JOURNALISM DEPARTMENT PLANS HIGH SCHOOL COMPETITION

Suffolk's Journalism Department is sponsoring its second annual high school newspaper competition for Greater Boston students. Invitations have been sent out to some 110 high schools in the area, Malcolm J. Barach, chairman of the department, announced.

Three scholarships, totaling $3000, will be awarded at a luncheon to be held at Suffolk on March 16. A minimum of two issues must be submitted and the deadline for entries is January 21. Scholarship awards will be presented in three categories: excellence in news writing, $1400; excellence in editorial writing, $1000; excellence in typography, $600.

At last year's luncheon, awards were presented to Malden High School, Revere High School and Medford High School.

In another development affecting the journalism department, the board of trustees has approved a proposal for a combined English and Journalism major, beginning with the September, 1972 semester. The major will prepare such majors to teach English and Journalism on the high school level. The major, leading to a bachelor of arts, calls for 122 hours credit (including 24 English, 18 Journalism) with a minor in secondary education.

Purpose of the combined major is to enable journalism-prepared teachers to act as advisors to student publications and to teach Journalism courses in high school.

SOCIOLOGY DEPARTMENT LISTS DRUG COURSE

Suffolk's Sociology Department, encouraged by the success of last Spring's drug institute, is offering a follow-up expanded course, entitled Drug and American Society, for three semester hours credit beginning with the Spring semester.

The course will be given on Saturdays from 9 to 11:40 a.m. over a 15-week period starting January 29 and concluding May 6. An examination will be given on Saturday, May 13.

Gary Castanino, visiting assistant professor of Sociology, is coordinator. "The structure and content of the course will be similar to the institute we sponsored with the Attorney General's Office last Spring," Castanino said. "This year, however, we have made it a course and there will be three hours credit. In addition, we have expanded and varied the format."

Castanino said the course will include workshops, lectures and films featuring noted professional and service personnel. The course may be used toward a major in Sociology or as an elective. The charge is $120, normal tuition fee. Non-credit participation costs $50.

Cooperating in the program are the Attorney General's Office and the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health. Working closely with Castanino is Ben Ross, chief coordinator of the Standard and Licensing in the division of Drug Rehabilitation, Department of Mental Health. Ross received a master of arts in education from Suffolk in 1954.

HO! HO! HO! AND A GOOD TIME BY ALL!

"Bigger and better every year." That seemed to be the popular summation of the President's Christmas Party, held in the cafeteria and faculty dining room on December 14.

There were more than 250 guests on hand including 149 children. A total of 168 gifts for the kiddies were distributed around the Christmas tree and Santa Claus had himself a busy time. Among the terrific toys for the tots were dolls, games, tea sets, basketballs, trucks, helicopters, music boxes and ring toss games.

A lot of folks deserve a pat on the back for the success of this annual good time including some of our students who generously gave of their time and talents. Of course, without Miss Dottie McNamara, the party wouldn't get off the ground. It's her personal baby each year and sister Evelyn Reilly helps Dottie. Also let's hear it for Ed Saunders, one of the most convincing Santas we've had in years, and for pert Patti Haskins, who as a mean old witch, thrilled the youngsters; and her two co-stars, Leslie Colburn and Christine Dunn of the Drama Club. Cheers also for Brian Hoover of Alpha Phi Omega, who played the clown, and for members of Gamma Sigma Sigma and Alpha Phi Omega who offered their services, and for magician Calvin Williams, husband of Betty Williams, for a nice performance. Hope we haven't forgotten anybody.

The Christmas Party is not only a joy for the youngsters, but it provides a fitting opportunity for faculty, staff and their families to get to know one another and with the yuletide spirit.

SENATOR PROXMIRE SPEAKS TO LAW STUDENTS

Senator William Proxmire of Wisconsin made a special address to Suffolk University Law students on Thursday night, December 9. The liberal Democrat caught an early evening flight to Boston and arrived at the school shortly before 8 p.m.

Proxmire addressed the Student Bar Association for approximately an hour, and included a question and answer period. The senator had been delayed on the Senate floor by a pressing tax bill. A day before his appearance at Suffolk, he had announced his support of Supreme Court nominee William H. Rehnquist.

Proxmire was greeted by television and newsmen at the Suffolk Auditorium and immediately questioned about the Rehnquist appointment. Later, he reiterated his support of Rehnquist in answer to a law school student's question. He noted that he was in favor of the Rehnquist nomination even though all but one of his 15-member staff opposed it.

MODERN LANGUAGE CLUB HOLDS DURER EXHIBIT

The Modern Language Club presented an exhibit of the German artist, Elbrecht Durer in the lobby of the Donahue Building on Tuesday, December 14 to mark the 500th birthday of the unsurpassed European print maker.

