McGovern wins Suffolk poll 55%-

by Chris Dulgher rides on the back of the wave of men and materials. And our diplomats, he believes, "have the private feeling that we've got to stay to give the South Vietnamese a chance" and haven't faced up to what will happen to the Saigon government when we pull out.

Both the Congressman and Mr. Leland explained that it would be politically incorrect for journalists to speak of their concerns.

"The North Vietnamese have an 'unusual' kind of warfare," Mr. Dulgher said. "Armies fly over Thailand. Drop their bombs and come back to a country-club existence. There's no responsibility, no contact with the war."

He says that American officials who are civilians to speak of it.

In the northernmost province of South Vietnam, there are no civilians to speak of it. They are in the air war. There are no newspapers allowed on these bases.

The party breakdown included 154 Independents, 109 Democrats, 48 Republicans and 33 undecided. Bringing the voting count to 204 Democrats, 74 Republicans, 33 undecided and a Socialist.

Then the students were interviewed on either the Democratic or Republican side for breaking news. "newspapers have to go to 'Mr. Big' himself."

"Communications Week." 1st 2nd 3rd

Incidentally, the Journalism Society president Leland said that this is the first annual "Merit of Achievement" award for his students. It was announced April 9.

A graduate of Harvard College, Mr. Leland is a member of the Boston University Graduate School of Journalism. An accomplished investigative reporter, he won the society's "Insight" award, on which he worked in 1965.

Leland said that society is becoming so complex that investigative reporters cannot keep up with everything. Thus, investigative reporters are being warned that it is very easy to develop a moral problem since the reporters involved may see their names in print only four times a year.

The Spotlight team has written stories that could be embarrassing to any investigation team. Leland said newspapers today have to go to 'Mr. Big' themselves.

"Don't write anything on paper!" Leland explained that the investigation team must get responsible information, father than information responsibly.

Incidentally, the society presented Leland with the first annual "Merit of Achievement" award for his students. It was announced April 9.

The former Spotlight team head also won a number of awards at that time.

Leland explained that the investigation team must get responsible information, father than information responsibly.

Then the students were inducted throughout the University to go to 'Mr. Big' himself.

"Communications Week." 2nd 3rd

Incidentally, the journalism students Insight into the two papers during the Society's "Communications Week."
Dr. Grunewald to assume presidency of Mercy College

By Pete Butterfield

Dr. Donald Grunewald, vice president of Suffolk and dean of the School of Arts and Sciences and Journalism, will be announced in early May as the new Mercy College in Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., on July 1. Dr. Grunewald, who has been on the Suffolk faculty since January 1967 when he was appointed assistant professor of Business Administration, has held his present position since July 1969.

In an interview, Dr. Grunewald described his tenure at Suffolk as having major contributions in his 3 years in the position. He cited several examples, among which were an increase in the number of students, a re-examination of the general education program, and the establishment of a Suffolk Student Union and expansion of present facilities. He has also pushed for establishment of Suffolk’s first student union and creation of a faculty advisory association. Under his leadership, Suffolk hired its first black faculty member and added a full-time vice president for undergraduate education.

Dope from Dudley

As with other drugs, I do not encourage or discourage the use of the pill. Nor do I think that it is entirely legal to use by married and unmarried women alike.

A medical history, a Pap test, a urine sample must be taken before the pill is prescribed. (Some brands add seven placebo pills to make 21.)

The sequential pill consists of 21 (or some brands) identical synthetic estrogen pills followed by 7 placebo pills in a sequential pattern. (Some brands add seven placebo pills to make 21.)

The combination pill consists of 21 (or some brands) identical synthetic estrogen and progesterone pills in a sequential pattern. (Some brands add seven estrogen placebo pills to make 21.)

Synthetic hormones stimulate the body to secrete progesterone which in turn affects the female reproductive hormones. There are two kinds of synthetic estrogen, and synthetic progesterone.

The estrogens are: mestranol and ethinyl estradiol and have almost identical properties. Both are synthetic forms. Ethinyl estradiol is more highly localized at the site of action and has less effect on glucose tolerance than mestranol.

The progesterones are: norethynodrel, norethisterone, norethandrel, norethindrone, lynestrenol, megestrol acetate, medroxyprogesterone and progesterone. Many of these are produced by chemical synthesis.

Progesterone is secreted by the corpus luteum and is responsible for preparing the uterine lining for implantation of a fertilized egg. It also maintains the pregnancy when the egg has been successfully implanted.

As with other drugs, I do not encourage or discourage the use of the pill. Nor do I think that it is entirely legal to use by married and unmarried women alike.

A medical history, a Pap test, a urine sample must be taken before the pill is prescribed. (Some brands add seven placebo pills to make 21.)

