Mc Carran Immigration Law

By Ed F. Tuck

The New Year is ushered in at a time when the Federal Government is making a most concentrated effort to restrict the immigration of the world's population. The Immigration and Naturalization Service is busy at work, checking the immigration quota and making sure that only those who meet the requirements are admitted. The list of prohibited immigrants includes those who are diseased, insane, or criminals.

Mc Carran-Walter Act

In 1952, Congress passed the McCarran-Walter Act, which tightened the immigration laws. This act, also known as the McCarran-Walter Act of 1952, made it much harder for illegal immigrants to enter the United States. It is named after the two senators who sponsored it, Bob Mc Carran (D-Nev.) and Pat McCarran (D-Nev.).

Malcolm X

Malcolm X was a prominent leader of the Nation of Islam, an African-American religious and social movement. He was assassinated on February 21, 1965, in New York City. Malcolm X was known for his strong views on black nationalism and his opposition to integration.

Bermuda Calling

by Grace Siddins Calhoun

Deep diving is still the reverse of touristic sightseeing. With the fastening of the tube, Bermuda’s favorite cove seems to move along the labyrinth of the coral reefs, which lie near the surface of the sea. The winding paths are filled with bright colors and strange forms. One can only imagine the vastness of these coral reefs, which lie beneath the surface of the sea. McCarren Immigration Law

By Jack E. Feild

The New Year is here and the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, enacted in 1952, is now in effect. This law has been hailed as a "landmark" in American history and has been compared favorably to the Emancipation Proclamation.

Bermuda Calling

By Grace Michelle Collins

Deep down, Bermuda is still the place women have always wanted to go. But the numbers of American women who travel there this year will probably be smaller than in previous years. The reason is a new immigration law that restricts the number of women who can enter the country on tourist visas.

It is an abridgment of the arguments put forward by the Administration in the effort to persuade Congress to adopt its program of legislation. The message is a general statement of the condition of the nation, and such statements are usually regarded as a statement of the facts. The facts are that the country is prosperous, and that the government is doing its work. The message is a call for action, and the facts are that the country has the resources to do so. THE FACTS...

BY MICHAEL ALLEN

On Beacon Hill the Democratic meeting yesterday which was held in the presence of the Governor, the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House, and other leading members of the Legislature, was characterized by a certain amount of discordant elements. Many people were saying that the Democrats had an excellent organization for the election, but that it was difficult to get them to work.

However, the President of the State Senate said that the Democrats had a very good organization and that they were working hard to get the votes. He also said that the Governor was doing everything he could to help them.

The Speaker of the House said that the Democrats had a very good chance of winning the election, but that it would be a close race. He said that the Republicans had a good organization, but that the Democrats were working harder and would probably win.
