Christian Science Sermons

The building and its surroundings will be open to the public for the Christian Science service on Sunday.

Keynote for the Sermon was "Spirt in the Golden Text from I Corinthians (2:12): "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God.'"

From Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, will be read the following (2:7-9): "As God Himself is good and is Spirit, goodness and spirituality must be immortal."

Scriptural selections will include the following from I Corinthians (3:14-3:15): "And such trust have we through Christ to God: Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think anything as the escape of a carnal mind: because the Lord is the spirit and where the spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."

Dr. Richard M. Owen, Pastor

A large audience greeted the pastor on the last Sunday before his vacation. His theme was "Saints in the Household of God." If you can be a Christian in the midst of sin and in the midst of the world, because Christ is the spirit, you shall not be polluted by the defilement around you, but rather be pure through proper conduct than the liar, and right than the liar, for Christ is the light and the reason because out of the slums have some of the purest Christians in the world.

The Lord Jesus was administered at the close of the service, one person was fellow-

shipped in the Lord and凡

PRECIOUS PUBLIC SERVICE
For more than 37 years, the day-to-day tasks of the Boston Transportation Association, 564 Columbus Ave., Boston, have had the devoted attention of Miss Bernice W. Billings, R. N., as executive secretary. The laudable objective of reducing the incidence of tuberculosis by improving health and sanitary education in the Community has found in her a conscientious and untiring executant. In the performance of her primary duties she has come, through two World Wars and their aftermath, to a position of unceasing, peerless faith among citizens of all people and the geography of the South End-Roxbury neighborhoods. She has directed the major BTA activities with a flair for evoking the kind of co-operation absolutely essential to their successful outcome. To bring beauty to otherwise drab, because blighted, surroundings has been her aim, and so it is no wonder she will be remembered for the exceptional encouragement which she has given to personal, civic and social endeavors.

We are sorry to say that Miss Billings is retiring, for we shall greatly miss her. However, our sorrow is somewhat selfish, since she has earned the right to rest after a career of such strenuous tenacity in the public interest. We wish her Speedgod.

HE WHO GETS SLAPPED
Young Lord Altricham, the practicing journalist who was publicly criticized Queen Elizabeth II, will go down in history as a champion and exemplar of freedom of the press. His deed symbolizes the independence of the British people. That is why all the attacks on him seem so silly. Two of his colleagues in the House of Lords, one of whom is her Majesty’s first cousin, the Earl of Strathmore, have threatened to shoot him, and an irate elderly ex-soldier slapped His Lordship’s face last Tuesday. It is certain that he will not have to be pinioned in the pillory, thanks to courageous fore-runners whose own temerity or boldness gained freedom of the press as an inviolable right for English-speaking peoples.

Lord Altricham is no ordinary peer. He was Captain of the Oppidans at Eton College, and holds the degree of Master of Arts from the University of Cambridge. He is an enlightened Conservative, anxious for the furtherance of the monarchy, and so he finds himself in the position of the lad in the fairy tale who spoke the truth about the Emperor’s clothes. He is now the chief target of all the darts of British public controversy.

It is amazing that rulers and their immediate coterie are still hypersensitive to criticism. This fact is to be noted among even, if not especially, the new nations that have emerged to self-government within the last decade. Bankole Fashola, first bishop of the Prime Minister of Ghana, Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, has been exiled for criticizing the chief of state.

Negro Americans who have followed Lord Altricham’s writings in the magazine which he edits, the National and English Review, are bound to wish him all possible success, since he is a civilized advocate of racial equality whose profound differences with his fellow humans neither originate in color or religion.

Lord Altricham is that most incomprehensible of political thinkers — a Tory democrat.

GULFPORT, Miss. — The right to beararms under the American right which must be protected for all citizens. Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told more than 700 people attending a mass meeting of the local NAACP here on Sunday.

"The government," Mr. Wilkins asserted, "must be given all legal weapons, including injunctive civil action, to see that citizens are not deprived of their rights and of equal protection of the law."

