Flag Presented To Tubman House

A beautiful American flag was presented to the Tubman House, by Sergeant William H. Carroll of the 142d Infantry, a member of the Ladies Auxiliary Grand Army of the Republic, Wednesday, June 6, to a small audience of Harriet Tubman Boy Scouts. Remarks were made by Mr. Crow, Mrs. Brock, and Mrs. Martha Johnson, president of the organization. The flag was accepted by Mrs. Cynthia S. Scott, Director of the Harriet Tubman House. The raising of the colors for the Scout was assisted by Dan Boye, who

John H. Moody II
Graduates From B.C. High School

John H. Moody II, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Moody, graduated from Boston City High School Monday, June 11, with exercises held at the Boston Opera House. After the inspiring exercises, a reception was held for the new graduate at their parlor home at 75 Maryland Street in Roxbury. Many useful gifts including a pocket watch, were given to John, and a best-seller cake wishing him "Good Luck" decorated the refreshment table.

During the evening John presented his mother with a beautiful necklace and gave gifts to his father and sister as a small gesture of his love and devotion to his family. At this time he made a brief speech thanking his par- ements for the care and attention they have given him and for the grand reception.

John H. Moody II is a U. S. Coast Guard reservist, and leaves for his boot training on Saturday, June 11, in Cape May, New Jersey.

In the fall, John will enter Boston College School of Business Administration and major in Industrial Management.

Miss Anderson will receive bachelor of arts degree from the College of Liberal Arts. An honor student, she was one of three fun students awarded the annual Alumni Awards this year. The Awards are given annually to seniors in the three College groups who distinguish themselves in scholarship, extracurricular activities and demonstrate pro- fessional promise.

Hundreds Attend Shriners' Charity Spring Ball

A capacity crowd at all points of New England and New York, attended the music of Counti Williams at the Alhambra.

New York, June 11—After a personal survey of Negro seg- regation in the North, a white Southern-born editor reported to- day that the Northern Negro "often lives a life that is, in fact, more segregated than that of his Southern brother."

"It is a Negro in the North."

Look Magazine editor George Leonard, a native of Atlanta, Georgia, discussed in an article published in the new issue of Look, that there's a big gap be- tween the laws of the North, which grants the Negro equality and reality, which confines him to a Negro ghetto.

"Just Philadelphia, as a case in point, Mr. Leonard found that Negroes there attend all Negro schools, see taught by Negro teachers, play and associate ex- clusively with Negro neighbors and are refused housing in the Negro sections of town. All this, Mr. Leonard found, in spite of a local "Commission on Home Relations," which fights discrimination, and a Fair Em- ployment Practices Act which makes discrimination in employment illegal.

Building bridges, as a case in point, Mr. Leonard found that Negroes there attend all Negro schools, see taught by Negro teachers, play and associate ex- clusively with Negro neighbors and are refused housing in the Negro sections of town. All this, Mr. Leonard found, in spite of a local "Commission on Home Relations," which fights discrimination, and a Fair Em- ployment Practices Act which makes discrimination in employment illegal.

Mr. Leonard quotes an unidenti- fied Northerner in his Look arti- cle as saying, "in many Northerners talk integration and act a segregation. What's needed up here is a mirror that shows hops."

In Philadelphia, as in many other Northern cities, Mr. Leonard writes, "a Negro is like the walking through the city. He might get through unharmed, but he's a stranger in a world may explore."

"When I'm South a Negro's limitations are clearly de- fined by law and custom, in the North he lives with only a hazy idea of where the limitations lie."

"Segregation in the North does not stop in private housing," Mr. Leonard comments. "Public build- ing projects often go all Negro simply because there are no other buyers."

Temple's first Spring Charity Ball is Springfield, Mass. Ameri- can Legion Post No. 16, State Street, Friday, May 25. An entourage of two buses and over 200 men and women arrived from Boston.

Among the many out-of-town guest were Noble and Mrs. Sam C. Adams, of Brooklyn, New York, weekend guests of Noble and Daughter Simmons, and Noble and Mrs. Cavenhew of Waltham.

