40 To Be Honored At Deans' Reception

Forty long-time University faculty and staff will be honored at the annual Deans' Reception to be held Saturday, Oct. 16 at the Museum of Fine Arts.

This contingent, made up of three 30-year employees, 15 20-year people and 22 who have served the University for 10 years, is the largest group to be honored since the Deans' Reception was instituted decades ago.

Athletics Director Jim Nelson, who chairs the University social committee, said the reception will run from 6 to 9 p.m. with a ceremony to honor the special guests beginning at 7 p.m.

Receiving Suffolk rocking chairs for 30 years service will be College Registrar Mary A. Hefron, and Law Professors Alvan Brody and Brian T. Callahan.

Honored with captions that number in the thousands, are: John Schatz, director of the Suffolk University Legal Assistance Bureau; Robert DiGuardia, director of Management Information Services, Nancy Fine, associate director of Undergraduate Admissions; Peter Sartwell, assistant dean in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences; Joan MacVicar, professor, Counseling Center; R. Arthur Winters, associate professor of Education and Human Services; Susan Scott, senior program analyst in Management Information Services; Joseph McCarthy, professor in Education and Human Services; Judy Minardi, director of Human Resources; and Law Professors Bernard Keenan; Valerie Epps; Bernard Ortwein; Gerard Clark; R. Lisle Baker; and Charles Burnim.

The following 10-year employees will receive pen and pencil sets for their service: John Pagliarulo, captain, University Police; Paul Tinklefsky, director of Career Services and Cooperative Education; Jonathan Frank, associate professor, CIS; Peter Caputo, associate professor, English; Myra Lerman, director, Dean's Office SOM; Geraldine Manning, associate professor of Sociology; Linda Fentimen, professor, Law School; Robert Rosenthal, associate professor, Communications and Journalism; Robert Wasson, professor, Law School; Shahriz Mohtadi, associate professor, Economics; Peter Porcello, director in Management Information Services; Joseph Middleton, librarian, Sawyer Library; Lisa Keaney, manager in Development; Annette Gentile, assistant business manager, Business Office; Paula DeGloria, senior program analyst, Management Information Services; Mary Lally, associate registrar, College Registrar’s Office; Marilyn Wilcke, director of University Media Services; Mary McDonough, senior program analyst, Management Information Services; Charles Rounds, professor, Law School; Nizamettin Aydin, associate professor, Marketing; Lorraine Foster, data processing assistant, College Admissions; Andrea McEachern, computer operator, Management Information Services.

Deans Paul R. Sugarman of the Law School, Michael R. Ronayne of CLAS and John F. Brennan of SOM will greet the guests upon their arrival at the museum. A highlight of the evening will be the Age of Rubens display of paintings by the foremost Flemish painter of the 17th century.

Suffolk Trustee Thomas R. Walsh
Dead At 57

Suffolk University's community was saddened to learn of the death of Thomas R. Walsh, a University trustee and benefactor to the institution. Mr. Walsh, chairman and chief executive officer of C. Walsh, Inc., Movers, was 57.

Mr. Walsh, who lived in Canton, had been a Suffolk trustee since 1983. He was a member of the Building Committee, the Honorary Degree Committee, the Development Committee, the School of Management Committee and the Student Affairs Committee.

Suffolk's C. Walsh Theatre on Temple Walk was named for Walsh's father, Cecil Walsh and the foyer for his mother, Ann. The complete renovation was made possible by a generous gift by Tom Walsh.

Mr. Walsh died Sept. 24 at Massachusetts General Hospital following a short illness. His funeral was held at the United Church of Christ in Canton with burial in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

He leaves his wife, Laura, (Freeman) Walsh, two sons, William F. Walsh of Quincy, and Thomas R. Walsh Jr. of Canton, a brother, Frederick C. Walsh of Quincy, and a granddaughter.
S.U. Reaccredited Through 2002

The New England Association of Schools and Colleges has extended the University's accreditation through the year 2002 following Suffolk's self-study and a report by a team that visited campus.

"The scheduling of the next comprehensive evaluation in the Fall of 2002 is consistent with NEASC policy requiring each accredited institution to undergo a comprehensive visit at least once every 10 years," President Sargent said in announcing the extension.

The accrediting commission commended the University for "its strong commitment to community service and for the dedication and success of its highly qualified faculty and student services personnel in meeting the needs of an increasingly diverse clientele."

