Bill Baird, the nationally known birth control advocate, came to speak at Suffolk.

When it was first suggested that Mr. Baird be invited to speak at the Student Government-sponsored Lecture Series, the idea was met with opposition from the administration. This opposition was finally agreed to by a petition signed by over a thousand students requesting Mr. Baird be allowed to speak. Open opposition to this petition, the administration agreed to permit Mr. Baird’s lecture.

A spirited campus controversy in other words according to Mr. Baird, “We can teach you about birth control, but we can’t stop you from learning it.”

Mr. Baird arrived with a large group of students,.

Students in the audience were not impressed, and many walked out early. Mr. Baird pleaded with them to stay and listen to the lecture. He told them that the Catholic Church was not against birth control, but that the Church was against the promotion of birth control.

The lecture was a great success, and many students came back for more.

Mr. Baird then left for a workshop at a nearby community center, where he discussed birth control with a group of women. He told them that the Catholic Church was not against birth control, but that the Church was against the promotion of birth control.

Unlimited Cut System—Adverse Effects In Its Early Stages

During the Spring Semester of '69, Suffolk students witnessed a major change in the educational traditions of this University. The adopted unlimited cut system became a reality. Under the new program, a student could miss as many classes as he desired and could not be limited in giving a poor grade for excessive absences. This was a major stage for Suffolk education and it was a change brought about through the long labored efforts of students and faculty alike who had long felt that the present system needed a temporary overhaul. The extensive cut system was passed by the administration and was to last for two years.

Students and faculty were and are happy (and with good right) that these effects had not been more pronounced. The unlimited cut system is, in some respects, fascinating. After speaking with several faculty members, it has come to the attention of the Journal that a majority of the students are eating closer beside, with no realization that the excessive absences may hurt their educational process. Although the absence were never handed a grade, the class room minded just as much damage. There are courses in which I, as an other student, could cut out some long time ago but when it came time to the final, just one more week, the frown came through the night and counted the years with an A minus grade. Those are courses like the Affiliates of any other school but not the other hand, there are those courses which demand attendance of a student. If not for other reason than to just understand the matter being taught. The present example it can occur that is taught that the "Modern Languages" demand attendance, therefore time and effort is split between two classes, that is some fifty percent of the time which is being used in simply understanding which talked about from ancient times. They are few students around who can open the foreign language book and complete and understand the different concepts involved. In order to be just from real life in such a course, explanations and help from the professor are necessary and it can be brought about only by class attendance. These are other classes which have such reasons and each student should be mature enough to decide the absence between the two types of courses mentioned above and treat them accordingly.

Does the fact that the new system is not working like the faculty does in the office, the same for the student, the Office of the Administration does not see this.

Letters to The Editor

Dear Mr. Chancellor

When the unlimited cut system was proposed by a group of student last spring it was some of those who made the argument that if the Unlimited Cut System was enacted the student would be in a better position. I have found out that the Unlimited Cut System is better than that I thought. I have found out that the Unlimited Cut System is better than that I thought. I hope this will be finalized so to allow it to be a permanent change.

Student Government News

The Student Government has undertaken steps to have the University's policy on events re-evaluated. The first field that will be considered will be those which are being undertaken by the Student Senate.

On Tuesday, November 11th, members of the Senate will meet with the faculty and chairmen of the Department of Student Affairs to discuss the question. The meetings will be held at a joint session of the Senate and the faculty. It is hoped that this will be finalized so to allow it to be a permanent change. Future dates for meetings regarding required courses will be posted and if possible published in this column. Students are called to attend as it is allow in many opinions to be possible to be heard.

The "unlimited cut system" which was adopted this year has proven to be beneficial in many ways. However, an unscientific survey of over 150 letters to the editor, among other documents, has revealed that the average has dropped considerably. The department showing the highest drop was in the Language Department. The sentiments of most of the faculty were that it is to show that the continued cutting of the limits of a class is in a subject that is based on a permanent body of knowledge. Hopefully this will be finalized so to allow it to be a permanent change. Future dates for meetings regarding required courses will be posted and if possible published in this column. Students are called to attend as it is allowed in many opinions to be possible to be heard.

New Phases Of Sociology

By Peter Rose

The new Sociology Department has extended the horizons of existing programs, adding new and unique properties to the field of crime and delinquency, and juvenile delinquents.

