Suffolk University Newsletter (SUN), vol. 21, no. 4, 1993

Suffolk University Office of Public Affairs

Follow this and additional works at: https://dc.suffolk.edu/sun

Recommended Citation
https://dc.suffolk.edu/sun/184

This Newsletter is brought to you for free and open access by the Suffolk University Publications at Digital Collections @ Suffolk. It has been accepted for inclusion in Suffolk University Newsletter (SUN) by an authorized administrator of Digital Collections @ Suffolk. For more information, please contact dct@suffolk.edu.
Commerce Secretary Brown Law Commencement Speaker

U.S. Secretary of Commerce Ronald H. Brown will deliver the commencement address at the Suffolk University Law School exercises Sunday, May 30 at 10 a.m. at the Wang Center. Some 475 graduates will receive their juris doctor degrees from President David J. Sargent.

At the exercises of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and School of Management, U.S. Marine Corps General Joseph P. Hoar, commander-in-chief of the U.S. Central Command, will give the commencement talk. Some 585 degrees are expected to be awarded at the 2:30 p.m. exercises.

Honorary doctors of law degrees will be awarded to the following at the morning exercises: Brown, Nicholas A. Buonicondi, J.D. ’68, former Patriots and Miami Dolphins football player and now vice-chairman and COO of Columbia Laboratories, Inc., Hollywood, Fla., retired Rhode Island Supreme Court Justice Thomas F. Kelleher, and Dr. Joseph E. Murray, a 1990 Nobel Prize winner and pioneer in human organ transplants.

Honorary degree recipients at the CLAS/SOM exercises will be John N. Driscoll, who received his B.S. degree from Suffolk in 1965 and is founding president, treasurer and board chairman of HNU Systems, Inc. of Newton; Carole A. Cowan, president of Middlesex Community College; Angelo N. Scangas, chairman of the board of West Lynn Creamery, Inc., and Xie Xide, former president of Fudan University in Shanghai and presently head of that school’s Center for American Studies.

Marshals for the programs will be Atty. Thomas J. Wynn, J.D. ’68, partner in Wynn & Wynn of Raynham, for the Law School grads, and Michael DeMarco of West Roxbury, B.A. ’68, J.D. ’71, for the CLAS/SOM exercises. Both Wynn and DeMarco are Summa members.

The honorary degree recipients will be introduced to Summa members at the traditional black tie dinner Saturday evening before commencement at the Park Plaza. Secretary Brown served as chairman of the Democratic National Committee before President Clinton appointed him commerce secretary. A graduate of Middlebury and trustee of that college, he also served as general counsel in the office of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

General Hoar was born in Boston and was graduated from Tufts University. He also holds a master’s degree from George Washington University. Based at MacDill Air Force Base in Florida, he most recently directed all American military operations in Somalia.

Trifiro Appointed Suffolk Trustee

Richard J. Trifiro, owner of Atlantic Management, Inc., a real estate and development and management corporation, has been appointed to a five-year term on the Suffolk University Board of Trustees, Chairman James F. Linnehan announces.

Trifiro is a 1957 graduate of Suffolk University Law School and a patron of Summa, the title conferred on donors whose pledges to Suffolk University surpass $50,000.

A long-time supporter of this institution who established the Trifiro-Sargent Scholarship Fund to assist Suffolk University Law School students, Trifiro grew up in Alston and was graduated from Boston English High School and Curry College before enrolling at Suffolk Law School.

A musician, he has performed as a trumpet soloist on national television with members of the New York Metropolitan, New York City Ballet and New York Philharmonic orchestras.

Trifiro, who owns properties throughout the east and midwest, established an alumni scholarship for some 250 Boston high school students, most of them minorities.

(continues on pg. 2)
Two veteran Suffolk University educators were honored at separate dinners recently to recognize their long-time service and dedication in their fields.

On April 21, more than 500 friends and colleagues turned out at the Park Plaza to pay tribute to Law Prof. Alexander J. Cella. It included a virtual Who's Who of the political and legal field in Massachusetts.

Eight days later at the 57 Restaurant, more than 120 colleagues of Suffolk Business Prof. Benson Diamond saluted him upon his impending retirement. With 38 years service to the institution, Diamond ranks as the senior faculty member in terms of years of service.