It also lauded Suffolk for "maintaining its fiscal stability at this difficult economic period for higher education in New England."

President Sargent praised the efforts of Dean Michael R. Ronayne, chair of the Self-Study Steering Committee, and Associate Dean David Robbins, convener of the Self-Study Committee, and their colleagues and invited members of the University community to review the report, copies of which are available in the CLAS Dean's Office and Sawyer Library.

International Ed. Center Established At Suffolk

President David J. Sargent has announced the establishment of a Center for International Education.

In an announcement to the University community, Sargent pointed out that in recent years the number of international students at Suffolk has more than doubled with more than 300 students from 62 countries enrolled and the number is expected to continue to grow.

With that in mind, Sargent said he has established the center and that it will operate under the management of Margaret J. Dennis, dean of enrollment and retention management. He said the director of international programs will report to Dean Dennis and coordinate all of Suffolk's international activities. Margaret Lorent, who previously worked at Harvard's International Office, has been appointed to that position.

A University-wide committee made up of faculty has been appointed to address the needs of these students and programs.

S.U. Steps Up Its Suburban Recruiting

The University Undergraduate Admissions Office is intensifying its recruiting in the suburbs, targeting 25 Greater Boston communities under represented in the past, Associate Dean of Enrollment and Retention Management Barbara Ericson reports.

In addition to an expansion of traditional recruiting activities, the Office of Enrollment and Retention Management is coordinating a long-term effort to increase the school's reputation and recognition in the suburbs.

"All faculty, staff and alumni who live in one of the 'priority' communities are encouraged to help by advising the Enrollment Management or Public Relations Office of any activities, publications or community services which they would be willing to have publicized in their city or town," Ericson said.

Tuition Increases Level Off, Reports AICUM

College tuitions have leveled off and today, 25 per cent of AICUM members, including Suffolk University, have 1993-94 tuitions below $10,000 according to a report from the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities in Massachusetts.

The report noted that tuitions were increasing much more rapidly in the late 80s, but are now stabilizing in the 6 to 7 per cent range and have been at that level for three years.

In a news release, AICUM noted that the average 1993-94 tuition and fees among members is $13,203 and that one-fourth or 13 schools are less than $10,000 this year, three-fifths or 36 schools, less than $15,000.

Released at the same time as the annual College Board survey of college costs nationwide, the AICUM survey reports that Massachusetts average tuition and fees for 2 and 4 year private colleges and universities are comparable with the rest of the country.

Clare Cotton, AICUM president, observed, "Despite the enormous costs of running a college or university and an ongoing inflationary economy, Massachusetts colleges have done their utmost to keep tuitions down in recent years." He blamed the high costs of living in this area for it having among the highest tuitions in the nation.

Suffolk's tuition for 1993-94 is $9,800. Suffolk University is one of 56 member institutions of AICUM.
New Faces On Campus

Law School

Marie Ashe, visiting professor of law. She has been teaching law since 1982 and served on the faculties of B.U. School of Law, B.C. Law School and the University of Nebraska College of Law, and West Virginia University College of Law. Received her B.A. from Clark University in 1966, and M.A. from Tufts in 1971 and a J.D. with honors from University of Nebraska in 1979. Former staff attorney with the Nebraska Advocacy Service, she will teach in the areas of criminal law, constitutions and clinical practice.

Rosanna Cavallaro, assistant professor of law. Received her A.B. magna cum laude from Harvard College in 1983 and her J.D. magna cum laude from Harvard Law School in 1986. A former assistant attorney general for the Commonwealth, she formerly served as an associate with the law firm of Peckham, Lobel, Casey, Prince & Tye in Boston and the office of Alan M. Dershowitz in Cambridge. She'll teach in the areas of criminal procedure and professional responsibility.

Stephen Michael McJohn, assistant professor of law. A former visiting assistant professor of law at IIT Chicago-Kent College of Law, he received his B.A. in 1981 from Northwestern University and his J.D. magna cum laude in 1985 from Northwestern University School of Law. He also studied German law in a program administered by the German Academic Exchange Service. He served with the law firm of Latham & Watkins in Chicago before teaching at Chicago-Kent. McJohn will teach in the areas of commercial law and law and economics.