The crime and delinquency program, the only one of its kind in the area, is operated by the Department of Sociology and the Juvenile Justice Department. The program has national and international recognition and is offered to students in grades 7 through 12.

The program is designed to provide students with the opportunity to gain a better understanding of the nature and causes of crime and delinquency. The objectives of the program are to help students develop a positive attitude toward law enforcement, to provide them with the knowledge and skills necessary to function effectively as law enforcement officers, and to promote a better understanding of the problems associated with crime and delinquency.

The program includes a comprehensive curriculum designed to meet the needs of students with varying interests and abilities. The curriculum includes courses in crime and delinquency, criminal justice, and psychology. Students have the opportunity to participate in field experiences and internships, which provide them with valuable practical experience.

The program is administered by a full-time faculty member who is a law enforcement professional with extensive experience in the field. The faculty member works closely with law enforcement agencies to ensure that the program is up-to-date and relevant.

The program is open to all students in grades 7 through 12 who are interested in pursuing a career in law enforcement or related fields. Interested students should contact their school counselor for more information.

Rappelling Around

Jefferson Airplane

By Robert Jaffe

Rappelling is a popular outdoor activity enjoyed by many people. It involves descending a cliff or wall using a rope and specialized equipment. This activity requires physical fitness, balance, and a willingness to take risks.

Jefferson Airplane, a well-known band from San Francisco, has incorporated rappelling into their concerts and music videos. They have used rappelling as a visual metaphor for the journey of life and the search for meaning.

For instance, in their music video for the song "White Rabbit," the band is rappelling down a cliff, symbolizing the search for truth and understanding. The video also features images of a maze, representing the complexity of human emotions and the challenges of navigating life.

The band has also used rappelling as a visual metaphor for the concept of "freedom." In their concert, they have rappelled down a cliff while performing "There But For Fortune," a song about the power of circumstance.

To Club Presidents And Interested Parties

Being involved with a business you have probably lived through an experience such as we were faced with last summer. The year passes by and from now on comes requests for information on the club's past year. Of course the treasurer is at the Core, along with the key to the Smithfield Financial House. The secretary looks into added duties, and the president is more at work. The JOURNAL lacking your vigorous support cannot be located, but results sure that answer. Regardless of the exigencies, each president has faced some hard drive, and resolved to the end result.

Now take a yardstick published by a staff member on the side, adhering approximately to the standard currency and archiving college history and archives and social habits, both past and future. Further complicated by three separate graduating classes.

Of course, we are seeking assistance. Instructions of raw meat intake will be discussed later. One thing that we will do is to keep our eyes on the more likely speaker of the podium age. To your greatest advantage, why not tell the yardstick faculty what you want to happen, such as a 10-minute speech to be ready to deliver?

Our purpose is to illustrate this suggestion is for the quality of the yardstick 60 and avoid you because in receiving proper and full coverage of YOUR important event. An integral part of your overall success is the National Buffalo Hall. Perhaps you have some original and vigorous ideas on how you would like your club to be handled in the BUFFALO 50. Perhaps a meter setting for the observational judgment program. We are being noticed by the others.

Social Note

The Student Club's Annual Fall Picnic was held last week on the University campus. The event was well-attended, with a large crowd of students and faculty enjoying the beautiful weather. The picnic featured various activities, including a talent show, a quiz competition, and a barbecue. The winners were awarded certificates and prizes for their performances.

Attention All Students

A notice for a special event at the Student Union will be posted on the bulletin board by the end of the week. The event will take place next Saturday, and it is a great opportunity for students to network and meet new people. Students are encouraged to attend and bring their friends.

New Department Head

Professor Jones was appointed as the new head of the department. Professor Jones is a well-respected researcher in the field and has published several influential papers. He is expected to bring a fresh perspective and new ideas to the department, and students are looking forward to working with him.

Cambridge New College: An Alternative Approach To Education

Cambridge New College is a unique educational institution that offers a different approach to education. The college emphasizes critical thinking, problem-solving, and creativity. Students are encouraged to think independently and to explore their interests. The college offers a wide range of courses in various fields, from science and engineering to the arts and humanities. Applications are now open for the upcoming academic year.