Cella, a member of the Law School faculty for 22 years, was recognized for his long-time service to the legal community and legal education. He has taught administrative law and legislation and has served as adviser to the Law Review and been overseer of the successful Donahue Lecture Series for a number of years.

President David J. Sargent presided at the Cella testimonial which also included remarks by former Gov. Endicott.

In his acceptance remarks, Diamond traced the history and growth of the university, lauding the outstanding young faculty in the schools. He later confessed that he was retiring with mixed emotions. "It was a warm and pleasant gathering and certainly something I'm not going to forget," he said.

Diamond, a practicing attorney long active in the town of Canton, will continue his law practice. He joined the Suffolk University faculty in 1955 after his discharge from the U.S. Air Force. He earned a management degree in 1951, an MBA from Northeastern and his law degree from Suffolk in 1963. In addition to business law, Diamond has taught accounting and management at the University.

Cella, who had served as top aide and adviser to such Massachusetts House Speakers as John F. Thompson, John F. X. Davoren and Robert H. Quinn and Senate President Maurice Donahue before starting his teaching career at Suffolk, considered the evening a tremendously memorable honor.

"I saw people I haven't seen for years and it was very touching," he said afterwards. "Hey, if you believe all those nice things that were said, you could get a big head," Cella joked.

Colleague Anthony Eonas emceed the Diamond program, which featured tributes from President David J. Sargent, Dean John F. Brennan, and Vice President/Treasurer Francis X. Flannery, who presented Diamond with a clock.

In his acceptance remarks, Diamond traced the history and growth of the university, lauding the outstanding young faculty in the schools. He later confessed that he was retiring with mixed emotions. "It was a warm and pleasant gathering and certainly something I'm not going to forget," he said.

Diamond, a practicing attorney long active in the town of Canton, will continue his law practice. He joined the Suffolk University faculty in 1955 after his discharge from the U.S. Air Force. He earned a management degree in 1951, an MBA from Northeastern and his law degree from Suffolk in 1963. In addition to business law, Diamond has taught accounting and management at the University.

Cella, who had served as top aide and adviser to such Massachusetts House Speakers as John F. Thompson, John F. X. Davoren and Robert H. Quinn and Senate President Maurice Donahue before starting his teaching career at Suffolk, considered the evening a tremendously memorable honor.

"I saw people I haven't seen for years and it was very touching," he said afterwards. "Hey, if you believe all those nice things that were said, you could get a big head," Cella joked.

Trifiro (cont. from pg. 1)

Suffolk awarded him an honorary doctor of laws degree in June of 1987 noting, "We proudly salute you for your distinguished citizenship, your business judgment, your leadership abilities, and for opening wide the doors of educational opportunity and economic mobility for deserving young men and women."

Trifiro and his wife, Rita, make their home in Natick.
Suffolk Business Education Influences

Not that we didn’t know it already, but Suffolk University’s alumni influence in education continues to grow.

Take business education for example. Twelve out of 15 members of the Massachusetts Business Educators Association hold Suffolk University degrees or affiliation.

This bit of trivia was discovered by Barbara Ash, director of business education programs at Suffolk and professor of education and human services.

Ash listed the following alumni of S.U. business education programs: Maryanne L. Andrew, teacher at Minuteman Regional High School, Lexington; Alice D. Whittaker, program director at Becker College; June M. Kelly, instructor at North Middlesex Regional High School; Linda S. Bruenjes, instructor at Bay State College; Francine M. Gannon, administrative assistant to former U.S. House Speaker Thomas P. O’Neill; Candida J. Mundo-Arboleda, bilingual teacher at the Agassiz School, Boston; Richard Green, coop instructor at Burdett School; Jane F. Welch, instructor at Middlesex Community College; Paul H. Arenburg, business teacher at Hull J/S High School; and Nancy M. Bloom, business technology instructor at Franklin High School.

In addition, Rose Ann Najarian, chair of the Office Technology Department at Bunker Hill Community College, is a lecturer in business education at Suffolk. Barbara Ash has been a member of the Suffolk faculty since 1977 and has developed both graduate and undergraduate programs in business education and office systems. She is president of MBEA and was the recipient of that group’s Business Educator of the Year in 1990, and in 1991 the Suffolk University Evening Division selected her Outstanding Faculty Member of the Year.

