Although the Greater Boston Negro electorate evidences greatest concern about the naming of a qualified Negro attorney to the judicial district containing the area justice of the Boston Municipal Court, various interested persons tried Thursday, December 11, to persuade Governor F. Murphy, who was acting Governor while Governor and Mrs. Fuller Furcolo were on a brief vacation in the Bahamas. The purpose of the visit was to request that the Governor appoint a special justice in succession to Judge Edward O. Grondin, who was recently elevated to the Superior Court. Subsequent to the appointment of a special justice, the former assistant U. S. attrict Court special justiceship is the target of patronage seekers because the judicial district contains the area in which most Negroes in the city reside, and it is the court of first instance in which is transacted the major amount of civil and criminal business affecting Negroes. Community anxiety was registered, therefore by the clergymen of the Interdenominational Ministers Alliance who had a luncheon with Governor Furcolo last Thursday.

Due to the Christmas holiday the CHRONICLE office will not meet on Tuesday evening next week.

Credit Union Assets Show Big Increase

At its 28th annual meeting held recently, the Boston Progressive Credit Union, 1079 Tremont St., showed an increase of $85,119.51 or approximately 9% over last year's assets. The assets this year totaled $949,171.18. A dividend of 3 percent was declared. This is the second year that 3 percent has been given the shareholders.

A large number of shareholders attended the meeting, and standing room was at a premium in the parish hall of St. Cyril's Episcopal Church, Tremont St. Continued progress and an air of optimism pervaded the reports of the financial officers. Eight directors were elected.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors, which was held subsequently, the following officers were elected by the body: Albert J. Wynn, pres.; Ormie A. Jordan, vice pres.; Victor C. Byrnes, treas.; Wilbert E. Hubbard, aud. treasurer; Eilda A. Withshire, clerk.

Directors: Joseph A. Benn, Edward W. Brooks, Oscar S. Burrows, L. Lincoln Hinds, James R. Lezueur, Samuel L. McCoy, and A. Nelson, May E. Whit-

ROXBURY MAN DIES IN AUTOMOBILE MISHAP

Accident Occurred On Eve Of Family Reunion

A gay Christmas reunion has been marred by the death of Joseph R. Atkins, 46 year old engineer of 96 Brunswick St., Roxbury who died in the Mass. General Hospital this morning as the result of an auto accident on the inbound level of Mystic Bridge.

Mr. Atkins' mother and brother, Wesley, had just arrived here from Delaware for a projected Christmas family reunion. Mr. Atkins discovered Friday afternoon while driving on the bridge that his car was disabled, and he stopped to look under the hood when an oncoming car struck his automobile in the rear, causing the hood to clamp down on his head, rendering him unconscious. Rushed to the hospital, he died twelve hours later. The accident occurred about 200 yards from the toll plaza.

WARD NINE PRECINCT TO BE ERASED

Last Monday the Boston Election Commission headed by David Lasker notified the City Council that it would consolidate and redraw precinct lines in Ward 9 effective January 1. Precinct 6 with only 373 registered voters will be combined with Precinct 5 containing 900 voters.

"Is the Universe, including Man, be the subject of the lesson-sermon at Christian Science services Evolved by Atomic Force?" will Sunday.

Matthew's account of the coming of the Magi to Bethlehem at the time of the nativity of Christ Jesus will be among the Bible readings.

Selectors from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will include this: "The divine origin of Jesus gave him more than that of creation, and demonstrate that one Mind which makes and governs man and the universe" (359:27-30).

The Golden Text is from Psalms (105:10): "All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord; and shall glorify thy name, For thou art great and doest wonderful things: thou art God alone."

Tremont Street, Roxbury

Rev. S. L. Lavinson, pastor

Sunday, December 24, St. Mark opened its doors to the Europa Chapter No. 5, and Wm. G. Butler Chapter No. 18, Order of The Eastern Star, Prince Hall Affiliation, at the 11:30 services. Rev. Lavinson presided at the St. Mark's Day Service and added much to the very impressive program.

Presided by the visiting organization.

