the New Road to Corporate Sustainability

  Credits:

  2.00

  Description:
Global warming, growing populations, and the expansion of the world's middle class through globalization have produced a planet that is hot, flat and crowded. While excessive human consumption and the increase in the use of fossil fuels contribute to these various problems, the real culprit is the failure of government, business, and individuals to recognize a real sense of urgency about the current and future draconian consequences to our world. This course is not only about environmentalism. It is about corporate sustainability which embraces the environment, biodiversity, supply chain management, corrupt business behaviors that retard internal economic development, investment behaviors, sweat shops, energy consumption, and much, much more. There is a need for the global business community to formulate and implement a global ethic that will lead to new innovation in business behaviors in an effort to turn the trend toward sustainable business practices.

- SBS-HC351 Successful Networking

  Prerequisites:

  3.2 GPA required

  Credits:

  2.00

  Description:

  Networking is a loosely used term, or synonym for cultivating and then maintaining contacts and relationships with those people who might be able to open a door for you. In our current economic reality networking is vital as it helps keep you informed about opportunities, trends in business and industry, experience necessary and great sources of career development; like this class for example. While the art of networking may be defined as making connections that you cultivate and keeping copious records of all your contacts; I believe there is more. I believe that networking is knowing what you want while helping others get what they want. All people with very few exceptions act in their own self-interest. For instance, my primary reason for teaching this course is to cultivate a great source of interns while at the same time getting paid. Not a bad gig. Knowing what YOU want is the first and most important step in developing an effective network. Knowing what other people want is the next step and the most difficult. Good thing there's a course about this exact subject.

- SBS-HC352 Writing for Accountants

  Prerequisites:

  ACCT 321; 3.3 GPA

  Credits:

  1.00

  Description:
The main objective of this course is to explore what accountants write and develop the skills necessary to write these materials effectively. Specific topics to be addressed are the writing process; organizing for coherence and clarity; grammar, punctuation, and spelling; and the design of accounting documents. Also discussed will be ethical considerations, the importance of listening skills to the communication process, the preparation of oral presentations, and the ability to interact with others in a respectful and professional way.

- SBS-HC353 Operation Management: the Key to Boston's Economic Success

  Prerequisites:
  ISOM 319; 3.3 GPA

  Credits:
  2.00

  Description:
  The goal of the class is to explore, investigate, and address how operational principles and practices are currently utilized to differentiate successful companies that operate in several Boston area industries. The industries to be studied include: health care, tourism, transportation, technology, state government, professional sports, food services and higher education. Knowledge will be gained by visits to companies that operate within these sectors, formal lecture and when possible executive roundtable talks with respected business leaders from each industry. In lieu of requiring a text, there maybe surcharges to students when we visit operating companies. This can include subway charges or entry to guided visits at TD Garden or Fenway Park.

- SBS-HC355 Special Topics in Business Ethics

  Prerequisites:
  BLE 215; 3.3 GPA

  Credits:
  2.00

  Description:

- SBS-HC356 Business in the European Union

  Prerequisites:

  3.2 GPA required

  Credits:

  2.00

  Description:

  This seminar is intended to provide an analysis of the European Union, its evolution, the current environment and issues, and its future, from a business and economic perspective. As the global economy and world markets become truly integrated and interdependent, regional economic and financial blocs will dominate international organizations and their companies will emerge as strong, globally competitive industry leaders. The European Union as a single market, with a population and economy that matches (or in some ways exceeds) the U.S. will be both a formidable threat and opportunity for the United States and U.S. based companies. As U.S. firms continue to benefit from economic integration in Europe, trade and investment disputes between the U.S. and the European Union are growing, while the membership of the European Union keeps expanding. Understanding the evolution, policies and future of the European Union will be vitally important to United States businesses whether a small export/import firm or a large U.S. multinational, as well as to Asian, Latin American and other firms who seek to grow from foreign sales, operations, and alliances and compete successfully in the EU marketplace.

- SBS-HC361 Bldg. a Client Base: Strategies and Tools

  Credits:

  1.00

  Description:

  You might be an expert in your business and have the best offering around but if you don't know how to build a client base, consistently over time, your business could fail. This course will give students a clear plan for attracting clients and customers, keeping those customers engaged and continuing to add new ones starting out and as the business matures.

- SIB-437 Strategic Context of International Business

  Prerequisites:

  Senior standing and instructor's consent required

  Credits:

  3.00

  Description:

  Business firms around the world regularly engage in strategic interactions with stakeholders and particularly with governments. These interactions allow firms not only to manage risks from adverse policies and stakeholder positions, but also to shape governmental behavior and relations with other stakeholders to enhance the creation and capture of value. At the same time, the complexity of the nonmarket environment and controversies regarding the ethics of firm behavior in this space has limited attention to this crucial element of strategy. This course will provide a framework for the analysis of the nonmarket environment across countries and the development of integrated strategies combining market and nonmarket action, from the perspective of multinational firms.

- SIB-510 Direct Study in Strategy and International Business

  Prerequisites:

  instructor's consent

  Credits:

  1.00-6.00

  Description:
Independent study allows students to expand their classroom experience by completing research in an area of interest not already covered by Suffolk courses. The student designs a unique project and finds a full-time faculty member with expertise in that topic who agrees to sponsor it and provide feedback as the proposal is refined. A well designed and executed research project broadens and/or deepens learning in a major or minor area of study and may also enhance a student's marketability to potential future employers. Students cannot register for an Independent Study until a full proposal is approved by the faculty sponsor, department chair, and academic dean. Many Independent study proposals require revisions before approval is granted; even with revisions independent study approval is NOT guaranteed. Students are strongly encouraged to submit a proposal in enough time to register for a different course if the proposal is not accepted. For complete instructions, see the SBS Independent/Directed Study Agreement and Proposal form available online.

Prerequisites:

SIB-321, Global Business Director approval required before registration

Credits:

3.00

Description:

A project-based course that entails a work experience component for juniors and seniors, and allows the student to apply international business theory in a practical context, thereby bridging the gap between education and practice. The internship must take place outside the student's primary country of residence. Thus students who are not permanent residents of the U.S. can pursue their internships in the U.S. The internship must involve at least 100 hours of work. Students are responsible for identifying and securing acceptance to an internship, which must be a minimum of 100 hours. Prior to registering for SIB 520, a student must submit to the Global Business Director a Sponsor Agreement form signed by a representative of the internship organization prior to starting the internship. A maximum of one SIB 520 internship course may also be used as a Global Business major elective. The work time required for a Global Business internship cannot also be used to fulfill the requirement for an internship course in another department. Students who register for SIB 520 should simultaneously register for SIB 560. The company offering the internship must agree to evaluate the student's performance by completing an Internship Evaluation Form. Students must find a faculty supervisor will evaluate and guide their academic work during the internship, as well as other internship-related assignments, and assign a grade upon completion of all internship requirements. Students must successfully complete both the internship and all of the academic requirements of SIB 520 in order to earn a passing grade.