Silverstein New Business Law Chair in SOM

David Silverstein, an associate professor in business law, has been appointed chair of the Business Law Department, effective July 1, Dean John F. Brennan has announced.

Silverstein, who joined the SOM faculty in 1985 and was promoted to a tenure-ful professor in 1992, succeeds Benson Diamond, who is retiring after 38 years service.

A graduate of Cornell University with a bachelor of science in chemical engineering and a juris doctor degree as well, he holds a Ph.D in international business relations from Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University.

Other appointments and faculty actions include:

Suffolk Business Education Influences

Not that we didn’t know it already, but Suffolk University’s alumni influence in education continues to grow.

Take business education for example. Twelve out of 15 members of the Massachusetts Business Educators Association hold Suffolk University degrees or affiliation.

This bit of trivia was discovered by Barbara Ash, director of business education programs at Suffolk and professor of education and human services.

Ash listed the following alumni of S.U. business education programs: Maryanne L. Andrew, teacher at Minuteman Regional High School, Lexington; Alice D. Whittaker, program director at Becker College; June M. Kelly, instructor at North Middlesex Regional High School; Linda S. Bruenjes, instructor at Bay State College; Francine M. Gannon, administrative assistant to former U.S. House Speaker Thomas P. O’Neill; Candida J. Mundo-Arboleda, bilingual teacher at the Agassiz School, Boston; Richard Green, coop instructor at Burdett School; Jane F. Welch, instructor at Middlesex Community College; Paul H. Arenburg, business teacher at Hull J/S High School; and Nancy M. Bloom, business technology instructor at Franklin High School.

In addition, Rose Ann Najarian, chair of the Office Technology Department at Bunker Hill Community College, is a lecturer in business education at Suffolk. Barbara Ash has been a member of the Suffolk faculty since 1977 and has developed both graduate and undergraduate programs in business education and office systems. She is president of MBEA and was the recipient of that group’s Business Educator of the Year in 1990, and in 1991 the Suffolk University Evening Division selected her Outstanding Faculty Member of the Year.

Silverstein New Business Law Chair in SOM

David Silverstein, an associate professor in business law, has been appointed chair of the Business Law Department, effective July 1, Dean John F. Brennan has announced.

Silverstein, who joined the SOM faculty in 1985 and was promoted to a tenure-ful professor in 1992, succeeds Benson Diamond, who is retiring after 38 years service.

A graduate of Cornell University with a bachelor of science in chemical engineering and a juris doctor degree as well, he holds a Ph.D in international business relations from Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University.

Other appointments and faculty actions include:

Debaters Win National Competition

A Suffolk University debating team achieved a historic first when it captured the top spot in Lincoln-Douglas Open Debate Tournament competition held at Bloomsburg University, Bloomsburg, Pa.

Suffolk, recording its first national title in such competition, won first place in the Debate Sweepstakes segment beating out second place Ohio University and third place finisher Western Kentucky University. Some 97 teams competed including such New England institutions as Harvard, Northeastern, Emerson and Tufts.

Sarah Carroll, instructor in communication, coached the Suffolk team of Kathy Fitzpatrick of Jamaica Plain, Kristi Guanieri of Medford, Kristen Ciolek of Scituate, Guy DiGrande of Arlington and John Forde of West Roxbury. All are Suffolk seniors.

In addition to the first place finish in Debate Sweepstakes, Ciolek finished fifth as an individual quarterfinalist and DiGrande ranked ninth as an octofinalist.

The debate topic was “Term Limits for Federal Legislators.”

Joining Carroll for the competition were graduate assistant John Devine, Assistant Prof. Dick Kropp and Department Chair Ed Harris.

Fred Marchant appointed chair of the Humanities and Modern Languages Department.

Fred Wilkins reappointed chair of the English Department.

Tenure was granted to Associate Prof. Kate Nace Day of the Law School. She was also promoted to professor as were Steven Eisenstat, library director Michael J. Slinger, and Robert Wasson.

A sabbatical for the 1993-94 academic year was granted to Prof. Alexander J. Cella. Spring ’94 sabbaticals were granted to Law Profs. Stephen C. Hicks and Jeffrey D. Wittenberg.