Rev. Lavinson's sermon stressed the fact that God is with all of us, Protestants, Catholics, and Jews. No one faith can claim God as their only; He belongs to us all.

Sis. Bernetha Floyd, W. M. Wm. G. Butler Chapter No. 18 was the very capable mistress of ceremonies.

Sister George L. Bailey, Europa Chapter No. 5, was the guest soloist and thrilled all with her beautiful selection.

The Cobb family sang two selections. Presentations were made to the minister, organist, and the church by Sister Alice Tucker, Sister Lena Skinner, and Sister Sally Thompson, respectively.

St. Mark wishes to thank the Eastern Star for its kind consideration and invites them to visit again.

The Angels Club of St. Mark held its Annual Coffee Hour in St. Mark Gymnasium at 6:30.

The audience was filled a capacity to hear the Men's Chorus of the Concord Baptist Church. The program was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and as usual, the collection

MEDFORD EVENTS

Shant Christmas programs will feature the annual Christmas morning service by Pastor Phillips and a 7:30 evening Christmas music presentation by the church Junior and Senior Chorus directed by Mrs. Evans. There will be a Dec. 25 Christmas Day, 9:30 service, followed by a Coffee Hour and a special service for New Year's Day.

The pastor officiated at the christening of baby Thomas Christensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Byard, last Sunday. Godparents are Mrs. Lillian Bowman of Boston and Capt. Roland Clark of Fort Totten, New York, who, after the service, returned to his home with his wife, the former Gloria Riedel, and their only daughter, Yvonneta.

Averan I.C. Cecil Innes, accompanied by his wife, Dorothy and two daughters, Annetta and Theresa, are now at Hialeah, Fla. Mrs. Innes, California, after visiting relatives here once arriving from a long stay in Honolulu. Mrs. Mildred M. Don is mother of Dorothy and whose daughter Ann is also with her. Air Force, will extend her visit here from Washington over the holidays.

Sen. Isaac Holder has completed his duties in the Air Force and is now home after practically being traveled.

Another widely traveled Air Force vet, Leslie Barnett, is now with a mobile outfit.

Community Center Chairman, Robert Lambert, will receive Army service men.

First Lieut. Richard Graham, first colored grad of Norwich Military Academy, and just home from Japan, has left for Georgia, where he will enter Military Police training school. He is accompanied by his wife, Patricia, and baby son, Errol.

Medfordite Ted Thompson is a Military Police Major up at Fort Meade.

Medford entering Fort Lee will meet Medfordite, Lt. Col. Charles Plasket, a post army chaplain.

Among Medford ex-Army officers now serving you at various post offices this Christmaseve are: Lt. Colonel Hamilton Kelley, at Medford; Lt. Col. Bill Phillips, Black Bay; and Major Hugh S. Theofield, in Arlington.

Medford Veteran Club president, Al Kouzma, is spearheading the planned Boston public testimonial to Brig. Gen. Ned Georidin, new judge of the Superior Court. So, our Medford vets keep busy all the time.

And now, to all Chronicle readers, a Very Merry Christmas!

BEAUTIFUL LEGS
Where is the woman who does not desire beautiful legs? Often, women are born with perfect legs and love them through their own ignorance or carelessness. Many times this is brought about through the use of make-up. In order to keep the legs light and smooth, the garters are often too tight for comfort and to allow free circulation. However, even the slightest pressure above or under the knee will retard the free coursing of the blood to the extremities, thereby causing a diminishing of the blood supply below the knee.

They can all be averted by the use of Belts. They are not as glamorous as satin and lacey garters with a gold or silver gem studded buckle, but who would choose a vanity or a pair of exquisite carvers in exchange for two pretty legs?

BOSTON BAKED

By Abe Attucks

CHRISTMAS 1958 and the Bible date ushering in the Fifth Century have some sobering similarities. People of the past, like those of the present, had lost faith in everything but the powers and pleasures of the world, slavery reigned supreme then, as now. As Christ grew older he had to chase the money-changers out of the temple. The cure, either, is now, tolerated slavery and inequalities. People everywhere were seeking a Messiah or Savior.