It was based on a German travel exhibit of his prints, and samples of his other media were exhibited on the second and third floor corridors and in the college library.

A highlight of the exhibit was a guided tour by Dr. Anneliese Harding, German-trained art historian, who previously had spoken to a Suffolk group on Ernst Barlach. A reception for Dr. Harding in the President's Conference Room followed.

Dr. Ilse Fang, assistant professor of modern languages, praised the work of the Modern Language Club and cited the following for their efforts: Nanci Gratan, Marsalie Hutchinson, Joanna Jackson, Peggy Bogus, Hannelore Gresser and Michael Colpoys. Dr. Fang also announced plans for a Modern Language Club exhibit of 20th century art of all Western Europe at a later time.

DEAN GRUNEWALD INVITED TO 'WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE'

Dr. Donald Grunewald, vice president and dean of the college of arts and sciences, has been invited to the White House Conference on the Industrial World Ahead to be held February 7-9 at the Sheraton-Park Hotel, Washington, D.C.

President Nixon called the conference, entitled "A Look at Business in 1990," recognizing that man "must become the manager of change." Leaders from business, labor, education and government from throughout the nation were invited to attend the three-day parley. President Nixon will deliver an address at the banquet the evening of February 7.

The conference will be chaired by Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans and Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson.

Dean Grunewald was dean of Suffolk's college of business administration before succeeding Donald W. Goodrich as vice president and dean of the college of arts and sciences in July of 1969. He is a graduate of Union College, Harvard Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and holds both a master of business administration and a doctor of business administration from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. He is the author of several books and publications on business and management.

POTPOURRI...

Dr. Arthur West, chairman of biology, takes justifiable pride in the summer biology institute he has directed for four years, but West gave a special beam when he heard about two of his former students. John Buppert of Bel Air, Md. and Kathleen Barnett of Chicago, among 30 high school teachers attending the 1970 institute, had never met until they came to Suffolk. Now they're inseparable. They got married awhile back...S.U. has a new day switchboard operator. She's Susanne T. LaCasse, who replaces Kathleen A. Flanagan, who moved into Admissions...Also making a switch was Angela Carcia, who goes from the law faculty to Dean Strain's office... Among those at the opening Suffolk basketball game at Babson was President Fulham, who attained a measure of revenge against Babson President Henry A. Kriebel as the Rams topped Babson, 81-74. "A year ago, I sat with President Kriebel and we lost," recalled President Fulham with a smile, "but this year I took a chance sitting with him again and I got even..." If you watch the TV program Five Reports regularly, you might have caught Suffolk's Inez Patten making a fine impression discussing her role with the Salvation Army. She's been associated with the S.A. for 20 years...

CONGRATULATIONS to Dr. Glen Lewandowski of Education and his wife, Maureen, on the birth of a 7-pound, 5-ounce daughter, Melissa Jean, born December 3. It's the couple's first child. And to Gary Castanino of Sociology and his wife Kathy, parents of a second daughter...Dr. Florence Petherick, chairman of humanities, was guest speaker at a combined meeting of the American Association of University Women at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Foxboro, speaking on humanities in contemporary life...Law Professor Charles Kindregan spoke recently to a capacity crowd at Merrimack College and also presented a paper on human genetics and law at B.C. Law School. He has written a chapter in the pamphlet on the Uniform Probate Code, recently published by the National College of Probate Judges...Biology Professor Phil Mulvey joined Donald Trageser, vice president of WEEI, and others for a Top of the Hub luncheon to discuss problems in the community... Dr. William Sahakian, chairman of philosophy, has been elected a fellow for the Massachusetts Psychological Association...Dr. Donald Fiorillo, chairman of Sociology, was among representatives for 14 colleges and universities who attended a Boston Globe luncheon in connection with volunteer work with Boston's Spanish-speaking community...Barbara Latture and husband, John, ensconced in their new home in North Reading...Former Admissions secretary Donna Angelo writes thanks to all. Donna will be married in the Spring...

PLACEMENT DIRECTOR Jim Woods has been asked to continue as a career consultant to ACTION, which combines under one roof Federal Volunteer Programs drawn from many agencies including the Peace Corps and VISTA. The request came from Joseph H. Blatchford, director of ACTION...Nice to see Dean of Students Brad Sullivan back after a two-week illness accompanied by a mustache...Nancy Chilson of accounting and hubby, Mickey, will spend the holidays in Philadelphia with Nancy's parents...Among the returnees to the President's Christmas Party this year were Phyllis Mack, on a leave of absence from sociology, and former Registrar's aide Maureen (Lepore) Guerrio who had her year old daughter, Kimberly Ann, with her...S.U. is the recipient of an $8600 grant from the National Science Foundation for science programs... Suffolk's new General Alumni President is John Norton, Class of '55 and long a devoted alumnus...As the year rolls to an end, let us wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Peaceful New Year.