Linda Sandstrom Simard, assistant professor of law. She has been a litigation associate with the Boston law firm of Hale and Dorr since 1990 and her responsibilities include all aspects of domestic and international civil litigation. Received her B.S. cum laude in 1986 from the University of Delaware and her J.D. magna cum laude and Order of the Coif from B.C. Law School. She is a former law clerk to Justice William G. Young of the U.S. District Court in Massachusetts. She'll teach in the areas of civil procedure and federal courts.

(Cont. on pg. 4)

30 Years Reflection

Mary A. Hebron: "Those 30 years went awfully fast, and I've really enjoyed them. They gave me a lot of fond memories - back when the school was smaller and people were closer. Those were my happiest moments, parties, the Newman Club, Miss Suffolk and so many terrific students who still come back today. The thing I've enjoyed most of my Suffolk career is the interaction I've had with students and staff. Things have changed a lot, but realistically, you have to change to stay afloat. We've had good leadership, didn't take big risks and it's paid off. I just hope that the University never forgets why it's here and its obligation to the urban student."

Alvan Brody, Professor of Law. "Thirty years! It sure doesn't seem that long. It seems like just yesterday that I became the eighth member of the Suffolk faculty back when Fred McDermott was dean and I had been teaching at Case Western Reserve. I had also taught at Rutgers and Louisiana State University. There have been tremendous changes and improvement in everything, quality and quantity, and the school has achieved recognition and reputation. Some of my memories? In the early days, I remember having 600 exams to grade and I can also remember teaching class and competing with jack hammers during construction of the Donahue Building. I've enjoyed it and hope the next 30 are as pleasant..

Brian T. Callahan, Professor of Law. "A long, long time but very enjoyable years. When I came here in 1963 right after Al Brody, our Dean was Fred McDermott, who worked so hard for our accreditation and was a man I'll never forget. Nor will I forget friends like Al Maleson and Jack Nolan, who counseled me. Before coming here I was with the Boston law firm of Hutchins and Wheeler and taught part-time at B.U. Law School. I had graduated from Boston College Law School and clerked for Chief Justice R. Sanger Wilkins of the Supreme Judicial Court. One of my fondest recollections is having co-chaired Suffolk's initial Public Defenders Program in Somerville District Court. My greatest satisfaction has been the collegiality and friendships developed here. Suffolk University Law School is as good as any law school in the country. It has long made itself available to those with limited funds but quality people. I hope that tradition continues. As for me, I'll teach for a few more years but quit before the onset of senility."
New Faces
On Campus (cont.)

The Law School has also added two new instructors in the Legal Practice Skills Program, Terry Jean Selligman, a 1974 graduate of New York University School of Law and editor of the N.Y.U. Law Review, and Yvonne A. Tamayo, a 1977 graduate of Loyola School of Law. And Martha Siegel has been appointed director of the Legal Practice Skills.

College of Liberal Arts and Sciences

Carolyn Boyes-Watson, visiting assistant professor of sociology. A 1978 graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, magna cum laude with a degree in sociology, she received her Ph.D from Harvard University in 1991. Previously taught at Harvard where she was director of sociology and most recently was visiting assistant professor at Wheaton College.

James Hannon, assistant professor of sociology. Holds a B.S. in psychology from Georgetown University and a Ph.D in sociology from University of Wisconsin-Madison. Has been an adjunct assistant professor of sociology at Suffolk and Central State University and visiting assistant professor at Dartmouth, Clark, Holy Cross and the Kennedy School of Government.

Paul McCormack, visiting assistant professor of physics and engineering. A magna cum laude graduate of University College Dublin, he received a master of science in electrical engineering from UMass/Lowell and recently completed Ph.D requirements at Tufts University. Has taught at Tufts and UMass/Lowell.

School of Management

Susan Atherton, visiting associate dean. She had been associate dean at Fordham University School of Business. She will be coordinating all reaccreditation matters in the next two years. Before joining Fordham, she spent five years as administrator for the Ph.D program at New York University’s Business School and before that was an administrative assistant at the Sloan School of Management at M.I.T. She received a bachelor’s degree in education in history from the University of Alberta in Canada, an M.B.A. from N.Y. U.’s Stern School of Business and an M.A. in curriculum development from Tufts.