In the School of Management, a Spring, 1994 sabbatical was granted to Suzyn Ornstein, associate professor of management.
Newsmakers

David Pfeiffer, Public Management. He has now gone over the century mark in publications, 102 to be exact. Pfeiffer passed the 100 mark in February. He considers about a third of these works referred journal articles. Another third are articles in various journals, some of which could be included as referred. The final third are technical reports, book chapters, essays and the like.

Marilyn Jurich, English. At a conference sponsored by the International Association of Fantasy in the Arts, held in Dania, Fla., she presented a paper entitled "Scheherazade's Sisters: Trickster Heroines and Their Stories in World Folk-tales." The essay will be published in 1994.

Nancy Stoll, Dean of Students. She was a panelist at the recent conference of the National Association of Student Personnel Administration held in Boston. They discussed the value of think tanks as a professional development model. Stoll also was on stage for the American College Personnel Association's national conference in Kansas City. She's secretary and a member of the association's executive council.

Margaret Collins Weitz, Humanities and Modern Languages. She's been awarded a grant from the Camargo Foundation for the Fall semester. She'll be housed at the Foundation in Cassis, France to revise a book manuscript. Weitz wrote the historical introduction for Book of the Month and History Book Club "Outwitting the Gestapo," a translation of Lucie Auber's activities in the French Resistance.

Gail Coffler, English. Her paper, "Literature and Dogma: Contrary Forces in Melville's Billy Budd Sailor," was presented at the sea literature session of the American Culture Association's annual conference held in New Orleans early in April.

Steven Spitzer, Sociology. He gave a talk on "Guns and Roses: Sex, Violence and Gender in American Crime Films" at Wellesley College on April 5. Presenting an hour of film clips, Spitzer chronicled the development of the crime film, beginning with the 1932 classic Scarface to the current Thelma and Louise. Others discussed included the Jimmy Cagney classic White Heat, Psycho and the Silence of the Lambs.

Sarah M. Carroll, Communications and Journalism. She presented a paper "The NFA's L D Approach to Return Tournament Debate to the Public Arena" at a developmental conference sponsored by Pi Kappa Delta at University of Puget Sound March 16-20. The paper was co-authored by Prof. Carroll and Prof. Ed Harris.

Sanjiv Jaggia, Economics. His co-authored paper, "Multiple Bids as a Consequence of Target Management Resistance: A Count Data Approach," was accepted for publication in the Review of Quantitative Finance and Accounting.

Victoria Dodd, Law School. Prof. Dodd is chairperson of the Law and Education Section of the Association of American Law Schools. A Mass. Bar Foundation fellow, Dodd recently served as an IOLTA grant monitor.

Bette Mandl, English. She served as a respondent at the seventh annual Irish Studies Conference held in March at Boston College and Harvard University.

Ken Garni, Counseling Center. He's been invited to be the keynote speaker at the annual meeting of the Maine Student Services Association at the University of New England in Biddeford, Me. May 19. He'll talk on "The Effects of Legal and Ethical Issues on the Practice of Psychology."

John C. Berg, Government. He was the Massachusetts contributor to a 50-state survey on the publication, Redistricting in the 1980s, produced by the Rose Institute of State and Local Government, Claremont, Calif. and the only nation-wide survey of the process as it happened during the 1980s.

Kathleen Barber, Law Placement. The Massachusetts Superior Court invited her to conduct a job search strategy workshop on April 16 for the judicial law clerks soon to complete their terms.

Robert K. Johnson, English. He delivered a reading of his many poems at the Newton Library and his name was featured in a Boston Globe Calendar section on such activity in the Boston area.

Frances Amatucci, Management. She presented a paper at the Fifth International Conference of the Society for the Advancement of Socioeconomics in New York City. The paper, "Sociocultural and Managerial Issues Associated with U.S. Russian Business Ventures" was included as part of the Faculty Seminar Series at Suffolk.

Michael Rustad, Law Faculty. The National Law Journal, in its March 29 issue discussing punitive damages, cited his 1991 study that showed that from 1965 to 1990, there were 355 punitive damage awards in product liability cases and about half of them were reduced on appeal. The study will be published this summer.
Rent-A-Car Pact with Avis

The University has entered into a corporate rate agreement with Avis-Rent-a-Car, which can be used for business or personal use, providing considerable cost savings and includes such benefits as free unlimited mileage and free loss damage waiver low insurance.

