Honorary degree to pro-life spur student, faculty protest

A. Mourant presents the honorary degree to Dr. Michael J. Fiore, the president of the University of New Haven.

Two month controversy reaches climax

1120 graduates at commencement

Undergraduate

The Undergraduate Commencement ceremony was held at Matthews Arena on May 15, 2011. The ceremony featured speeches by the Class of 2011 President, Julie E. Finkelstein, and the University President, Dr. Michael J. Fiore. The keynote speaker was Professor William J. Brumberg, who delivered a speech on the importance of education and the role of the university in society.

Law School

The Law School Commencement ceremony was held at the Boston Convention and Exhibition Center on May 15, 2011. The ceremony featured speeches by the Class of 2011 President, Christopher J. Dwyer, and the Dean of the Law School, Dr. Michael J. Fiore. The keynote speaker was Professor William J. Brumberg, who delivered a speech on the importance of education and the role of the university in society.

Honorary Degree

Dr. Michael J. Fiore presented the honorary degree to Dr. Michael J. Fiore, the president of the University of New Haven. The degree was awarded in recognition of his contributions to the university and the community.

The ceremony was attended by over 1120 graduates, including law students, undergraduate students, and faculty members. A special tribute was given to the Class of 2011 for their hard work and dedication.

The event was coordinated by the Career Services Office and the Office of Alumni Affairs. The Suffolk Journal was on hand to cover the ceremony.
Suffolk tradition backfires

The tradition of giving the names of Suffolk's graduates for National Honor Society recognition also has its price. As a former member of Suffolk's Class of 1978, I can say that the tradition has become more of a tradition than a recognition.

History, ghosts, picnics alive on George's Island

By John Schaefer

The stone walls that surround the tiny island were once a prison for American sailors and the graves of prisoners that died while being held there. The island is named for a Civil War officer and contains the remains of two Civil War ships that are still in the water. The island is now a popular picnic spot and is home to many ghosts that are said to roam the island.

See You Again, better left unseen

By Alex Wodraski

In the movie "The Man Who Wasn't There," the character played by the late actor Jack Lemmon is said to have been "better left unseen." The line is a reference to the character's hidden identity and the fact that he is only revealed to the audience at the end of the film.

Marlow, a intriguing period piece

By John Schaefer

Christopher Marlowe was a English playwright and poet who lived during the Elizabethan era. His works include "The Tragical History of Doctor Faustus," "Tamburlaine the Great," and "Edward VI." Marlowe was executed for treason in 1593 after allegedly advocating for the Catholic Church.

Financial Aid openings
by Bob Holm

In current times, the need for financial aid still exists. Scholarships, grants, and loans are available to help with the costs of education. These options can be explored with the assistance of a financial advisor or through online resources.
