Dr. Grunewald Takes on New Post

Dean Donald Grunewald

Although the building is known as Ramsey Lane and is located in Cambridge, MA, it is rather the name STOP and SHOP, as people use it to describe the newest part of the Suffolk University campus.

Dr. Grunewald's vision for the project has been to transform the former retail store into a modern academic building. The transformation involves converting the existing space into new classrooms, laboratories, and study areas, catering to the needs of today's students.

The project has faced challenges, particularly during the pandemic, which delayed the construction work. However, the university is committed to completing the renovation as soon as possible, ensuring that the building is ready for its academic purpose.

The opening of the building will mark a significant milestone for Suffolk University, providing new opportunities for students and faculty. It represents a forward-looking approach to education, aligning with the university's mission to provide a dynamic learning environment.

In conclusion, the STOP and SHOP transformation project at Suffolk University is a testament to the university's commitment to innovation and excellence in education. The newly renovated building promises to enhance the educational experience for students and enrich the academic landscape of the Cambridge community.

NATIONAL TEACHER EXAMS ANNOUNCED

by Patricia O’Donnell

College seniors in the music, education, English, and education departments are preparing for the National Teacher Exams which will be given on March 3rd. The exams consist of five tests: Elementary Education, Secondary Education, Music Education, English Education, and Education in General. The exams are administered by the National Education Association and are open to all college students who have completed the required course work and who are interested in teaching. The exams are divided into three levels: elementary, secondary, and general. The elementary level is for those who want to teach in grades K-6, the secondary level is for those who want to teach in grades 7-12, and the general level is for those who want to teach in any grade level. The exams are designed to assess the knowledge and skills of prospective teachers and to help them prepare for a successful teaching career.
Social Note

Salute! In harmony, a school in tradition and tradition in their chosen path: the best path there is. Hopefully, things will be different this year. The change of the school will bring in new life and a fresh start. We hope that the new school will bring in new opportunities and a fresh start. We hope that the new school will bring in new opportunities and a fresh start.