Annette G. Gentile, assistant manager or our business office, said that reservations under this new program must be made through the 1-800 numbers provided by Avis. For more information or to request an Avis discount sticker providing all the necessary reservation information, contact Gentile at X8406 or pick up a reservation card at the Business Office at One Beacon St.

3 Honored for Safety Efforts

Three University employees were recently honored by President Sargent at a luncheon for their efforts on behalf of the Suffolk University Environment, Safety and Health Program.

Ralph Getchell, senior maintenance mechanic for the Physical Plant, was cited for his work as chairperson of the Physical Plant Safety Committee and helping to identify and correct potential hazards to the workplace.

George Patterson, professor of chemistry, was recognized for helping to implement new laboratory and safety and hazardous waste management procedures thus insuring the safety of students and employees as well as designing a computer inventory of lab chemicals and hazardous waste, saving the University $2000 in hazardous waste removal costs.

Edward Colburn, technical director, C. Walsh Theatre, was honored for identifying and implementing appropriate corrective action for hazards unique to theater environments and ensuring the safety of theater goers.

New Employees

Boisseau, Tracy J. of Andover. Instructor in History.
Bettencourt, Mary D. of Charlestown. Counselor in Admissions.
Codianni, Margaret E. of Brighton. Staff asst. Math and Comp. Sciences.
Duggan, Michael B. of Melrose. Director, Enrollment Mgt.
Levinson, Deborah of Somerville, graphic designer, UMS.
Love, Shirley of Newton. Visiting professor, SOM.
Lyon, Ann M. of West Roxbury, Secretary, Student Accounts.
Matavaz, Marie A. of Charlestown. Coordinator Public Mgt.
O’Brien, Helen of Wrentham. Director, SOM.
Rau, Lori A. of Milton. Secretary, Development.
Sergenian, Gail of Boston. asst. professor, Accounting.
Sykes, Richard of Charlestown. Secretary Law School.
Singletary, Joy R. of Boston. DP asst. Graduate Admissions.
Wilson, Celeste M. of Bedford, manager, C.Walsh Theatre.
Personnel (cont.)

Fitness Services Available

In case you are not aware of it, there are several fitness centers on our campus. The University Fitness Center, located on the second floor of the Ridgeway Building, is available to all employees at no cost Monday to Saturday. It is equipped with cardiovascular and strength training equipment as well as full locker facilities.

Up the street at One Beacon, the Fitcorp Center offers an innovative mix of exercises and wellness programs. The Fitcorp Centers are equipped with cardiovascular and muscle conditioning equipment as well as locker and shower facilities.

Fitcorp offers special membership rates to Suffolk employees who are Harvard Community Health Plan members. The initiation fee is $50 (regularly $100) and the monthly fee is $67 (regularly $79). During the week of May 17, Fitcorp is holding an open house. You can work out at no cost that week, and in addition, if you decide to join Fitcorp during the month of May, your initiation fee will be waived.

Have You Met?

Ron Occeus

He's the senior purchasing clerk in Suffolk's Business Office and has been employed there for five years. Born in Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, the 32-year old Occeus came to Boston as a youngster, was graduated from Boston English High School, then enlisted in the Navy. He served seven years and saw a lot of the world including Lebanon, Greece, Italy and many more sites. He was preparing to move to San Diego upon discharge when a close friend told him about Suffolk University and its opportunities. Ron is now a CLAS senior majoring in communications with emphasis on public relations and would like to seek a master of education in counseling after graduation.

Job Responsibilities - I'm sort of a liaison between the Business Office and outside vendors as well as departments within the University. I deal frequently with the vendors, process purchasing orders and negotiate with companies with bills due.

Toughest Part of the Job - Dealing with vendors with tough attitudes and making sure check requests are on time. It takes a lot of diplomacy and public relations effort and it helps that P.R. is my major. You have to keep everyone happy. Busiest days are Wednesdays and Thursdays with check requests. One of the problems is getting people to follow procedures and keep them from cutting corners. It's no easy task and you have problems no matter how many seminars you have to educate people.

Most Rewarding Part of Job - The office personnel with whom I work. They are good people. Working with Paul Ryan, Annette Gentile and Dayna Antenucci is like family. They make me feel wanted and I have no hesitation talking to them if I have a problem. Every day is pleasant and because of this I never mind getting up and coming to work.

Challenges - Responding to the challenges Paul Ryan, the business manager, gives to me such as special projects, which broaden my responsibilities and show that I can handle them.