WISE MEN of that chaotic century who plotted their course much by the astronomy of the stars and the prophets of their religion, were moved by the same Power to travel simultaneously from their lands in Africa and Asia, which then represented the areas of the Earth's first and oldest civilization and the only centers of all the Earth's major religions. Today the strict of atomic suicide!

WESTERN WORLD cynicism which surrounded the birth and ideals of the ancient Romans are again revived today with sickening grab-and-grab commercialism, soaring divorce rates, "jazz up" religion and with youth being taught there is no Savior, no St. Nick, nothing sacred in this world except more and more materialism. The intolerance among Bible duped by churchmen leading racial and religious intolerance.

laugh. Men like Paulus laugh loud today.

The Birth of a Saviour occurred to save the world from an early destruction as Christ said "Man will not live by bread alone." In recurring cycles, mortal "human savages" have been born, like Noah, Buddha, Mohammed, Confucius, Gandhi, Lincoln and others. As long as there is sin, the world's "We People" will continue to seek and rejoice in mortal saviours born into this world.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS to readers of THE CIRCLE.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL

Christmas is a time of remembrance, of commemoration, when it is usual for Christians to take an inventory of their individual spiritual goods during the year which has passed between successive Yuletides. Such stocktaking, which ought ideally to refresh the soul, can, and sometimes does become an occasion for complacency, for smugness, for being at ease in Zion, in the words of the Scriptures. At all events, whatever the result, such a sentiment induces the sense of history, the feeling of continuity between past and present as one faces the future.

As long as December 25, 1919 nearly four decades ago like Marcus Garvey delivered a speech in New York on "Jesus and the Negro," in which he declared: "Let us not forget our prayer night and day to the Lord Jesus Christ. We have no sin standing against our fair name, at this present time. We have not been like England, Germany, France, Spain — the Negro has no national sin standing against him. We will not be unsympathetic to humanity as they have been to us — we will never be judges in human affairs... Let us, therefore, take experience, take pattern, take example from the records of the past; so that what we are about to do, considering it for the good of the race, may be different from the conditions of the past."

Garvey, like those leaders whom the Old Testament narrative of the tribulations of the people of Israel fit, agreed with confident courage and inevitable optimism, recognized the natural appeal of Christianity to all freedom loving Negro-Americans who have refused to go a whoring after strange gods in the manner of the people of Sodom and Gomorrah. His belief in liberty was profound, and so he had faith in people to triumph over obstacles as Jesus likewise gained victory through the oblation of him.

It is hard for Christians to keep their balance in this today turrey world especially when they witness what others tell themselves Christians are capable of doing, as in Morocco, North Carolina, for example, where Hanover Thompson, aged nine, and Fuzzy Simpson, aged eight, were arrested last month and tried on a charge of "attempted rape on females" and sentenced to indeterminate imprisonment at the Morrison Training School for Delinquent Boys. The so-called attempted rape consisted of the fact that a little white girl had kissed Hanover during a game. To your tents, O Israel! Who among the smug striches of other NAACP branches will help Robert F. Williams, president of the Union County (N. C.) chapter of the NAACP? Are we really a "best generation" regard, look of our age, from the teens to the seventies? Or is Monroe, N. C., simply a barbarous hamlet whose answer to school integration is "cruel and unusual punishment" of children whom Our Lord held to be special citizens of the Kingdom of Heaven?

It is hard to have everybody, even those who despise, fully see, you, a Merry Christmas, but the Prince of Peace came among us so that we might learn to emulate Him and glorify Almighty God by never losing hope that Right is mighty and will ultimately prevail, as Garvey counseled. Then indeed, and the time is not far off, all men — black: brown; yellow; and white — will walk the earth with dignity and in majesty. A Merry Christmas to All!

WORTHY OF HONOR

Ernest G. O'Banyon, veteran teacher, practitioner and lover of music, a man of culture whose devotion to the Muse is a constant inspiration to all the generations in the Greater Boston community, was tendered a long overdue testimonial recently in St. Paul A.M.E. Church, Columbus and Austin Sts., Cambridge. The occasion marked his tenth anniversary as organist and choir director and — unfortunately his retirement from those posts.

