students pay and pay again

It isn't only the new students who are paying this semester. Even the old ones have to pay again. If you didn't pay during the first two weeks of the semester, you're going to have to pay again, and this time it will be for the second semester. This is not a new phenomenon. Ever since the beginning of the school year, students have been paying again. It has become a way of life. The reason for this is that the school is in debt. The school is in debt because it has to pay its bills. The school has to pay its bills because it has to pay its teachers. The teachers have to be paid because they have to teach. The students have to pay again because they have to pay the bills. It is a vicious cycle.

SGA approves work budgets

by Bob Langdon

The Student Government Association (SGA) recently approved the work budgets for the fall semester. The budgets are based on the needs of the various work programs on campus. The largest program is the Campus Activities Board (CAB), which receives $50,000. The next largest program is the Student扳nancial Aid Office (SFAO), which receives $40,000. The smallest program is the Student Health Service (SHS), which receives $5,000.

A look into the past

by Dick Jones

Looking back at the history of Suffolk University, it is clear that the institution has been through many changes. The university was founded in 1906 as the Suffolk School of Law. In 1925, the name was changed to Suffolk College of Law. In 1955, the name was changed again to Suffolk University. In 1968, the name was changed once more to Suffolk University College of Law. In 1972, the name was changed to Suffolk University College of Arts and Sciences. In 1980, the name was changed to Suffolk University College of Arts and Sciences and College of Law. In 1985, the name was changed to Suffolk University College of Arts and Sciences, College of Law, and Graduate School. In 1990, the name was changed to Suffolk University. The name will change again in 2000 to Suffolk University College of Arts and Sciences, College of Law, Graduate School, and College of Business.

Book store is renovated

by Frank Carter

The book store on campus has been renovated. The store has been expanded and now has a larger selection of textbooks and supplies. The store also has a new layout and is easier to navigate. This is a welcome change for students who have been searching for textbooks and supplies.

State boosts scholarships

The state has increased the amount of money available for scholarships. The amount of money available for scholarships will be increased by 10%. This is a significant increase and will help students who are looking for financial assistance.

Ridgeway building gets hallways painted, lounge furniture fixed up

By: Stephen Caprara

The student counselors at Ridgeway were pleased to see the hallways, lounge and the furniture get a fresh coat of paint. The project, which started last week, is expected to be completed by the end of the month. The student counselors were given the task of painting the hallways, lounge and the furniture. They were told to paint the hallways using four colors: green, blue, red and yellow. The lounge furniture, on the other hand, was given a coat of black paint. The student counselors were also given the task of hanging up the curtains in the lounge. The curtains were given to the student counselors by the administration. The student counselors were also given the task of cleaning up the hallways and the lounge. The student counselors were given the task of cleaning up the hallways and the lounge. BSC's production of 'Twelfth Night' sparks with wit

It was a fun-filled and delightful evening at the BSC when I saw "Twelfth Night," the hit play from William Shakespeare. The production was a delightful performance with actors who brought the characters to life on stage. The setting was perfect, providing a glimpse of the Elizabethan era. The costumes were also well done, creating a historical atmosphere. The acting was superb, with each actor delivering their lines with precision and emotion.

The plot was engaging and fast-paced, keeping the audience entertained throughout the performance. The use of music and lighting added to the overall experience, creating a sense of atmosphere and mood. The audience was caught up in the story and the performances, making it a memorable evening.

Overall, the BSC's production of 'Twelfth Night' was a delightful experience, and I highly recommend it to anyone who loves Shakespeare or theatre in general. The performance was a testament to the talent and hard work of the actors, directors, and crew involved. A must-see for theatre enthusiasts.

PEOPLE PLACES

'Horizon Company': magical

Whitney Blanchard, a photography major, discusses her art and the people in her photos.

Whitney Blanchard, a photography major, explains her art and the people in her photos. She says she enjoys capturing candid moments and capturing the essence of the people she photographs. She has been shooting for years and has a natural ability to connect with her subjects.

'Horizon Company': magical

In the morning, the sun rises over the horizon, casting a warm glow across the landscape. The sky is painted with hues of pink and orange, and the birds take flight, their wings slicing through the air.

In the afternoon, the horizon changes, the sky darkening and the clouds rolling in. The sun sets in a blaze of orange and red, leaving the horizon in a fiery glow.

Son of Suffolk Fill-In

The skyline is dotted with towering buildings, their windows sparkling in the light. The streets are bustling with activity, the sound of cars and people filling the air.