Richard H. Beinecke, assistant professor in health administration. Most recently senior research associate at Brandeis University, he has a B.A. in political science from Williams College, an M.A. in social administration from the University of Chicago, and his D.P.A. in public administration and health care administration from George Washington University. He will help staff the new health programs introduced this Fall.

James Angelini, associate professor of accounting and taxation. Has been assistant professor of accounting at Northeastern University. He will be involved in the expansion of the master of science in taxation program. Has a B.S. with honors in accounting and M.B.A. from Babson College. He has a Ph.D in Business Administration from University of Houston.

S.V. Vasudevan, assistant professor of finance. He has been teaching finance and working on his Ph.D at New York University. He taught finance during the summer at Suffolk.

Gopala Vasudevan, assistant professor of finance. Most recently assistant professor of finance at Boston College, he holds a B.A. in economics from Swarthmore College, an M.B.A. in finance from the University of Michigan, and a Ph.D in financial economics from the Sloan School of Management.

Richard H. Beinecke

Gopala Vasudevan

Student Services

Louis Pelleggrino, assistant director of student activities. He comes to Suffolk from Marist College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., where he worked in residence life and student activities. He received a B.A. in sociology from University of Connecticut, and an M.S. in college student personnel administration from Indiana University.

Jeannette Hixon, assistant director for special programs. She has been working in student activities at Boston University and Northeastern for the past three years and coordinated various student activities. She earned her B.S. in political science from UMass/Dartmouth and an M.Ed from Northeastern. She is New England region volunteer coordinator for the National Association of Campus Activities.

S.U./Russia
In Educational Link

The University recently entered into an agreement with the International University in Moscow for a joint degree program, Marguerite J. Dennis, dean of enrollment and retention management, announced.

Under the program, Russian students will be able to transfer to Suffolk after two years and have all credits transferred.

"In addition, Suffolk University students and faculty are welcome at International University in Moscow as exchange students and scholars," Dennis pointed out.

Suffolk had previously instituted similar arrangements in China and Spain.
Paul Korn, University Counseling Center. He’s been elected to a two-year term as president of the Society Organized Against Racism in Higher Education, Inc. (SOAR), a group made up of 28 colleges and universities in the Northeast. For more than a decade this organization has been addressing the problem of racism and discrimination on campuses. They do it through meetings, newsletters and networking. Members of the Suffolk community interested in getting involved should contact Korn at X8226, Rose Wright at X8667 or Sharon Artis Jackson at X8613.

John Pagliarulo, University Police. He’s been promoted to captain and will continue to be responsible for overseeing the day-to-day operations of the department. Pagliarulo has been with the University since 1982. He graduated from the Mass. State Police Academy’s Campus Program and received a bachelor’s degree from Boston State College and an MBA from Suffolk.

M. Colleen Jones, Management. She was the runnerup award winner in the best dissertation competition in the Women in Management Division at the August meeting of the Academy of Management in Atlanta, Ga. Her dissertation was entitled “Learning to Lead; A Study of the Developmental Paths of African-American Women College Presidents. As a result of the presentation, she expects to continue research with the Center for Creative Leadership in Greensboro, N.C.

Morris McInnes, Accounting. He visited the Nanyang Technological University of Singapore in late August as a lecturer and consultant. Based on ongoing research, his talks dealt with budgetary control, corporate social responsibility and strategic management. He conducted two MBA classes and met with deans and department heads.

Edward G. Hartmann, professor emeritus History. He was an honored guest at the dedication of a plaque honoring Thomas Jefferson and other Welsh signers of the Declaration of Independence. It was held at Llangeri in North Wales and recognized the 250 years anniversary of Jefferson’s birth. Hartmann was marking his 17th and 18th trips across the Atlantic since the end of World War II when he served for two years as the 90th Infantry Division’s historian with Patton’s Third Army.

Edward L. Bubnys, Finance. He is scheduled to chair and be a paper discussant at the 23rd annual meeting of the Financial Management Association in Toronto Oct. 14-16.

Frances Amatucci, Management. During the summer, she served as an instructor in a two-week management education program in Petrozavodsk, the capital of Karelia, a northern republic in Russia. She developed a seminar “How Successful Managers Think and Operate” in the program sponsored by the Transnational Institute in Vermont and the International Relations Department, Office of the Mayor in Petrozavodsk. The program was held in the “Palace of Children’s Creativity,” which also houses the Russian manufacturing facility and first Russian “scoop shop” of Ben & Jerry’s Ice Cream.

