Medford Events:

Medford's Christmas programs will feature the annual Christmas morning sermon by Pastor Phillip, and a Christmas music presentation by the junior choir and senior choir directed by Mrs. Evans. There will be a Dec. 26 Christmas Day service, followed by a Colonial dinner and a similar service for New Year's Day.

The pastor offered at Church is Christmas theme. Sunday School, Mr. and Miss, is located in the New England area. The gymnasiums are open from 1 to 3 p.m.

The new Bethel Church, located on the corner of Brookline and Boylston Streets, has undergone a substantial renovation. The church was established in 1854 and has undergone several renovations since then. The current church building was completed in 1929 and is a beautiful example of early 20th-century architecture.

The church has a strong commitment to community service and outreach. They currently support several local and international organizations, including a food pantry, a community garden, and a scholarship program for local students. The church also hosts a weekly English as a Second Language (ESL) class and a youth group for middle and high school students.

In addition to these programs, the church hosts a variety of social events throughout the year, including holiday parties, potlucks, and community meals. They also offer Bible study groups and small group meetings for members to connect and grow in their faith.

Overall, the church is known for its welcoming atmosphere and its commitment to serving the community. They strive to create a space where people of all backgrounds can feel welcomed and included, and where they can grow in their faith and deepen their relationships with God and with one another.

TENNIS QUEEN

I Had Trouble As A Competitor Reasons I Kept Wanting To Fight The Other Player Every Time I Wanted To Lose A Match

Taken out of context that quote of Althea Gibson is her autobiography ("If I Wanted To Be Somebody"). Harper and Brothers, 176 pages, (3.00). It describes the story of a girl who was to become the world's greatest female tennis player.

One of the chapters that sincerely captures the heart. "But I could see that certain things were expected, in fact required, in the way of behavior on a tennis court." This is the realization that made it possible for Althea to fulfill the potential which she was so all around athlete possessed. Without this inner hombiance, Althea could not rise high in a sport which is taxation in its requirement for physical and mental fitness, amenable to coaching and training of a long season. She has been called by Sydney Laurence, the American tennis coach, her scouring, but we have to read my inner thoughts to the way she learned to love and respect Althea, as a person as well as a tennis player.

I saw her grow from a profane crotchet, fighting, stealing, playing boozy, and it was then that I became a lady and a champion. It is said that automobile drivers have since the author's life is as frank and exciting as Althea Gibson's "I Always Wanted To Be Somebody". Harper and Brothers, 176 pages, (3.00). It describes the story of a girl who was to become the world's greatest female tennis player.

The Facts

By Columbus Trompe

In his address before the Mass Trial Lawyers Association, Rev. Robert F. Drinan, S.J., dean of the Boston College Law School, advised the legal profession and judges that the "deep conviction that the dictates of Judges transgress any amount of public opinion." Fr. Drinan also quoted from the American Constitution: "It is the right of every citizen to be tried by Judges as free, impartial and independent as the law of humanity will admit." No warning could be more timely.

Thursday, December 4, Clifford L. Miller, noted poet, described his experiences during 1968 as a "sixty-year student at the University of America", in a feature at the Boston Public Library.

The Fine Art of Making America Wings Over Dark Waters. "The Fine Art of Making America: Wings Over Dark Waters" is an article that appeared in the "Christian Science Monitor" this week.

Despite the adulation which has been given to the book's deep thought and instructed history, chronicling withal, the book is not a bad read. A good cook reads more substance in not only the plates, but also to Allowaders with the most other individuals. To eat less, and to live better, must not only be according to the ordinary book limits.