Typical Day - I arrive at work about 8:15 a.m., unwind, talk sports, the Celtics and keep things light, then get to work.

There is a lot doing on Mondays, billing day, with the phone constantly ringing and people asking questions.

Favorite Suffolk Memory - The Suffolk staff basketball game when I was playing on one team and Admission Director Bill Coughlin on the other. He bumped me hard during play, but nobody saw it, and later when I retaliated the crowd got on me figuring I was picking on an old man. Little do they know what good shape Bill is in and to this day I still kid him about the incident.

Hobbies and Personal Data - I love sports, run 10 miles every weekend, don't smoke and am a moderate drinker. I have a woman friend, Shannon Barry, a Tufts grad, now in Wisconsin, whom I've been seeing for about three and a half years. I like jazz, particularly the music of the late Miles Davis, singing of Anita Baker and the Chinese jazz group Hiroshima. I like college basketball better than pro basketball and rarely watch television. And I love Suffolk and am considered a social butterfly because I try to make all the functions happening in school.
Potpourri

by Lou Connelly

Some 8000 aspirants left the starting post in Hopkinton for the running of the famed Boston Marathon on Patriot's Day. About half that number finished some hours later among the finishers were a host of Suffolk-affiliated runners, our astute observer, Jim Nelson of Athletics informed us. Okay, take a bow S.U. runners: Police Lt. John Pagliarulo, finishing his third marathon and in a time of 4 hours, 51 minutes; Suffolk senior Lou Greenwald, Basketball Grad Assistant Tim Collins Jr. and his Dad, Tim Sr., S.U. '67; Law students Juan Bello and Nogah Bicher, and former Hockey Co-Capt. John Pigott...

Recently feted Al Cella is remembered by many for his efforts in researching the infamous Sacco-Vanzetti trial among them former Gov. Michael Dukakis, who was unable to attend the Cella dinner but delivered his and Kitty Dukakis' wishes via a letter. "He (Al Cella) kindled my interest in the case, encouraged me to read more about it and had a lot to do with my decision during my first term as governor to issue a proclamation on the 50th anniversary of their execution deploiring the unfairness, the ethnic prejudice and the shocking lack of due process that ultimately sent them to their deaths," wrote Dukakis. He added that Cella "inspired thousands of other young people as he did me in my early years at the State House." Suffolk photographer John Gillooly got a rare photo when he caught former Gov. Chub Peabody and Frank Bellotti in a pose with Cella. [See Page Three]. Peabody and Bellotti were bitter rivals a few decades ago when Bellotti unseated Peabody in a Democratic primary for governor.

The popularity and prestige of Veep/Treasurer Frank Flannery was evidenced by the huge turnout at a reception at One Beacon Street marking his 60th birthday on April 6...

Congratulations to the 1993 recipients of the Intercultural Initiative Awards on campus: Margaret Collins Weitz of Humanities and Modern Languages, Donna Schmidt of Student Activities, Sociology senior Javier Pagan and 1988 MBA Alumnus James Clark...

Law School faculty who knew him were saddened to learn of the death of former adjunct professor John Morley, who taught the basic patent law course here about a decade ago. Morley, a 1963 Law School graduate and CLAS'55, was a patent attorney at the Gillette Company at the time of his passing...

Laurie Pant, associate professor of accounting in SOM, presented a 90-minute panel session to accounting faculty from throughout the Northeast in New York City March 26 and 27. The seminar, sponsored by Prentice Hall and for educators, considered the subject from concepts to practice...

Fran Burke of Public Management was host to Jozsef Kajdi, chief secretary to the Prime Minister of Hungary and senior economic counselor Csilla Gelenzei in a visit sponsored by the U.S. Department of State. Burke reminds us that this is the 20th anniversary of SOM's master in public administration program...

Society Page News: Maureen Lovely of the Law School Financial Aid Office is engaged to Jim McInerney of Needham, and another Financial Aid staffer, Tamie Kears, will wed Michael Rich of Winthrop on June 12. Derek Culp of the Law Library and Lori Zizza of Lynnfield, a banquet captain at the Peabody Marriott, are planning a March, '94 wedding. Lisa M. Orlandino of MIS will marry Robert G. McGlone of Hingham in October of 1994, and Brenda Palazzo, Law School secretary, will wed Manny Amorin of Cambridge, B.S.B.A., '87 at Sacred Heart Church in East Cambridge with reception to follow at the Royal Sonesta...