Summer Jobs In Europe

Europe offers many opportunities for summer jobs, especially for students and young professionals. The EU offers a range of programs, including Erasmus Plus and the European Solidarity Corps, which provide funding and support for students looking to work or volunteer in Europe. Students interested in exploring Europe's cultural diversity and gaining international work experience are encouraged to apply.

The Journal extends its best wishes to P. Richard Jones on his retirement. Jones has been a long-time contributor to the Journal, and his insights and articles have been valuable to its readers. The Journal wishes him all the best in his retirement and hopes he will continue to share his knowledge and experience with others.
not being your best self to possibly the de-stabilization of the tissue. In particular, when such actions interfere with the student's future relationships, this can create a cycle of avoidance and disengagement.

It is important to note that the student's feelings of anger and resentment are understandable given the circumstances. However, continuing to engage in confrontational behaviors is not healthy and will likely escalate the situation. A more constructive approach would be to address the underlying issues openly and honestly, perhaps with the guidance of a counselor or therapist. This would involve identifying the root causes of the anger and working towards finding a resolution that is mutually beneficial.

The scenario highlights the importance of maintaining healthy boundaries and practicing empathy and understanding in our interactions. It is crucial to recognize and acknowledge the other person's feelings and experiences while also asserting our own needs and rights. This balance is key to building strong, resilient relationships and resolving conflicts in a positive manner.

In conclusion, it is important to reflect on the choices we make and the impact they have on ourselves and others. By being mindful of our actions and the impact they have, we can work towards creating a more harmonious and fulfilling environment.

Mayor Noonan, who presides at all council meetings, thought he was talking about Vietnam. So, they talked about Vietnam. He saw no need to correct any possible misunderstanding over the use of the word "government." He said as much, and the meeting continued.

McMann next turned to the subject of the negotiation of the new contract. He said the union was demanding two years of experience as a condition for advancement.

"But the new contract will be ratified only if the union agrees to our demands," McMann said. "We will not negotiate unless the union agrees to our demands."
Federal Recruiting At Suffolk

By James Goldman

This past month the government held an exhibit at the college library entitled the Federal Agencies Combined. Suffolk was one of the thirty schools the country would be selected for the job recruitment exhibit. Following different government agencies were represented.

The agencies included the Department of Labor, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, National Science Foundation, Office of Education, and the Taconic Agency.

The Taconic Agency was the most popular as the only other agency present was a Mutual College Guidance Counselor.

President Nixon's policies have been criticized for their support of the South Vietnamese government, which has been accused of human rights abuses and corruption. Nixon has defended his policies, arguing that they were necessary to prevent the spread of communism in Southeast Asia. Nixon has also been criticized for his handling of the Vietnam War, which ended in 1975 with a North Vietnamese victory.

Nixon's policies have been controversial, with some arguing that they were necessary to prevent the spread of communism, while others argue that they were a failure and a contributing factor to the eventual defeat of the United States in the war. Nixon's legacy is still debated, with some seeing him as a conservative leader who stood up to the Soviet Union, and others seeing him as a war criminal who failed to protect American soldiers and civilians.

The exhibit includes a range of photographs and documents that provide a glimpse into the history of the Vietnam War and its aftereffects. The exhibit is a must-see for anyone interested in the history of the Vietnam War and its impact on American society.

Happy 21st Birthday, Johnny

At least we hope it's happy. Johnny's strong suit is "speed," and most people take him for about 21. He's shooting "miles" now, but he started on "jells," "bees." He has to use a little more each day to maintain the "high" and avoid "crashing." It's as though he were a car that needs its tune continually for a year. No wonder he looks like he's ready for a 30,000 mile overhaul.

You see, on "speed" you don't eat, you don't sleep, you don't feel you have to pay any attention to your health... because you feel so "up" all the time.

So what you're "up" on speed, your body runs down. Johnny rationalizes this away now, since he's fooled "speeding," it's really living. At this rate, he may have lived his life before he reaches 22.

"Happy 21st Birthday, Johnny"

Alas, we hope it's happy. Johnny's strong cut on "speed" and most people take him for about 25. He's shooting "tech" now, but he carries on as a "hustler," "bomber." He has to see a little more each day to maintain the "hustle" and avoid "crashing." It's a tough job for the man who's rated in motor continuity for a year. He won't look like he's ready for a $50,000 male overhaul.

You see, on "speed," you don't eat, you don't sleep. You don't feel you have to pay any attention to your health ... because you feel "up" all the time.