Edward Grant, Grand Master of the M. W. Harris Grand Lodge, awarded various presentations to charity during inspection. Chairman of the Ways and Means Group of Springfield was Noble Green.

Bermuda Calling

By Oronzo Strickland

For one will not fail my hat to Queen Elizabeth after their extended visit to Nigeria's colony during their tour. It is not all golf and glitter. But the truth is that after their visit to Nigeria's colony, the western portion of the island of South America and the other islands of the British Commonwealth, the island of Bermuda has a new lease of life. The island of Bermuda has a new lease of life. The island of Bermuda has a new lease of life.

The news of the visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip to Bermuda has been received with enthusiasm by the island's inhabitants. The island of Bermuda has a new lease of life. The island of Bermuda has a new lease of life. The island of Bermuda has a new lease of life.

Bermuda Calling

By Gloriana Sullivan Editor

Thursday will doff my hat to Queen Elizabeth and her Duke who, after their extended visit to Nigeria’s ‘leper colony’ during their recent tour, will be leaving for the Gulf States. Just another of that determined group who plans to front page news and hang the eggshell.

We quite surprised in this ‘bare bones’ world when we found ourselves together and spoke in English.

The docks at South Arabia, the tribal guards, the native ladies. There is a country and a people who are not all glitz and glitter.

We were surprised in the city of Lagos, where we found the girl from South Arabia, the tribal guards, the native ladies. There is a country and a people who are not all glitz and glitter.

"Old" Jenkins

The venerable Dr. James "Old" Jenkins of the Colchester community is a "jotter" in the minds of many townsmen. Just as one might expect, Jenkins, a descendant of a colorful political name, has been a source of untold amusement over the years to those who pass by his door. Always a wit and a gentleman, Jenkins has been known to give his colleagues a good laugh with his witty one-liners. He is highly respected by his peers and is considered one of the most colorful characters in town.

The Jenkins family has been a part of the Colchester community for generations, and Dr. Jenkins is the current patriarch. He is known for his love of politics and his ability to engage in lively debates with other residents. His knowledge of local history is extensive, and he is often called upon to provide insights into the town's past.

Southern Editor Wants NAACP To Relieve Pressure

"I see no solution in the approach of the militant Negro, however much I may sympathize with his burning desire for racial justice in fact as well as equality by law," C.A. McKeith, editor of the Charleston Observer writes in the current issue of Collier's. "In fact, I suggest that the NAACP, having won a significant legal victory, should take off the pressure for a while in sensitive areas and turn its talents to the improving of human relations in areas where desegregation is currently feasible." "It would be a serious error to underestimate the strength and the alienation of the resistance movement that has swept across the South in the last two years," he reports. That one of the tragic developments of the last six months has been the "quietodus of Southern moderates from the public-debate forum."

"The Southern moderates," he says, "is finding out that the mud-dirt ground upon which he has been standing is fast shrinking from beneath him." McKeith points out that he sees no solution, either, in the extreme readings of the left and the right, some ex-embattled by the White Citizens Councils. "The trouble with a resistance movement of this kind is," he says, "that the vulnerable leaders cannot hold in check the thugs and hotéis in the lower echelons who take matters in their own hands."

McKeith writes in Colliers that if there is hope for the South, it lies in the moderates who know that the elevation of the American Negro to full equality must be an evolution, not a revolution, process. He maintains that the moderates "need more support from the millions of silent people in the South: they need the understanding and forbearance of the impatient non-Southerners."

SIDE GLANCES

The trouble with a resistance movement of this kind is, he says, "that the vulnerable leaders cannot hold in check the thugs and hotéis in the lower echelons who take matters in their own hands."

McKeith writes in Colliers that if there is hope for the South, it lies in the moderates who know that the elevation of the American Negro to full equality must be an evolution, not a revolution, process. He maintains that the moderates "need more support from the millions of silent people in the South: they need the understanding and forbearance of the impatient non-Southerners."