As a contributor to the Guardian and to this newspaper Mr. O'Banyon zealously promoted all musical activities without favoritism, in keeping with his love of music. Of recent years his versatile talents have been manifested on the operatic and dramatic stage. We hope that his retirement will not mean cessation of activity, but only that wise diminution which Age demands of all of us. As the late Bernard Shaw once exclaimed, "What a precious thing is Youth! It is a pity that it is wasted on young people." We wish that youthful agility were perpetual in this outstanding musician and churchman, who glorifies God by his cheerful spirit!

On The Bookshelf

TENNIS QUEEN

"I Had Trouble As A Competitor Because I Kept Wanting To Fight The Other Player Every Time I Started To Lose A Match."

Taken out of context that quote Althea Gibson's in her autobiography ("I Always Wanted To Be Somebody," Harper and Brothers, Illustrated, 176 pages, $3.50) best describes the street queen who was to become the current world's greatest female tennis player.

In that same paragraph she continues, "But I could see that certain things were expected, in fact required, in the way of behavior on a tennis court." It was this realization that made it possible for Althea to fulfill the potential which she as an all around athlete possessed. Without this inner humbleness, Althea could not have risen so high in a sport which is tenacious in its requirement for physical and mental fitness, amenable to coaching and arduous hours of practicing.

I have been called by Sydney Leswell, Althea's tennis coach, her severest critic, but were he to read my inner thoughts he would know that I learned to love and respect Althea, as a person as well as a tennis player.

I saw her grow from a profane streetball fighter, stealing, playing badly, and with the poorest of court manners, to finally become a lady and a champion.

It is seldom that an autobiography published during the author's lifetime is as frank and exciting as Althea Gibson's "I Always Wanted To Be Somebody." I defy anyone who knows Althea to put the book down before the end. This holds especially true if you are a tennis player. If you are just a person who has heard about Althea Gibson, and would like to know what before the end. This holds especially true if you are a tennis player. If you are just a person who has heard about Althea Gibson, and would like to know what before the end. This holds especially true if you are a tennis player.

Even though I have actively participated in many facets of Althea's career, and have read everything that has been written about her, including parts of this same book which ran serially in the Saturday Evening Post, I still could not put the book down until I had read it through.

I know I shall read it again many times.

Althea's trip through the Middle East as a representative of the State Department, her subsequent successful quest for tennis titles in Europe, England, South America, and Australia are excitingly described. Her two wins at Wimbledon and her two wins at Forest Hills, attested to her greatness, and belied her scoffers.

Some of the most interesting parts of the book are the chapters devoted to the people who helped her gain an education and who contributed so importantly to her becoming a tennis great.

And finally, having become "Somebody" she now looks toward a future, a promising future, where love and a career possibly as a singer will assume more significance. I love this, too, all make her happy.

THE FACTS

By Columbus Tremon

In his address before the Mass. Trial Lawyers Association, Rev. Robert F. Drinan, S. J., dean of the Boston College Law School, advised the legal profession and the general public to share a deep conviction that the selection of judges transcends any question of politics, race or religion." Fr. Drinan also quoted the statement from the State Constitution: "It is the right of every citizen to be tried by judges as free, impartial and independent as the lot of humanity will admit." No warning could be more timely.

Thursday, December 4, Clifford L. Miller, noted poet, described his experiences during 1958 as a "sixty year student at the University of Mexico," in a lecture at the Boston Public Library, Copley Sq. A graduate of Fio University, Nashville, Tenn., Mr. Miller has published three volumes, "Your Brother's Voice," "The Fine Art of Making Americans," and "Wings Over Dark Water." Some of his articles have appeared in the "Christian Science Monitor," "Boston Globe," and this newspaper.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

District Manager

99 Warren St., Roxbury
(Hearst and you questions to the Editor of this paper)

Q. After endorsing my Social Security check, I lost it. Is there any way to get it returned?

A. J., Boston, Mass.

A. No, Having endorsed the check, to lose it is just like losing paper money. Loss of check that has not been endorsed should be reported immediately to the Social Security office.