The sequential pill consists of 21 (or some brands) identical synthetic estrogen pills followed by 7 placebo pills in a sequential pattern. (Some brands add seven placebo pills to make 21.)

The combination pill consists of 21 (or some brands) identical synthetic estrogen and progesterone pills in a sequential pattern. (Some brands add seven estrogen placebo pills to make 21.)

Synthetic hormones stimulate the body to secrete progesterone which in turn affects the female reproductive hormones. There are two kinds of synthetic estrogen, and synthetic progesterone.

The estrogens are: mestranol and ethinyl estradiol and have almost identical properties. Both are synthetic forms. Ethinyl estradiol is more highly localized at the site of action and has less effect on glucose tolerance than mestranol.

The progesterones are: norethynodrel, norethisterone, norethandrel, norethindrone, lynestrenol, megestrol acetate, medroxyprogesterone and progesterone. Many of these are produced by chemical synthesis.
It's the Right Time

$5600 success story

by Rich Mitz

I used to be a nothing—a little short, fat, whiny kid from Milwaukee with a running nose. I was a real thorn in my mother’s side: a regular down-and-out, a write-out; a has-been who never was, and not at all beloved in the neighborhood.

Then something happened. I became educated.

It all began high school when I dropped out of P.S. 184 and enrolled in what must have been the last Alternative School in the swamps of Milwaukee, everyday after school for hours of 7:30 a.m. to smoke alfalfa on the shores of lovely Lake Michigan. One afternoon, I noticed my friend, Norman, light up. On the cover of the book he said “Finish High School.”

“Let me see that,” Norman said to me.

And as I lit my weed, I opened the book of matches and read on:

"Are you tired of being nothing, a little short fat, whiny kid from Milwaukee with a running nose, a real thorn in your mother’s side, a regular down-and-out, a write-out, a has-been who never was, and not at all beloved in the neighborhood? Then finish High School.

"Okay," said the, "Just as long as it isn’t any of that correspondence school stuff." I promised her it wasn’t, and the next day dropped out of school. Everyday, between half hours of 7:45 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., I’d sit on the banks of the Michigan and do my assignments diligently, taking an hour out for lunch.

A few months later, my diploma from Matchbook High School with my name magic marbled in arrived. And it hangs proudly over my Father’s pipe rack.

Upon discovering there was a Matchbook College, I enrolled at the state university and took classes in bio-physics, freshman English and animal husbandry. And then it came in the mail: a pamphlet proclaiming: “Instant Learning—Course that will tape record your into an automatic learning machine.” Shaking with excitement, I read on.

“Now! Electronic Technology gives you a future to Learn Any Skil You Wish—so easily—so quickly—so automatically—so perfectly and permanently that it will take your breath away.”

“Okay. Could this be true? Could this be those fringe people who brought me Matchbook High School? And would I as the pamphlet promised, be turned into a walking encyclopedia of knowledge? To whom your friends and business associates will turn as a final authority on virtually any subject?”

I decided to sign up then and there, and become a successful secretary, dedicated to operating in the perfect human being.

When you ask “Where shall a building be placed on crowded Beacon Street?" Suffolk University has two possibilities: that is now Ridgeway Building and two buildings on nearby Hancock Street, which the University owns.

“Let the University from tearing down any one of these structures and of course replacing it with a new building an unfair ordinance which prohibits certain similar structures in the neighborhood. We have, however, confronted with certain legislative sources and have found that all that is needed for Suffolk to file a bill before the General Court to change the restrictions on the building at such and such an address.

The odds are very good that the bill would receive approval from the legislature and there is a saying, at any rate, which goes, "nothing ventured, nothing gained."

Those are certain possibilities, but we do not believe that the University is dedicated to the cause of a student union to the extent where they would pursue. When the University doesn’t explore these avenues, and fur­thermore rejects the Student Government proposal, the SGA had better be prepared to fight. How’s that up to you, SGA?

The trustees must be told that they don’t have too much punch this year.

Remember Maurice Gordon? They turned down your request to remove him from the Board of Advisors and found, unfortunately, to their delight that you took it laying down. You, along with your constituents, had better examine the development on this position and get ready to reject your plan.

Using students’ money to buy signs and buttons doesn’t mean you really want a student union, SGA, and for all the trustees may lack, they do not lack the intelligence to realize the lack, TEH.
Buffalo County courthouse in Dorchester. A motion was adopted by Justice Feeney to disqualify that court because of a conflict of interests. The defendants charged that the Dorchester court often gave convicted men a choice of a jail term of military service and thus acts as a recruiter. "We wanted a jury trial, and the added publicity; we wanted to put the war in front of the people," explained Paul Weinberg. An Army veteran and currently a Cambridge school teacher.