Our sympathies this month to Board Chairman Jim Linnehan on the passing of his brother, Msgr. John J. Linnehan, pastor of St. Agnes Church, Arlington, and to Suffolk Police Corporal Paul Curran on the loss of his father, James J. Curran, of West Roxbury...

Congratulations to Susan Keefe, secretary in History/Philosophy and hubby Pat on the birth of their daughter, Jenelle, who weighed in at 8 pounds, 8 ounces April 5...

Paul Tanklefsky of Career Planning memos us that 70 employers took part in the annual coop job fair, up some 25 per cent from last year with more than 600 students attending the two events...

(cont. on pg. 8)
Potpourri
(cont. from pg. 7)

C. Walsh Theatre has some attractive programs coming up. On May 21 and 22 at 8 p.m. Caitlin Corbett Dance will present an exciting concert, and on Sunday, May 2 at 4 p.m. the Counseling Center will present a benefit performance of "Terezin, Children of the Holocaust," a moving effort with part of the proceeds going to FACE-TO-FACE. Then on June 3, 4, 5, 10, 11, and 12 an original play, "Black Cat and White Lies," will have a premiere at 8 p.m. Call Celeste Wilson at X8581 for details...

The Advanced Legal Studies Office will present a pair of interesting programs, the first, Admiralty Law for the G.P. May 21 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Mass. Maritime Academy and the second, Highlights and Sidelights of Torts at the Omni Billmore in Providence from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. A panel of top legal experts has been assembled for both events. Call Carole Wagan for ticket information...

John Berg of Government has been reappointed to serve another three-year term on the Washington Center's Liaison Advisory Board, the center for internships and academic seminars...

Ebba Legaspi of President Sargent's Office, has been named to the latest edition of "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges."

Morris McInnes and Gail Sergenian of Accounting proudly presented the 1993 Outstanding Student in Accounting to the Boston Chapter of the Financial Executives Institute at a dinner ceremony April 13 at the Newton Marriott. She is Lori Bregoli, entering her senior year and pursuing a career in health care. She has a 3.9 cumulative average...

A SUN beam this month on Suffolk Alum Dick Godfrey of Quincy, B.A. '69, one of two people nation-wide to receive the first "Visions for Tomorrow Award" from the Schepens Eye Research Institute, affiliated with Harvard Medical School. Godfrey, an ex-basketball and baseball player at Suffolk, volunteers many hours a week at the institute, which conducts scientific research on major blinding eye diseases. Godfrey, himself, is visually impaired, losing his central vision to macular degeneration, a retinal disease, presently incurable...

She's been sorely missed this semester so it's nice to see Gerry Manning back for the summer semesters after a tough bout with respiratory problems...

She's already been seen in the new Robert DiNiro film, "This Boy's Life," but her upcoming film, "That Night," due to be released in July, will cast Eliza Dushku, daughter of Government's Judy Dushku, in a major role, that of a 10-year old growing up in New York. Eliza, who plays DiNiro's daughter in "This Boy's Life," has seen the movie several times. "And each time at the end of the movie when the lights in the theater go on, she spots friends watching and applauding her," laughed her proud Mom...

Joe Walsh and his Suffolk baseball team closed out the 1993 season in as good a setting as you could find - Abner Doubleday Field in Cooperstown, N.Y. near the Baseball Hall of Fame. The Rams lost to Boston University 14-3...

College Registrar Mary Hefron and some 25 Spanish students studying at Suffolk were among the invited guests at a Ritz-Carlton reception hosted by King Juan Carlos and Queen Sophia of Spain when they were in Boston recently. Mary has been in Madrid a number of times in connection with the program between Suffolk and Madrid...

The Government Department has received a $2000 OPTIONS program grant to launch a series of faculty lectures to community groups on foreign affairs...

The Rhode Island Legislature has elected Suffolk alum Victoria S. Lederberg to that state's Supreme Court. A 1976 graduate of the Law School, who sits as a Municipal Court judge and is a psychology teacher at Rhode Island College, she is believed to be the first alum to be elected to that state's high court...

Hope your summer is a pleasant one. See you in July at the Myopia for some polo.