J. A. Jackson in Oil Business

JAMES A. JACKSON, President and Director of the J. A. Jackson Oil Company, has announced that he will be opening a new oil refinery in the near future. This development is expected to bring new employment opportunities to the area. The company's current operations are located in Providence. Jackson has been a prominent figure in the oil industry for several years and has been instrumental in the growth of the company. His leadership and vision have been key factors in the company's success. The new refinery is scheduled to begin operations in October and will employ over 200 workers.

MONUMENT DAY

It is a special thing for all Americans to remember who gave their lives in defense of home and hearth, and what more could be done to show respect to those who gave their lives than by honoring their memory. But the day has a more personal significance. It is a day to honor those who gave their lives, to remember that the nation all nations had a right to be honored, and to advocate the same principles of freedom and democracy that were fought for by the great men of the past.

TROTTER’S TRIP TO FRANCE

On his way to Paris, Trotter was given a friendly welcome by French people. He was made to feel at home, and his journey was made more enjoyable by the kindness of the French people. The trip was a great success, and Trotter was happy to have had the opportunity to visit the beautiful country of France.

Lincoln Univ. to Have Birthday

RIVERA BUST "WHITE MOTHER" WROTE

By Betty R. Johnson

Lincoln University, Pa., is preparing for its 125th Birthday which will be observed May 8-9.

The theme of the celebration is "Lincoln University Through the Ages." In addition to the 125th Birthday festivities, the school will also celebrate the 100th Anniversary of the Tuskegee Institute.

The birthday celebration will feature a variety of events, including a parade, a concert, and a historical exhibition.

The Tuskegee Anniversary will be marked by a series of lectures and workshops.

The celebration will also include a special performance by the Lincoln University Choir.

The celebration is being planned by a committee of faculty and staff members.

The committee is seeking input from the school's alumni and current students.

The 125th Birthday and 100th Anniversary celebrations will be held on the Lincoln University campus.