Steve Patterson, Chemistry. Chemical Education Resources, Inc. has published his general chemistry laboratory experimententitled “Preparing Tris(2,4-pentanedionato) iron (III) and Iron Coordination Complex.

Lori Rosenberg, Sociology. She and Northeastern University’s Gordana Rabrenovic co-presented a paper at a roundtable discussion entitled “The Impact of Education on Community Development” at the American Sociological Association’s annual meeting in Miami Beach in August.

Sally Landis, Law Faculty. She recently won a commutation of sentence for Patricia Allen, one of the so-called “Framingham Eight” who are incarcerated for killing their partners who had abused them. The Governor’s Council voted to commute Allen’s manslaughter sentence and free her. It favorably concludes a two-year project for Landis, a member of the Board of Directors of Battered Women Fighting Back.
Here's The Big Scoop On Charitable Campaign

As a thank you to the many contributors to the 1993 Charitable Giving Campaign, now underway, Human Resources is sponsoring a Suffolk Big Scoop on Thursday, Nov. 4 from 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Sawyer 308. And as a special treat, Vice President/Treasurer Frank Flannery and other Suffolk personalities will roll up sleeves to scoop ice cream for you to make your own sundaes.

Human Resources' Dan McDonald reminds faculty and staffers who haven't sent in pledge cards to bring them when you stop in for the Big Scoop. "This year's prizes are better than ever," he pointed out. You may win a Suffolk captain's chair donated by the bookstore or dinner for two at the Bay Tower and an overnight stay at the Hotel Meridian."

McDonald urges donors to have pledge cards in the Human Resources Office or at the Big Scoop event to be eligible for the prizes. President Sargent will draw the winning names.

Health Plan News

The John Hancock Preferred Plan has announced that effective Sept. 1, Children's Hospital in Boston became a Hancock Preferred provider. Although many of the current network providers have privileges at Children's Hospital, complete physician recruitment has not yet been completed.

The Harvard Community Health Plan announces it has formed a new affiliation with Lahey Clinic in Burlington starting Jan. 1. Burlington Center members will have access to expanded and more convenient healthcare services. A number of Lahey Clinic specialists and internists will begin practicing at the Burlington Center.

On Oct. 1, the cost of the Delta Dental Plan increased from $6.76 to $7.40 per month for individual coverage and $19.76 to $21.52 for family coverage. As Vice President Flannery announced in an earlier memorandum, an "Add-Drop" period will be held once each year in conjunction with the plan anniversary date (Oct. 1). At that time, you can elect participation in the dental plan if you are not already participating or discontinue your coverage if you are, but no longer want to participate. If you drop coverage, you must remain off the plan before being able to re-enter. Call Dan or Lisa in Human Resources if you have any questions.

TIAA And UNUM

Total interest rates (guaranteed plus dividend) credited on TIAA accumulating annuities decreased slightly for contributions made after July 1. The rate fell from 7.25% to 7.00% on regular retirement annuities. For contributions made in prior years to TIAA or for the most recent CREF account returns, call 1-800-223-1290.

UNUM Life Insurance Co. announced that effective Oct. 1, the new rate of interest will be 5.9%. A new rate will be established on Jan. 1.

Fitness Update

A reminder to fitness devotees: You can now get fit or stay fit at either the Suffolk University Fitness Center in the Ridgeway Building or join Fitcorp at a 15% discount off the standard membership fee. Fitcorp is located at One Beacon St.

Personnel

Staff, Management Programs Set

Human Resources Director Judy Minardi has announced that the staff and management development programs for the Fall term will kick off on Oct. 20 with a program for support staff who supervise student staff. Supervising Student Staff will cover techniques on orienting, motivating and delegating to student staff. Paper work requirements for hiring student staff will also be covered. Details are outlined in an upcoming booklet.

Minardi also reported that the ever-popular computer programs will be offered. The schedule: PC Basics, Oct. 13, Intro to Lotus/Quattro, Oct. 14, Intro to Inform, Oct. 19, EMAIL Basics, Oct. 20, Beginner's Wordmarc, Oct. 26, and Advanced EMAIL, Oct. 26. Most sessions will be repeated in November and December.