Q. Is it true that my widow's payments will be stopped when my boy is 18 years old?

A. J., Roxbury, Mass.

A. A widow under age 62 is entitled to monthly payments only so long as she has in her care and custody an entitled child under age 18 or an entitled disabled child. At age 62, an unmarried widow is eligible to collect for the rest of her life so long as she is entitled.

relations which dyspepsia often brings. That is why the National Council of Negro Women ought to be congratulated for its 143-page cook-book containing time-honored recipes with accompanying historical sketches of famous Negro individuals and events commemorated by the recipes. The compiler and editor is Mrs. Sue Bailey Thurman, wife of Dean Howard Thurman of Boston University, and chairman of the council's archives and museum department.

Mrs. Thurman says: "The idea behind the book is to give to the American Negro, in a handy, palatable form, a collection of facts of his heritage from which he may realize a new sense of significance in the shaping of the American scene."

December recipes honor Phillis Wheatley, first Negro woman to achieve fame in American poetry, and the anniversary of the council's founding.

Proceeds from the book, which sell for $2 a copy, are being used to implement the council's program on problems of education, housing, youth, and citizenship. Headquarters of the NCNW are 1518 Vermont Ave., N. W., Washington 5, D. C.

All who are concerned, as everybody should be, with the operation of a real two-party system in the Bay State must agree with the plan of Charles H. McGlue, former chairman of the Democratic State Committee, for "partial elections in the cities and towns as a means of keeping the two-party system in shape." Mr. McGlue was one of the speakers at the meeting of the Americans for Democratic Action held last Saturday in the Hotel Commodore, Cambridge.

Any time you happen to be at one of Lee Williams' fights and you should happen to hear the crack of a camera in the stands nearby, the operator isn't merely getting a real photo bug. He's just carrying out another phase of the necessary functions in the heavyweight's training program.

Movies of Fights

Lee, stimulated by the use of a movie on football and the fact that his trainer, Freddie Small, had done in the past, had had all of his fights taken on movies since he entered the game. A close friend, Jimmy Jackson, can be found cranking a Revolver 8 m.m. at every fight of Williams. The results of his film studies are paying off. He discovers his mistakes and does his best to correct them in his next bout. The movie is your best critic," says Freddie, as he relates how they were instrumental in the success of Joe Louis, and of a pair of young fighters he handled in the past.

Takes Rest

While the camera comes to the aid to help Lee correct his errors, Freddie Lee constantly pressing him to shooting the correct punches at the correct time. Another big factor in Lee's future success is his trimming down in weight. Small hopes to have the fighter just around the 200 pound weight. Meanwhile, Lee plans to take a rest until mid-February before taking on another bout.

Welterweight Walt Byars is expected to return to action in January. Cardell Farnos, a bustling lightweight, also expects to be on the Sharkey A. Card in mid-January.

Gates Opened

Bill Gates led the way for the Terriners in Boston University's triumph over tough Suffolk University's basketball team last week, 64-44. Gates registered 18 points in the contest which found Suffolk pressing tight enough to prevent any high scoring by the Terriners. So tough was the tilt that basketball B. U. was out in front 27-15. It was the Terriers' third straight win.

In For Win

Brands University, now under the tutelage of last year's ace Rudy Fladerson, finally broke in the win column after dropping their first three games. After their meeting with Colby last Wednesday, the Judges remain idle until Jan. 8 when they meet Massachusetts.

Big Price For Fro

In addition to all of the glory and financial rewards, Fro has big prize looms for the top performer in the National Football League's title playoff game. Sport magazine will award the player a new Chevrolet Corvette.

Trailing with 44 seconds remaining in the game, Cliff Noble dunked the field goal to lead the Delaware State 64-59 win over favored Maryland State last week.

Ed Jones paced the winners of the see-saw game with 27 points with strong support from teammates Ken Baker of Boston who tallied 13, and Noble who added 12 points.

The Hornets emerged with a 27-23 lead at halftime but Maryland's guard Bill Moore, the "jazz" high man with 24, led the charge to overtake them. Noble's vital shot came with Delaware trailing 58-52.
