Cambridge Mayor Defends Policy

New Trustee

On Oct. 24, one of the largest student gatherings in recent memory assembled in the University auditorium to hear the second in a series of political speakers presented by the political club of Suffolk University.

The unusual amount of interest in this particular speaker was generated by his recent activities in a political campaign. The speaker was Daniel J. Sheehan, Jr., Mayor of Cambridge and eventual winner of that city's well-known "Hippie Vote" campaign.

Haley Portrait

On the afternoon of Thursday, November 26, the portrait of the late Mr. James A. Haley, former President of Suffolk University, was unveiled.

The ceremony was attended by many of Mr. Haley's former students and friends, who came to pay their respects to the former President and to remember his contributions to the University.

C.L.U. Replies

On November 27, the Board of Trustees of Suffolk University approved the appointment of a new faculty member, Dr. John A. Brown, to the position of Associate Professor of History.

The appointment was hailed by the student body as a significant step forward in the University's efforts to improve its academic offerings.

The new faculty member, Dr. Brown, is well-known for his research on the history of the United States, and his appointment is expected to bring a new level of expertise to the University's history department.

The news was welcomed by students of all disciplines, who look forward to working with Dr. Brown in the future.
Down With The New Morality

by Donald T. Turi

Sexual freedom in The New Morality has become "firmly established throughout the nation. Affairs would appear to be much more at ease and LIFE and death for us."

But can sexual freedom really be possible? Can it really exist in a world where every action is governed by logical reasons for its development and where scientific knowledge has and will prevent the spread of superstition, ignorance, and superstition? The answer to the "why?" and "how?" is that it is questionable. They should attempt to systematize sexual activity which has always existed, perhaps more clandestinely than at present, but nonetheless, not a new phenomenon.

With the advent of other reductivism, one of man's basic needs has been minimally closed over in the hope that it would be alloted to less emphasis, thought about better verbalized, why something is beautiful, healthy and as needed as sex has, for ages, been so marred, silenced and rejected falls to be understood by this writer. If not that unadulterated promiscuity as sexual behavior is being proposed, then perhaps more significant it should be altered the same understanding, the same appreciation, that other basic needs are now existing.

Much can be read in newspapers and magazines relying on the increase of sexual behavior in the United States. Statistics show that 45% of children, activists, agitators, and other sexual critics are raising children, because for they have been observed, the satisfaction of basic needs. But what is it that these critics have observed, the satisfaction of basic needs.

Certainly, no one specific can be cited because the expressions of sexual behavior are considered "normal" or abnormal, particular or universal, pleasure or sex. The idea is that there is something that is essential to the human condition, to the satisfaction of basic needs. The idea is that there is something that is essential to the human condition, to the satisfaction of basic needs.

"It is difficult to present the concept of the sexual expression in the United States, it would be better, although liberal, to propose a solution to the problem whose causes have not been fully established. This is where the north and consequences of the New Morality come in to play. This outlook on sex as something good, healthy, and beneficial, the sex has been open up for public examination. Children, especially are learning more about sex at an earlier age, and thus, the desire for sexual activities is still not fully satisfied. As they are being fulfilled and answered, the longer do they have to express and reject that which is inside and natural, the longer must parents tell their kids to leave their children to prevent them from being "morally" injured."

"It is the opinion of this editorial that the new morality of sexual expression on an enlarging, should be honestly faced, not criticized. It is believed that familiarity and understanding of sex from various sources that children's interest will be, stance, is one of the principle solutions to the sexual alleviation which we are now engaged. As individualism becomes aware that sex is not dirty and evil, most of the negative expressions of its existence will diminish. True knowledge of sex should taught a re-dimension, an alleviation from the intellectual mind of today. A respect for sex.

It would be well to keep in mind that sexual freedom does not entirely mean sexual promiscuity. It seems already seen is the manner in which it warms as a God given gift, should God have not wished sex.

THE JOURNAL

End of an Era

Well known Boston City Councilor Mrs. Katherine Cawley was the guest speaker at the first of a series of political forums to be held at livells University during the course of the year. The forums, under the auspices of the Government Department, the Young Republicans and the Government Assembly was held in the auditorium on October 28.

Mrs. Cawley, sometimes known as "angry mother," has been a tireless advocate of children's rights and the rights of children. Her efforts have been devoted to the protection of children and the prevention of child abuse. Her message to the forum was one of hope and encouragement, reminding everyone that change is possible and that it begins with each of us.

Go Team!

In the past few years, DU has experienced a surge in interest and participation in campus clubs and organizations. This growth can be attributed to a variety of factors, including increased awareness of the importance of extracurricular activities and the desire for students to engage in meaningful activities outside of the classroom. The rise in student involvement has also been fueled by the creation of new clubs and organizations and the expansion of existing ones.

Delta Sigma Pi