To accommodate administrative requests, a new group of programs have been added for managerial and administrative staff. Called The Supervisors Network, four programs will be offered during lunch hours in an informal atmosphere. The first will be held Oct. 29 and is entitled The Selection Interview. There will also be a day-long program in January on WIN-WIN Negotiation. More details on that program, taught by Magid Mazen of SOM, will be mailed soon.

Two sessions for student staff will be offered on Oct. 26 and Nov. 4. They'll deal with Successful Telephone Techniques and Communicating with Customers.
Potpourri

by Lou Connelly

Sue James, staff assistant in Media Services, and Melba Leyva-Hernandez, a Law School secretary, have been close friends for the nine years they’ve been employed at Suffolk and even traveled to Melba’s home in Bogota, Colombia for a summer vacation more than a year ago. It was a trip Sue will never forget. It was where she met her future husband, who just happened to be Melba’s brother. Sue and Jose’ Augusto Leyva, a banker in Bogota, will tie the marital knot Sunday, Oct. 24 in a 5:30 p.m. ceremony at the Church of Our Savior in Arlington. Then it will be off to Colombia where Sue has accepted a job in communications at the U.S. Embassy. James, who is the godmother of Melba’s 6-year old daughter, Susan, has prepped for her Spanish with some crash courses with Prof. Alberto Mendez, who’s been “an incredible help.” Says Sue of her whirlwind romance, “It was love at first sight and it’s all been so exciting it wasn’t until I wrote my termination notice that I broke down in tears and realized I was leaving a place that I really loved, and I’ll surely miss it.” And all your Suffolk friends will miss you, Sue.

A number of the Suffolk community traveled abroad during the summer. Among them Law Prof. Jack Nolan, who along with wife, Adrienne and children, Evan, 14, and Alysson, 10, visited nine countries in 20 days. Count ’em: England, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Liechtenstein, Germany, Austria, Italy, and Greece. Summed up Jack: “They were all interesting, but the trip confirmed a doubting thought that I was better off in the U.S.A. than any place I visited.”

And Veep-Treasurer Frank Flannery took a trip to Ireland where it rained 13 of the 14 days he was there. Flannery later took a business trip to Spain with Assistant Treasurer Mike Dwyer.

Still on an international theme, Admissions Director Bill Coughlin reports that 18 Russians have enrolled as Suffolk students and from all parts of Russia. He was most impressed with their fluency in English.

News from the maternity department: Law Prof. Steve Callahan and wife, Paula Cusner welcomed a son, Daniel, 8 pounds 5 ounces on July 8. They have a daughter, Ellen, 2. Associate College Registrar Mary Lally and husband Joe now have a son to go with three-year old daughter, Madeline. Nevin James Lally weighed in at 9 pounds, 4 ounces at Beth Israel Hospital July 6. Mary O’Donnell, assistant director in the Learning Center, and husband, Bob, greeted a son, Daniel Patrick, on the Fourth of July.

President Dave Sargent shared words with Congressman Joe Moakley and award-winning newsman Howard Smith on a video tape, “The U.S. Congress and You,” distributed to all high schools in Moakley’s 9th Congressional District and an enrollment of some 30,000 students. The tape was well received and triggered a number of letters of thanks for a valuable educational tool.

We were saddened by the recent passing of a couple of former colleagues, Mary Lou Buckley, who worked in the Development Office as a writer for nearly a decade and was a delightfully bright conversationalist, and Cosmo Tom Stefany, who taught business education at Suffolk for a decade. Tragically, Tom was reportedly set for a heart transplant when fatally stricken.

Our sympathies this month to Judge Walter McLaughlin, a Suffolk trustee, on the loss of his sister, Phyllis McLaughlin, and brother Richard, the former Registry of Motor Vehicles Director. And to Judge Larry Cameron, also a trustee, on the passing of his wife, Barbara, former assessor in the Kevin White administration, and a 1967 Suffolk Law grad.

Pat Yates, associate director of Career Services and Cooperative Education, was interviewed on Channel 5’s “Family Works! Sunday” Sept. 26 and discussed the career market in the 90s.