With Boston attorney Lew Gurwitz acting as senior counsel, the defense was based on two factors. The first was never to leave office by the recruiters or the police; and second, that they had a right to be there. This latter factor was the substance of the trial. Four of the nine defendants conducted their own defense. They cross examined witnesses to testify about the conduct of the war and reasons for U.S. involvement. Without a counselor, Justice Sullivan limited them to serving as character witnesses.

Normal courtroom procedure was occasionally overridden as the purpose of the questioning was to accuse the government with negligence in dealing with drug addiction. The District Attorney objected 12 times in three minutes. As he rose for a 13th time Morton snapped "will the defense stand up and listen for a change?" The D.A. sat. During their personal testimony the veterans attempted to put the trial on trial. They told of atrocities, Geneva Convention violations, increased bombing and CIA opium dealing.

Paul Weinberg described what he called "the war at home." While PL in Europe was used to help break a railroad strike, in Vietnam, the only railroad company in the army was run by railroad workers; they were used against their own union members. With Boston attorney Lew Gurwitz acting as senior counsel, the defense was based on two factors. The first was never to leave office by the recruiters or the police; and second, that they had a right to be there. This latter factor was the substance of the trial. Four of the nine defendants conducted their own defense. They cross examined witnesses to testify about the conduct of the war and reasons for U.S. involvement. Without a counselor, Justice Sullivan limited them to serving as character witnesses.

Normal courtroom procedure was occasionally overridden as the purpose of the questioning was to accuse the government with negligence in dealing with drug addiction. The District Attorney objected 12 times in three minutes. As he rose for a 13th time Morton snapped "will the defense stand up and listen for a change?" The D.A. sat. During their personal testimony the veterans attempted to put the trial on trial. They told of atrocities, Geneva Convention violations, increased bombing and CIA opium dealing.

Paul Weinberg described what he called "the war at home." While PL in Europe was used to help break a railroad strike, in Vietnam, the only railroad company in the army was run by railroad workers; they were used against their own union members. With Boston attorney Lew Gurwitz acting as senior counsel, the defense was based on two factors. The first was never to leave office by the recruiters or the police; and second, that they had a right to be there. This latter factor was the substance of the trial. Four of the nine defendants conducted their own defense. They cross examined witnesses to testify about the conduct of the war and reasons for U.S. involvement. Without a counselor, Justice Sullivan limited them to serving as character witnesses.

Normal courtroom procedure was occasionally overridden as the purpose of the questioning was to accuse the government with negligence in dealing with drug addiction. The District Attorney objected 12 times in three minutes. As he rose for a 13th time Morton snapped "will the defense stand up and listen for a change?" The D.A. sat. During their personal testimony the veterans attempted to put the trial on trial. They told of atrocities, Geneva Convention violations, increased bombing and CIA opium dealing.

Paul Weinberg described what he called "the war at home." While PL in Europe was used to help break a railroad strike, in Vietnam, the only railroad company in the army was run by railroad workers; they were used against their own union members. With Boston attorney Lew Gurwitz acting as senior counsel, the defense was based on two factors. The first was never to leave office by the recruiters or the police; and second, that they had a right to be there. This latter factor was the substance of the trial. Four of the nine defendants conducted their own defense. They cross examined witnesses to testify about the conduct of the war and reasons for U.S. involvement. Without a counselor, Justice Sullivan limited them to serving as character witnesses.

Normal courtroom procedure was occasionally overridden as the purpose of the questioning was to accuse the government with negligence in dealing with drug addiction. The District Attorney objected 12 times in three minutes. As he rose for a 13th time Morton snapped "will the defense stand up and listen for a change?" The D.A. sat. During their personal testimony the veterans attempted to put the trial on trial. They told of atrocities, Geneva Convention violations, increased bombing and CIA opium dealing.

Paul Weinberg described what he called "the war at home." While PL in Europe was used to help break a railroad strike, in Vietnam, the only railroad company in the army was run by railroad workers; they were used against their own union members. With Boston attorney Lew Gurwitz acting as senior counsel, the defense was based on two factors. The first was never to leave office by the recruiters or the police; and second, that they had a right to be there. This latter factor was the substance of the trial. Four of the nine defendants conducted their own defense. They cross examined witnesses to testify about the conduct of the war and reasons for U.S. involvement. Without a counselor, Justice Sullivan limited them to serving as character witnesses.

Normal courtroom procedure was occasionally overridden as the purpose of the questioning was to accuse the government with negligence in dealing with drug addiction. The District Attorney objected 12 times in three minutes. As he rose for a 13th time Morton snapped "will the defense stand up and listen for a change?" The D.A. sat. During their personal testimony the veterans attempted to put the trial on trial. They told of atrocities, Geneva Convention violations, increased bombing and CIA opium dealing.