MRS. WRIGHT HEADS N. E. FED.

Elected President at Annual Session in Springfield

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Mrs. Alice G. N. Wright was chosen at the annual session of the National Education Association to head the National Education Association's Negro Education program.

She was chosen as president of the association's Negro Education program, which is charged with the task of promoting the education of Negro children.

The NEA has been active in promoting the education of Negro children for many years, and Mrs. Wright's appointment is a significant step in this direction.

The NEA's Negro Education program is one of the largest in the country, and its work is carried out by a network of volunteers who work to improve the educational opportunities of all children, regardless of race.

The NEA's work is supported by a wide range of organizations and individuals, and is funded by contributions from a variety of sources.

The NEA's work is carried out in a number of ways, including the provision of educational materials, the training of teachers, and the provision of support to schools and communities.

The NEA's work is important in helping to ensure that all children have the opportunity to receive a quality education, and is a significant contribution to the development of a fair and just society.

CIVIL WAR IN EUROPE: KEEPS NATIONS FROM EXTINGUISHING DARKER RACES

There will be no other war in Europe. That is the judgment of the experts, and the only prospects of a conflict in Europe are those that arise from the fact that there is an American war. It is now the feeling of the experts that there is no other war in Europe, and that all Europe is united in the belief that there will be no other war in Europe.

A CANDIDATE OF PROTEST

To the Editor:

The Boston Chronicle:

Please be generous enough to present to your readers a candid and straightforward presentation of the issues involved in the recent controversy over the proposed "job-banning" law, which is now under consideration by the General Assembly of the State of Massachusetts.

I am a law student at Harvard University, a member of the Harvard Law School, and a member of the Boston Bar Association. I am also a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association.

Sincerely yours,

THE DOG AND THE DIABETIC

A dog and a diabetic were walking down the street. The dog was wearing a collar, and the diabetic was wearing a test strip.

The diabetic said to the dog, "Look at this test strip, it tells me how much sugar is in my blood."

The dog said, "That's great, but I have a collar that tells me how much food I need to eat."

WHEELER, runner-up in Singles, and SMITH WITH C. C. NINER. Match was played on the Boston Club net, where John Howard, Jr., and Albert Howard, Jr., had the home ground of the National and Commercial Insurance Club. Caspar Garcia won the first set in the form of a 14-year-old boy who had been playing in the Ireland tournament for Novices and under. Garcia played an excellent game and showed great promise in future tournaments. Though the boys were not sufficient to make a great game of it, they played a very good match and the result was decided easily by Garcia. (Continued on page 9.)

WEST INDIES DRAW WITH EGYPTIANS

Berger and Bassett, Alphonso Thomas, and McCallum were playing in the Ladies' Tournament at the National and Commercial Insurance Club. Caspar Garcia won the first set 6-4, 6-2, 6-0. Garcia will play in the All-American Tournament at the National Club at 2 p.m. today. (Continued on page 9.)