Law Prof. Malcolm Donahue and wife, Caroline, hosted the annual luncheon of the Martha’s Vineyard chapter of the Suffolk University Law School Alumni Association at the Edgartown Yacht Club. On hand were alums John E. Boyle, J.D. ’67; James J. Gillis Jr., J.D. ’68; Rosemarie Haigazian, J.D. ’77; Frederick W. Hehre III, J.D. ’77; Arthur D. Smith, J.D. ’82; Joseph E. Sollito Jr., J.D. ’70; Judge Walter E. Steele, J.D. ’54; Martin V. Tomassian Jr., J.D. ’73; and Edward W. Vincent Jr., J.D. ’76.
Best wishes to good guy Ron Sundberg who finished up recently as associate dean in SOM and is pursuing other educational avenues and to outgoing international student adviser Doris Clausen, congratulations on your newly acquired juris doctor degree...

No less than six staffers in Management Information Services will be honored for 10 or more years service to the school at the Dean’s Reception, a remarkably low turnover rate. Two of the staff, Bob DiGuardia and Sue Scott are marking 20 years in that department...

The University’s annual Fall phonathon is off to a record-breaking start with more than $100,000 raised during the opening week, doubling the pace of a year ago. Director Gail Mansfield welcomes volunteers for the 12-week drive, which will run through Nov. 30. Alumni volunteers were toasted in August at an appreciation dinner at the Holiday Inn on Cambridge street with a Summer in the City theme...

English’s Fred Wilkins informs us that S.U. alumnus Marshall Brooks, associate editor of Wilkins’ Eugene O’Neill Review, has booked post-Beatnik Poet Herschel Silverman for a reading on Tuesday, Oct. 26 at 1 p.m. in Munce Conference Room...

Anne Cirasa-Parish has been promoted from instructor of Marketing to assistant professor as of the Fall semester...

Public Administration’s Fran Burke hosted Turgut Kazan, president of the Istanbul Bar Association, in a dialogue on U.S. policy on human rights. Kazan is a member of the law faculty at Istanbul University...

A welcome to the Edmund S. Muskie Fellow for the MPA/Health Administration program. She’s Liza Tsveniashvili, a medical doctor from the Republic of Georgia. She is presently an endocrinologist at the Republican Clinical Hospital of Infectious Diseases in Georgia. The Muskie program brings outstanding professionals from the former Soviet Union to the U.S. to study in public administration, business administration, economics and law...

Prof. Mawdudur Rahman memos us that the WBZ Flood Relief Fund for the Midwest sent the University a letter expressing its appreciation for Suffolk’s participation in the fund...

And Suffolk got a public thank you in the Walk for Hunger Newsletter for donating its One Beacon Street phonathon room for callers...

The Counseling Center has announced its 15th class of doctoral interns for the 1993-94 academic year. They are Paul Isley, a doctoral candidate at Boston University, David Gehrenbeck-Shim, also in the B.U. doctoral program, a native of South Korea, and Robert Viti, now a fourth year doctoral candidate in clinical psychology at the Mass. School of Professional Psychology...

Baseball Coach Joe Walsh enjoyed another good season as pitching coach for the Wareham Gatemen in the summer Cape Cod League. His team went to the final playoff round before losing to Orleans. Joe and wife, Sandra, now living in Marion, welcomed their fourth daughter, Kasey, during the summer. Still one behind me, Joe...

The Suffolk University Parent Council, a group of parents of undergrad students, met at the summer home of members Brian and Michelle Glennon in North Quincy for a cookout for 19 in August and were joined by Deans Nancy Stoll and Zegenu Tseigie. Council members have been very helpful in giving of their time for development of programs for parents and students. Nancy Stoll, by the way, is a member of the NEASC accreditation team which will visit New England College in Henniker, N.H. this Fall...

Upcoming for Suffolk Student Theatre: The Lover and Savage/Love will be performed Friday, Nov. 19 and Saturday, Nov. 20 at 8 p.m. There will be a matinee Nov. 18 at 1 p.m. General admission is $3. S.U. seniors Patrick Benedetti and Melissa Dowaliby will direct The Lover and Sam Shepard and Joseph Chaikin the latter...

And The Improbable Players Theatrical Group will perform real life dramatization of experiences surrounding drug and alcohol abuse in a performance Thursday, Oct. 28 at 1:15 p.m. in the Sawyer Dining Hall. It’s part of Alcohol Awareness Week...

SOM Dean John F. Brennan has been invited to join the National Task Force for Graduate Admissions, a governing council, which functions in the areas of recruitment, admission, outreach and development of grad management admissions...

Nice to see everyone back on campus. Enjoy the Fall foliage.