Standing At Stake

The wedding of Gwendolyn Bannister and Leo Calhoun, Olympian 100 meter high hurdle champion this week, touched off strong controversy in the community. The AUA, voting to strip him of his amateur status, is concerned about radio and television appearances. The AUA has been brought to mind, and the AUA said its ruling is based on the fact that the show, "Bride and Groom," is now capitalizing on Calhoun's fame and his gifts to the show. His gift of talent would violate his amateur code.

Calhoun feels that the AUA will not deprive him of his amateu status after becoming the center of attention. The North Carolina College and his agents have agreed to pay $200 in gifts, and Calhoun feels that the AUA has been justified just as they would be at a private event.

He was a charter member of the Community Relations Committee and the Civic Unity Committee. He is also a member of the Parent Teachers Association of the High and Latin School and served as first treasurer of the Longfellow School PTA.

During recent years he has acted as district captain in the Red Feather Drives, and as co-chairman for the 1954 Negro College Panel drive.

The candidate a Cambridge resident and computer programmer for twenty-nine years, is a thirty-third degree Mason, member of the Prince Hall Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, Shriner, Knight Templar, and a former Balliol member of Eta Phi Chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity.

His two sons have attended the Cambridge public schools. Gustave, Jr., a Junior at MIT, was graduated from the Longfellow School, and Cambridge High and Latin School. Noel is a student in the fourth grade in the Longfellow School.

Mr. Solomons is married to Olivia Sted Solomons, also a product of the Cambridge school system and a former teacher at the Harvard shops.

The candidate wishes to make the following statements:

1. I believe in education of the pupils, the relation of the school to the community and the professional concern of teacher problems are the prime factors of a school committee.

2. I believe that qualifications and qualifications only should be the criterion for teacher appointment and promotion. Therefore we should retain the system of examination to secure the best teachers.

3. In my opinion the school committee should make its rules and regulations not hurriedly but only after careful and thoughtful deliberation and after they are thus made the committee should adhere to them.

DUBLIN MURDER

She and Mrs. Vannoy's best friend, the police said, were both found dead in the kitchen, Mrs. Vannoy in her chair and her husband was lying on the floor. Profusely bleeding, Ward, still alive, lay just inside the open door of the room.

Ward charged with Kidnapping

Detective Sergeant Mark E. Tracy of the District Court, where Mrs. Vannoy charged him with having kidnapped his wife and her two children, at gun point. Formerly a cop, Ward is said to have been fired from his job.

Sgt. Madden also stated that about three weeks ago Mrs. Vannoy and her two children, was at the home of Ward's mother in Middletown, when they moved with Ward to Aurora.

THE OTHER DAY . . . was August 1st. But it was not the day of the traditional "Emanuation Celebration" in Rhode Island. Indeed, the celebration was pushed ahead a day, to Wednesday, July 31 for the convenience, it is rumored—of the Crescent Park management, who have some very pressing attractions for Thursdays.

The celebration did not seem the same, for so long a time has passed since August 1st, that the two were practically synonomous. Of course, there were occasions when the first felt on Sunday that the celebration took place the second Monday, but not in the memory of old timers has there been such a radical shift.

There was a fair crowd at Crescent Park on the 31st, but nothing like the usual throng. Of course, dark clouds overcasted and heavy showers in some places may have kept some folk away. But a lot of them just didn't have quite the feeling to take part in the fun anyway. Especially it was this true of out town folk, but many local folk did not know of it either. The publicity on the phonon was good.

For many years, the traditional Emanuation Celebration was held at Need Point, and almost everybody went "down the river" on the first of August. Then when the Rocky Point management began to take too much for granted, and did not want colored people there either, it was actually done as dry as a bone on August first.—Providence Elks who took over the sponsorship of these events, moved to Crescent Park, and there the celebrations have gone on for many years.

And so, until another Day . . .
